Arrangements Complete For Lift Lock Opening

Three Steamers Will Convey the Official Party From Lindsay to Kirkfield to Attend Function.

AN IMMENSE GATHERING

Arrangements are practically complete for the official opening of the Kirkfield Lift Lock, on Saturday next. The indications are that there will be an immense crowd in attendance, word having been received by the superintendent of the canal to the effect that three special cars will leave Ottawa arriving here on the 5.16 train on Saturday morning. These coaches are for the accommodation of the Minister of Labour, Hon. Mr. Lemieux, and party, the Chief Engineer of the canal, and his party, and the third for the press representatives, invitations having been extended to the entire press gallery at Ottawa; and, in addition there will be a number of representatives from other daily papers throughout the Dominion.

The special coaches will be attached to the 7.20 G.T.R. train leaving for Lindsay, and on this train the Peterborough members of the party will travel. At Lindsay, three steamers will be waiting to convey the visitors to the Lock, the steamers, Stoney Lake, Sovereign and Bob Hall, having been arranged for. On the former the Ministerial party will make the trip, while the Chief Engineer and his party will be on board the Bob Hall, and the press representatives on the Sovereign.

A special train will convey the party back from Beaverton, which is the termination of the water trip. After passing over the new Lift Lock, the steamers will continue through the new portion of the canal to Beaverton, on Lake Simcoe. It is expected that the party will reach Peterborough about ten o'clock on Saturday night.

The steamer Manita will make a special trip from Lindsay to the Lock for the benefit of those who wish to attend the opening functions, and who may not have been included in the list of invitations.

Local Hotelman Pursued By An Infuriated Bull

Was Visiting in North Monaghan Yesterday and Had Narrow Escape — Reached the Fence Just in Time.

STORY OF THE WILD CHASE

A local hotelman who spent yesterday in the country has an exciting story to tell to-day of being chased by an infuriated bull and of narrowly escaping from severe injuries and probably death. His miraculous escape is probably due to his activity, although he is a man well up in years, more than to any friendship on the part of the masculine pursuer of the bovine race.

He was walking through a field on Mr. Walter's farm in North Monaghan, when he suddenly noticed the bull tossing his angry head apparently in preparation for a raid upon him—and the fence was still a long way distant.

Gathering together all his available strength, he made rapid strides to gain the summit of a stone pile. But, according to report, he had passed the spot without observing it, so quickly did his pedal extremities move along.

All this time the bull was gaining ground and bellowing loud enough to frighten an army of men. There was nothing left for the hotelman to do, to insure a possible safety, but to take the shortest route to the nearest fence, which he tumbled headlong over with the bull's head only a few yards behind. He had won the race, with the handicap given, and emerged from the field truly thankful for his miraculous escape.

CHIEF ATTRACTION WAS THE BAND

FAIRMOUNT GARDEN PARTY

A very successful garden party under the auspicoes of the Fairmount Sunday School, was held on Dominion Day at the home of Mr. Joseph Walsh, of Cavan. The very unpropitious attitude assumed by the elements during the earlier part of the day did much to detract from its success from a numerical standpoint, and twice during the evening's proceedings heavy sombre clouds loomed up in the western sky, eventually terminating in gentle, refreshing showers which, however, did not to any appreciable degree mar the evening's entertainment. The grounds were beautifully and artistically decorated for the occasion, that certainly reflected credit upon the school and much enhanced the naturally beautiful and spacious lawn of Mr. Walsh's palatial home, making it appear an ideal spot for a social evening of the kind.

The tables were bountifully laden with the most tempting and toothsome viands of the season and a merry corps of agile waiters assumed the no easy duty of seeing that the most voracious and fastidious appetite was fully appeased and satisfied. The programme left nothing to be desired, Miss Richardson, of Lindsay, and a little lady of the Salvation Army elicited applause by their recitations rendered in a most easy, smooth, and pleasing style.

None the less edifying were the addresses of Rev. Mr. Clare, of Millbrook, and Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville. Intensely interesting as these selections were it cannot be gainsaid that the chief attraction of the evening's splendid entertainment was the Salvation Army Band of Peterborough. The Hallelujah lads and lassies in their quiet, modest, and unostentatious manner rendered many popular airs and melodies which well merited the prolonged plaudits of a pleased and attentive assemblage.

Everybody felt that the complete success of the entire evening's entertainment was largely due to their rendition of so many beautiful band selections, with a cheerfulness that could not fail to attract the attention of the most careless observer, and we can recommend them to any organization desiring the services of a strictly up-to-date band in every sense of the term. The refreshment booth, a very necessary attribute to a garden party, was well patronized, many being utterly unable to resist the fascinating glance and smile of cheerful and obliging attendants within. The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, and all repaired to their separate homes feeling they had spent a very profitable and enjoyable evening together.

Last night No. 1, 2, 3, and 4 Companies of the 57th Battalion were inspected by Lieut. Col. Hemming, of Kingston, Acting Chief of Staff for No. 3 Military District. All four made a most creditable showing and very favourably impressed the inspecting officer. They were put through company drill first and then each Sergeant took charge of his section and drilled it for some time. The Captains of the four companies inspected last night were, No. 1, Capt. Cluxton; No. 2, Capt. Watt; No. 3, Capt. Mills, and No. 4, Capt. Bromsell.

The remaining companies will be inspected to-night.

REG. BLOMFIELD'S BRAVE ACT

Lakefield Boy, Who Distinguished Himself in Edmonton by Rescuing a Drowning Miner

A VERY DIFFICULT FEAT

A despatch from Edmonton, Alta., tells of a brave rescue effected by Reg. Blomfield, who is well known by many Peterborough persons. The despatch is as follows:

Edmonton, Alta., July 3.—Adrift on a log in mid stream and within an ace of drowning was the thrilling experience of a miner from the north yesterday afternoon. The rescue, which was accomplished by Reg. Blomfield, the well-known canoeist, and member of the Argonauts, was no less thrilling. The miner had come down the Saskatchewan River about seventy miles on a poorly-constructed raft, which went to pieces on a sunken pier opposite the brick yard below the Great estate. The miner managed to cling to one of the logs on the pier until rescued by Blomfield. The rescue was a daring piece of work, and in less experienced hands the attempt would have resulted in a double drowning, but Blomfield is a famous canoeist and holds the championship of Canada, besides many medals. He knows the canoe perfectly, and it mattered not that the stream was running at the rate of ten miles an hour and his canoe only a 45-pounder.

KIRKFIELD LIFT LOCK OPENING

Superintendent McClennan Explained That it is not an Invitation Affair

His Worship the Mayor has received the following letter from Mr. J. H. McClellan, in reference to the Kirkfield Lift Lock.

His Worship,
Mayor McWilliams,
Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Mr. Mayor, — There seems to be some misapprehension existing in the minds of some of the Peterborough aldermen in regard to the ceremony in connection with the opening of the Kirkfield Lift Lock.

I wish to assure you at the outset that the opening of the Kirkfield Lift Lock, is, in no sense of the term, an invitation affair. All are welcome to go to the Kirkfield Lift Lock, and to get there either by train or by boat. The sole and only question is—"How can the people get there?" No society in Peterborough has undertaken to run an excursion from Peterborough to the Kirkfield Lift Lock, because the nearest point they can run an excursion by train, would be to Kirkfield station, which is two and a half miles from the Lift Lock. The societies therefore concluded that it would be utterly absurd to expect that people would walk two and a half miles.

It was also impossible for them to run an excursion from Peterborough to Lindsay and take the boat from there, for the simple reason that every steamboat that is available is being utilized by such points as Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls on the south and by Orillia, Barrie and Beaverton on the north. The only other boats on the Trent waters that might have been available would not leave their regular passenger service.

I might further say that every available space on the Government boat will be taxed to its utmost capacity by the party which comes from Ottawa, consisting of Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Postmaster General, the Canadian newspaper correspondents of Ottawa and the Midland district, and by the Senators and Members of the Commons and Local Legislature, and the Mayors, Wardens, and Reeves in this District.

You can therefore readily see how utterly impossible it would be for even the representatives of our municipal institutions along the line of the canal, to obtain either suitable train or boat accommodation to go to the Kirkfield Lift Lock.

Some of the municipal councils have already made arrangements on their own account to be present, but what those arrangements are I do not know.

Yours faithfully,
J. H. McCLELLAN

CELEBRATE JUBILEE OF MASONRY

Grand Lodge of Ontario, Instituted 50 Years Ago, Will Meet in Ottawa This Month

Ottawa, July 4. — The year that saw the city of Ottawa incorporated witnessed also the institution of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario, whose 50nd anniversary will be celebrated at Harmony Hall, on July 17 and 18. Grand Master J. H. Barret, K. C., of Pembroke, will preside and about one thousand delegates from 21 districts and 500 lodges will, it is expected, attend. In 1905, the meeting took place in Toronto, and several years have elapsed since the previous visit of Ontario Masons to the capital. On the morning of the 17th the delegates will be welcomed by the Mayor and the Ottawa brethren will present an address to the Grand Master. Committee business is to be transacted in the Masonic Hall and for the convenience of those who attend an elevator is being installed. Arrangements for the reception of the visitors will probably be completed on Friday evening at a meeting of prominent Ottawa craftsmen.

DR. SCOTT'S BROTHER PASSED AWAY

A Pioneer Resident of Manitoba Died in Winnipeg Yesterday

This morning Dr. Scott received a telegram from Winnipeg advising him of the death of his brother, Ismael, which took place in that city yesterday. The deceased had been ailing for about a year. He went to Manitoba in the '80's, and had lived there ever since, farming for a number of years, and after that he went to Winnipeg, where he engaged in the real estate business. He was about 52 years of age and was unmarried. He was a son of Mr. Geo. Scott of Smith, who survives him, with six brothers and five sisters. Two brothers and two sisters live in Smith township, while the other three brothers and three sisters live in Manitoba.

Dr. Scott has heard nothing of the arrangements for the funeral.

ST. ANDREW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION

Enjoyable Time Was Spent at Idyl Wyld Yesterday

The annual picnic of the St. Andrew's Sunday School was held yesterday at Idyl Wild, and proved a most successful and enjoyable affair. About two hundred people were on board the steamer Otonabee when she left the Wolfe street wharf at 9 o'clock. The water conditions were perfect, and the delightful sail down the Otonabee, which is at its best just now, was greatly enjoyed. Idyl Wild was reached shortly after 12 o'clock, and after dinner had been partaken of, a programme of interesting sports was run off. Many took advantage of the opportunity afforded them to indulge in bathing, and boating, the facilities for which are unexcelled by Idyl Wild. The steamer started on her return trip at 5 o'clock and reached the Wolfe street wharf after a most enjoyable trip.

When Your Health Fails, What Then

Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle. Success is for the strong and alert — for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy. It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion and to keep health at high water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

FARM LIFE

Women's Institutes are to farmers' wives and daughters what the Farmers' Institutes are to the farmers. That they fill a recognised want is shown by the phenomenal increase they have made. Eight years ago the first was established; to-day there are four hundred and two Women's Institutes with a total membership of eleven thousand. The basic idea of these institutes is to ameliorate home conditions on the farm, to save labour to farmers' wives and daughters, and improve their condition and that of the home generally. Inventive genius has been very busy in providing labour-saving appliances in the field and barn. A farmer can now do his work from the vantage point, in the matter of ease and comfort, of a cushioned seat. He begins with the plough and ends with the reaper, all the while being comfortably seated. He cuts, spreads, gathers and loads his hay by machinery, and hoists it into the mow by the same easy means. Manual labour on the farm has now a very limited range compared to the time when the sickle, the scythe and grain cradle were the farmers' weapons of attack. Everything is made smooth and easy for the men, but the same attention is not paid to the convenience of the women of the farm. In the past farmers have neglected the claims of the women. Everything about the fields and barns have been looked after. In thousands of cases the barns of the farmer are far better than the human dwellings. At one time if not now, the farmers cows and pigs and sheep were far better housed than his wife and girls. Labour-saving machinery was not allowed to cumber the house. The old dash churn, by the way the most slavish instrument of hard, grinding work on the farm, was good enough for the wife; and in all other things she was permitted to do the hardest work without the aid of any conveniences similar to those employed about the barn and on the farm. The washboard was good enough for the wife—a washing machine would be a damaging concession to female indulgence. While the "hired man" was luxuriously lolling on a cushioned reaper seat, the house wife was bending with her nose in the suffocating steam of hot soap suds over a washboard, or straining her tired loins with a muscle-wearing dash churn. The farmer simply didn't think, when, as was often the case, he didn't seem to care about the comfort of his wife and daughters. But the Women's Institute will wake him up. It is their function to alleviate the labours of wife and daughters, provide conveniences and make farm house life something less than a sentence to hard labour; broaden the domestic outlook and make the farm house attractive with a certain amount of comfort and leisure for culture instead of repulsive with never ending drudgery. It permits farmers' wives much needed extension of social intercourse, permits them to indulge in mutual conference, in an exchange of ideas and of methods of lightening the burden of the farmer's wife. To make money, to grow larger crops, to breed better stock, should not be the highest ambition of the farmer, especially if the most sordid of these things are done at the expense of woman's strength, health, comfort and happiness. The deadly isolation of farm life under the best conditions is trying to a social being like a woman, but it is much worse when to it is added the racking drudgery or never-ending daily routine of work, never done as perpetual and hopeless as filling a sieve with water. Make farm life as pleasant as the Women's Institutes aim to make it and we shall have less of temptation to desert the farm and try the precarious fortunes of city or town life. Farm life, properly regulated and intelligently lived, is the most independent and happiest in the world. A city man would need to have a large income to keep his carriage as the average thrifty farmer can do. But farm life will continue to have its drawbacks and its repulsive features so long as farmers, as many do, and have done, concentrate all ideas of improvement and labour-saving upon themselves and their farm hands, and leave their wives and daughters to plough the lone furrow, without any labour-lightenings aids; so long as the farmer, as many of them do, and have done in the past, gives the best to their brute stock and like the husband in Locksley Hall, practically "holds" his wife and daughters "something better than his dog, a little dearer than his horse." The Women's Institute in its aims and effects will cure all this and make farm life, as it can be made, the happiest and most independent form of human existence.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Reports say that good apples can be grown in Manitoba. This should be the case by way of reparation. She has grown fair crops of the apple of disord and might succeed with the real thing.

Hon. Mr. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, is running in luck. The increase in Dominion subsidy is $900,000. This added to $200,00 derived from Succession Duties, makes an aggregate on about one million dollars of revenue, which Mr. Matheson's predecessor could not reckon upon.

Some financial wiseacres tell us that this autumn will be marked by financial stringency. Possibly; but the business outlook is popularly regarded as good. There is no decrease of importations. The customs returns still grow, the figures for June just past showing an increase of $1,229,032 over those of the corresponding month of last year.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is ever loyal to Canada—he shows Europeans the silver side of the shield. He told the Parisians that all the mineral riches discovered in Colorado, Nebraska and elsewhere are not comparable to those of Cobalt and Temiscamingue. Sir Wilfrid generally manages to hit the nail on the head, whether his hammer is an after-dinner speech or a newspaper interview.

Mr. Leader Borden has been vaticinating. He says that a country so bountifully endowed as Canada, "cannot be permanently checked except by the most maladroit blundering." Yet Mr. Borden is quite willing to try his 'prentice hand. It he couldn't manage the affairs of the country any better than he seems to manage his party, we should have a chance to see what "maladroit blundering" would do.

The world is full of faddists. Now a dietetic crank in London, England, comes out with the statement that the eating of strawberries affects the temper, making the consumer sulky and irritable. The lack of strawberries or of the means to obtain them at present fancy prices is more apt to induce irritability and sulkiness Whether or not there is anything in the claim of the peculiar effects of strawberries nearly everybody is willing to take the risk—with the added danger, according to the faddists, of sugar and Jersey cream.

The provincial revenue from succession duties will probably total a million dollars this year. For the first six months of 1907 the receipts from this source amounted to $541,417. This is, the source of revenue which the Whitney Government when in Opposition wanted abolished, Mr. Whitney himself declaring it "robbery of the dead." If the finances of Ontario are in thrifty condition the fact is very much due to the sources of revenue provided by the foresight and statesmanship of the Liberal Government. The Whitney Government owes the Liberals a debt of gratitude. They would not otherwise now have so much money to spend broad cast.

CHARGED WITH THE THEFT OF OATS

Case Was Enlarged Until 2 O'clock Friday Afternoon

The six boys charged with stealing a quantity of oats from the Quaker Oats Company's mills, on or about June 11th, appeared before P. M. Dumble yesterday afternoon, and pleaded not guilty. The chief was not ready to go on with the case, owing to the fact that the Crown Attorney, Mr. Wood, was not present. Mr. Kerr, who appeared for the company, was also anxious to have the case tried, when the witnesses were present. Mr. E. L. Goodwill was anxious to have the case tried at once, and the Magistrate was inclined to agree with him. He finally enlarged the case until Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Tourists for Old Country From Here Were on Board

Mr. R. J. Munro, who left to-day for the Old Country, telephoned to the Munro House about 2 o'clock this afternoon from Havelock, stating that a wreck occurred there as the room express was pulling into the station, which delayed it several hours. The express, on nearing the station, ran into a freight and caused considerable damage. No person was injured, Mr. Munro stated.

PETERBORO' VISITORS AT THE SCHOOL

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING

Special Correspondence

Chemong Park, July 4. — Thursday, the third day of the summer school, has opened clear and bright. We have been favoured with splendid weather so far and another good day is anticipated. This is to be a big missionary day with three sessions of the school, and addresses by Dr. Adams of China, Dr. Crummy, formerly of Japan, and Dr. Bishop, will be given.

A large attendance is anticipated at the mass meeting to-night, when the latter two gentlemen will deliver addresses.

Yesterday afternoon was spent in recreation. Some spent the time on the water, some in strolling about the park, or taking longer walks about the country, while others were seen in groups discussing points of interest regarding the work. Autograph hunters are also busy, and not many of the members failed to write their names at least half a hundred times.

There was a splendid mass meeting last night, about two hundred being in attendance. Dr. Henderson of Port Hope, and Rev. Robert Emberson of Japan, were the speakers. A bus load from Peterborough swelled the number and spent a happy hour after the meeting, before returning.

The tenting parties had a merry time last night. In fact those who are quartered in the house itself are wondering when the members of "Camp Chatter" take their sleep Judging by the singing and laughter it is a safe venture that no one is guilty of slumber before midnight or after 5 a.m.

As before Mr. Brown is everywhere attending to the comfort of his guests, and he is certainly proving himself a willing host. The guests are loud in their praises of the service, for although the house is filled beyond its capacity, all are comfortable.

There were many new arrivals yesterday and still more are expected to-day. Visitors are welcome even though they may not be able to stay longer than a day.

RAILWAY MAGNATE'S BROTHER DEAD

Mr. Duncan Mackenzie, Brother of Wm. Mackenzie, of the Canadian Northern Railway, Died at Kirkfield

Kirkfield, July 3. — Duncan Mackenzie, eldest brother of William Mackenzie, of the Canadian Northern Railway, passed away this afternoon, at his residence here, from heart failure.

Deceased was born in Montreal, on May 23rd, 1833. He leaves three sons, John, Charles E., and William, and three daughters, Mary, Melinda M., and Sarah C. Four brothers also survive him, Alexander, William, and R. Ewen of Toronto; Robert, of Winnipeg, and three sisters, Mrs. John McTaggart, and Mrs. C. R. Stovel, of Winnipeg; and Mrs. L. McFadden of Kirkfield.

The funeral will take place next Friday from the residence to Lakeview cemetery.

"ISLANDA" PROPRIETOR IN THE CITY TO-DAY

Mr. Alex. Nicholls, Buckhorn Lake, Opens New Hotel

Mr. Alexander Nicholls, proprietor of the new "Islanda" Hotel, on Buckhorn Lake, was in the city yesterday on business. Mr. Nicholls is opening his handsome new house this week to the public for the first time and has a good season in view. Fishing, he states, is now at its best in Buckhorn Lake, and some excellent catches have been reported. While in the city Mr. Nicholls was a guest at the Munro House.

INDEPENDENCE DAY CELEBRATED

The Day Our American Cousins Kill Themselves and Each Other

To-day our cousins across the border are celebrating what is known as Independence Day. Everything is wide open, except public offices, which are shut. It is to be hoped that pleasant weather to enjoy their national birthday, which is very properly celebrated, will be experienced. No man has a right to a country, unless he is loyal to it. This loyalty is unfortunately shown in the United States, by the risks the juvenile population run of blowing themselves out of the country with giant squibs, and other hilarious explosives. It is probable that, if precedent is regarded, the Fourth of July casualty roll, will contain a larger list of killed and wounded, than was recorded in the first battle of the civil war, that of Bull's run.

GEORGE STREET YOUNG PEOPLE GO TO SCHOOL

Attended Last Night's Session of Summer School at Chemong

The Summer School at Chemong Park is proving an irresistible attraction for Peterborough Methodists. Last night a party of twenty from the George street Methodist church went out by bus, and attended the meeting which, according to their own story was an exceedingly interesting one.

Besides the benefit derived from the session, they report a most enjoyable time, and intend repeating the trip. They were in charge of Mr. B. Cain, and were free from accidents, owing to the capability of the driver.

Increased Capital To Provide New Buildings

Canadian General Electric Company to Issue $3,000,000 New Stock —Total Capital Will Then Reach $8,000,000.

FOR BUILDINGS HERE

There is considerable local interest in the announcement made in a circular issued by the Canadian General Electric Company, to the effect that an increase of the capital stock of that company of $3,000,000 will be made, bringing the capital stock up to $9,000,000. The Toronto Star of last night, in referring to this fact, says:

Directors of the Canadian General Electric Company have decided to ask the shareholders of the company to ratify a bylaw providing for an increase of the company's capital stock from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000. Of this increase, $2,000,000 will be 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, and $1,000,000 common stock. It is not, however, the intention to issue the common stock at present, but to hold it in reserve as treasury stock. The explanation is made that the directors deem it advisable to issue preferred instead of common stock, "as the saving in interest will increase the net profits available for the holders of common stock, and the issue can be readily sold in England should the shareholders not desire to take the whole of the same."

The circular goes on to explain that the monies received from the issue of $200,000 preferred stock will be applied to redeem the present issue of $300,000 preferred stock, to redeem the $160,000 bonds of the Northey Steam Pump Company, which are guaranteed by the Canadian General Electric Company, and will leave the entire assets of the Northey Company free from mortgage or bonded indebtedness of any description, while the balance will be applied in the repayment of advances made by the company's bankers.

The new preferred stock is to pay 7 per cent. in dividends. The old preferred stock, which is to be retired, paid 6 per cent.

The guess made some time ago in these columns that a Canadian General Electric preferred stock issue was coming turns out to have been a prophecy.

According to the last annual statement, the Canadian General Electric's indebtedness to the bank amounted to $1,196,272,89. It has probably been increased since then.

As to the necessity for more capital, the circular to shareholders says:

"Our last annual report contains a copy of each balance sheet of the company for the past sixteen years, and a study of these statements will show the very rapid and continuous expansion of the company's business. During the current year, however, our growth has been even more marked than heretofore, owing largely to the increase in our population through immigration; the large sums that are being expended by the railways; the development of our Canadian water powers, etc.; and to cope with these demands, the company must extend its plant and carry a larger stock of raw materials and merchandise. During the past year additional factory buildings have been erected in Peterborough and Davenport, and our liquid assets, comprising raw materials, merchandise, work in progress, and accounts receivable, have largely increased, and now amount to no less a sum than $5,384,056,44."

Canadian General Electric common stock did not move this morning on the exchange on the announcement, but declined to 124 this afternoon.

On the Street it was said that the placing of $2,000,000 7 per cent. preferred stock ahead of the common stock would not be relished by common shareholders, and might foreshadow a reduction in the common dividend. On the other hand, it might be argued that the company will be better able to pay the preferred dividend on the new stock than it would the 10 per cent. on the common, and that as between issuing common or preferred stock certainly the course chosen seems the better financing.

Canadian General Electric stock has had a checkered career, and many margin traders have been killed off by its wide fluctuation. It sold as high as 235 in 1901, and is now down to 125.

Squadron Of Dragoons Were Encamped In Driving Park

B Squadron Spent a Day and a Half In Peterborough — They Are Marching to Petawawa — Men and Horses in Fine Condition and Enjoy the Trip.

A TWO WEEKS' MARCH

B Squadron of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, with headquarters at Stanley Barracks, Toronto, spent Wednesday and a part of to-day in the city, in camp at the Driving Park, on their march to Petawawa, where they will camp for six weeks. The men left Toronto on Thursday of last week, and intend to reach their destination on the 15th. There are about 85 troopers and officers in the party, and with them they have 75 horses. They are all in good condition and show no ill effects of their march. There are six transport wagons and an ambulance accompanying the squadron. The men's uniforms were invariably neat and clean, showing that neatness is required of everyone. The horses were in good condition, their accoutrements were well shined, and they presented a fine appearance, being carefully groomed and trimmed. Only two or three were reported having sore backs from the long ride, but these were receiving the best of treatment to cure them.

Officers

The squadron was under the command of Captain Straubenzie, with Lieuts. Young, Bell, Gilman and McBride. Col. Williams, who is in charge at the Barracks, will go to Petawawa by a direct route and will be there when camp is opened. The first two days were rather rough, rain falling, making the roads heavy with mud. Otherwise the trip has been a pleasant one, and, as a result, the men are in the highest spirits. With the column is a veterinary surgeon and a surgeon major. None of the troopers have as yet been ill, and the doctor's services have not been required.

The March

The stop in this city has been the first since Saturday, and was a well-earned rest. Their daily itinerary averages twenty miles. The squadron spent Tuesday night at a small place between Millbrook and Port Hope. They intend to stop at Young's Point to-night. The men have had many amusing experiences on their march. They do not speak very highly of Port Hope. One of the men remarked that they were charged $10 for the water required in that town. In the small towns they are looked upon with as much interest as a circus, everyone turning out to see what they do. While at Mess in Pickering, the villagers crowded around, and somehow found considerable amusement in watching the men eat. The villagers probably expected to see the food served the same as in a hotel or home, and were highly amused while looking on, much to the displeasure of the troopers, who resent the gawky glares of the uninitiated.

They passed through the city this afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock.

Four Teams Required To Negotiate The Great Hills

An Interesting Description of the Trip of "B" Battery to Petawawa —Mr. H. Edmondson, of This City, Accompanied It.

SOME OF THE EXPERIENCES

Mr. Harry Edmondson returned yesterday from an interesting trip taken by him to Petawawa with B Battery, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Mr. Edmondson was engaged by the battery, when it passed through Peterborough, to convey a portion of the baggage to the camp at Petawawa, and he accompanied the boys on their journey, which occupied nearly three weeks. He is greatly pleased with the trip, and speaks in the highest terms of the treatment accorded him by the battery boys.

Petawawa was reached on Dominion Day, the trip from Toronto occupying from June 13 to that date. Some portions of the journey were taken in extremely hot weather, and the men and horses suffered considerably during the middle of the day. The trip, however, was enjoyed chiefly because of its novelty, the country passed through being new to all those in the party.

Mr. Edmondson prepared a diary of the trip, showing the places at which stops were made. Toronto was left on June 13, and four days later the battery reached Peterborough, where a stop was made until the following forenoon. Young's Point was reached the same night, and Haultain the next day. During the next four days, while Apsley, Boundary and Bancroft were being passed, the weather was very warm, and two days were spent at Bancroft, Saturday and Sunday. Starting out again on Monday morning, New Carlow was made that day, and the next night Combermere was reached. At Killaloe the roughest part of the trip was experienced. Golden Lake and Lockeley were the next two stops, and Saturday and Sunday, June 29 and 30, were spent in Pembroke, the camp grounds at Petawawa being reached on Dominion Day. Mr. Edmondson returned to Peterborough by train, his horse and wagon being shipped in a box car.

Major Burstall is in command of the battery and Col. Nattress is the medical officer. Captain Kirkland is transport officer, and showed commendable consideration for the feelings of the men and horses, ordering stops made when they were showing signs of fatigue. The hills are described by Mr. Edmondson as the worst he ever saw, in some cases four teams of horses being required to haul the guns to the summit. During the trip two men were injured and had to be cared for in the ambulance. The injuries, however, were not serious, and, taken altogether, the trip was a pleasant one.

Forty-five dollars and expenses was the consideration Mr. Edmondson received for his trip, and he made a reputation for himself. In one case, a farmer's wife was commissioned to bake enough bread to carry the men to the next stopping point, and she had to work all night to get the baking done. Mr. Edmondson had to wait until the bread was out of the oven and make a quick trip to catch up with the battery with their dinner.

The crops along the line of march were described as very poor, and the land for the most part light, red sand abounding. Hay was very dear, from $25 to $30 a ton being paid for it from the farmers.

UNIFORMITY IS WHAT IS NEEDED

A Correspondent Points Out That Definite System Should be Followed in Laying Out Streets

Editor Examiner.

If there is one thing that calls for immediate attention more than another, it is that our streets should be laid out with a due regard to one another, and that the symmetry of the city should not be marred by zig-zag streets and lanes, owing to the fact that each owner of a plot takes upon himself to say where his streets shall be, without any consideration for the convenience of the public. Surely, when our Council pays for the construction and maintenance of these streets, it ought to see that the symmetry and beauty of our city is not marred in such a manner, and that, too, for all time to come. And it will always be getting worse as the city grows. We talk with an air of superiority about the effete monarchies of the old world, but they are far ahead of us in this respect. In Germany, for instance, the squares and streets are not left to the whim or bad taste of the property owners to mar or disfigure in any respect.

Yours, etc.,

A Hurried Selling of New Wash Goods

We've an old, old reason for underpricing now—

Low Prices and Quick Sales Small Profits but Many of Them

We say "hurried selling of New Wash Goods," and it will be "hurried," if low prices be of avail. Take our word for it, and let us prove it.

Not only have we assembled a more varied assortment of prettier and better Wash Fabrics, but we have priced them at nearly One-fourth to One-third less than regular prices. Some merchants would consider this unbusiness like. They will say, "charge all you can get for them."

We could get a fourth more and enjoy brisk selling, but we want "hurried" selling, low prices and quick sales; small profits but many of them. That's our way of doing business.

The fabrics are the freshest and fairest of this and foreign lands, and the old worthies. The widest and most satisfying assortment we ever gathered for July selling.

THREE BOYS CAUGHT BY INSPECTOR

Were Found With Fishing Spear During the Close Season—Appeared in Court This Morning

THREE DRUNKS ALSO

The results of liquor were again evident at the Police Court this morning, when three Englishmen appeared before Magistrate Dumble on the charge of having been drunk and disorderly last night. The men are good fellows, but they have not conquered their desire for the flowing bowl, and they generally imbibe not wisely, but too well. Two of them occupied the prisoner's box for the first time, while the other had to receive a policeman's care about nine months ago. Magistrate Dumble was disposed to be lenient, wishing to give the men another chance not to again disgrace their nationality by drunkenness. It is quite evident that, as a stimulant, Canadian whisky has the English brands completely against the wall.

Illegal Fishing

Frank Londau, James Gorham and Percy Hartley, three young knights of the fishing spear, pleaded not guilty to the charge of having had in their possession, on June 3, a spear, with which maskinonge are caught. None of the boys are very old, Hartley being about 18 or 19, and Londau says he is 13 years of age. Mr. Watt, Fish Inspector, gave evidence to the effect that on the day in question he saw Gorham and Hartley on the bridge over Meade's creek, East City, and Londau was walking along the bank, carrying a spear. Mr. Watt produced it in court. Londau rejoined his companions, and then witness approached them, saying to Hartley, "You are the young man I have been looking for." He replied, "You must be mistaken." Mr. Watt then tried to catch Londau, who had the spear, but he got away safely, leaving the condemnatory spear on the ground.

Mr. Watt said that the creek is a spawning ground for lunge, and many people have been lurking around it in the close season for no legal purpose.

Witness said that the boys afterwards acknowledged their guilt to him, and promised to make a recompense in the form of a sum of money within a given time, or appear in court if they did not make good their word.

The three boys went into the witness box and told their side of the story. Londau had found the spear quite innocently, and did not intend to act any illegal fishing, although he said they would catch a lunge if they saw one. Magistrate Dumble pointed out their guilt and the liability to a fine because they had been in possession of a spear, contrary to the law. His Worship was disposed to make a conviction, but would not impose a heavy fine. He allowed them to go on suspended sentence, first having them promise that they would never violate the law again.

Popular Cure For Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in loosening the cough, clearing the air passages, and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on, and keep this great medicine constantly at hand for use in case of emergency.

Two Aldermen Engage In Warm Vocal Encounter

Ald Johnston and Morgan Break the Monotony of Fire Engineer Discussion by Some Interesting Repartee ---Joint Meeting of Committees---Decided to Call for Applications for Engineer

Stormy passages characterized the joint meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Board of Works last night, when the question of Samuel Wainwright's resignation as engineer of the fire engine was under fire for over two hours. The spicy repartee was principally between Ald. Johnston, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and Ald. Morgan, who, during the evening, handed a few bouquets across the table to the apparent delight of the others in attendance.

The trouble, of course, was all over the estranged friendship of Foreman Pakenham of the firehall and Engineer Wainwright over the duties of the latter, who, according to the evidence aired during the two hours' discussion, was under four "bosses"—the foreman of the firehall, the Street Commissioner, the Fire Chief, and the City Engineer.

The two aldermen above mentioned, on one occasion, got into a heated argument lasting more than a minute and a quarter, and at various other times were not at all backward in disagreeing with one another.

Wainwright, it will be remembered, some time ago resigned from his duties in connection with the firehall by notifying the foreman that he would work there no more, but still was in the employ of the city on the road roller. He was hired jointly by the two committees, but, as his duties were not clearly defined, the trouble resulted.

After two hours' discussion, during which time there was no small amount of talking done and opinions expressed, it was decided to solicit applications for an engineer and to define his duties.

Those present were Mayor McWilliams in the chair, Ald. Wilson, Duncan, Johnston, McIntyre, Morgan, Bradburn and Phelan, City Engineer, Street Commissioners and Foreman Pakenham of the firehall.

Ald. Johnston, in opening the question, thought that Wainwright did not want to do the work in connection with the firehall asked of him by the foreman, although the Fire, Water and Light Committee paid him part of his salary. He had nothing whatever against the man, he said, and he would be agreeable to him coming back if he and Mr. Pakenham could be reconciled. Ald. Wilson and Johnston thought that when he quit the work he should be left off.

Ald. Duncan and Morgan considered that when he worked from 7 in the morning until 5 in the evening on the road roller that that was enough. Ald. Duncan understood his grievance was that he was supposed to come to the firehall every morning and noon to tell Mr. Pakenham what he was going to do, but the foreman denied this.

The question of Mr. Wainwright sleeping at the firehall was then discussed, and in this the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light, considered the cause of the trouble.

The Mayor stated that Wainwright should not have quit in the manner he did, but should have notified the proper authorities.

Ald. Bradburn considered the duties of the engineer should be definitely decided before placing him on duty.

Ald. Morgan suggested that a bell should be placed in the engineer's house, the same as in the firemen's residences. Carried, while working on the roller, to allow him to remain at home.

Ald. Johnston thought that the engineer should remain his share of nights in the firehall, as well as the others.

Ald. Bradburn suggested that two of the three drivers sleep there every night, and that either the foreman or the engineer stay also, thus making three men on duty all the time.

"I positively refuse to sleep at the fire hall," responded Mr. Pakenham, "and when I remain there all day until 11 and 12 o'clock at night, I don't think Ald. Bradburn should expect me to."

"I don't care how long you stay there," added the alderman; "I was only making a suggestion to get over the trouble which one of the aldermen has referred to."

"Don't draw me into the controversy," said Ald. Morgan.

"I don't want to draw anybody into it, but if the cap fits put it on," was the response.

Some to Think Over

"Ald. Morgan seems to know all about the question," said Ald Johnston, and an interesting dialogue followed.

"I don't pretend to know all about it," replied Ald. Morgan.

"You ought to be chairman of the Fire, Water and Light."

"I wish to Heavens I was; I would have things in a little better shape!" responded the doughty alderman from across the river.

"You are the man that goes down to the fire hall and causes all the trouble," said Ald. Johnston.

"You were one of a deputation that went to see fire halls, and to see how things were run——" began the other.

"No, I wasn't; I didn't see any," replied the chairman.

"No, of course not; you couldn't see a fire hall," and the spicy repartee concluded.

After some more discussion on the subject it was moved by Ald. Wilson, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that either one or the other of the regular drivers, be on duty on every night, together with either the extra driver or the engineer, and that in case of any one of them being absent that the foreman be on duty.—Carried.

The Engineer's Story

Mr. Wainwright was then called in, and gave his reasons why he vacated his position. After a beat had been made one evening, he said, while he was cleaning the engine, he asked the foreman why he was not given a raise. The foreman stated that he had to obey him first, and that every other night he had to sleep in the fireball. He was also told that he had to sweep out the hall whenever asked, and to this he replied that he did not think it to be his duty. He then told the foreman that he would quit at the fireball, and did so. Wainwright also explained that on another occasion while working for the Board of Works he was requested by Foreman Pakenham to attend to hose. He could not, he said, possibly serve two or three bosses. On another occasion the fire chief gave him an order counter to that of the foreman. He was again asked by the city engineer to attend to a sewer and at first the foreman refused to allow him, but afterwards told him he had to do it.

Mr. Pakenham denied some of Mr Wainwright's statements, and stated on the occasion of him asking the engineer to collect some hose on the Monday morning following the fire at Peter Hamilton's foundry, he did not think that he was working.

Ald. Bradburn blamed the foreman for not having the hose in the hall long before Monday, but the foreman stated that this duty did not come under his jurisdiction, according to the bylaw.

The engineer also stated that the foreman told a citizen that unless he (the engineer) was careful he would lose his job, and that this had brought the matter to a head. When he was hired by Ald. Johnston he understood that he would not have to sleep in the fire hall, except in the winter time.

Applications Wanted

Ald. Wilson, Duncan, McIntyre and Johnston, believed that since Wainwright quit in the manner he did, that applications should be invited for the position of engineer.

Ald. Morgan, Bradburn and Phelan believed that if he did what the committee ordered he should be accepted, without calling for applications.

Street Commissioner Evans and the City Engineer stated that Wainwright was a good man on the roller and was quite satisfactory to them.

Ald. Morgan moved that if the engineer will abide by the conditions laid down by the committee that he be employed as before.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that applications be called for an engineer.—Carried.

Applications must be in the hands of the city clerk before 5 o'clock on Monday, July 8th.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

SAYS THIS IS BEST

A leading health journal in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce;
Compound Salatone, one ounce;
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.

A well-known physician states that these are harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

This mixture will clean the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Salatone and Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

AN AGE OF REASON.

The days of mystery have passed. There must be a reason for everything, and we demand to be shown the whys and the wherefores. Secret or patent medicines must go with the other mysteries. King Palmetto Compound is not a secret remedy,—the formula is printed on the label, and you can get expert advice from your physician, who will tell you that it is the most useful prescription ever prepared. Saw Palmetto for the kidneys, Cascara Sagrada for the bowels, Couch Grass, Corn Silk, for the bladder, Golden Seal and Compound Kerunfel,—a perfect combination. The cause of ill-health is not a mystery either, and we know we should apply our reason to our daily habits, but we do not do so. The modern struggle is too much for us. The result is a clogged liver, and a generally disordered condition of the stomach, liver, nerves, and kidneys. These things lead to very serious results, and render the body an easy prey to germ diseases, such as Typhus, Typhoid, and Consumption. The reasonable solution is to begin taking King Palmetto Compound to-day. One dose a day, and the cure begins with the first dose. It will renovate your entire system, banish constipation and indigestion, and purify the blood. Give it a trial. Write for a free sample bottle to the King Palmetto Company, Bridgeburg, Ontario.

THE THURSDAY HALF HOLIDAY

Was Enjoyed by Many Employees This Afternoon

This afternoon the employees of a large number of local stores are enjoying the first Thursday half-holiday of the season. Among the places of business noticed closed this afternoon were: A. H. Stratton, W. E. Lech, Lang & Maher, Dickson, Harry Adams, Schneider's, Grafton's, Merrell & Meredith's, R. J. Soden's, Sanderson & Co., J. C. Turnbull, Richard Hall, C. E. Frost, Warne Bros., R. Neill, W Stroud, J T Stenson, The Fair, Allen and Felion, F. A. Clarke, Port Hope Knitting Works, R. J. OBITUARY.

DAVID TULLY

A life-long resident of Smith township passed away this morning in the person of Mr. David Tully, who died after an illness of about six months, during which time he suffered from nerve trouble. The deceased was 60 years of age and was born in the township in which his death occurred. He was one of the township's most highly respected residents, and his death will be learned of with deep regret by his wide circle of friends. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and took a deep, though not particularly active interest in all public affairs. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and six sons and three daughters. The sons are William, Thomas and Joseph, of Cavan, and Alfred, Sidney and Bally, of Smith. The daughters are Mrs. Rutherford, of Emily; Mrs. Fowler of Toronto, and Ethel at home. One brother, Andrew, of Smith, and one sister, Mrs. David Moore, of Peterborough also survive him.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon from the family residence, 3rd line of Smith at 2 o'clock, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

WEDDING BELLS.

RUMBELOW-FOY

At the Charlotte street Methodist manse yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, a quiet wedding was celebrated by Rev. H .M. Manning when Miss May Josephine Foy, daughter of Mr. Henry Foy, of Peterborough, became the wife of Mr. Harry Rumbelow, son of Mr. Geo. Rumbelow, of Cobourg. Both parties were unattended.

After the ceremony the happy couple returned to the home of the brides parents where a delightful supper had been spread. Only the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Rumbelow left on the 9 o'clock train for Port Hope, Cobourg and Rochester and on their return will reside at 127 Stewart street. Many beautiful presents were received from friends of the young couple, one of them being a silver pickle cruet and silver card receiver from the girls of Messrs. Turner & Sons establishment.

ADDRESS TO BE DELIVERED AT THE DOURO PICNIC

The good feeling that exists at present and is likely to exist till the end of time, between England and France, is termed "Entente Cordiale." It is stronger than any mere treaty, and means a union of hearts. It stands, and shall stand, as a monument to the diplomatic skill of His Most Gracious Majesty King Edward. In honour of the Entente Cordiale, a most interesting address will be delivered in France in the King Edward Grove, Douro, at the picnic July, 9th inst. The address will be delivered on France in the Secretary, House of Commons, Ottawa. The learned gentleman, like King Edward, has a perfect knowledge of the French languages and will, according to special request, make use of the French languages for fifteen minutes while speaking of the beauties of the literature of France. A cordial invitation to all who love King Edward and the Entente Cordiale. Remember the date—July, 9th inst.

BELIEVES ORCHARD'S STORY.

Says Famous Psychologist But Evidence Is Contradicted.

Boise, Idaho, July 4.—When the Haywood trial opened yesterday it was not considered likely that the defence would be able to conclude the presentation of its evidence Friday evening. With an adjournment over the 4th, it is not probable that they will be in a position to call Moyer to the stand before next Saturday evening. Moyer will be followed by Haywood, who will close the case for the defence.

Pat Moran, whom Orchard testified made a trip from Cheyenne to Denver for him to get $500 from George A. Pettibone, after the Independence Station affair, went on the stand and testified that Orchard's story was "a pipe dream."

Boston, July 4.—In a newspaper interview Prof. Hugo Muensterberg, the famous Harvard psychologist, who has been attending the Haywood trial at Boise, Idaho, for the purpose of studying the mind of Harry Orchard, the principal witness, says he believes Orchard's confession to be thoroughly true.

Peublo, Col., July 4.—Former Sheriff J. L. Beeman on Tuesday night said that Harry Orchard had no connection with the attempt to wreck the Florence and Cripple Creek train, as Orchard had testified.

He said that while he was sheriff the Teller County authorities brought to Peublo a man named Chas. Beckman, an employe of a detective agency. Beckman was jailed with Charles McKinney, who was accused of the attempted train-wrecking, in hopes of getting a confession from him. Before going to jail on this mission, Beeman says Beckman related a story of his experiences.

He said he was a detective and a member of the Western Federation of Miners' "inner circle." The "inner circle," Beckman asserted, designated him and several others to wreck the train.

He reported the matter to Scott, special agent for the railroad company, and Sterling, special agent for the mine owners, and went with them to the scene of the proposed wreck, where they saw men pull spikes from the rails.

Four Lads From Buffalo Gripped Girders of Upper Arch Bridge—Scrambled Through Maze of Steel Work—Two Hundred Feet Above Swirling Waters of Niagara River—Spectators Spellbound.

Buffalo, July 4.—Before the eyes of hundreds of spectators, who were thrilled by the daring of their performance, four Buffalo boys yesterday afternoon worked their way across the Niagara River by gripping the steel work of the upper arch bridge.

They went below to the bank, started their sensational climb, working their way across the river, through the network of steel braces underneath the bridge, fully 200 feet above the whirling waters. Their hazardous trip was made to avoid the forty cents bridge tolls, as there was but five cents in the party.

As the lads reached the centre of the iron work 200 feet above the water they halted for a moment as if about to abandon their purpose, while spectators on either bank stood spellbound. They were only resting however, and after several moments they continued their trip and arrived safely on the Canadian shore where they were arrested.

$100,000 FOR NEW JAILS.

Dr. Bruce Smith Has Returned From a Tour of Inspection.

Toronto, July 4.—Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith, Provincial Inspector of Hospitals and Prisons, has returned from an extensive tour of the New Ontario districts.

Under the Legislative grants of last session the Public Works Department is spending nearly $100,000 upon the jails of the Northern Ontario districts. New jails are being erected at Gore Bay, Port Arthur, Sudbury and Fort Francis, and extensive enlargements and improvements being made to the jails at Sault Ste. Marie and Kenora.

During the early part of the year the Government received many complaints as to the overcrowding and inadequacy of the jails. The new works, Dr. Smith says, will effectually remove all cause for complaint.

PORT HOPE HERE ON SATURDAY

Should be One of the Best Games Ever Seen Here

Peterborough fans will see the best ball game of the season on Saturday afternoon, when Blake Crawford's Port Hope aggregation will be here in an endeavour to duplicate their feat of Monday, when they whitewashed the locals by a score of 3—0.

The game was one of the best ever played in Port Hope, and in all probability Saturday's game will be of the same order. The teams are evenly matched and will put up a great exhibition. The locals are confident of reversing Monday's score and will be in the best of shape. Most of the team, despite the gruelling trip, were out last night, and had a lively practice at Riverside Park. Another practice is called for to-morrow night, and every player is expected to be out in uniform.

There should be a big crowd at the game on Saturday. So far the gates have been disappointingly small and the boys have not been receiving the support they have shown they are entitled to. For the first time in a number of years Peterborough has a ball team of which something can be expected. They have been playing fast ball all season, and now that they are in the Midland League, will exert every effort to win the championship of the organization. Their chances are good, as if they win the second series which starts on Saturday, they will play off with Port Hope, the winner of the first series for the championship. They can't continue, however, without the support of the citizens. In Port Hope on Saturday there was an enormous crowd present, estimated at over 3,000 people. If the local people received a gate like that the shock would kill them. Get out and encourage the team by your presence on Saturday.

FINAL FOOTBALL GAME ON SATURDAY NEXT

Quakers Have Decided on Sudden Death at Warkworth

The Intermediate Quaker Football Team, go to Warkworth on Saturday, when they play a sudden-death final game in the Intermediate series of the Midland League.

Warkworth has had a most successful season, so far, and they expect to land the championship—but the Quakers are just as confident.

The locals, accompanied by the seniors, will hold their final practice this evening on the Exhibition grounds.

Fitzgerad.

The Quakers will leave via Grand Trunk on Saturday at 2 o'clock, and will drive from Hastings to Warkworth, where a sudden death game will be played with the team of that village for the intermediate championship of the Midland League. Great interest is being taken in Warkworth, and no doubt a large crowd will witness the contest. M. Sherin of Omemee will referee.

BASEBALL

Yabbie Flaherty will pitch for Peterborough against Port Hope on Saturday, and with the clever local twirler in shape, Blake Crawford's aggregation will have troubles of their own in connecting with the ball. The team behind him will be in the best of shape and will be fighting from their tip-toes all through. The nine will have a final practice to-night at Riverside Park, when every man is expected to be out in uniform. There promises to be a record crowd at the game.

Good Shooting

Several of the Toronto volunteers were out at Jackson Park last night, and made some good marks at Yeates and made some good marks at Yeates Bros.' shooting gallery. They were all good shots and could knock the pipes every time.

Calling a water does not certify it safe for you to drink. Water can be pure and yet be harmful. Boiled water is pure, in one sense, because heat destroyed the bacteria it contained, but heat does not remove harmful salts from water, nor the organic matter. ¶ Distilled water, used so much on shipboard, is chemically pure; but seafaring men will warn you against drinking too much "condenser" (distilled) water. It brings on bowel trouble, because the salts it should contain have been distilled out of it. ¶ Some spring water is fairly pure; but even the purest spring water contains dissolved mineral matter—sulphate of lime, carbonate of lime, magnesia, common salt, potash, iron. ¶ Even pure water, if it contains too much of some of these salts, does you harm. ¶ So what are you to do? You shouldn't drink boiled water because the salts are not boiled out of it. You musn't drink distilled water because the salts are boiled out of it. Most spring waters have too much of the wrong kind of salts. What are you to drink? ¶ Why not drink a water that is not only ideally pure, but in which are naturally present exactly the salts that are good for anybody, in exactly the proportion that is right for everybody? ¶ Why not drink a water that is zestful, sparkling, limpid, with no excess of mineral, no trace of harmful salts? That is

BIGGEST CATCH OF THE SEASON

Local Celebrities Landed Fifteen and a Half Pound Lunge

All records for Little Lake, for this season at least, were broken yesterday afternoon when Fred Whiteroft landed a fifteen and one half pound lunge, after a big struggle. He with Harry Halpin, one of the Toronto Canoe Club's expert paddlers, and Jake Connors, the centre fielder of the Peterborough Ball Club, were out together yesterday afternoon. Mr. Whiteroft held the line, Mr. Halpin supplied the motive power and Mr. Connors armed with a ball club sat ready to deal death and destruction to anything with fins that tried to climb into the boat. Near the second pier, the boat was stopped with a suddenness that was surprising, then a frenzied leap and loud splash as the big fellow broke water, proclaimed the fact that something worth while had been hooked. Mr. Whiteroft after a hard fight, brought the monster to the side of the canoe and called upon Mr. Connors to slug it. Mr. Connors who is batting at a .353 clip for Peterborough, swung hard but made a foul strike, knocking Mr. Fish back into the water as he was being brought into the boat. Once more he was hauled in and this time the doughty centre fielder made no mistake, pounding the fish and everything else in sight, until he had killed the lunge and broken the bat, two ribs and a thwart of the canoe and his suspendars.

The triumphal procession up George street with the capture attracted a lot of attention and was a gorgeous affair although marred somewhat by remarks from the crowd as to what they had paid for it, etc.

A RESPECTED RESIDENT PASSED AWAY

Death of Mrs. McBain This Morning at Age of 82 Years

The hand of death removed, this morning, one of the most patient and upright characters of the city in the person of Mrs. Wm. McBain, for over 30 years a highly respected and Christian resident of Peterborough. The deceased had had a lengthy life, in which she performed her duties to the general good of those with whom she came in contact, and her death removes a sterling character who has left lasting impressions for good behind her. Her death occurred at 9 o'clock this morning, at the ripe old age of 82 years, at her late residence, on the corner of King and Stewart streets. She had been on the decline for some time, but it was only during the past three weeks that her illness became acute, and this morning, when she passed peacefully away, her surviving family, two sons and a daughter, were present at her bedside.

The maiden name of the deceased was Margaret Clark. She was born in Port Hope and lived in Springville for a number of years, where her memory is still cherished by those who knew her. She was married to the late William McBain about 60 years ago, and had lived in Peterborough about 34 years. Her husband predeceased her 21 years. The surviving sons are Mr. J. J. McBain of Peterborough and Mr. G. A. McBain of Vancouver, B. C., who at present is in the city. One daughter, Mrs. Donald Menzies, with whom she had recently lived, also survives. A sister, Mrs. Moncrief, resides in Otonabee, and a brother, Mr. Wm. Clark, in the city.

The late Mrs. McBain was an interested and faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. She was most patient in her recent suffering, and never complained of her illness even to her own family and relatives.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's Church will officiate.

COMMENDATION OF THE GARBAGE BY-LAW

R. J. Todd Writes Letter in Which He Points Out That Ald. Elliott's Proposal is a Good One.

Editor Examiner,

Sir,—Inquiry has been made as to why I do not reply to Ald. Elliott's letter on the garbage bylaw. I presume because I opposed the bylaw as it appeared in the press. Allow me to say, as in my first letter, that I have neither the desire nor the time to take up civic affairs. After reading the proposed bylaw, I felt it my duty to point out what I considered a wrong method of raising the money, believing that a wise Council would see the error when it was uncovered.

To my sense, collecting the money as they had proposed would cost too much. Had I offered a suggestion as to how to go about raising the necessary funds, it would have been in the manner proposed in the letter by Ald. Elliott, with which I am quite pleased. My humble opinion is that he is on the right line.

I might just say here, for the encouragement of our City Council, that I, for one, am convinced that we should have a garbage system adopted.

And that it can be done without adding but very little cost, if any, to our present expense of keeping our yards clean. Furthermore, I believe, if our aldermen will unite in framing a garbage bylaw along the lines now proposed by Ald. Elliott, that the people will carry it when given the opportunity.

I don't mean to say that Ald. Elliott has every point perfect: that is too much to expect, but, with the aid of his co-workers, they can give us a garbage system that will be satisfactory to the city as a whole. Let our City Fathers lose sight of personal interests and work for the benefit of the whole city, and there will be no kick against a garbage bylaw.

The people want to be both healthy and clean. The Scriptures say, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." We can't reach Godliness at a single bound, but we can take the first step, cleanliness. Free from selfishness.

Sincerely yours,
R. J. TODD.

CHEERING NEWS FOR CAREFUL HOUSEWIVES; PROVISIONS CHEAPER

Summary of Market Despatches From Montreal Indicates That There is a General Decline in Prices.

ALL PROVISIONS LOWER

For the first time in many months news of a reduction in the price of provisions comes from the provision centre of the Dominion, and Montreal despatches to-day give the cheering information that there are prospects for a drop in the prices of such items on the daily bill-of-fare as potatoes, eggs, butter, cheese and fish. A summary of the telegraphic news from Montreal to-day, so far as they relate to the prices of provisions, is given below:

THE BUTTER TRADE IS REPORTED TO BE QUIET

The butter market is quiet, with only a fair trade passing in the home markets, and practically no export business recorded at all, which places the market in a very unsatisfactory condition. The indications are that any change will develop a downward tendency in the prices.

The Copenhagen quotations to-day on Danish butter advanced one kronar, or 1-4c per pound, due to the heavy demand from the tin packers, but this demand cannot last very much longer, and then easier prices will be in order.

The quotations to-day are: Quebec, 20 1-2c; Ontario, 20c; Townships, 20 3-4 to 21c.

The local receipts to-day were 7,873 packages.

FURTHER DECLINE IN CHEESE IS ANTICIPATED

A letter from Hodgson Bros., Liverpool, says:

"The general demand for cheese has been of a retail character, dealers buying only for immediate needs, and with the English make both plentiful and cheap, there is anticipation of a further decline in Canadian. Values are 1s to 1s 6d lower on the week. We quote: Choicest new coloured and white, States and Canadian, 58s to 59s per cwt.; lower grades, skims and half meats, 30s to 44s; finest fall makes, coloured and white, 64s to 66s.

FISH PRICES DROPPING; MARKET WELL SUPPLIED

The fish market is well supplied, and there is a large variety on hand.

The salmon season is now in full swing, and prices are at the lowest for the season. Large quantities of Gaspe salmon have been shipped to the New York and Boston markets during the past few days, where very high prices have been realized owing to the usual heavy demand preceding the 4th of July. Salmon is to the United States national holiday what turkey is to Thanksgiving Day.

Halibut are also plentiful.

Brook trout are becoming scarce, as well as other lake fish, and the run of fresh mackerel, which has been quite heavy during the past two or three weeks, is practically over, the fish having moved off the Nova Scotia shore.

Haddock and cod continue quite plentiful, and prices in consequence are very low.

In smoked and prepared fish there is little doing at present. Prices generally are lower this week.

POTATOES AND EGGS DROP IN SYMPATHY

Potatoes.—The potato market is weak again to-day, and very little business is reported. Prices are unchanged from yesterday, though in some cases they are a shade lower. Sound whites offering at $1.15 to $1.20 in single lots; at car, $1.13 to $1.18; in car lots, U1 05 to $1.10; sound red potatoes, $1 to $1.15 in single lots; at car, $1 05 to $1.08; in car lots, $1 to $1.05

Eggs.—The market is weak. The prices are, in wholesale lots, 16c; in single lots, 17 to 17 1-2c; selects, 18 1-2 to 19c.

INVESTED TWO CENTS; RECEIVED FIVE DOLLARS

A return of five dollars from an investment of two cents, is almost money-lenders' profit, but it represents the amount received by a young man in this city yesterday. A diamond pin was lost on the street a few days ago, and the owner inserted an advertisement in the Examiner, asking for its return, and offering a reward of $5.00 to the one who would find the pin, which was worth more than half a hundred dollars. The young man who found the pin, bought a copy of the Examiner and, reading the want column—which, by the way, is one of the most interesting columns in the paper—discovered the ad. asking for the return of the pin. He brought it back, and made $5.00 on the deal. The moral of this story is: Always read the want columns of the Examiner. It may pay you, and in any event will be interesting.

WELCOME FOR THE NEW PASTOR

Rev. C. H. Coon and Family Arrived in the City To-day From Bobcaygeon

Lewis, arrived in the city with his family, coming from Bobcaygeon, his last charge, by way of Chemong. UNIQUE OFFER TO STEAMBOAT MEN

First Boat to Carry Cargo to Orillia After Opening, Will be Given a Flag

The Board of Trade of Orillia is making an effort to popularise that end of the Trent Waterway, and in this endeavour is making an unique offer. A letter to-day from Mr. J. B. Henderson, the secretary of that body, states that the Board of Trade offers a flag to the first steamer to bring an excursion or cargo into the port of Orillia from any point on the Kawartha Lakes by way of the Trent Valley Canal, after the formal opening of the Kirkfield lift lock, on Saturday, July 6th.

The board hopes that the opening of this section of the canal may be the means of working up a trade between the two sections of country hitherto but off from communication by water, and makes this offer with the view of drawing attention to the possibilities in this direction.

The letter asks that the attention of steamboat owners and captains in the Kawartha district be directed to this offer, which will, in all probability not be open long before it is taken advantage of.

METHODIST EXCURSION FROM LINDSAY HERE

Beautiful Jackson Park Was Well Crowded To-day

Many of the excursionists visited the lift lock and other spots of interest around the city. The train arrived here at 10 o'clock and will return at 7 this evening.

WHEAT CROP WILL BE AVERAGE

60,000,000 Bushels Will be the Yield in Kansas This Year According to Estimate

HARVEST TWO WEEKS LATE

Special to J. E. Heintz & Co.

St. Louis, July 15. — The Modern Miller says: Estimate of the average yield per acre of winter wheat furnished by millers in the principal producing states shows that the comparison with last year's yield, and figured on the basis of the acreage to be harvested, as estimated by the Government, the crop in Missouri and Michigan will be about the same as last year; Illinois, 8 per cent. larger; Nebraska, 10 per cent. smaller; Ohio, 20 per cent. smaller; Kansas, 25 per cent. smaller, and Indiana, 5 per cent. smaller. The Kansas crop is estimated at about 60,000,000 bushels. Oklahoma can spare a small amount for shipment out of the State. Texas must import for milling and seed requirements. The movement will be two weeks later than usual, and a great deal will depend upon the price whether wheat will move freely or not.

Cincinnati, O., July 5.—Price Current says: Winter wheat indications fully maintained and more encouraging. Corn now advancing in growth favourably. Oat crop irregular and uncertain in promise.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON TRIP

The steamer Otonabee will leave the Wolfe Street Wharf on Saturday, July 6, at 2:30 p.m. (calling at the Streetcar Wharf) for Harwood and Idyl Wyld, returning at 9 p.m. Good dinner at Idyl Wyld 25 cents. Return fare 50 cents.

Brighton, Ont. July 5.—A sad fatality occurred about four o'clock this morning just east of here. Mr. McCullough was killed and Mrs. McCoy was badly injured. It is expected that the latter will recover. He was hard of hearing and did not hear the train coming although the woman saw the danger and tried to stop him.

EDITORIAL NOTES

GOOD COUNTRY ROADS

We boast, with very good reason, of our prosperity and progress, but we are inclined to neglect one matter which, attended to, would increase our prosperity, promote our progress, and qualify us for a claim to a higher standard of civilization. The key-note to development, progress, and, consequently, prosperity, is good roads — the higher the civilization, the better the means of communication; and he that prevents inter-communication, whether by retaining defective means of transportation, be it railway or highway or obstructs the channels of trade, by hostile tariffs, or otherwise, is, to that extent, the foe of civilization. Throughout this province, to go no further afield, there is an unintelligible and astonishing indifference in the matter of good roads and streets. Beginning with our own city, we have a horrible example, in the neglect of our streets, of indifference to the comfort of taxpayers using vehicles, and the good name, and credit, of the city. The same condition prevails in a manner throughout the country and province. In both cases there is, apparently, an absence of system, and a failure to recognize the importance of good roads.

At the annual meeting of the County of Welland Liberal Association, held a few days ago, the matter of indifference to good roads was brought up by a resolution demanding amendment of the Good Roads legislation, now on the statute book. The resolution recited that the Good Roads legislation of Ontario was modelled on the famous New Jersey State Aid Law. But it also recited that it lacked one most important feature of the latter law. This was the mandatory, or obligatory, clause, whereby progressive citizens, by petition, could put the law in motion, and inaugurate the Good Roads movement in every county of the State. That the Ontario law is defective in this regard, is shown by the abortive struggle of six years in the County of Welland, where, heaven knows, there is need enough for them. As to provincial indifference, it needs only to be pointed out, that of the first million dollars set apart for good roads by the Ross Government in 1901 only about one-third has been used to date, in the fifty counties of the Province. The resolution referred to, "recognized the justice of the principle that macadamizing the main market highways in every county of the province properly comes under the head of Public Works of the Province, and is being carried out in such leading States as New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut, where 75 per cent. of the cost of good roads is paid by the State.

The resolution, unanimously adopted, is important enough to be reproduced:

"Moved by J. F. Beam, Humberstone, seconded by John Law, Stamford, that it is the opinion of this association that instead of one-third, one-half the cost of good roads should now be borne by the province, and that corporations, particularly those of railways, should no longer be exempted, but made to pay their rightful share of taxation, according to their true value, the same as farm lands, and other properties, and that a large portion of this tax should go to the rural municipalities, and thus be made available for good roads."

Speaking to the resolution, Mr. Beam pointed out, that of the million dollars appropriated by the Liberal Government, only about $800,000 had been used, and only six out of fifty counties in the province had been benefitted. He also showed that by increasing the grant from one-third to one-half of the amount expended, the Government would not then be granting as substantial assistance as the State aid given in the United States. The plea in the resolution adopted, for higher taxation of railways, and corporations, raises a debatable point, but it seems only justice that railways, which are helped by relief from full taxation, are less entitled to indirect assistance to promote the Good Roads principle, than the highways of the country, which are natural feeders to the railways, and used by the people, who own the province. The proposal to devote a large proportion of the revenue derived from the taxation of railways and corporations is financially feasible. In 1905 the revenue derived from taxing railways, was $396,364, a sum, which if used, with the addition of a like amount contributed by the county municipalities, and expended each year in providing improved roads, would revolutionize provincial transportation by highway, and result in a saving of wear and tear, and saving of time to the farmers of the country, which would be worth to the farmers of the country an amount many times in excess of the actual expenditure. The amount mentioned could easily be spared. There has been an accession of new revenue more than three times the equivalent of $376,364.84. The Dominion subsidy has been increased by $800,000, and there has been an increase in succession duties, which contributes to swelling entirely new revenue — compared to a few years ago — by about a million dollars. This increased revenue could be used to better advantage in conferring the boon of good roads on the farmers of Ontario, than in paying increased salaries, or the salaries of multiplied officials.

RIFLE PLAYED PART IN EVIDENCE

ARBITRATOR AGREED UPON

The dispute over a line fence between two Dummer farmers came up before Magistrate Dumble yesterday afternoon, and, as in a couple of local cases of the past from that township, a gun played a prominent part. Peter Taylor was the plaintiff in the case and Robert Payne the defendant, both men being well-known Dummer farmers, living north of Warsaw. From the evidence ventilated in court, it appears that the plaintiff was building a fence between his property and that of the defendant, when he was ordered to stop by Payne, and threatened that if he did not, forcible means would be taken to have him do so. The defendant claimed that Taylor was trespassing on his property with the fence, and for this reason tried to put a stop to the continuance of the work.

The plaintiff also claimed that when the defendant threatened to assault him he brought with him a rifle, which he considered was for the purpose of frightening him. The defence, however, claimed that the rifle was brought for no such purpose, but that Mr. Payne carried the weapon according to custom, to shoot ground-hogs.

Mr. G. W. Hatton attended to the case for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. D. Kerr for the defendant.

Among the witnesses called was Mr. Cameron, the local surveyor, who, some years ago, was engaged to find the line between the properties. Both the men, he stated, acquiesced in his finding at the time he made the survey, but some time after, Mr. Taylor had come to him, stating that he was not satisfied, and that he would get another surveyor. Mr. Wilkins was engaged to survey it the second time, and his line was only about two feet different. Mr. Taylor was not then satisfied, Mr. Cameron stated, and he advised him to get the services of the surveyor-general.

After this evidence had been taken the Magistrate advised the two parties to come to an agreement amicably and not to proceed further with the controversy. They were manufacturing a row, he said, about nothing, and he believed that both were somewhat to blame over the trifling matter. Payne should not have brought a gun, he said, as it was a dangerous weapon for an impetuous man to carry; but on the other hand, the Paynes are accustomed to carry firearms. Some fault lay with Mr. Taylor, he pointed out, in not notifying the defendant before beginning to build. He advised them to proceed no further with the case, to divide the costs between them when they were yet not of large proportions, and to obtain the services of Mr. Jacob White, the Dummer surveyor, to determine the line and act as arbitrator.

This the farmers agreed to do through their counsel after some preliminary debate on the part of the latter, and the case was dismissed, each paying the court $2.50.

Women Obtain Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Help.

She Has Guided Thousands to Health. —How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Fred Seydel.

It is a great satisfaction for a woman to feel that she can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only.

Many thousands of cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimonial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as she has been.

Mrs. Fred Seydel, of 412 North 54th Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Over a year ago I wrote you a letter asking advice, as I had female ills and could not carry a child to maturity. I received your kind letter of instructions and followed your advice. I am not only a well woman in consequence, but have a beautiful baby girl. I wish every suffering woman in the land would write you for advice, as you have done so much for me."

Just as surely as Mrs. Seydel was cured, will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman suffering from any form of female ills.

If you are sick, write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and always helpful.

"ALL GOOD THINGS"

must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for.

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

HASTINGS RESIDENT'S SUDDEN DEATH

Late H. M. Fowlds, One of the Most Highly Respected of Hastings' Business Men

OVER EIGHTY YEARS OF AGE

Many Peterborough persons were acquainted in a more or less intimate degree with the late H. M. Fowlds, whose death is recorded from Hastings to-day. The Hastings Star, referring to the sad event, says:

The whole community was surprised and shocked on Wednesday morning to learn that Mr. H. M. Fowlds, one of the oldest business men and most respected citizens of this district, had passed away from heart failure, without even a minute's warning.

Mr. Fowlds had been in his usual good health of late; in fact, on Tuesday had walked out to the end of his farm, and over to the village twice, and on Wednesday morning showed no signs of distress until he had finished breakfast, when, on being addressed by one of his daughters, he did not respond. Medical aid was at once summoned, but life was extinct before anything could be done, heart failure being the cause.

Deceased gentleman was born in New York City on August 18, 1825, and was, consequently, in his 82nd year. At an early age he moved to Vermont, U. S., and from there to Birdsall, then to Westwood, where his father was engaged in the lumbering business, and, finally, in 1851, to Hastings, then "Crooks Rapids," where his father purchased the property from Hon. Adam Crooks.

NEGLECTED TO REMOVE HIS CLOTHING

Mr. W. A. Bailey Reported to Have Undertaken Peculiar Feat

A peculiar circumstance occurred at the street car wharf on Wednesday evening, the cause for which has not yet been ascertained. Mr. W. A. Bailey, who needs no introduction to Examiner readers, according to an eye-witness of the scene, was standing on the wharf gazing complacently upon the calm waters of the Otonabee, when, suddenly, he shot like a bolt from his commanding position, clothes, boots, spectacles and all, and dived underneath a canoe coming up the river, paddled by a young man.

Mr. Bailey, so the information goes, apparently miejudged the distance of the canoe from the wharf, struck the boat and upset its occupant into the Otonabee in the attempt to perform the daring feat.

Minus his spectacles, he emerged from the river with every particle of his clothing saturated with water.

THE LOCAL REGIMENT PRAISED

The St. Catharine Papers Pay a High Tribute

That the 57th Regiment created a favourable impression in St. Catharines on the occasion of their recent trip seems evident from the comments made in the press of that city, concerning the visit of the local soldier boys. Both the Standard and the Star-Journal pay compliments to the smart appearance of the local regiment, and attribute much of the success of the day's celebration to the presence in the city of the visitors.

The Star-Journal says.—The presence of the 57th Regiment did much to make the celebration a success. Both officers and men of that gallant corps could not but feel deeply gratified if they knew the eagerness with which their coming was awaited. In the expectation that they would arrive at the Welland station at 4 a.m., a large number of citizens assembled there at that hour to greet them, and stood for an hour in the pouring rain. On receiving the information that the regiment would not arrive before 8 o'clock, the crowd reluctantly dispersed.

Shortly after 7 the special train bearing the 57th steamed into the station at Merritton, and the regiment detrained in record time. A long and tedious wait followed, while efforts were being made by the railway officials to secure a locomotive to bring the corps to the Welland station. Growing tired of the delay, Lt.-Col. Miller took his men to the Western Hill Station, whence the regiment marched to the city and went under canvas at the Armouries.

SOMETHING IS WRONG

A few days ago the Examiner called attention to the fact that there was a decrease in the number of marriages in Peterborough this spring, as compared with other years. This statement was made from unofficial information, but the vital statistics compiled at the City Clerk's office, for the first six months of the year, amply endorse the announcement.

Whether the young men are too shy, or the girls too wise, or vice versa, the figures show that there are 33 less marriages in the six months just elapsed, than during the same period last year. There is something wrong somewhere, and the figures go to indicate that Ald. Povey's bachelor tax, might have something in it after all.

For the same period there as a decrease in the number of deaths of nine, and there was one less birth.

The figures for the first half of 1906 and 1907, are as follows:

	June 30, 1907.	June 30, 1906.
Births...	163	164
Marriages	55	88.
Deaths...	119	128

BARBERS MAY HAVE A HALF HOLIDAY

Proposal Made to Close All City's Barber Shops on Thursday Afternoon

The barbers of the city may follow the lead of some of the large stores in the city, and establish the custom of a half holiday once a week, during the summer months. The proposal has been made, it is understood, to have the barber shops in the city, close at one o'clock on Thursday, as do a majority of the stores, and it is believed that the proposal will take definite shape in a short time.

In the greater number of shops in the city, each man is given a half day each week now, and it is pointed out that it would be more appreciated if the half day could be enjoyed by all the barbers on one day, and then there would be the additional advantage of having an evening off—a rare occurrence for a barber.

FARM PROPERTY BEING SOLD

Mr. Wm. Simpson Sells 100 Acre Farm in Smith for $8,000 to Peterborough Man

Farm property in the county of Peterborough is not decreasing in value. Yesterday a transfer of a 100-acre farm in Smith, belonging to Mr. William Simpson, was effected through the George Ruth agency, the price consideration being $8,000, and the purchaser Mr. W. Middleton of this city, who will remove to the farm in the fall. Mr. Simpson bought Mr. Middleton's house here in the deal, and will live retired.

Another sale, indicative of the way in which property is regarded, was that of Mr. Ed. Bell's farm, in North Monaghan, which was sold for about $8,000, a few days ago, the purchaser being Mr. D. Eastwood. This was also a 100-acre farm.

Many Seperate School Teachers Are In Training

Sixty Teachers Registered at School Established in Peterborough for Normal Courses.

CONTINUES DURING JULY

Approximately 600 Separate School teachers started work at the special summer training schools provided by the Government, which opened Wednesday. The reported attendance is as follows:

Toronto—Ladies, 125; gentlemen, 25.
Ottawa—French teachers, 150; English, 115.
Peterborough—60.
Hamilton—50.
Berlin—48.
London—55.

The Teaching Staffs

The full teaching staffs are as follows:

Toronto—At De La Salle Separate School, Mr. W. H. Elliott, B.A., principal, and Mr. Wm. Prendergast, assistant; at the University, Mr. W. Scott, B.A., principal, and Messrs. J. W. Plowes, Chatham, and W. Wilson, Toronto Junction, assistants.

Ottawa — At D'Youville Separate School, Mr. T. Roohon, principal, and Messrs. Finn and Sullivan, assistants; at the Normal School, Mr. J. H. Putman, principal, and Messrs. Keys, Cornwall and Jordan, Port Hope, assistants.

Peterborough — Mr. G. E. Brodrick, principal, and Mr. O'Brien, assistant.

Hamilton—Mr. S. B. Silcox, D.Paed., principal, and Mr. Robinson, assistant.

Berlin — Mr. J. F. Power, B.A., principal, and Mr. Suddaby, assistant.

London — Mr. F. W. Merchant, D. Paed., principal, and Mr. Dearness, assistant.

The syllabus of the course of studies includes: Educational principles and methodology, school management, school programme of studies, grammar, spelling, language, composition, literature, reading, geography, history, arithmetic, nature study and art and constructive work.

Continue Until August 3th

The summer schools were established by the Ontario Government to enable Roman Catholic Separate School teachers and the Christian Brothers to qualify in accordance with the School Act of Ontario, a step necessitated by the recent Privy Council decision.

The schools will continue their sessions until the third of August. In most places there are two daily sessions, from 8 to 11 or 9 to 12, and 2 to 4 o'clock. The work taken up is practically the same as the Model Schools of the Province, and is for professional training only. Those who have not taught for seven years will be required to pass the regular junior leaving examination, independent altogether of the tests applied by these special schools.

The establishment of these schools was the result of the Privy Council decision in the Christian Brothers case, in which the latter were declared to be ineligible for teaching in the Separate Schools of the Province under the existing regulations. The decision at once affected not only the Christian Brothers, but female members of the Roman Catholic communities, such as the Sisters of St Joseph and the Sisters of Loretto

A Generous Response

The response to the provision made by the Government has been generous all over the Province. In Toronto about 80 per cent. of the Separate School teachers are in attendance. The ladies, 26 in number, all of them Christian Brothers, are meeting at the De La Salle Separate School, while 125 female teachers are at Toronto University. The Christian Brothers are all from Toronto, while the female teachers came from this city and a radius of 40 miles to the north and east.

The lectures have been arranged to last from 8 in the morning to 1 o'clock, so as to avoid the heat of the day. The subjects taught are exactly those of the Model Schools, psychology, history of education, school management, methods in teaching, etc. Nearly all who require this training are in attendance to-day.

The school will be continued next year. The only ones who will be qualified, professionally, by one year's attendance are those who have taught for at least seven years. To these permanent certificates will be granted. The others must attend next year also.

TWO O'CLOCK BLAZE DESTROYED LOG HOUSE

Fire on Romaine Street This Morning—No Water to Be Obtained

From lack of water supply, the old log house on Romaine street, east of the C.P.R. tracks, was burned to the ground between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning. The building was utilized as a candy manufacturing establishment by Mr. Arthur Holly, and, although it is not exactly certain, it is believed that the origin of the blaze was from the fire in the stove, which had not been extinguished.

The fire alarm rang shortly after 2 o'clock, but apparently a big mistake was made in the box selected. Alarm box No. 15 was used, which is on the corner of George and Perry streets, when there were a couple nearer to the scene of the conflagration. No water could be obtained by the firemen, as the nearest hydrant was over two blocks distant, so that the building was completely destroyed. It was not a very valuable one.

DROPPED INTO VAT OF BOILING WATER

Painful Accident to Young Norwood Lad This Week

Harry, son of Mr. George Jones, of this place, met with a painful accident during the noon hour on Tuesday. He was walking across the vat where they boil the logs at Mr. H. G. Buck's cheese factory when the planking gave way and one of his legs went down into the boiling vat and was severely scalded.—Norwood Register.

TO OPERATE THE MINES AT BLAIRTON

Pittsburg Capitalist Secures Option on Iron Mines With View to Purchasing

A capitalist from Pittsburg, has taken an option on the Pearce iron mine and also on Mr. J. L. Aunger's farm at Blairton. He intends commencing boring operations in two or three weeks, with a view of ascertaining the extent of the iron deposits there.

New Furniture Industry Making Great Progress

HAS MANY ORDERS AHEAD

Without any blare of trumpets, and so quietly that many persons were not aware that the factory was in operation, the Peterborough Furniture Company has commenced operations and several shipments of furniture have already been made. To an Examiner representative last night Mr. T. W. Oke, the manager of the Company stated that since the factory had been put into operation the business had exceeded even the expectations of the members of the firm, and, as an evidence of the volume of business offering he stated that already orders had been received for 100 tables from Toronto alone, and altogether 150 tables were on order. In addition to the orders for tables there were on the books at the present time orders for 80 sideboards, 20 dressers and 20 bedroom suites. Eleven bedroom suites have already been made and forwarded to Norwood to fill an order.

With such prospects the new industry gives promise of becoming one of the most prosperous and progressive in the city. The goods manufactured are what is known to the trade as case goods, and include extension tables, sideboards and bedroom furniture. At present fourteen machines are installed and running, and a full staff of men will soon be at work. The selling agent for the company sells practically all the furniture to such firms as the T. Eaton Co., and Brown & Co., Toronto, and, indeed the factory here is now running on an order for the former firm.

Home woods will be used largely, and at the present time a big order for elm furniture is being filled.

The company, which was formerly known as Oke & Oke conducted business in Cobourg for a number of years, and after selling their plant there decided to locate in Peterborough, and, referring to this decision Mr. Oke stated that the determining factor in their decision to come to Peterborough was the fact that electric power was available here. In Cobourg they used a gasoline engine.

Three generations of the Oke family are engaged actively in the work in the factory. Mr. T. W. Oke is the manager, and his father as well as his son, are also working. The family has been practically brought up in the furniture business and the members of it, therefore, are thoroughly familiar with the details of the business. The manager stated to the Examiner that so far as a market for his goods was concerned, he had no fears. He could sell all that the factory could turn out.

COMPANY INSPECTION IS CONCLUDED

Last Four Companies of Regiment Passed Inspection Last Night

The inspection of the battalion by companies was concluded last night at Central Park, when Companies 5, 6, 7 and 8 were examined by Lt.-Col. Hemming, C.S.O. of Eastern Ontario. The inspecting officer has many complimentary remarks to say of the work of the officers and non-commissioned officers of the companies, and of the manner in which the various companies performed the military evolutions.

THE LAKEFIELD OFFICERS INSTALLED

Local Oddfellows Were the Installing Officers

An interesting ceremony took place at Lakefield last night, when the installation of the officers of Lakefield Lodge, No. 358 I.O.O.F., took place. The installing officers were Bros. When Your Health Fails, What Then

Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle. Success is for the strong and alert — for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy. It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion and to keep health at high water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Few Houses To Rent In The City At Present Time

Good Demand for Residences for Sale and to Rent—Popular Prices Range From $1,500 to $2,500.

THE BUILDING SITUATION

There is no apparent let-up to the activity in Peterborough real estate. To-day one of the largest real estate dealers in the city informed the Examiner that the demand for houses still continued satisfactory. There was not, however, a strong demand for high-priced residences, those selling from $1,500 to $2,500 being the favourites. A large number of houses of this description has been changing hands recently, and the present prospects were good for a continuation of the activity.

Those who have built houses to sell at about the figures mentioned have experienced little or no difficulty in disposing of them at satisfactory prices.

There is apparently not the same scarcity of houses to rent at the present time as there was last year, when it was almost impossible to secure a house to rent at any price.

The number of new houses that have been built during the year has relieved, to a considerable extent, the scarcity of renting houses in the city.

There is, however, no super-abundance of rentable houses, as those who are looking for them have discovered. Rents in some cases have been advanced, and when the tenant, becoming dissatisfied with the rent paid or the house, sets out to find another place, he usually comes to the conclusion that he had better swallow his pride and remain where he is.

Will Stores Close At Nine O'clock Saturday?

Merchants Reported to be at Head of a Movement to Secure Passage of a By-law to This Effect.

WILL BENEFIT THE CLERKS

A movement is on foot to close the stores of the city, especially the large clothing and dry goods establishments at nine o'clock on Saturday night, during the summer months. The Examiner is informed that some of the proprietors of the larger stores in the city have been discussing the matter among themselves, and the proposal is to allow the stores to remain open until 9 o'clock Wednesday night preceding the half holiday, and to close them precisely at the same hour on Saturday nights.

A bylaw to this effect may be introduced at the next meeting of the City Council, when the matter will be discussed.

In support of the proposal it is pointed out that the shoppers have gotten into a bad habit of expecting the stores to be open until midnight on Saturdays, and the result is that often during the early hours of Saturday evening the stores are practically deserted, while after ten o'clock the people flock in, just prior to going home. A moment's reflection will be sufficient to justify the statement that this practice is manifestly unfair to the clerks and to the shop-keepers.

A couple of weeks ago the Examiner was informed by a clerk on Sunday morning that after he had finished his work for the week and made some necessary preparations for the day of rest he did not get to bed until three o'clock Sunday morning. It can easily be seen, in view of these facts that one who works until that hour in the morning is not in a proper condition of health or mind to obtain the full benefits of the day of rest.

The movement to establish early closing on Saturdays seems to be emanating from the proprietors of the stores, and is an indication that they at least are not to blame for the present condition of affairs. The remedy is with the public, and, should a a bylaw be passed by the City Council making it obligatory on certain classes of stores to close at nine o'clock, the merchants will have some support in their efforts to provide for their employees an opportunity of enjoying their one day's rest in the week.

CHANGES MADE IN THE BOAT SERVICE

Owing to the Opening of the Kirkfield Lift Lock

Owing to the opening of the Kirkfield lift lock to-morrow there will be changes in the steam boat service in the waters adjacent to Peterborough. The steamer Stoney Lake left to-day for Lindsay from which place she will leave to-morrow morning for Kirkfield with the Government party on board. The steamer Water Lily of the Otonabee Navigation Company will go to Lakefield to-day and will take the Stoney Lake's place to-morrow at Stoney Lake.

The steamer Otonabee of the Otonabee Navigation Company's line, after returning to Peterborough this evening with the St. Paul's Sunday School excursion will leave for Rice Lake immediately and will take the Water Lily's regular trip to-morrow bringing up the Saturday passengers from Rice Lake. She will leave again at 2.30 o'clock, making the regular Saturday afternoon excursion an hour late in starting and will call at Harwood and Idyl Wyld as usual, returning to Peterborough at nine o'clock.

SARNIA'S STREETS SUPERIOR

Mayor Proctor, of That Town, Refers to the Difficulties Confronting Municipal Councils

ARMOURIES' CONTRACTOR

Sarnia, with a population of several thousand less than Peterborough, is away ahead of this city in many essential respects. Mr. Proctor, who has the contract for the erection of the new Armouries here, was in the city yesterday, and to an Examiner reporter said a few things about his home town, incidentally remarking in a modest way that he "happened to be the mayor of the town."

One point in which Sarnia has Peterborough beaten is in respect to its streets—and when it comes to streets, where is there a town that is not better situated than Peterborough? Sarnia has had paved streets so long that some of them are now worn out and are being replaced by new pavements. Asphalt blocks were used pretty largely in the street-paving in Sarnia, and Mr. Proctor states that, as a general rule, they proved satisfactory. Brick was used, too, in some cases.

A circumstance which contributes to the improvement of the appearance of the streets of that town is the fact that there are not nearly as many poles allowed on the streets. Already, the telephone poles have been removed, and the telegraph poles are to follow in a short time.

The problem of compelling contractors and others making excavations on the streets, to leave the roadbed in the same condition in which they find it, is one which gives the council of Sarnia some worry, as it does in Peterborough, and every other municipal council, for that matter. Mr. Proctor believed that the only way to secure the streets being left as they were found when excavations are being made for water services or sewers, was to station inspectors with flaming swords on the job.

Mr. Proctor will be in the city at intervals during the next two years, while the Armouries are in course of erection. He stated that the foundations would in all probability be completed about the end of this month, when the work of the building proper would be proceeded with at once. He was quite satisfied with the progress of the work.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of even getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

TWO MEMBERS OF MILLBROOK FAMILY HAPPILY MARRIED

LAMPREY-COLLINS

"Which shall it be? A pearl white rose
Pure as the heart of my lady fair,
For only the sweetest flower that blows
Shall bind the braids of her bonnie hair.

Which shall it be? A red, red rose,
Jewelled with kisses, aflame with love,
For my lady weds and a star that knows
Is singing our bridal hymn above."

On Wednesday last in St. Thomas church Mr. E W Lamprey and Miss Helen Collins were united in marriage by Rev. W C Allen, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Ben-Oliel, and thus two hearts were made one, two lives were made happy as they sail out on the sea of life.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and beneath an arch of flowers and evergreens the nuptial knot was tied. The brides maid was Miss Yule of Toronto, an old college friends of the bride, and the groomsman was Mr. Wood also of that ocity. The bride was dressed in white and looked charming indeed as she was escorted up the aisle by her father, bearing a bouquet of white roses, the bridesmaid also carrying a bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. W. C. Allen presided at the organ and played besides other lively strains the wedding march and the choir sang the hymns. After the ceremony Mrs. L H Winslow sang a solo in splendid voice to the pleasure of the large audience present.

The service being over the invited guests repaired to "Glen Avon" the spacious residence of Mr. T B Collins the bride's father, where a reception was held and the congratulations of all extended to the bridal couple. Exquisite refreshments were served and an enjoyable social hour spent. The health and prosperity of the bride and groom were proposed by Rev. W. C. Allen in a felicitious speech to which Mr. Lamprey made a happy reply on behalf of himself and Mrs. Lamprey.

The many rich and beautiful gifts bestowed upon the bride were displayed in the library and it is needless to say that they were of surpassing excellence and chaste designs, in silver, cut glass, hand painted china, cutlery and lace work, a gratifying exhibition of the bride's popularity in the esteem and affections of her many friends. The bridal couple drove to the G. P. R. station and are enjoying their honeymoon down the St. Lawrence.—Millbroo kReporter.

COLLINS-MUSSEN

Friends in this city of Mr. Walter Collins, a former member of the local staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce will be interested in the following report of his wedding, which took place in Collingwood, and is taken from the Collingwood Enterprise-Messenger.

For Saturday, 22nd, the Rev. Horace and Mrs. Mussen had extended a general welcome to all their parishoners and friends to attend the wedding of their youngest daughter, Mazo, to to Mr. Walter Collins of Latchford, and a very large gathering ensued.

The quaint little Gothic Church of All Saints' was specially decorated in lavish style with lilacs and snowballs, a large arch at the Chancel steps and a large bell of flowers being the predominating features of the design.

At two o'clock the groom appeared, escorted by Mr. Ridley Wylie, of Toronto, next Mrs. Mussen and Mrs. Medland were ushered up the aisle by Mr. Morris of the Bank of Toronto, Mr. Stephen Jones, of Toronto. The groom's parents were unable to be in attendance owing to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen of Millbrook. Shortly after two the bride and her three attendants arrived. All brides are said to look their best on the great day of their lives and this bride most certainly looked radiantly happy and lovely in her beautiful gown of white Liberty satin and rose point lace, a chaplet surmounting her trailing veil of lace. Miss Dorothy Perram, of New York; Miss Alice Medland and Miss Winnifred Evans, both of Toronto, were the trio who formed a most fitting escort in their dainty white organdie with pale blue hats and sashes. All ladies carried large bouquets of roses and ferns.

The father of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Durnford, of Duntroom, read the solemn service and, the ceremony concluded and the registers signed, the bridal march pealed forth, Mr. Geddes, of Grace Church, Toronto, played, and the whole assembly returned to the Rectory where a large marquee was erected on the lawn and welcome, cooling refreshments were served.

An inspection of the great array of presents revealed to one the high degree of excellence attained by the artificers of the present day in all manner of decorative work. A cabinet of solid silver, the gift of the bride's brothers, a solid silven tea set from the groom's parents, and many other articles of the same metal and numerous jewels set in gold were the product of the best firms in Toronto and New York as well as Collingwood. A handsome writing bureau from the bride's sister, several pictures and ornamental brasswork were included, one noticed, too, beautiful examples of Crown Derby, Wedgewood, Coalport and Limoges amongst the gifts of china and a superb cut glass claret jug and glasses, with dishes and ornaments of the same shone conspicuously. The societies connected with the church too sent their tokens of goodwill and esteem. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome diamond ring, and to the brides maids choice dull gold bracelets with initials and date inscribed, Amdng the many guests were noted Mrs. and and Miss Medland, of Toronto; Miss Jones of Oshawa, Mrs. Morris, of Toronto; Dr. and Mrs. Hilfary, of Aurora. Dr. Hilfary, a brother-in-law gave the bride away.

Scarcely had all viewed the presents and moved to the lawn, ere it was time to hurry to the station to send cheers and heartiest good wishes with the young couple on the train. History does not relate the itinerary of the honeymoon, but it appears likely to be an extended one and Mr. and Mrs. Collins will make their new home at Latchford.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gaviller entertained a numerous party and morrily terminated this, the first occasion of a wedding from the present All Saints' Rectory. The parents, Church and Society are losing a loving daughter, a faithful worker and a loyal and merry friend, but all will hide their regrets amid flowers of gladness at her good fortune in selecting such a husband as she has, and all unite in wishing the two a long, a happy, and a bright career.

YOU KICK MY DOG YOU KICK ME

Two Families Had a Squabble That Was Aired in Police Court—Bad Feeling Exists

ONE WOMAN WAS FINED

Mrs. John Corcoran and Mrs. Robert Lingard, are next door neighbours on Sophia street, East City, but for the past eight months there has been friction between them, which reached a climax on July 3rd, and resulted in a police court action this morning. As a consequence of the final bout, Mrs. Lingard was told by Magistrate Dumble that she was fined two dollars to be paid in 10 days, in default of payment distress, and in default of distress, ten days in gaol. Mr. Kerr, counsel for Mrs. Lingard remarked that she could pay the money to Chief Rossel, but she surprised the court by saying, "Not one copper; not a cent!" and His Worship replied, "Well, you have ten dasy to consider the matter, and, after that, one of the policemen will look after it."

Mrs. Corcoran, who was represented by Mr. G. R. Gordon, was the plaintiff in the case. She was sworn, and in a flood of language, recited her grievances in such a volume of words that she was urged to go slowly. According to her testimony she was preparing the noonday meal on the third of July, when she heard a dog bark at her doorstep. Knowing that her kittens were gamboling about the yard, when she heard a second bark she went to the door, and there was Mrs. Lingard's dog after the kittens. She picked up a stick and threw it after the nasty pup, but, unfortunately, missed him. However the game was on for Mrs. Lingard, and her daughter heard the commotion and ran into the yard.

Now, there is no fence between the two houses so that communication is free and easy. The yard is not very wide and there has always been a dispute as to what are the respective rights of the tenents over it. Mrs. Corcoran went after the stick and naturally there were words, and the witness said that she was told to get out of the yard. This she refused to do, daring Mrs. Lingard to put her out. The latter said that if Mrs. Corcoran hit her dog she would "knock her d—— brains out!" after the saying, "You kick my dog, you kick me."

Mrs. Corcoran further testified that Mrs. Lingard hit her with a stick of wood over the shoulder. Witness then returned to the house.

Mr. F. D. Kerr cross-questioned her, but she was very loth to answer him.

"I don't have to answer you," she said, "my lawyer will answer your questions."

Mrs. Lingard

Mrs. Lingard was the next witness, and she told how Mrs. Corcoran's cats were veritable pests, and how she had pumped the well dry last winter and had threatened witness' grand-children that she would slap their ears. Worse than that, she had so frightened witness' dog that it would no longer enter the back door. She said that Mrs. Corcoran had thrown "cobble-stones" and blocks of wood at it and that now it would not go through the yard. Mr. Kerr styled it the "cobble-stone cure."

There was a great deal more evidence taken, but it only went to show that there was no neighbourly spirit between the two households.

Magistrate Dumble said that they should have more of a sense of decency than to act as they had done, and he thought that Mrs. Lingard was more blameable, and fined two dollars.

DOCTORS IN TURN FAILED BUT ZAM-BUK CURED.

Magistrate F. Rasmussen, writing from his residence, 311 Marquette St., Montreal, says: "I take genuine pleasure in informing you of the great good I have derived from Zam-Buk. For many years I was troubled with a serious eruption of the skin, which was both unsightly and painful. Not one, but several doctors in turn were consulted, but I was unable to get any permanent relief. Some time back I noticed a report from a Justice of the Peace who had been cured of a chronic skin disease by Zam-Buk, and I determined to give this balm a trial. After a thoroughly fair test, I can say I am delighted with it. While everything else I tried—salves, embrocations, washes, soaps and doctor's prescriptions failed absolutely to relieve pain, three boxes of Zam-Buk have worked a complete cure. In my opinion this balm should be even more widely known than it is, and in the hope that my experience will lead other sufferers to try this herbal healer, I have no objection to you publishing my name truly.

We have been expecting this raise, and have been constantly advising our clients and investors that immediate action was necessary if they wished to secure these shares at the present prices. Investors who take our advice and BUY NOW will greatly profit thereby. In a few days you will be too late. This is your last opportunity to buy Blue Bell at 50c per share (par value $1, fully paid and non-assessable) and Lucky Boys at 6c per share (par value $1, fully paid and non-assessable.

At the close of business on Saturday next, July 6th, Lucky Boys and Blue Bell shares will jump to $2.00 per share, and not a share can be had after that date for less than this price. If you miss this opportunity you will miss the greatest chance in your life. Our advice to you is "THAT YOU MUST NOT DELAY." If you wish to secure some of these shares you must positively send in your order with remittance to cover on or before Saturday next, July 6th.

We have only a limited amount of shares of both Blue Bell and Lucky Boys for disposal, and applications will be filed in the order that they are received. All over-subscriptions will be returned to the senders. Wire or telephone orders at our expense.

TO-MORROW'S GREAT BALL GAME

Port Hope Will be Here With Their Strongest Team

The ball team had a great practice at Riverside Park last night, and will be in the best of shape for the Midland League battle with Port Hope here to-morrow. Over an hour was spent in batting practice and base-running, the two departments in which most practice is needed.

The game to-morrow, judging by the contest in Port Hope, should be one of the best ever seen in this city. Both teams are playing the fastest kind of a fielding game, and with two top-notch pitchers on the slab the struggle should be a bitter one. The Port Hope team is confident of repeating their exploit of Monday, but the locals can't see it that way.

There should be one of the biggest crowds in the record of the game in Peterborough out to see the contest, which will start at 3 o'clock sharp.

LADY GOLFERS AT PORT HOPE

An Interesting and Delightful Trip Enjoyed to That Town Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon a number of lady members of the Peterborough Golf Club went to Port Hope, where they were the guests of the ladies of the Port Hope club. Luncheon was served at noon, and in the afternoon the match was played, resulting in a win for the Port Hope ladies by 11 up.

Those going from the Peterborough club were Mrs. R. R. Hall, Miss Clementi, Miss Pearl Lundy, Miss Bertha Moore, Miss Gwen Hall, Mrs W. H. Hill, Mrs. Coulthard, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Aylmer, Miss Helen Davidson, Miss G. Hall and Miss Dumble.

FLAHERTY WILL PITCH FOR LOCALS

Lineup for the Big Game With Port Hope To-morrow

"Yebbie" Flaherty will pitch for Peterborough against Port Hope to-morrow and will have as his opponent Henry Suphlis the crack twirler who shut Peterborough out on Monday. Harry Cheatham will be moved from second to short and Quinlan will hold down the middle switch with Graham at first and Haliburton third. This is about as strong an infield as ever represented Peterborough and shoud play great ball to-morrow. The line-up will be as follows when the game is called at 3 o'clock:—

Port Hope—O'Brien 3b, Thompson lf, Henderson cf, O'Neil c, Kolb 2b, Walters rf, Suphlis p, Brown ss, Boney 1b.

AN AFFRAY IN A COUNTY GAOL

Desperate Prisoners Attempt Escape From Chatham Jail.

TURNKEY WAS BADLY HURT

Came Near Losing His Life — Men Were Americans Charged With Forgery — Were Awaiting Trial—Struck Jailer on Head With a Heavy Lock Rendering Him Unconscious—A Brave Act.

Chatham, July 5.—Arthur Smith of Knox, Penn., and Edwin Baldwin of Wainsfield, Ohio, yesterday made a sensational and desperate attempt to break jail, in which the turnkey, Christopher Somerville, nearly lost his life at the hands of the men.

Both men were arrested on Tuesday in Tilbury, a few miles west of here for forgery, and the altering of two forged cheques for small amounts on the Sovereign Bank of Tilbury. They were arraigned before Judge Bell here on Wednesday, when they pleaded guilty and were remanded one week for sentence.

Early yesterday morning, while the turnkey was making his rounds, he entered their cell. He laid the heavy lock on the floor, while he undid another fastening. One of the miscreants struck the turnkey a terrible blow on the head, knocking him bleeding and senseless to the floor.

Governor Davidson, hearing the disturbance, rushed in, and, unarmed, wrested the key of the lock from one of the men, at the same time calling for assistance. When it arrived the men were easily transferred to safer quarters. The turnkey will recover. The two desperadoes will no doubt spend a good portion of their lives in the penitentiary for their dastardly attempt.

Playing With Matches Caused Fire.

St. Catharines, July 5.—Children playing with matches in Roland Robertson's barn, on Welland avenue, set the place on fire yesterday.

Discusses All-Red.

London, July 5.—(C. A. P.)—The News publishes an interview with a leading shipowner of whom it asked if the white labor clause difficulty might not lead to the adoption of the all-red route for carrying Australian mail.

The shipowner answered in the negative. A steamship, he says, cannot live by mails alone, except at almost a prohibitive cost to the authorities, and he emphasized the trans-shipping difficulty in connection with goods and passenger traffic on account of the coaling question on the Pacific route.

JAPANESE CUSTOM DESCRIBED

Interesting Addresses Given at Summer School at Chemong Park Last Night

MANY VISITORS PRESENT

Special Correspondence

Chemong Park, July 5th. — Friday morning has come, and even brighter and clearer than before. Truly we have been favoured with good weather for our Summer School.

Yesterday brought in its quota to swell the numbers and even the early bus this morning brought in some more students to swell the classes.

At the meeting last night two or three loads were present from Peterborough, while many more had driven in from the country until the audience was beyond the bounds of the pavilion and dotted the groove within hearing distance of the speakers.

The addresses last night were by Rev. Dr. Crummy of Toronto, and Dr. Bishop of Lindsay. The former gave in a humourous and interesting way an account of the characteristics of the Japanese as he saw them during his eight or nine years in their country. The address of Dr. Bishop was an intensely earnest message on the office, power and necessity of the Holy Spirit in all our individual life and church work.

Solos were furnished very acceptably by Miss Etta H. Patterson and Miss Elliott, late of Toronto.

Yesterday afternoon a session of the school was held and was one of the best of the course. The addresses were by Dr. Adams of West China, and Rev. R. Emberson of Japan. Both were listened to with much pleasure.

This morning in addition to speakers previously announced, Prof. E. R. Doxee, B.A., D.D., of Albert College, will speak on "Methods of Mission Study Classes."

LOCAL STUDENTS WERE SUCCESSFUL

Among the other successful contestants who deserve congratulations are Mr. T. J. Wallace of the Central School, Mr. J. A. O'Donohue, teacher in Ennismore, and Miss D. Morley, who was recently appointed on the local staff of Public School teachers, all of whom have been awarded first-class and interim High School certificates.

PROGRAMME WAS GREATLY ENJOYED

Salvation Army Band Gave a Concert in Victoria Park

The Salvation Army Band rendered the first of a series of concerts in Victoria Park last night, and a large audience gathered to hear the delightful programme prepared for the occasion. Under the leadership of Bandmaster Greene the band rendered some very enjoyable selections, and their programme was much appreciated. The band is an organization of which any city might well feel proud, and is deserving of support on the part of the citizens generally.

LIEUT-COL. GREENWOOD IN CITY

Former Peterborough Gentleman, Head of Transvaal Railways, in Peterborough, Renewing Acquaintances

ON 6 MONTHS' FURLOUGH

As mentioned in the personal columns of this issue, Lt.-Col. Greenwood, Chief Engineer of the Central South African System of Railways, of the Transvaal, is in the city. Col. Greenwood, who was at one time in command of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons, went for service in the South African war, with the First Contingent of Mounted Rifles, one wing of which he commanded. At its conclusion he received the appointment from the Imperial Government, of superintending engineer of the railways in the Transvaal. He was retained in the same capacity by the provisional government, and the new government of the Transvaal continued—and still retains—his services, a circumstance which is strong testimony to Col. Greenwood's professional capacity, reliability and fidelity to his duties.

Col. Greenwood has charge of 1200 miles of provincial railway, as well as of extension construction but, owing to the recent depression, the latter is a negligible quantity. He is also in command of a South African regiment devoted to the service of the railways. This regiment is some 900 strong, and is somewhat of an army in miniature, in which nearly all the arms of the service are represented — including an armoured train provided with guns of formidable execution and range.

The labour question, which is in a state of flux, produces an uncertainty which is largely fatal to business enterprise. The deportation of the Chinese coolie element has its effect, since in the gold mines there were employed 50,000 Chinese, besides about 80,000 Kaffirs. The latter, however, cannot be depended upon—they will work six months, and pass the other half of the year in spending what they have earned, and in watching their wives work.

Col. Greenwood's headquarters and residence are Johannesburg, where the social conditions are rather good. Many of the Transvaal Dutch are persons of culture and education, Smuts, the Provincial Treasurer, being a graduate of Cambridge, where he distinguished himself during his college course.

Colonel Greenwood left South Africa on May 6th, and has been about three weeks in Canada. He was in time to join in the re-union of ex-cadets of the Kingston Military College. He will return to South Africa on the expirary of his six-months' furlough.

ROY'S

The Customs Of Our Artic Neighbours, The Eskimos

A REASON FOR THIS

The Indians Delight in Massacring the Defenceless and Inoffensive Eskimos—What Will be Future?

When a certain English naval captain was commissioned by the Admiralty to report on the manners and customs of some of the tribes of the southern seas, he handed in on his return the now almost classical comment, "They have no manners and their customs are beastly." Nine people out of ten probably take this comment to apply most accurately to that most mysterious conglomeration of tribes that we groupe together under the name "Esquimaux", or as the best Canadian authorities write, "Eskimos" which being interpreted, meaneth, "They who eat raw flesh."

That the Eskimo is dirty even his best friends are constrained to confess. It is amusing to notice how these writers who champion him most, invariably commence their description of him by referring to his dirty customs, and then attempt to bring their subject back to favour by assuurances regarding his kindnesses, his simpleness, his peaceableness, his honesty, (among themselves at any rate), his love of children, and his extraordinary good manners. But, almost always, little sentences intrude that keep reminding one of the fatal drawback, dirt. And there is no doubt that the Eskimo is very dirty indeed, but the natural question arises, would any race be clean under the same circumstances? The perpetual cold, the difficulty of transportation, the frequent necessity of eating, not only raw flesh, but anything there happens to be that is not ice or rock, and the forced herding together,—all these combine to form a dirty people.

It was by no choice that the Eskimo chose the most northern shores of North America, and Eastern Asia for their permanent abode. From the earliest records of the Canadian archives and of the Hudson Bay Company, as well as from nearly every traveller who has written of northern latitudes and those great provinces of Mackenzie, Keewatin, and Yukon, we learn of the feud between the Indians and the Eskimos, a feud begun none know when, certainly over a thousand years ago, which, through varying phases, eventually resulted in driving the Eskimos who were then probably northwestern fishing Indians, (perhaps originally from Eastern Asia) to the northernmost coasts stretching from Alaska to Labrador.

For many years the Eskimos must have almost held their own in this stringent struggle for existence, and their reluctant northward retreat was slow. The ferociousness with which they fought was a by-word even amongst their ferocious antagonists. But the northward flight seemed to have had an enervating effect upon their physique: probably lack of green stuff, the frequent scarcity of food of any sort, and the awful cold, made their inevitable mark, and as the years went on the fights became flights, and the ferocity, fear. Nor is this surprising when it is remembered that capture meant certain death by hideous ingenuity, butchered to make an Indian holiday became with those driven tribes a matter of common occurrence.

The Indians began to look on killing an Eskimo in somewhat the same light as a sportsman regards killing a deer, difficult to get at, but good sport and the worst of Hearne's labour trouble was over. The Indians stipulated that there should be no interference with their sport, and Hearne's hatred of murder pulling him one way, his love of discovery the other, he decided to accept these unpalatable terms.

The expedition, in due course, arrived within the region where there was a fair likelihood of "sport," and the sequel is graphically described. "At this time (it being about noon) the three men who had been sent as spies, met us on their return, and informed my companions that five tents of Eskimos were on the west side of the river. The situation, they said, was most convenient for surprising them. When the Indians received this intelligence no further attendance of attention was paid to my survey, but their whole thoughts were immediately engaged in planning the best method of attack, and how they might steal on the poor Eskimos the ensuing night to kill them all while asleep. To accomplish this bloody design more effectually, the Indians thought it necessary to cross the river as soon as possible, and, by the account of the spies, it appeared that no spot was more convenient for the purpose than that where we had met them. Accordingly we crossed the river."

Here he now describes, in his simple, quaint language, the superstitious rites first of those habits to be discarded would, certainly, be washing. To the Eskimos of the present day the fact that any human being should take a pleasure in washing is inexplicable, though, strangely enough, many of them wash their babies, a proceeding that is not quite so pleasing as it sounds, when we learn that the mothers perform the ceremony with their tongue, licking the child just as a cat licks its kitten. From not keeping oneself clean to not keeping one's food clean is but a step, and but another step from not keeping it clean is preferring it dirty. It is, unfortunately true, that these people prefer to eat fish alive rather than cooked, and that unless sorely pressed by hunger, they will wait until their game has become rotten—even maggoty—so that they may relish it the more. When first offered European food, travellers tell us, they evinced a decided liking to it; each to his taste, of course, but the Eskimos' idea is rather too tasty.

Compared to some aborigmals, however, the Eskimo is by no means the lowest in the scale of civilization. He, perforce, wears clothes; he had a religion, weird it is true, but still a religion, before the arrival of the white

The above prescription has been found invaluable in the treatment of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, and diseases arising therefrom, such as rheumatism, sciatica, lame back and lumbago, and we feel that the public are entitled to particulars concerning it.

A prominent physician states that the excellent results that have been obtained from the use of the mixture are due to its direct action upon the kidneys, assisting them in their work of filtering all poisonous waste matter and acids from the blood and expelling same in the urine, and at the same time restoring the kidneys to a healthy condition.

He further states that anyone suffering from afflictions of this nature will find it to be very beneficial, and suggests that it be given a trial.

near the gate of the avenue. The wagonette was paid off and ordered to return to Coombe Tracey forthwith, while we started to walk to Merripit House.

'Are you armed, Lestrade?"

The little detective smiled.

"As long as I have my trousers I have a hip-pocket, and as long as I have my hip-pocket I have something in it."

"Good! My friend and I are also ready for emergencies."

"You're mighty close about this affair, Mr. Holmes. What's the game now?"

"A waiting game."

"My word, it does not seem a very cheerful place," said the detective, with a shiver, glancing round him at

The steps grew louder and through the fog there stepped the man we were awaiting.

the gloomy slopes of the hill and at the huge lake of fog which lay over the Grimpen Mire. "I see the lights of a house ahead of us."

"That is Merripit House and the end of our journey. I must request you to walk on tiptoe and not to talk above a whisper."

We moved cautiously along the track as if we were bound for the house, but Holmes halted us when we were about two hundred yards from it.

"This will do," said he. "These rocks upon the right make an admirable screen."

"We are to wait here?"

"Yes, we shall make our little ambush here. Get into this hollow, Lestrade. You have been inside the house, have you not, Watson? Can you tell the position of the rooms? What are those latticed windows at this end?"

"I think they are the kitchen windows."

"And the one beyond, which shines so brightly?"

"That is certainly the dining-room."

"The blinds are up. You know the lie of the land best. Creep forward quietly and see what they are doing—but for heaven's sake don't let them know that they are watched!"

I tiptoed down the path and stooped behind the low wall which surrounded the stunted orchard. Creeping in its shadow I reached a point whence I could look straight through the uncurtained window.

There were only two men in the room, Sir Henry and Stapleton. They sat with their profiles towards me on either side of the round table. Both of them were smoking cigars, and coffee and wine were in front of them. Stapleton was talking with animation, but the baronet looked pale and distrait. Perhaps the thought of that lonely walk across the ill-omened moor was weighing heavily upon his mind.

As I watched them Stapleton rose and left the room, while Sir Henry filled his glass again and leaned back in his chair, puffing at his cigar. I heard the creak of a door and crisp sound of boots upon gravel. The steps passed along the path on the other side of the wall under which I crouched. Looking over, I saw the naturalist pause at the door of an out-house in the corner of the orchard. A key turned in a lock, and as he passed in there was a curious scuffling noise from within. He was only a minute or so inside, and then I heard the key turn once more and he passed me and re-entered the house. I saw him rejoin his guest, and I crept quietly back to where my companions were waiting to tell them what I had seen.

"You say Watson, that the lady is not there?" Holmes asked, when I had finished my report.

"No."

"Where can she be, then, since there is no light in any other room except the kitchen?"

"I cannot think where she is."

I have said that over the great Grimpen Mire there hung a dense, white fog. It was drifting slowly in our direction and banked itself up like a wall on that side of us, low, but thick and well defined. The moon shone on it, and it looked like a great shimmering icefield, with the heads of the distant tors as rocks borne upon its surface. Holmes's face was turned towards it, and he muttered impatiently as he watched its sluggish drift.

"It's moving towards us, Watson."

"Is that serious?"

"Very serious, indeed—the one thing upon earth which could have disarranged my plans. He can't be very long, now. It is already ten o'clock. Our success and even his life may depend upon his coming out before the fog is over the path."

The night was clear and fine above us. The stars shone cold and bright, while a half-moon bathed the whole scene in a soft, uncertain light. Before us lay the dark bulk of the house, its serrated roof and bristling chimneys hard outlined against the silver-spangled sky. Broad bars of golden light from the lower windows stretched across the orchard and the moor. One of them was suddenly shut off. The servants had left the kitchen. There only remained the lamp in the dining-room where the two men, the murderous host and the unconscious guest, still chatted over their cigars.

Every minute that white woolly plain which covered one half of the moor was drifting closer and closer to the house. Already the first thin wisps of it were curling across the golden square of the lighted window. The farther wall of the orchard was already invisible, and the trees were standing out of a swirl of white vapour. As we watched it the fog-wreaths came crawling round both corners of the house and rolled slowly into one dense bank, on which the upper floor and the roof floated like a strange ship upon a shadowy sea. Holmes struck his hand passionately upon the rock in front of us, and stamped his feet in his impatience.

"If he isn't out in a quarter of an hour the path will be covered. In half an hour we won't be able to see our hands in front of us."

"Shall we move farther back upon higher ground?"

"Yes, I think it would be as well."

So as the fog-bank flowed onwards we fell back before it until we were half a mile from the house, and still that dense, white sea, with the moon silvering its upper edge, swept slowly and inexorably on.

"We are going too far," said Holmes. "We dare not take the chances of his being overtaken before he can reach us. At all costs we must hold our ground where we are." He dropped on his knees and clapped his ear to the ground. "Thank God, I think that I hear him coming."

A sound of quick steps broke the silence of the moor. Crouching among the stones we stared intently at the silver-tipped bank in front of us. The steps grew louder, and through the fog, as through a curtain, there stepped the man whom we were awaiting. He looked round him in surprise as he emerged into the clear, star-lit night. Then he came swiftly along the path, passed close to where we lay, and went on up the long slope behind us. As he walked he glanced continually over either shoulder, like a man who is ill at ease.

"Hist!" cried Holmes, and I heard the sharp click of a cocking pistol. "Look out! It's coming!"

There was a thin, crisp, continuous patter from somewhere in the heart of that crawling bank. The cloud was within fifty yards of where we lay, and we glared at it, all three, uncertain what horror was about to break from the heart of it. I was at Holmes's elbow, and I glanced for an instant at his face. It was pale and exultant, his eyes shining brightly in the moonlight. But suddenly they started forward in a rigid, fixed stare, and his lips parted in amazement. At the same instant Lestrade gave a yell of terror and threw himself face downwards upon the ground. I sprang to my feet, my inert hand grasping my pistol, my mind paralyzed by the dreadful shape which had sprung out upon us from the shadows of the fog. A hound it was, an enormous coal-black hound, but not such a hound as mortal eyes have ever seen. Fire burst from its open mouth, its eyes glowed with a smouldering glare, its muzzle and hackles and dewlap were outlined in flickering flame. Never in the delirious dream of a disordered brain could anything more savage, more appalling, more hellish be conceived than that dark form, and savage face which broke upon us out of the wall of fog.

With long bounds the huge black creature was leaping down the track, following hard upon the footsteps of our friend. So paralyzed were we by the apparition that we allowed him to pass before we had recovered our nerve. Then Holmes and I both fired together, and the creature gave a hideous howl, which showed that one at least had hit him. He did not pause, however, but bounded onwards. Far away on the path we saw Sir Henry looking back, his face white in the moonlight, his hands raised in horror, glaring helplessly at the frightful thing which was hunting him down.

But that cry of pain from the hound had blown all our fears to the winds. If he was vulnerable he was mortal, and if we could wound him we could kill him. Never have I seen a man run as Holmes ran that night. I am reckoned fleet of foot, but he outpaced me as much as I outpaced the little professional. In front of us as we flew up the track we heard scream after scream from Sir Henry and the deep roar of the hound. I was in time to see the beast spring upon its victim, hurl him to the ground, and worry at his throat. But the next instant Holmes had emptied five barrels of his revolver into the creature's flank. With a last howl of agony and a vicious snap in the air, it rolled upon its back, four feet pawing furiously, and then fell limp upon its side. I stooped, panting, and pressed my pistol to the dreadful, shimmering head, but it was useless to press the trigger. The giant hound was dead.

Sir Henry lay insensible where he had fallen. We tore away his collar, and Holmes breathed a prayer of gratitude when we saw that there was no sign of a wound and that the rescue had been in time. Already our friend's eyelids shivered and he made a feeble effort to move. Lestrade thrust his brandy-flask between the baronet's teeth, and two frightened eyes were looking up at us.

"My God!" he whispered. "What was it? What, in Heaven's name, was it?"

"It's dead, whatever it is," said Holmes. "We've laid the family ghost once and for ever."

In mere size and strength it was a terrible creature which was lying stretched before us. It was not a bloodhound and it was not a pure mastiff; but it appeared to be a combination of the two—gaunt, savage, and as large as a small lioness. Even now, in the stillness of death, the huge jaws seemed to be dripping with a bluish flame and the small deep-set, cruel eyes were ringed with fire. I placed my hand upon the glowing muzzle, and as I held them up my own fingers smouldered and gleamed in the darkness.

"Phosphorus," I said.

"A cunning preparation of it," said Holmes, sniffing at the dead animal. "There is no smell which might have interfered with his power of scent. We owe you a deep apology, Sir Henry, for having exposed you to this fright. I was prepared for a hound, but not such a creature as this. And the fog gave us little time to receive him."

"You have saved my life."

"Having first endangered it. Are you strong enough to stand?"

"Give me another mouthful of that brandy and I shall be ready for anything. So! Now, if you will help me up. What do you propose to do?"

"To leave you here. You are not fit for further adventures to-night. If you will wait, one or other of us will go back with you to the Hall."

He tried to stagger to his feet; but he was still ghastly pale and trembling in every limb. We helped him to a rock, where he sat shivering with his face buried in his hands.

"We must leave you now," said Holmes. "The rest of our work must be done, and every moment is of importance. We have our case, and now we only want our man.

"It's a thousand to one against our finding him at the house," he continued, as we retraced our steps swiftly down the path. "Those shots must have told him that the game was up."

"We were some distance off, and this fog may have deadened them."

"He followed the hound to call him off—of that you may be certain. No, no, he's gone by this time! But we'll search the house and make sure."

The front door was open, so we rushed in and hurried from room to room, to the amazement of a doddering old manservant, who met us in the passage. There was no light save in the dining-room, but Holmes caught up the lamp and left no corner of the house unexplored. No sign could we see of the man whom we were chasing. On the upper floor, however, one of bedroom doors was locked.

"There's someone in here," cried Lestrade. "I can hear a movement. Open this door!"

A faint moaning and rustling came from within. Holmes struck the door just over the lock with the flat of his foot and it flew open. Pistol in hand, we all three rushed into the room.

But there was no sign within it of that desperate and defiant villain whom we expected to see. Instead we were faced by an object so strange and so unexpected that we stood for a moment staring at it in amazement.

The room had been fashioned into a small museum, and the walls were lined by a number of glass-topped cases full of that collection of butterflies and moths the formation of which had been the relaxation of this complex and dangerous man. In the centre of this room there was an upright beam, which had been placed at some period as a support for the old worm-eaten balk of timber which spanned the roof. To this post a figure was tied, so swathed and muffled in the sheets which had been used to secure it that one could not for the moment tell whether it was that of a man or a woman. One towel passed round the throat and was secured at the back of the pillar. Another covered the lower part of the face, and over it two dark eyes—eyes full of grief and shame and a dreadful questioning—stared back at us. In a minute we had torn off the gag, unswathed the bonds, and Mrs. Stapleton sank upon the floor in front of us. As her beautiful head fell upon her chest I saw the clear red weal of a whiplash across her neck.

"The brute!" cried Holmes. "Here, Lestrade, your brandy-bottle! Put her in the chair! She had fainted from ill-usage and exhaustion."

She opened her eyes again.

"Is he safe?" she asked. "Has he escaped?"

"He cannot escape us, madam."

"No, no, I did not mean my husband. Sir Henry? Is he safe?"

"Yes."

"And the hound?"

"It is dead."

She gave a long sigh of satisfaction.

"Thank God! Thank God! Oh, this villain! See how he has treated me!" She shot her arms out from her sleeves, and we saw with horror that they were all mottled with bruises. "But this is nothing—nothing! It is my mind and soul that he has tortured and defiled. I could endure it all, all ill-usage, solitude, a life of deception, everything, as long as I could still cling to the hope that I had his love, but now I know that in this also I have been his dupe and his tool." She broke into passionate sobbing as she spoke.

"You bear him no good will, madam," said Holmes. "Tell us then where we shall find him. If you have ever aided him in evil, help us now and so atone."

"There is but one place where he can have fled," she answered. "There is an old tin mine on an island in the heart of the Mire. It was there that he kept his hound and there also he had made preparations so that he might have a refuge. That is where he would fly."

The fog-bank lay like white wool against the window. Holmes held the lamp towards it.

"See," said he. "No one could find his way into the Grimpen Mire to-night."

She laughed and clapped her hands. Her eyes and teeth gleamed with fierce merriment.

"He may find his way in, but never out," she cried. "How can he see the guiding wands to-night? We planted them together, he and I, to mark the pathway through the mire. Oh, if I could only have plucked them out to-day. Then indeed you would have had him at your mercy!"

It was evident to us that all pursuit was in vain until the fog had lifted. Meanwhile we left Lestrade in possession of the house while Holmes and I went back with the baronet to Baskerville Hall. The story of the Stapletons could no longer be withheld from him, but he took the blow bravely when he learned the truth about the woman whom he had loved. But the shock of the night's adventures had shattered his nerves, and before morning he lay delirious in a high fever, under the care of Dr. Mortimer. The two of them were destined to travel together round the world before Sir Henry had become once more the hale, hearty man that he had been before he become master of that ill-omened estate.

And now I come rapidly to the conclusion of this singular narrative, in which I have tried to make the reader share those dark fears and vague surmises which clouded our lives so long, and ended in so tragic a manner. On the morning after the death of the hound the fog had lifted and we were guided by Mrs. Stapleton to the point where they had found a pathway through the bog. It helped us to realize the horror of this woman's life when we saw the eagerness and joy with which she laid us on her husband's track. We left her standing upon the thin peninsula of firm, peaty soil which tapered out into the widespread bog. From the end of it a small wand planted here and there showed where the path zig-zagged from tuft to tuft of rushes among those green-scummed pits and foul quagmires which barred the way to the stranger. Rank reeds and lush, slimy water-plants sent an odor of decay and a heavy miasmatic vapor into our faces, while a false step plunged us more than once thigh-deep into the dark, quivering mire, which shook for yards in soft undulations around our feet. Its tenacious grip plucked at our heels as we walked, and when we sank into it it was as if some malignant hand was tugging us down into those obscene depths, so grim and purposeful was the clutch in which it held us. Once only we saw a trace that someone had passed that perilous way before us. From amid a tuft of cotton-grass which bore it up out of the slime some dark thing was projecting. Holmes sank to his waist as he stepped from the path to seize it, and had we not been there to drag him out he could never have set his foot upon firm land again. To held an old black boot in the air. "Meyers, Toronto," was printed on the leather inside.

"It is worth a mud bath," said he. "It is our friend Sir Henry's missing boot."

"Thrown there by Stapleton in his flight."

"Exactly. He retained it in his hand after using it to set the hound upon the track. He fled when he knew the game was up, still clutching it. And he hurled it away at this point of his flight. We know at least that he came so far in safety."

But more than that we were never destined to know, though there was much which we might surmise. There was no chance of finding footsteps in the mire, for the rising mud oozed swiftly in upon them, but as we at last reached firmer ground beyond the morass we all looked eagerly for them. But no slightest sign of them ever met our eyes. If the earth told a true story, then Stapleton never reached that island of refuge towards which he struggled through the fog upon that last night. Somewhere in the heart of the great Grimpen Mire, down in the foul slime of the huge morass which had sucked him in, this cold and cruel-hearted man is for ever buried.

Many traces we found of him in the bog-girt island where he had hid his savage ally. A huge driving-wheel and a shaft half-filled with rubbish showed the position of an abandoned mine. Beside it were the crumbling remains of the cottages of the miners, driven away no doubt by the foul reek of the surrounding swamp. In one of these a staple and chain with a quantity of

NERVOUS INDIGESTION

A Severe Case Cured by Dr. Williams Pink Pills

"I suffered so much from nervous dyspepsia that I feared I would become insane," said Mrs. Alfred Austin, of Varney, Ont. "For months," says Mrs. Austin, "I was prostrated with this trouble. I got so bad I could not eat a mouthful of food without it nearly choking me. I was affected with such terrible feelings of dizziness and nausea that I had to leave the table sometimes with just two or three mouthfuls of food for a meal. My nerves were all unstrung and I grew so weak that I could not even sweep the floor. In fact, my nerves affected me to such an extent that I feared to be left alone. I could not sleep at nights, and used to lie awake until I feared my reason would leave me. I was taking medicine constantly, but it did not do me a bit of good. I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on a former occasion with good results, and at last I determined to try them again. I can say no better than that these pills have been a blessing to me, as they have made me a well woman. Every trace of the indigestion is gone, and my nerves are as strong and sound as they were in girlhood. Now I can eat anything that is on the table, and I get sound refreshing sleep at nights. All this I owe to the faithful use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I shall never cease to praise."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills fill the veins with new rich red blood. That is why they strengthen the nerves and every organ in the body. That is why they cure all troubles due to bad blood or weak shattered nerves, such as anaemia, with its grinding, wearing backaches, headaches and sideaches, rheumatism and neuralgia, heart palpitation, indigestion, St. Vitus' dance, partial paralysis, kidney troubles, and those special ailments that render the lives of so many women and growing girls a burden. But you must get the genuine pills with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COWS NEED PLENTY OF VENTILATION

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir, — The last issue of the Canadian Dairyman contains the new rules laid down by the milk producers of Montreal. One rule states that each cow must be tested for tuberculosis, consumption, and, if found diseased, must be removed from the herd. This causes us to ask, "Is tuberculosis transmissable from cow to man?" In answering this question, "doctors differ."

It is known that if the human tuberculous organism and the bovine tuberculous organism are grown on artificially prepared food they appear to be the same. Their appearance through the microscope is the same but no experiments have been tried to prove whether or not the bovine organism will cause tuberculosis in the human system. It has been proven that the human organism will, if injected into the blood, cause tuberculosis in a yong calf. It is believed by some authorities that because the tuberculos organism has grown so long under the bovine or the human conditions, that it can not be transferred from one to the other.

Which cows have tuberculosis? To discover this one has to use tuberculin ,which can be got from the Bacteriological Department of the O. A. C., Guelph. The temperature of the animal is taken two or three times during the 24 hours before the injection of the tuberculin. If the temperature rises more than 1 or 1 1-2 degrees during the 24 hours after the injection of the tuberculin one can be reasonably sure that tuberculosis is present. If it is found, the cow should be removed from the herd and her milk kept separate. But is the tuberculous organism in the milk? So far as I can learn it has not been found except where the animal was suffering from tuberculosis of the udder.

At the present time when the herd of cows is likely to be increased, the farmer needs excellent ventilation to provide fresh air enough to keep his cows in good health. Fresh air and sunshine will check any germ disease and should be supplied abundantly. Good ventilation should be on the improvement list of every keeper of dairy cows.

Yours truly,
T. H. BINNIE.

New Church A Credit To Chemong Indians

Interesting Opening Ceremonies in Connection With New Place of Worship Held on Sunday and Monday.

MR. R. R. HALL SPOKE

The rapid progress being made by the Indians of the Chemong Reserve is given evidence to by the many material improvements made in the character of the public buildings being erected there.

On Sunday and Monday last the ceremonies in connection with the opening of a handsome new church erected on the Reserve, were held, and the occasion was one of more than ordinary importance and interest. It was considered of sufficient importance, in fact, to attract a large representation from members of the bands at Rama, Scugog, Hiawatha and other places.

The new church was formally opened on Sunday, when Rev. Mr. Dell, of Blackstock, a former pastor, preached appropriate sermons to very large congregations. The ceremonies were continued on Monday, when in the evening a concert was given and a tea held. During the afternoon a good programme of sports was given, and after tea an adjournment was made to the new hall, where the concert was held. The hall, which seats nearly four hundred persons was filled to overflowing, and, in addition there were hundreds of others who were unable to gain admission.

Mr. E A Kennedy, a former Indian Agent, occupied the chair, and in a short address referred to the great progress which the Indians were making, complimenting them upon the evidences of their progressiveness.

The musical features of the programme were provided by the Indian choir and by the Brass Band from Rama Reserve. Mr. Ed. Quinn, of Lakefield, who had the contract for the erection of the building, sang a solo, which, with the other numbers on the programme, was much appreciated. Miss Whetung played the accompaniments for the musical numbers.

An interesting address was that given by Mr. R R Hall, M.P., who congratulated the Indians upon the great advances they had made in recent years, and pointed out that the visit of the members of the other bands to Chemong, and their witnessing what the latter had done would prove an incentive to the visitors to copy the example set by them. He expressed the hope that the Chemong Indians would not be content to remain where they were, and advised them to erect a cheese factory next and reap some of the benefits to be derived from the dairy industry. The 3,000 acres of splendid agricultural land on the reserve should be made to produce richer harvests.

Mr. J. E. Belcher, C.E., the architect of the new building, followed along the same complimentary vein, and referred to the improvements which were being made to the wharf, and which, when completed, would make the landing place much more convenient.

A regrettable feature of the celebration was the fact that Mr. Dan. Whetung was unable, through an attack of illness, to be present, and Mrs. Whetung was also laid up in the hospital at Peterborough. Added to their other troubles, was an accident, of which Dan Whetung, Jr., was the victim.

As evidence of the importance of the opening is furnished by the fact that Mr. John R. Crafts, who, for 37 years, has lived across the lake from the village, in Smith, that day paid his first visit to the village. There was a large representation from the bordering townships of Ennismore, Smith and Harvey.

The new church, which is a commodious and handsome structure of brick, was built by Mr. Ed. Quinn, of Lakefield, from plans prepared by Mr. John E. Belcher of this city, and will be used every Sunday for worship by the Indians, who are very proud of their new church.

Ex-Governor of Wyoming Endorses Pe-ru-na.

"I have such confidence in prominent personal friends who have used and endorsed Peruna that I feel justified in assuming that it is a valuable remedy for catarrh and an excellent general tonic."—

Responsible People.

PEOPLE occupying positions of high responsibility and trust are always very busy people.

They have little or no time to devote to side issues.

It is therefore very rare that such people are willing to write testimonials for anything.

Then again there is a natural diffidence in giving public endorsement to any commercial enterprise on the part of people who are much before the public.

Rare Endorsements.

It is thus that it is very rare that public officials, like governors, congressmen, consuls, senators, etc., give public endorsement to a proprietary medicine.

It is therefore a great triumph that Peruna has the unqualified endorsement of so many men in official position.

Scores of public officials of national reputation have enthusiastically declared in favor of Peruna in public print over and over again,

A Startling Fact.

There is no way to account for such a startling fact as this except that Peruna has extraordinary unusual merit.

After all, people high and low, are constituted very much alike.

Natural Enthusiasm.

When a person has been really helped in getting rid of some chronic malady, after other things have failed, it is quite natural for enthusiasm to lead people to make a statement of the fact.

For great services, gratitude is natural.

This is the only way that it can possibly be explained why it is that so many persons prominent in public, diplomatic and social life give testimony for Peruna.

Actual Benefit.

Peruna promptly relieves.

This is the explanation.

Catarrh is a disease difficult to relieve.

Gratitude Results.

A few bottles of Peruna cure a chronic malady of many years standing and it is almost impossible to repress the natural feelings of gratitude which spring up.

Catarrh of Head and Throat.

Mr. Joseph Reiss, 3424 N. 14th street, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"I had catarrh of the head and throat, but through the use of five bottles of Peruna and two bottles of Manalin I was cured.

"I think that Peruna is the best tonic that I have ever used and I would advise all catarrhal sufferers to use Peruna."

Catarrhal Fever.

Mrs. W. E. Good, Broadway, Va., writes:

"When I was fifteen years old I had catarrhal fever and for nine years I have had catarrh of the head.

"Through neglect it went to my throat and nose. After consulting you I used Peruna for four months as directed, and I am entirely well and have my natural health.

"I cannot praise Peruna too highly. It will do all that it is recommended to do."

Pe-ru-na Relieves Catarrh.

Mr. L. Clifford Figg, Jr., 2020 N. Marshall St., Richmond Va., writes:

"As soon as I get a cold I send for a bottle of Peruna, and it soon drives it out of my system.

Despaired of Being Cured.

"For several years I was not entirely well, and despaired of ever being cured, as I had used numerous remedies that my friends advised. I doctored for two years without any improvement.

A Last Resort.

"As a last resort I tried Peruna, and am pleased to say that in a short time I was completely cured.

"I have not been troubled for over a year. I am pleased to endorse Peruna as it saved me a world of suffering."

ENGLAND

A strange story of loss of memory was told at Colchester Police Court recently, when Corporal Lionel George Palmer, of the Royal Army Medical Corps, stationed at Millbank, London, was charged with desertion. The evidence showed that on May 29 Palmer walked into the Colchester Police office and informed Inspector Alexander that he could not remember who he was or anything about himself, and asked to be taken care of. While talking to the workhouse master, he incidentally asked what were the chief industries of Colchester. The master mentioned the names of several large firms, principally ironworks, and added the name of another large firm, Messrs. Ransomes, Sims and Jeffries, at Ipswich. The man started and exclaimed, "Good heavens! I used to work there. I was an invoice clerk in the lawn mower department, and went to the war, enlisting in the R.A.M.C. I served three years, and came back in 1903 as Corporal Palmer. That's my name." He added that he was a clerk in the office at Millbank, with seven years' service. The last thing he remembered was leaving a friend out de the Garrick Theatre on 25th May and walking down Cranbourn street. He had lost his watch, rings and money when he arrived at Colchester, but how he got there he did not know.

Some remarkable pranks were played by lightning during a heavy thunderstorm which took place at Gainsborough one eveningrecently. The villa of Mr. George Farsworthe in Lea road was struck by lightning, and damage to the extent of some £400 was done. When the house was struck there was a sound as though a cannon had been discharged, and four rooms were wrecked in a moment. Slates and bricks were hurled to a distance of thirty yards and a hole about eight feet square was made in the roof. The iron fireplaces of two rooms were blown nearly across the respective apartments, and in one bedroom a brass timepiece was fused to an iron mantlepiece. In another bedroom a portion of the furniture was reduced literally to matchwood. Splinters were driven deep into the door and into the walls. The lightning passed to an adjoining house, where it fused gaspipes and ignited the gas, but did no further damage. The families in both houses were fortunately in other rooms and were uninjured. A tramp passing under a tree at Lea, a short distance away escaped injury, although the tree was shattered by lightning.

Though 80 years of age, frail, and without any means, the widow of Solomon Hailes, a woodcarver of Bethnal Green, London, who recently died of pneumonia at the age of 75, is determined to struggle on and keep out of the workhouse. So she told Dr. R. E. Guthrie, who held the inquest on her husband, that her husband had lately done odd jobs, earning 10s. and sometimes barely 2s a week, out of which they had to pay 3s for rent. However, they had never applied for parish relief; they "always worked hard for their living." In her younger years Mrs. Hailes was a polisher, and she speaks with pride of the fact that she polished the ornamental casket in which coins were buried when the King, then the Prince of Wales, laid the foundation stone of an annex of the London hospital. Her great boast, however, is that she once, on the occasion of the birth of her seventh son, wrote to Queen Victoria. In reply she received a letter containing the sentence, "The more sons you have, the more to fight for you in the battle of life." Her two children, however, are out of work now and cannot help her.

A sad story of domestic unhappiness was narrated at an inquest held at Redruth (Cornwall), recently, on Thomas Edward Peters. He died in the Miners' hospital from injuries alleged to have been inflicted with a hammer by his son, Edward John Peters, aged 17. The police inspector stated that when arrested the accused made the following confession: "My father had been behaving very bad to my mother twice since Christmas, and on Wednesday night, when I came home from work, my brother told me that father had been beating mother again on the floor badly. I saw mother's face was swollen, and she had traces of being ill-used. She was making efforts to keep from crying. That upset me, and I went out into the garden, and father came out after me. I said, "It's my turn now.' I picked up the hammer and struck him across the head with it. I did not intend to strike him so hard." The jury returned a verdict of "manslaughter."

The villagers of Takeley, in Essex, have been provided with as much excitement as they are likely to have for a long time by a young man named John Gunn, of the neighbouring parish of Hatfield Broad Oak. Gunn, recently walked very quietly into the garden of a private house at Takeley and began to pluck all the choicest flowers. Then he deliberately took off all his clothing and jumped about like a dancing dervish. He cleared the garden hedge at a bound, and started off along the high road quite naked. His body was elaborately tatooed in all the colours of the rainbow, and as he raced through the village street half the population turned out in pursuit. The village constable on a bicycle eventually caught Gunn. He was certified to be insane.

Early one morning recently the body of a woman was found floating in the sea near Ramsgate Sands. Later in the day it was identified as that of Jane Foster, wife of a lighter man, of London, S.E. She left her home early on the previous morning with the intention of taking a trip to Ramsgate by one of the pleasure steamers and returning the same day. At eight o'clock in the evening she sat on a seat underneath the pavilion at Ramsgate and asked a little girl to write the following letter: "My darling husband.—You are too good to me. Pray take care of Alice and be good to her, and give her my watch and my brooch on her birthday." She wished to dictate further, but the little girl became alarmed and refused to write any more.

When a labourer, named Stephen Cowison, Camden town, London, was charged recently with threatening to commit suicide, a police officer stated that he was called to the man's house by his wife, and found the prisoner sitting at a table writing the following letter: "Gentlemen: On the verge of my taking my life by my own hand, I ask you not to hold me guilty." Presumably this was intended for the coroner, for an envelope addressed to that person was lying close to him on the table. The prisoner said he had no intention of taking his life. His intention was to leave the letter open upon the table and go to bed, just for the purpose of frightening his wife.

SCOTLAND

Between one and two o'clock one afternoon recently, considerable excitement was created near the sale ring at Point Law, Aberdeen, by a horse and lorry falling into the water. The horse and lorry were backed up close to the edge of the quay, barrels of herrings being put on the lorry. By some means the horse became restive, and backed the cart over the edge of the quay. The driver made a rush at the horse's head, but with the weight of the cart hanging over the quay, the horse was pulled into the water. The mooring of several herring boats, which were lying at the wharf, was the means of keeping the horse and the lorry from sinking, and the harness was cut away to free the burden of the cart. Immediately the horse got free, it commenced to swim, and went straight to the other side of the water close to the Graving Dock. From there it turned back, and an attempt was made to rescue the animal. The horse, however, turned and swam to the other side again, where several men who were waiting the ferry-boat made a futile attempt to capture it. Thee horse once more turned its head towards Point Law, and when it reached the "slip" beside the sale ring it was got ashore by a large number of men who were assembled there. The animal did not appear to have suffered to any great extent by its immersion.

Some excitement was caused in Old Torry, Aberdeen, by the report reaching in their small fishing yawl. The there intended to proceed to Scarborough in their small fishing yawl. The elder of the two is a man of about 75 years, and the other—his son-in-law—a middle-aged man. The other night the pair were seen to go down to the wharf at Torry, where their small boat was lying, and, after seeing that everything was in order, they went back to their house, returning to the boat with three mattresses, which they stowed away on board. Another visit was made to the house, and this time three chairs were brought down and taken on board. The curiosity of the fishor class was aroused by these proceedings, and a large number of interested spectators has assembled on the wharf as the yawl got under weigh. These spectators raised a hearty cheer, which was responded to by a wave of the hand.

A revolting murder was brought to light in Glasgow recently. At midnight a policeman was attracted by loud whistling on Anderton Quay, and found a young man lying in a pool of blood. The policeman tried to stem the flow and telephoned for an ambulance, but the injured man, who was bleeding from wounds all over the body, died on being moved to the ambulance. A lodging-house keeper said he saw the deceased being pursued along the quayside by two men, who ran him down, and immediately commenced to stab him repeatedly. When the lodging-house keeper rushed up the man's assailants bolted. Medical examination showed that the man had been stabbed on the back of the ear, the wound reaching the backbone. Other wounds were on the breast, abdomen and buttock.

Owing to the extensive coal-mining operations carried on under the town a serious situation has arisen at Motherwell. At a recent meeting of the town council a member said the condition of affairs could not be exaggerated. The town hall was damaged, the school buildings were damaged, and now, as is knowning injury, their brand new poor-house was in serious danger of collapse. Streets and pavements formed at great expense could be seen opening up and gaping in all parts of the town. Working men's houses, built by the savings of a lifetime, had had to be rebuilt twice over, and now for a third time were again in process of falling to pieces.

On his way home in the early hours of the morning recently, an Aberdeen journalist saw flames issuing from the attic window of a large tenement house. He immediately rushed upstairs to rouse the occupants. On reaching the top of the house he found an old woman, frightfully burned, crawling from the room which was on fire. Help was summoned and she was conveyed to the hospital, but died an hour afterwards from her injuries.

Brixham Cottage Hospital benefits to the extent of £577 17s. 3d. by a raffle which took place recently for an Argyll motor-car, arranged by the Hon. Lois Yarde Buller. The car, less discount allowed by the makers in aid of the charity, cost £365 3s. 10d., and 18,880 1s. tickets were sold. The winner is Helen Hardie, a six-year-old daughter of a poor widow in Edinburgh, who bought only a single ticket.

At a special Synod of the Diocese of Glasgow and Galloway, held in Glasgow recently, it was decided to raise St. Mary's Church, Glasgow, to the status of a cathedral, subject to the consent of the Episcopal Synod. The chapter is to consist of a dean and seven canons, each of the latter of whom must be a rector.

Scarborough is about 200 miles distant from Aberdeen, and the pluck of the men in tackling the journey in a small fishing yawl is the subject of general remark of Old Torry.

IRELAND

A number of evictions on the Leahy estate, near Castletown-Bere, Co. Cork, were recently carried out amid scenes of great disorder. In a heavy storm, with rain coming down like ramrods, Sheriff Gale marched out of Castletown-Bere at the head of his 300 men, and descended on the village of Kilmacowen. Then the evictions started, and at the sight of the invaders the woman of the village lost their heads completely. With shrill cries in Irish and English they rushed down on their laggard men-folk and told them what they thought of them for hanging back from the fight. At last the courage of the men was revived to some extent, and they made a rush on the police. But pelting rain and the sight of men with rifles were poor helps to valour. The police stepped out, laid hands on a few of the men, and the trouble with them was over. At this the women were terribly put out, and rushed on the policemen themselves cheering and shouting. They were promptly arrested. The policemen took it very well, used the women with as little roughness as possible, and released them later. Then a party of villagers, about two dozen altogether, who had climbed to the top of some rocks overhanging the houses, where the evictions were taking place, commenced to hurl down good-sized stones and heavy sticks. A party of police stormed the rocks and managed to arrest the men.

An interesting ceremony took place at the International Exhibition in Dublin, recently, when the Countess of Aberdeen opened the Home Industries Section. Speaking from a platform erected on the space called the "Village Green," her Excellency said that all those supplemental industries which were, or could be, carried on in the homes of the workers, such as the making of lace and crochet, embroidering, the weaving of home-spuns, the raising of poultry or bees, or the cultivating of early flowers and vegetables, could not fail to influence the lives and characters of those who cultivated them, imbuing them with new hopes and ambitions. This increase of hopefulness amongst the workers was one of the chief changes for the better which she noticed on returning to Ireland. Lady Aberdeen was afterwards presented with four bouquets of flowers by girls from Leinster, Ulster, Munster and Connaught.

Some extraordinary scenes were made at Ballina recently, at a meeting of the North Mayo Convention of the United Irish League. A Mr. Dermot O'Brien said that the people of Mayo would be unworthy of freedom if they stood idly by and saw cattle taking the place of men on the grazing farms of the county without a word of protest. They saw the fight that was going on in Roscommon and all over Ireland for the grazing lands, and the graziers of Mayo must be made to realize that they had more before them than they anticipated. Mr. John Garvey, the Crown Solicitor for Mayo, had over two hundred acres of grazing lands without a protest on the part of the people, and he was allowed to walk the country as safe as the Nationalist who would sacrifice his life for the cause. If this was allowed to continue there would soon be no one left in Mayo but graziers and grabbers.

The latest example of a students' rebellion is in the nature of an "entree riot" on the part of the Trinity College, Dublin, undergraduates, who thought that a dinner of soup, fish, joint, sweets and a glass of ale was not worth the 1s. 3d. charged. A few nights ago, in order to express their disapproval of the culinary department the undergraduates migrated in a body to a neighbouring hotel and took their dinner there instead of in "Hall." At the end of the dinner the chairman briefly expressed the hope that reform would not be long delayed, and the company adjourned to the college quadrangle, where a musical programme was performed. At the conclusion of the concert the Provost addressed these Gilbertian rioters and promised that immediate inquiries should be made.

The disorders in connection with the anti-grazing movement in the west of Ireland, are apparently not yet at an end. Lively scenes took place at Carrick-on-Shannon, Co. Leitrim, recently, when four men were charged with unlawful assembly and intimidation. According to the police, the accused were leaders of an assembly, which drove the cattle then in the town through the streets and assaulted those in charge, one man being taken by the feet and thrown across a ditch. The Bench, by a majority, decided that the defendants were no: guilty, and dismissed the case. Upwards of 400 persons were present in court and the decision was received with loud cheers.

There has been a renewal of the disturbances at Belfast in connection with the strike of dock labourers at the Liverpool shed, and three men who had been stabbed in a melee between the strikers and imported labourers from England were taken to hospital, where two of them were detained. Another man—an imported labourer—was set upon by a crowd of strikers and severely kicked and beaten, only being rescued from the mob by a courageous doctor, Dr. McElroy, who happened to be passing at the time. Mr. Larkin, secretary of the Belfast Dock Laoourers' Union, has been placed under arrest.

The Proper Marking Of Shipments Of Freight

Important Circular Letter Addressed to Shippers—Packages of Goods Must be Correctly Marked for Shipment.

THE BOARD OF TRADE ACTS

The agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System in Peterborough has received a circular letter from the division freight agent, in which an important matter to all shippers is dealt with. A copy of this circular was forwarded by Mr. Sandy to the secretary of the Board of Trade, with the object of disseminating the information contained therein among the business men and shippers of the city. The circular is as follows:

The attention of all concerned is again directed to the necessity of fully marking all freight.

Each package or piece of less than carload freight forwarded by rail, also each package or piece of carload and less than carload freight forwarded rail and lake, must be plainly marked with the name and address of consignee, so as to insure prompt delivery even if separated from the way bill.

Marks on packages or pieces, should be compared with bill of lading and correction, if necessary, made by the shipper or his representative. Old marks must be removed or effaced.

Tags should not be used when the nature of the goods will permit of the address being stencilled on packages or pieces. When impracticable to do this, some distinguishing mark or brand should be shown, and such mark or brand should also appear on bill of lading. Agents must show such mark or brand on the waybill, fully describing the goods. For example, in the case of a shipment of canned goods, the bill of lading (also the waybill) must show so many cases of tomatoes, so many cases of pears, so many cases of corn, etc., as well as the brand and the mark indicating the name of consignee and place of destination.

Waybills for less than carload traffic consigned to the larger cities, as for instance, Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago etc., must in all instances give in detail the full address of consignee, i.e., number and name of street, as well as place of destination, in order that prompt delivery of such freight may be effected.

On traffic forwarded rail and lake, the waybill and bill of lading for carload freight, as well as for less than carload shipments, must show the number of packages or pieces, for instance —if the shipment consists of vehicles, cutters or like freight, the waybill and bill of lading must, in detail, describe the nature of the shipment, i.e., so many springs, so many shafts, so many bodies, etc., etc. Be careful that full information is given in all such instances.

The address on packages or pieces must correspond with that shown on bill of lading. For example, on a shipment to Toronto, the packages or pieces must be marked "Toronto," and not some other destination for which the goods may be ultimately intended. If packages or pieces are intended for redistribution beyond, a special designating mark may be used for the guidance of those attending to the redistribution, but only the destination given on bill of lading must be shown on the goods.

Frequently, in connection with rail and lake shipments, there is on the same boat more than one consignment for the same consignee, and in order to prevent such consignments becoming mixed, it will greatly facilitate the correct handling, if shippers will also show on packages their name or trade mark. Consignments can then be delivered complete and errors avoided.

Freight consigned to a destination of which there are two or more of the same name, must not be accepted unless the name of the county and province or state be given.

When freight is consigned to a destination not on the line of a railway, the shipper must be requested to state the name of the railway station at which the consignee will accept delivery; or if destination is reached by a water line, the name of the railway station at which delivery is to be made to such water line.

The proper marking and addressing of freight is in the interest of shipper, carrioer and consignee, therefore, agents must insist on these rules being observed.

Note and be governed accordingly.

Eskimo Young Man.

THE CUSTOMS OF OUR NEIGHBORS THE ESKIMOS

man, and to-day practically every tribe has embraced Christianity; he has from time immemorial, understood the art of making fire by friction, he is only a cannibal from sheer necessity —and, no matter how dire the circumstances, is forever after in disgrace; and finally, hee is something of an artist, beyond being what so many savages become, an excellent imitator of art.

What is in store for the Eskimo of future generations? This is too big a question for discussion here, but it seems probable that, sooner or later, the Dominion government will have to take care of these tribes in some such manner as the government of Australia looks after certain of the aboriginals in that country. For years the whaling industry has been on the decline, and the consequent rise in whalebone seems to threaten the utter destruction of the narwhal. Wholesale destruction of the seals has had its inevitable effect, and, sooner or later, these two principal means of livelihood for the Eskimo must fade away altogether, unless very strong government measures are taken, and taken soon. Already, the new conditions are making themselves felt; the art of making kyaks, an art in which former generations excelled, has been practically lost; the men rely more and more on what they can get from whalers, the Hudson Bay Company and missionaries than from what they can kill by their own prowess, and, when the whalers fail them, their poverty is terrible indeed.

A. P. Low, who was in charge of the Dominion Government expedition on board the Neptune, and whose report is now in the press, is of the opinion that the future solution of the Eskimo problem lies in the government encouraging game killing among them for purposes of food, the skins of the deer, caribou and musk-oxen to be surrendered in return for arms and ammunition. All who know them are agreed that to supply the Eskimo with provisions, whenever he feels inclined to ask for them, without extracting some reasonable return, would be a most unfortunate policy, that in fact to legally pauperize him is to certainly ruin him. Mr. Low's views will probably be adopted by the government, and it is improbable that there will be any recurrence of those wholesale starving episodes that have from time to time been reported.

That the missionaries have done much to raise the standard of civilization among the Eskimo cannot be denied, and it is probable that contact with the Hudson Bay Company's officials has achieved a similar result, but it is an open question whether the advantages accruing from these sources have not been more than nullified by the annual visits of American whalers, whose influence and examples have had the worst possible effect upon these people. For the first time, however, in the course of the last hundred years, no American whaling ships will visit the Arctic waters this season. The trade in whalebone is practically dead, and though whalebone is worth nearly its weight in gold, the risks of the trade scarcely warrant its continuance. Many a ship during the last few years has brought home nothing but a few seal skins, no chance having been obtained of catching the great prize for which the venture is equipped.

In the absence of the whales, and with the unrammelled influence of the missionaries, the Eskimo may yet be brought to a reasonably high pitch of civilization.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY JULY 6 1907

OPENING

3 Years Ago Lift Lock Was Opened Here

KIRKFIELD LOCK TO-DAY

Large Number of Peterborough Persons Left This Morning to be Present at Brilliant Opening Function.

Three years ago to-morrow, July 7, 1904, the Peterborough Lift Lock, at that time the only one of its kind in America, and the largest in the world, was officially declared open, and the function was one of the most brilliant and important in the history of Peterborough. Its opening marked the completion of an essential link in the Trent Waterway, and with it came an immediate increase in the volume of traffic over this section of the canal.

To-day another Lift Lock, at Kirkfield, similar in many respects to that at Peterborough, is being officially opened, and its opening will give a navigable stretch of waterway of 100 miles, and will connect the eastern end of the canal, at present Healey's Falls, with points on Lake Simcoe, and an extensive freight traffic should, and doubtless will, be developed.

This morning three special coaches, containing the parties from Ottawa, to attend the opening, arrived in the city, and were attached to the 7.20 G.T.R. train, on which Peterborough persons, who attended the function, travelled to Lindsay, where the steamers were boarded for the trip to the new lock.

A large number of persons from this city went up on this train, and will be present at the official opening.

INTEREST INCREASES IN SCHOOL

Summer School at Chemong Park Nearing a Close, but Attendance Increases and Interest Deepens

TO-MORROW'S PROGRAMME

Special Correspondence

Chemong Park, July 6.—The Summer School continues unabated in its interest. Yesterday was a day of great interest and profit. The morning session as usual consisted of the Bible Study Class conducted by Rev. Prof. McLaughlin of Toronto, and the Mission Study classes under Mr. Thos. Keough of Toronto, Miss Patterson, B.A., of Arthur, and Miss Drewry of Welland. In addition, Dr. Crummy gave his second talk on the characteristics of the Japanese. Following his address we were favoured by a solo from a returned missionary from the Inland Mission of North China. Also Rev. Prof. Doxsee, A.B., of Belleville, gave a blackboard talk on "Methods in Mission Classes."

In the evening Rev. Dr. Crummy gave his third talk on the Japanese. His addresses sparkled with humour and were most interesting. All the students were very sorry to say good-bye to the very genial and learned doctor.

The second address was given by F. J. McLaughlin, K. C., of Lindsay, who spoke on the duty of Christian Stewardship. We deem it to be one of the most hopeful signs of the times that so many of our busy laymen are willing to devote their time and energy to Christian work. Mr. McLaughlin's address was a strong appeal to the men and women present to recognise their personal obligation of giving to the work of the church.

The evening programme was very materially increased in interest by three solos rendered by Rev. C. S. Applegath of Hamilton, Miss McLean of Bowmanville and Miss Elliott of Toronto.

To-morrow will be the closing day in connection with the school. Already regrets are being heard on every side at the prospect of so early a closing of the school. It is almost universally admitted that it has been one of the most helpful and successful summer schools held under the auspices of the Bay of Quinte conference.

To-morrow will be the big day. In the morning, Rev. Prof. McLaughlin will continue his Bible study, followed by administration of the Lord's Supper. In the afternoon the service will be conduted by an evangelistic band of Campbellford, while in the evening Rev. W G Clare, B.A., of Stirling, will preach.

Every evening 'bus loads have been out from town, and to-morrow we are hoping to see several such loads.

At Havelock

County Magistrate Edmison went to Havelock this morning where he will officiate at County Police Court this afternoon. Half a dozen cases are on the docket.

TWO NEW MINISTERS WHO ASSUME THEIR PASTORATES TO-MORROW

To-morrow two Methodist ministers will commence their pastorates in two of the city's three Methodist churches. In the George Street Church, Rev. E. A. Pearson, who succeeds Rev. Dr. Crothers, will preach his first sermons in Peterborough, and will meet his congregation for the first time. Interest attaches itself to his inauguration as the pastor of this church, by reason of the fact that he is a son of a former pastor, Rev. Marmaduke Pearson, and there are among the present congregation not a few members who remember well the pastorate of his father.

In the Mark Street Church, for the last four years in charge of Rev. J. G. Lewis, Rev. C. H. Coon, late of Bobcaygeon, will face his new congregation, and in the morning a flower service will be held. Rev. Mr. Coon is this year the secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference, which fact in itself is an evidence of his business capacity, in the estimation of his fellow ministers.

The congregations in both churches will in all probability be large to-morrow.

Peterborough Rangers Were Inspected By Lieut.-Col. Hemming

MARCH PAST PERFORMED

Great Improvement Manifest in the Marching and Appearance of Men---Inspecting Officer Pleased

The operations of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, for this season, were brought to a fitting close last evening, when the annual inspection of the regiment was held at Riverside Park. The effect of the season's drilling was shown by the manner in which the Rangers acquitted themselves last night, the function being a great success from every point of view. This year the sham fight which has been a feature of the inspection for the past several seasons, was done away with, and it was decided to confine the ceremonies to manoeuvres at the Riverside Park, a place that proved eminently fitted for the purpose.

The regiment gathered at the armouries at seven o'clock, and headed by the 57th band playing the regimental march, they paraded to the park by George and Water street. Great improvement was noticeable in their marching, and the men swung along in true soldierly fashion.

On reaching the grounds the men were drawn up in line at the west side of the grounds, and as the inspecting officer, Lt.-Col. Hemming of Kingston, acting Chief of Staff for Eastern Ontario, arrived, he was greeted with the general salute, the men sporting arms, while the band played. Lt.-Col. Hemming, who was accompanied by Capt. Conger of Kingston, paymaster, passed up and down the line inspecting the men, who looked very trim and soldierlike.

The chief feature off the inspection was the march past, which was splendidly done. The eight companies came past the saluting point one after the other in almost perfect alignment.

This picturesque function was followed by several battalion movements, all of which were most creditably performed, the men showing smartness and attention to orders.

This concluded the manoeuvres, and the men marched back to the armouries, where the roll was called by Captain Conger, after which the men were dismissed.

The inspecting officer expressed himself as being much pleased with the showing of the regiment, and the result of the inspection.

Considering the lateness of the season the big turn out of men last night was very gratifying. The strength of the regiment on parade was very near four hundred of all ranks.

The general public found the inspection a most interesting ceremony and a very large crowd gathered at the park to witness the function.

Col. Gordon, the officer commanding Eastern Ontario, who was to have inspected the regiment, was unable to be present last night.

Col. E. B. Edwards, formerly in mand of the 57th, and who acted as Brigadier Colonel of the 7th Brigade at Barriefield Camp, Kingston, attended the inspection in uniform.

IT ALWAYS RAINS ON OFFICIAL OPENINGS OF THE CANAL LIFT LOCKS

By a somewhat singular, and not altogether propitious coincidence, the Kirkfield lift lock opening promises to take place under circumstances similar to those attending the opening function in Peterborough three years ago to-morrow. Those who were present that day will recollect the rainstorm which, to a certain extent, marred the success of that event, and to-day's opening ceremonies promise to be held under conditions which approach those of three years ago.

Rev. Father J. O'Sullivan and Mr. W. Mitchell Accompanied Rev. Dr. O'Brien—Visited in British Isles and Returned Home With Increased Appreciation of Canada

Fresh from a delightful trip to the principal cities of Europe, Rev. Dr. M. O'Brien returned home last Sunday morning after spending the past two months pleasantly and profitably in a sojourn through the classical cities of the old world. In conversation with an Examiner reporter Rev. Dr. O'Brien gave a graphic account of the most important events of his journey which are of interest to many citizens of Peterbough. He sailed on the C.P.R. liner Empress of Britain in company with Rev. Father Jos. O'Sullivan, of Victoria Road and Mr. W. Mitchell, one of the members of Father O'Sullivan's parish. After a refreshing ocean voyage Liverpool was reached and although it was not the first intention of the party to go to Rome, still when they had safely crossed the Atlantic the members thinking that the opportunity might not be again presented, took the train to London, going by Paris to Italy.

Audience With the Pope

The great desire of tourists of the present day who visit Rome, is to see the Pope or if possible have an audience with him. They consider that they have missed one of the most interesting incidents of their travel if they have not succeeded in gaining entrance to the Pontifical See of the Catholic religion. Rev. Dr. O'Brien and party were granted the honour and privilege of not only having a public audience with His Holiness, but also a private one. At the former there are generally 50 or 75 people in row with whom the Pope shakes hands and says a few words to each, but in private audience it is quite different.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien was face with Pope Pius X. for a period of 10 minutes which is a rather long time unless there is some particular business to transact. He remembered him as a Cardinal, having seen him during the two years he spent in Rome eight years ago. Rev. Dr. O'

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG MOTHERS NEEDED, IS OPINION OF POLICE MAGISTRATE DUMBLE

A school for young mothers—an institution in which they could be taught the proper way to train children—is needed in Peterborough, according to the opinion of Police Magistrate Dumble; and there is no one more capable of judging of the needs in this respect than Mr. Dumble. The present epidemic of crime among the juveniles of the city is, he believes, attributable to the laxity of home training. To one who is in close touch with police court affairs, the situation is an alarming one. Boys—and, indeed, often girls, too—are caught red-handed in the most glaring offences, not only against the laws of the land, but against the laws of decency, and stories of the actions of boys and girls, in their teens, could be told, which would shock the moral sensibilities of the majority of the citizens.

In view of this condition of affairs, due, according to Mr. Dumble, largely to the lack of home influences of the right kind, there is apparent justification for his statement that a training school to teach mothers how to raise the children they have borne, is a necessity.

Mr. Dumble states that children are allowed to roam the streets at night altogether too much for their own good, and for the elevation of their morals. While the mothers are paying calls in the evening, and discussing what-not with their neighbours, the youngsters are out—no one knows where—but it is pretty safe guessing that they are up to no good.

Children come home with money, which they cannot account for having received, and the parents, in many cases, do not take pains to find out by what means they came into possession of it, and thieving is condoned.

What the outcome of the present condition of the children of the city will be, unless a radical change for the better is experienced, is not pleasant to contemplate.

SAW PETERBOROUGH GROW FROM ONE HOUSE TO ITS PRESENT STATE

IS A THOROUGH PIONEER

After bearing the whips and scorns of time for almost a century, Mr. John McCarrol, an Emily visitor in the city, who landed in Peterborough from the Emerald Isle in the year 1825, still lives to enjoy good health and, best of all, happiness and ease of mind. Few men, if there are any, residing in this district are better acquainted with the progress and advancement of Peterborough, and its surroundings, than Mr. McCarroll who, when he first set foot on the soil which now bears up a young city of prominence, saw nothing but acres of forests, and heard little more than the free song of the serried ranks of pine.

Mr. McCarroll, too, has distinct recollections of the rebellion of '37 and '38, as two of his brothers were balloted to enlist. He remembers, slightly, the Queen's coronation in 1837, and numberless events of interest during the 82 years he spent without a break, on Canadian soil.

Born in the county of Limerick, Ireland, in the year 1820, he emigrated to Canada with his parents five years later, arriving on the spot where Peterborough now stands, when there was but a single house here. That, as well as he can recall, was situated somewhere on the market block, possibly on the corner where the Bank of Nova Scotia is now situated.

His father, he said, refused to accept land around here, on account of the over-abundance of pine trees and shrubbery, and pushing northwards about eight miles selected as his domains, the present land occupied by the McCarrol family, which was then covered with hardwood.

An Early Affliction

The early portion of his Canadian life among the forests of Emily, are now indistinct in his memory, and few of the events can be recall. He remembers the struggles with the axe in laying low the hardwoods, with which to construct his early home. When old enough he had assisted in the work himself, and he now owns one of the best farms in Emily township.

A sad affliction visited the family, just eleven months after they had located comfortably. Mr. McCarroll's father became ill with the ague and died, leaving a large family of nine. As the years advanced, the struggle for existence lessened, and to-day Mr. McCarroll, the sole survivor of the family, at the age of 87 years, still remains hale and hearty.

The City's Progress

Arriving when only a single log house decorated these parts, Mr. McCarroll has seen Peterborough advance in rapid strides. Shortly after a Mr. Harper began a farming-mill manufacturing establishment between Simcoe and Hunter

DOMESTIC INFELICITY WHICH NEWSPAPER MAN COULD NOT REMEDY

A newspaper man, in the prosecution of his calling — one which necessarily brings him into contact with human nature, in its varied forms, and in which the gloss and veneer used to cover up deficiencies, is often stripped — meets with peculiar experiences, and any newspaper man, who has been "in the game" long can tell stories of actual life which will surprise those who are not brought into touch with the many-sided human specimens of the divine creation.

Possibly, the most unique position, however, that a newspaper man could be placed in, was that which fell to the lot of a representative of this paper last night, when a young husband — one month married—called upon him, and with tears in his eyes, asked—almost begged, in fact—him to call at his home, and try to effect a reconciliation between himself and his young wife, with whom he had just had his first quarrel, a quarrel, which, however, had grown from seeds of discord sown two days after the wedding. It was the old story of outside interference and tales told of the husband's alleged infidelity had resulted in an estrangement even before the vows which made them man and wife were cold upon their lips.

Needless to say, this was recognized as a case where an injection of outside influence had already caused trouble, and in which further external, action, would not result in the desired improvement in the domestic relations, and the advice was given to learn to govern his own household.

OBITUARY.

MARY E. MOFFAT

At. 10. 30 last night, Mary E. Moffat, wife of Mr. Fred Copperthwaite, passed away at the family residence, 68 Ware street. Mrs. Copperthwaite has been ill since last February, suffering from an abscess, but her death was quite unexpected, as she was apparently in good health up to 5 o'clock.

The deceased was 55 years of age, and was born in Norwood. She has lived in this city with her family since 1894.

Mr. Copperthwaite, three sons, and two daughters, still survive her. They are William, Douglas, John, May and Lily.

The funeral will be held on Monday morning, from the family residence to the 11.16 a.m., C.P.R. train, to Norwood. Interment will take place there.

EARLY CLOSING

It does not need the hot weather, and the hot, stuffy atmosphere of shops, to emphasize the injustice, if not cruelty, of keeping salesgirls and salesmen, cooped up long hours, or to indicate the duty of Christian people to act like Christians in this connection. The essence of applied Christianity is the Golden Rule—to do unto others as you would have others do unto you. Suppose that—to be personal—you were a salesgirl or a salesman in a shop, and had been on your feet for nine or ten hours, and had six more sweltering hours before you, what would you think of a patron who would come down town at 7.30, and stand and gossip about the streets until ten o'clock, and then keep you at work, hours after you should be in bed? As Nathan said to David, "Thou art the man!" You, as one of the public, are guilty of postponing your shopping on Saturday nights till ten o'clock. Do you know that you are guilty of making clerks in shops work till midnight; that you are also guilty of making delivery boys and express drivers, keep at work till far into Sunday morning? Would you like to be treated that way if you were in their place? Do you blame them if they sell your conduct thoughtless, heartless and unchristian? Think the matter over, and you will, if you want to do right, resolve to do your Saturday night shopping early; and not only that, but you will do it, if you have the time, earlier in the day, so as to give a chance to those who cannot get out till the evening. There is an agitation among merchants to close their shops at nine o'clock on Saturday nights, and bring you late shoppers to a sense of the injustice of postponing your buying till almost Sunday morning.

THE BOOMERANG

It may result that the working out of Mr. Whitney's spoils policy will be a case of "the engineer hoist with his own petard." The tendency in this system is to raise hopes in the hearts of the faithful, and, if they are not realized, there is trouble. At the annual meeting of the Welland Conservative Association, the question of spoils was discussed, and it developed that there was lukewarmness in the party, and the vice-president said there was good reason for it. He did not blame the member for the riding, who, when his turn came to speak, asserted that the discussion in the party was over the patronage. Another speaker said the member, Mr. Fraser, was not to blame — "Mr. Fraser had made twenty-nine appointments (to office), and East Huron had only four. Thus the Conservative convention discussed the patronage question in a cold-blooded way, upholding the claims of the healers of the party to fatten at the public crib, entirely ignoring the fact that the Government's duty is to administer the affairs of the Province in the interests of the Province, and not in those of the party workers. Mr. Whitney is himself to blame for the trouble he is bringing on himself by failing to satisfy the graft thirst of his followers. He inaugurated the spoils policy, and—he that uses the sword must perish by the sword. The spoils system is proving a boomerang.

A TRIBUTE TO LAURIER

The Halifax Chronicle has the following tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has been leader of the Liberal party for half the life of the Confederation. It says:

Sir John Macdonald did well in his time, and properly took high place in the Empire. But Sir John, although a great and talented man, was not a Canadian born. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a Canadian of the Canadians, a great man and a great statesman, to the Canadian manner born and bred, yet capable of arousing the Motherland, and of impressing its most critical people as the living and admirable embodiment of Canadianism. It would not be too much to say that no Canadian ever accomplished so much for the Dominion, or has so superlatively represented it in the Homeland as he. His grace, his ability, his refinement of manner, are all being attributed to Canadians, or, at least, reflected upon us.

It is worth more to Canada than almost any other incident in her history, that arm has had such a man to speak and stand for her in this first great Imperial Conference, as distinguished from the old Colonial Conferences, when she played so comparatively humble a role. Canada could not possibly have made her appearance as a nation among a new Imperial Brotherhood of British nations under more favourable conditions —thanks entirely to the wonderful personality of her great governing son, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Yes, Canada has reason to be proud of her Prime Minister and his twenty years of office. How different the history of this country for the past twenty years would have been had the impress of his peculiar personality not have been placed upon it.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will sail for Canada on July 12th. Will Dr. Sproule regard this as a trickling attempt to celebrate the Glorious Twelfth?

The Toronto Star remarks that a scientist announces that more canals are being dug in Mars. And this is in spite of the fact that Mars must have heard the two mouths of our Trent Valley Canal slang-whanging each other.

Burns, a Canadian, and Squires, an Australian, were principals in a brutality tournament, otherwise a heavy-weight prize fight. Burns bested his opponent, and now, we'll hear our Yankee cousins gloating over the victory of an "American" over a Britisher.

Sir Harry McLean, one of the ubiquitous Scottish race, commander of the body guard of the Sultan of Morocco, has been captured by Rasuli, the bandit chief, and held to ransom. Sir Henry, being a Highlandman, has one consolation—Rasuli can't rob him of his breaks.

The Conservative newspapers are declaring positively that there will be a general Dominion election this autumn. Yet, if the elections were by any chance brought on this year, these same journals would be howling about the unfairness of the Government in "springing" the elections upon the Conservatives.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will arrive in Canada to find things in good shape and himself relieved from a deal of worry. His Conservative friends have kindly re-arranged his Cabinet and fixed the dates of the general election, so that there is nothing for Sir Wilfrid to do but issue the writs for, say, September, 1907.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, has retired from the presidency of the Ontario Medical Council on account of other duties. Perhaps, in order that he will have time to reduce the price of school books, if he does not intend to apply himself more strictly to the liquor license brokerage business.

Dr. Chisholm, the Conservative representative of East Huron as reported by the London Free Press said:—

"The Laurier Government is on the run, and it is a sure sign that they expect defeat when you see the greedy leaders stealing as if it was their last chance."

So delicate and gentlemanly a way of uttering a slanderous falsehood is quite worthy a prominent member of the "party of gentlemen."

The problem of producing alcohol so cheaply as to ensure its use as a fuel in place of naphtha or gasoline is said to have been worked out by an English scientist. The Department of Trade and Commerce has received from its agent in Manchester, P. B. MacNamara, corroboration of the reported achievement. The alcohol can be produced for six cents a gallon.

The Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council has fixed another tentacle of the street railway octopus upon the city of Toronto. It has confirmed the contention of the company that it, and not the city, shall decide upon what streets it shall run cars. This is a lesson to municipal corporations to be careful as to what bargains they make with other corporations.

One lie often creates the necessity for another. One wrong act of the Whitney Government is paralelled by another. First we have the spoils system, an euphemistic name for "graft," employed to unjustly dismiss Police Magistrate Woodyatt of Brantford. This is followed by the still greater offence of filling a vacancy on the bench on the recommendation of a Conservative party patronage committee. Premier Whitney promised to eliminate politics from the administrattion of the license law. He has, not only not done this, but he has done worse; he has injected the party element into the administration of justice.

We are invited to believe that, in the matter of up-to-dateness," the United States is "the whole tip." But when we are informed, as is the case, that the city of Baltimore, one of the oldest cities on the continent, with a population of over 500,000, is still in the village stage, opinion changes. In Baltimore, one can always tell when it is washing day—by the soap suds flowing down the street gutters. The city has no system of sewerage. But under the influence of the wide-awake spirit of Yankee "go," she is now installing a sewerage system, and the city is ripped up in all directions for the purpose.

The Chest Pains of Bronchitis

If the cough is dry and hard, if there is pain, soreness and tightness in the chest; if you have difficulty in getting your breath, you have reason to suspect that you have bronchitis. Lest it should become chronic and lead to serious lung trouble, do no delay the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, the most certain cure for bronchitis.

streets and ever since the city has been steadily growing. Years before Peterborough was recognized, Port Hope was a flourishing village, where Mr. McCarrol, his brothers and neighbours used to go regularly with oxen and cart to get their wheat ground into flour and to obtain their stock of provisions. Port Hope was their market town for years; but what is difference of few years have made! Peterborough, although an inland spot, has reached and over-lapped the mark, the tortoise gage the lake shore town had set.

Mr. McCarrol's wife is living and is now two years past the four-score in age. They have the unique distinction of having enjoyed 62 years of married life, having celebrated their diamond wedding two years ago.

The Rebellion

At the time of the Mackenzie Rebellion Mr. McCarrol was only 17 years of age. His brothers, though, were older than he, and were among those balloted to assist in quashing it. He well remembers the memorable occasion and of how the mothers and daughters in his neighbourhood were weeping in almost every home, because a husband, a son, a father or a brother was compelled to enlist and to aid in conquering the rebels.

One of his brothers, Variecy, marched off to Bowmanville, where the troops were mobilized, with no weapon but a stick in his hands. He also told of he himself having a craze to go to the front, and, in company with Henry Sharin, a neighbour's son, they left Emily one morning when the cocks were beginning to crow, walked all day over a distance of 50 miles, and arrived at their destination as the sombre shadows of night were beginning to fall.

The Pipe of Peace

Mr. McCarrol has been a smoker all his life. "I like the pipe of peace," he informed the Examiner; "I have smoked tobacco all my life and am still alive."

Yesterday, when the reporter called at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Little, at 16 Boswell avenue, he with his wife and all the children but one had just returned from the Roy studio, where they had their photos taken.

Mr. McCarrol, although almost four score and ten years of age, appears as if he will see many days to come, and this is certainly the wish of his many friends.

Havelock the Centre of Ideal Summer Resorts

Trent River, Healey Falls, Round and Belmont Lakes among the Famous Haunts of Black Bass and Lunge---Correspondent Tells of the Beauty of the Scenery

Havelock, July 6.—Now that the ideal summer weather with its warm, yet pleasant evenings, has arrived, those who are thinking of spending the whole or part of the summer months beside the lake or stream, in quest of game, pleasure, or comfort, will be looking up the most suitable and convenient place for the carrying out of their intentions.

Peterborough County with its large and numerous lakes and rivers is perhaps the best and most convenient district in old Ontario for tourists, sportsmen and anglers who live any place from Kingston west to Toronto, or in United States cities connected by direct line with it.

Those who live in Toronto and intend spending their holidays beside the many streams of Peterborough County should make the village of Havelock, situated on the C.P.R., 100 miles east of Toronto, their headquarters. One can leave Toronto in the morning, arriving at Havelock at noon and before two o'clock in the afternoon can be busy with the bass and lunge. A half day might be added to the holiday of those with only a few days at their disposal by leaving Toronto about 10 o'clock the night before, arriving at Havelock at one o'clock, where good hotel accommodation can be had close to the station and where visitors can get good information on what course they should take to procure the best results. Thus half a day more is added by being able to be on the lake or river by 8 o'clock in the morning instead of 2 in the afternoon, and before the sun marks the hour of noon one is sure to have enough fish to reward them for all their extra trouble.

For those coming from Buffalo and other American cities the local train is perhaps the best leaving Toronto at five o'clock in the afternoon, arriving in Havelock at 8.30. Those coming from east of Havelock may come on trains arriving at 4 o'clock in the morning or by a train arriving at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Trent River which flows out of Rice Lake, eastward to Hastings, a distance of 6 miles and then northeast for 8 miles to Trent Bridge which is a small village 3 miles south of Havelock village is the easiest camping place reached and thus the one visited the most by those who have only a few days to spend in camp. Below Trent Bridge, the Trent River flows in a more easterly direction for 7 miles when Healey Falls is reached. A few miles below this the Trent flows into Crow Bay.

The Trent River flows at a moderate rate and is from one hundred yards to a quarter of a mile wide and in many places expanding into large bays.

When you reach Havelock, you can have a rig ready to transport you to your destination within five minutes after you step off the train and it takes only 20 minutes to reach the bridge, where boats and rowers can be hired at reasonable rates. Those who do not care to spend the holiday under canvas, can find accommodation at several boarding houses situated there or at summer cottages at the south side of the river. If you do not fancy remaining near the bridge, you can find plenty of beautiful and picturesque places along the shady banks of the river both east and west of the bridge, or on one of the several small islands that lie in the course of the river.

The fishing for both lunge and bass is the very best from the commencement to the end of the open season in the Trent. Below the bridge is a fine place for still fishing, but down the river about three miles is an expansion called Mud Lake, where lunge from five to thirty pounds may be taken. Above the bridge towards the village of Hastings is an ideal place for trawling for lunge, for they will bite freely at either spoon or live minnows.

Below Healey Falls which is one of the most beautiful sights in Central Ontario, in the deep, fast-flowing pools, the bass are found in all their glory. Healey Falls may be reached by direct road from Havelock, a distance of nine miles, or from Campbellford by a drive of 7 miles. Both accommodation and boats may be had at Healey Falls.

By writing in advance, retaining boats and conveyance, no time will be lost and before the sun sinks on the first day of you routing, a large assortment of the finest fish ever caught will be your reward.

The Lakes and Rivers to the North

North of Havelock is a long chain chain of the most beautiful lakes in Ontario joined together by small, yet navigable streams excepting in a few places where the water is shallow or broken by falls or rapids, where portages must be made.

Beginning at the south end of the chain, the first important lake is Crow. Then comes Crow River, Belmont Lake, North River, Round Lake, North River, and continuing back for about 40 miles is one long chain of small lakes and rivers, too numerous to mention.

After a six mile drive from Havelock over a good road Blairton is reached, which is in the near neighbourhood of Crow Lake, a beautiful expanse of water where fishing for small mouthed bass is the very best, and where a few boats are obtainable. In the neighbourhood of this lake are the old iron mines which one should not fail to see while there.

Belmont lake about five miles north of Crow Lake is best reached from Havelock station, a distance of about six miles. On the shores of this lake, there are several large boarding houses or a fine place may be found to pitch a tent on its high shores. Supplies of milk, butter, eggs, potatoes, etc., may be got from the surrounding farmers.

Round Lake is about 2 1-2 miles in diameter and has many pretty surroundings as well as a sandy beach running out for several hundred yards, thus affording a fine place for bathing. It is connected with Belmont Lake by a small stream navigable in all parts but Burnt Dams where it is necessary to make a portage of a few hundred yards. Round Lake may also be reached direct from Havelock by a drive of 7 miles.

The fishing in the two last named lakes is about the same as already described, only special enjoyment is experienced in fishing for eat-fish, which species is very numerous in those lakes, and bite freely.

Those seeking a quiet and enjoyable holiday will find Belmont and Round Lake most delightful places for an outing at minimum expense and trouble. Those wishing for larger variety, and abundance of sport, and who have the time to spare, should proceed northward via North River, which discharges its waters into Round Lake and which is navigable by either canoe or row-boat up to the "Narrows," where it is necessary to portage about 50 yeards, and, continuing on, Buss Bay is reached, where bass fishing is good at all times.

Oak Lake is an extensive sheet of water, prettily dotted with numerous islands, and where bass fishing can be relied on at any time during the season. It is always best to carry several kinds of bait, for on one day they will bite best at worm, while another day best at frog, or perhaps minnow, which is the most effectual bait in Oak Lake, where they are easily procured.

From Oak Lake to Kashabogamog there is a portage of about three-eighths of a mile, but it is easily made by burnt paths through the woods, on either Oak or Kosh, may be reached by a drive of 25 miles from Havelock, over a fairly good road. Kashabogamog is perhaps the most beautiful lake of the whole chain. There are many islands with charming scenery, and fine places where a tent may be erected. The water in this lake is very cool, even in the middle of summer, and the fish are of a fine quality and firm as a rock. In the neighbourhood are numerous lakes, of which the most important are Blue, Twin, Gull, Eagle, Jack, Deer, Tonomoz, Stony, White, Bottle, Missisauguga and several other smaller ones. White, Bottle and Loon Lakes are very far north, and are not often visited by sportsmen, as Oak and Kosh afford equally as much pleasure and fish.

Missisauguga and Eagle are broad lakes, connected by a small river and containing cool water, and are ideal places for those wishing an extra amount of fish, as in these lakes they literally swarm. These two lakes are best reached by way of Peterborough and Stony Lake, going northerly by the Missisauguga River from the village of Hall's Bridge.

The best way for those intending to visit the northern lakes would be to take along their boat, and an easily moved camping outfit, and thus be able to change localities whenever desired. At all stages of the trip, supplies can easily be procured from the surrounding farmers. One advantage is that any of the mentioned lakes can be reached by a six-hour drive from Havelock over fair roads. If those residing in Toronto wish to have a couple of days' outing at small cost the best way would be to leave Toronto on Saturday morning, returning Monday afternoon. Those doing this can procure a ticket at half rate on the C.P.R. Plenty of enjoyment will be got from this trip, as you can go on the Trent River or Belmont Lake by 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and need not leave until Monday afternoon about 3 o'clock.

The largest number of the Kawartha Lakes are also situated in the county of Peterborough, and are so well known that they barely need description. One great advantage they have is that they are within four hours' ride of Toronto, and seven hours from Buffalo or Rochester. Bobcaygeon, a small, yet pretty village, the terminus of the Lindsay branch of the C.P.R., is the centre of the Kawartha Lakes, and at this place guides and boats may be procured.

On the banks of the Otonabee River, which connects Stony and Rice Lakes, there are admirable places for camping. From Peterborough, Jubilee and Ivy Wild, two of the most charming summer resorts in its course, can be reached daily by steamer. A pleasant holiday may be had with rod and canoe at trifling expense at either of these places.

In Peterborough County a sporting club has a fine place for a few days' trip. At Stony Lake a gasoline launch or steamer may be hired and a trip taken over Stony Lake, then over the lift locks to Peterborough, and thence down the Otonabee to Rice Lake. From here the party may return, or, if they wish, proceed down the Trent as far as Healey Falls, where the journey must be discontinued on account of the falls there. In the whole course of this trip new sights and enjoyments will present themselves.

Peterborough County, with its large number of lakes and rivers, its numerous hunting and fishing spots, its large amount of game of all sorts, and its falls and rapids that roar the song of nature as they leap over the rocks, is bound to become, in a short time, the summer home of all those wishing for enjoyment and sport.

Commence Development Work At Healey's Falls

Lease Issued to Northumberland-Durham Power Company, Limited, for Period of Twenty Years The Price to be Paid.

3000 HORSE POWER

The Toronto Star of last night said: The new lease of the Ontario Government property and water power rights at Healey Falls to The Northumberland - Durham Power Company, Limited, has been received by Mr. F. M. Field from the Department of Lands, Forests, and Mines.

The form of lease is the printed form adopted for all water power leases from the Government, and sets apart for the use of this company the three parcels of land specifically described, owned by the Ontario Government in the township of Seymour, adjacent to Healey Falls, for a period of 20 years, computed from June 1, 1907, with the right of renewal for two further and successive terms of ten years. This makes it a 40 years' lease, provided the conditions are observed and rental paid.

A nominal rental of $10 per annum for the first two years, and thereafter 75c per horse-power developed with a minimum of $25 is provided for, during the 20-year term. Three thousand horse-power is to be developed within two years, and the company is to begin the work necessary for development in a substantial and bona fide manner to the satisfaction of the Minister of Lands, Forests, and Mines, within four months from the first of June, 1907. This period, it is understood, is to be extended another month owing to the delay that has occurred in the issue of the lease.

The penalty clause is that which appears in the printed lease form adopted by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, namely, forfeiture and cancellation for failure to begin the work necessary for development within the time stipulated, and subsequently for failure to supply the power to the extent of 3,000 horse-power within the two years stated.

The Kirkfield Lift Lock The Rival Of The Monster Structure Here

The Two Big Feats of Engineering Compared---Local Lock Has a Greater Lift, The Heights Being 48 Feet and 65 Feet---Very Important Section of Canal Thrown Open---160 Miles of Navigable Water From Healey Falls to Towns on Lake Simcoe

In view of the fact that the hydraulic lift lock at Kirkfield is being officially opened to-day by the Hon. Mr. Lemieux, some information about the structure and the section of canal which is thrown open for navigation should prove of interest to everyone. The ceremony to-day is the public consummation of several years of work upon this part of the Trent waterway, not the least important section by any means, inasmuch as it forms the connecting link between Barrie and Orillia and the other towns on Lake Simcoe and Healey Falls on the east, a distance of 160 miles of navigable water. The total length of the waterway from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay is estimated at 220 miles, so that over four-fifths of the canal is completed.

Similar to Peterborough Lock

In regard to the Kirkfield lock itself, in many respects it is very similar to the Peterborough lock, although in several particulars it is essentially different. The greatest difference between the locks is in the material of which they are constructed. In the local lock the towers and guide piers are built of concrete; in the Kirkfield lock steel work was substituted for concrete. The principle upon which the lock works is the same in both cases, although in the Kirkfield structure the operating mechanism has been simplified to some extent the experience gaining in constructing the lock here proving of benefit.

The designs for the Kirkfield lock were made under the direction of Mr. R. B. Rogers by Mr. W.E. Francis, and were elaborated by Mr. Murphy, of the Dominion Bridge Works, Montreal, which firm had the contract for the construction of the steel work. The lift is not so high as in the lock here, the relative heights being 48 feet and 65 feet, but, however, the new lock is a very imposing structure as well as a splendid feat of engineering. The lock chambers in the two blocks are the same, and there is very little difference in the construction, other than the points referred to, although in the local lock a large amount of the machinery necessary to operate the lock is placed under the breast wall, while at Kirkfield it is situated where it can be more easily seen by the general public.

Approach to Lock

The approach to the lock at Kirkfield is also different. Leading up to the foot of the structure is an immense wall of concrete, 1050 feet in length, ranging in thickness from five feet at the top to 23 feet at the bottom, and, in height, from 12 to 35 feet. The building of this wall required about one year's labour, it being commenced in November, 1901, and completed in the autumn of the next year. When it is stated that 30,000 yards of concrete were used, some idea may be obtained of its dimensions.

The Kirkfield lock is on what is known as section No. 2 of the Balsam Lake-Lake Simcoe division of the canal, the portion built by Messrs. Larkin and Sangster, of St. Catharines, who did the excavation and concrete work, while the steel work was done by the Dominion Bridge Company of Montreal. Work was commenced upon the excavation work in 1900, and it was completed in 1903, ready for the steel fixtures. Some idea of the immense amount of work involved may be gained from the fact that the excavation had to be done through solid rock, not earth, as in the case of the Peterborough lock. The piers walls had to be constructed to a depth of 86 feet below the level of the canal, through the rock, so that it may be imagined that a great amount of blasting had to be done to accomplish the feat.

In the lock itself some 3000 yards of concrete work was done, a very small amount compared to that employed in the construction of the lock here, while, of course, the cost of the steel work is greater, the figures for the Kirkfield work being estimated at a quarter of a million dollars.

Section, Twenty Miles

The distance between Balsam Lake and Lake Simcoe is about 20 miles, and the work of building the canal was divided into three contracts. The first section, starting at Balsam Lake and running for six miles, was built by the late Mr. Onnerdonk, an American contractor, and was the first finished. It extends almost to the lift lock, which, however, is on the second section.

The latter portion was built by Larkin and Sangster of St. Catharines, and is 7 1-2 miles in length, while the third section, constructed by Brown and Aylmer is about 6 1-2 miles.

In the first section there are no locks whatever, and in the second the lift lock itself is the only obstruction. There is a change, however, in the conditions in the last section where there are no less than five ordinary locks and three dams as well, so that it will be seen that the contractors had a large amount of work to accomplish to place this portion of the waterway in an navigable condition. These locks are 133 feet in length between the hollow quoins and 33 feet wide, built for a vessel with a draft of 6 feet. Messrs. Brown and Aylmer used 67,000 yards of concrete in their section, and some 650,000 cubic yards of earth were excavated, figures which show the immensity of the work done near Lake Simcoe. The contractors on this section commenced the work in the fall of 1900 and have just put on the finishing touches.

The cost of constructing the section from Balsam Lake to Lake Simcoe is estimated at $1,250,000 or about a quarter of the amount that has, up to the present time been expended on the whole canal, included in this amount is the cost of expropriating some 4,000 acres of drowned lands along the section. The Government will have the dead timber removed from these lands which will greatly improve the appearance of this portion of the waterway as well as tend to make the surroundings much more healthy. It is prophesied that this section of the canal will prove a paradise for duck shooters as the drowned land will afford the birds a home.

Balsam Lake is on the summit of the height of land dividing the waterways that run into Lake Ontario from those entering Georgian Bay. It is 596 feet above the level of Lake Ontario, and 258 feet above Georgian Bay. From the lake there is a drop of 122 feet at Lake Simcoe, which is provided for by the Kirkfield lock and the 5 locks on Brown & Aylmer's section.

About 51 miles of the canal are to be finished; 37 miles from Healey Falls to Trenton, and 14 miles from Lake Simcoe to Georgian Bay. The contracts, it is expected, will be let this season and the work finished as rapidly as possible. In the 14 miles at the Georgian Bay terminus of the canal there is a drop of 136 feet and in the portion from Healey Falls to Trenton the drop is 361 feet. The estimated cost of the work done on the canal so far is $6,000,000.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Calyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more miserable or gloomy and discouraged than liver complaint, and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia, and nothing so thoroughly and promptly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

BROKEN GLASS IN JACKSON PARK

Gentleman Calls Attention to Necessity for Providing Means of Collecting It

A gentleman last night called the attention of the Examiner to a practice which, he states, is becoming much too prevalent, of throwing broken glass around Jackson Park. He points out, very correctly, too, that there is great danger to little children playing around the park from the fact that in different parts of that beauty spot, there are broken bottles, and the suggestion he makes is that the civic authorities should place receptacles at convenient points in the park, in which picnic parties could deposit refuse, and by a systematic collection made at stated intervals rid the park of the undesirable collection of unsightly, and injurious substances. This suggestion, seems to be one worthy of being acted upon.

Notice is hereby given that the conditions of the following section numbered thirteen, of the by-laws, rules and regulations of the Peterborough Water Commissioners, will be strictly enforced; namely 13—Lawns, etc., portion of day limited for—No person or persons shall be allowed to sprinkle or use in any manner whatever the water supplied for lawns, gardens, grass plots, boulevards or grounds of any description, except between the hours of 5 and 9 o'clock in the forenoon, 4 and 9 o'clock in the afternoon. 3d-3

CHAIR STOPS RIDERS ON THE PAVEMENTS

Novel System Used by Old Lady on Mark Street

An East City lady residing on Mark street has a novel way by which she prevents cyclists from riding their bicyles on the sidewalk. Her means is so effective that those who formerly on occasions were accustomed to use the pavement, now stick to the road.

The lady watches from the window for the advance of the law-breaker, and, suddenly, out shoots a chair into the middle of the sidewalk, bringing the cycler to a standstill.

Her sense of duty for the keeping of the law compels her to take this action, as well as her belief that the pedestrians should be protected. The old lady has only one arm.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.

PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble with my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say that the opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, had obtained. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken [illegible] as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

The tourist season is beginning to show itself at our hotels. The three hotels report a thriving business along this line.

Mr. F W Doan, of Peterborough, was in town on Thursday.

Mr. Jas. G Brown has had a telephone placed in his factory in connection with his canoe business.

Mr. French, of New York City, passed through town on Saturday on his return from his very successful fishing expedition, spent at Hall's Bridge for the last two weeks.

Mr. J E Kelly has purchased the livery business formerly carried on by Mr. A E Graham. Mr. Kelly took possession on Monday 24th, and is doing a successful business.

The members of the Baptist church are making improvements to their church by taking away the fence and also by placing a new cement platform and steps.

Mr. Chas S Tanner has purchased the Gordon property on the corner of Reid and Water streets.

There are a number of new and substantial residences being built in the village this summer.

Mr. A J. Kidd is building a block cement house on Regent street.

Dr. Gibson has commenced operations on his grounds on Bridge street and intends putting up a house at once.

Mr. Richard Alford is erecting a house on Queen street. We also understand that Mr. Sidney Hunter is going to build a cement block house on Chippewa street, on the lot he has lately purchased from Mr. Darcy.

Mr. Rolf Crawford, of Toronto, is visiting at his home in the village.

Miss White, of Cobourg, spent a few days last week in the village with her mother, Mrs. Z. White.

Eight young ladies from the Epworth League of the Methodist church went over to Chemong Park on Tuesday, where they intend to camp for a week to attend the summer school, which is being held at the Park.

Judge Weller held Division Court in the town hall on Thursday, June 27th, and disposed of several cases. Peters vs. Windsor.—Mr. Langley for plaintiff asked for judgment for costs, defendant having paid claim without costs. Judgment granted as asked.

Morgan vs. Quinn and Maloney

Mr. E. Quinn was employed by Mr. D. Moloney to do some carpentering work, the agreement being that Mr. Moloney was, besides the wages, to board the men. The men lived at Morgan's Hotel, Warsaw, while doing the work, and kept a horse to drive them from there to their work and back each day. Mr. Moloney paid the man's board, but claimed that he had not agreed to pay for the horse, as they only had a mile to walk. Judgment against Mr. Quinn, with cost, per Moloney's name, as defendant's was struck out. Mr. F. D. Kerr acted for Mr. Quinn, and Mr. O. A. Langley for Mr. Moloney.

Young vs. Freeborn

Mr. Langley for defendant objected to the jurisdiction of the court, but agreed to waive the question if granted adjournment. Adjourned for one court, and if plaintiff withdraws the suit to meet in a higher court, he to pay defendant's costs. Mr. F. D. Kerr acted for plaintiff, and Mr. O. A. Langley for defendant.

Solution Of Cheap Gas Problem; Is It Reached?

A Non-Explosive and Cheap Illuminating Gas Discovered—Man at Present Visiting Here Interested In It.

HOW NEW GAS IS MADE

England has been regarded for centuries as the source of enlightenment, but it has become a source of light itself, since a London mechanical engineer has invented a process for producing a non-explosive and cheap illuminating and heating gas. As the gas consists of 98 per cent. of air, and 2 per cent. of petrol (coal oil) vapour, it should certainly be cheaper than the present prices of coal gas in Peterborough, and other cities, which make it practically prohibitive for general use in cooking and domestic purposes. Mr. Wm. Payne, of London, England, who is at present visiting relatives in Douro, near Lakefield, has left with the Examiner a booklet containing reports and expressions of opinion from the most substantial scientific and general journals of London, respecting the new light. The Royal Automobile Club Journal, of May 22nd, 1907, says:

On Wednesday, April 24th last, an exhibition and demonstration by the Non-Explosive Gas Syndicate, Limited, Kentish Town, was held at Mr. Payne's Pianoforte Premises,, Fortess road, Kentish Town, N. The apparatus, which is the invention of Mr. F. J. Cox, M.I., Mech. E., was shown at work lighting the show room and works, the gas being burned at a number of inverted mantles. The essential feature is the carburetter, into which the petrol passes from sight feeds drop by drop, and through which a current of air is forced by means of a blower worked by a small hot air engine. This carburterrer consists of moving screens that work backward and forward, and so break up the petrol as to thoroughly mix it with the large volume of air admitted. The amount of petrol is controlled automatically by the rise and fall of a small gasometer, so that the supply is given in exact accordance with the demand, No heat is applied to the carburetter and when once the machine is properly adjusted it works entirely without attention. The proportion of the mixture is 98 parts of air to 2 parts of the gasified petrol, a density of the hydro-carbon which is non-explosive, and this was was shown by applying a light to the open end of a small pipe fixed direct on the carburetter, when the mixture could not be ignited.

As the proportion of mixture contains the requisite amount of air for complete combusion there is no necessity for a Bunsen type of burner. With the special burner employed gas can be lighted in the usual manner, when it burns with a blue flame without requiring the support of the surrounding air for combustion.

The pressure that is found to work best is about 1 1-2 in., being little above half that given in the public gas supply.

The burner is an important feature and is so constructed that it enables the mixture to be ignited, and the flame thus produced is arranged to play on the ordinary type of gas mantle. The flame appears to have a great heating value, the resulting illumination from inverted mantles giving a high candle power.

As regards cost, it was stated that over 12,000 candle-power hours can be obtained per gallon of petrol, and, with the latter at 1s. per gallon, is equivalent to 1000 candle power for a penny.

At the exhibit made at the agricultural hall recently, the gas passed through about 60 feet of piping, and it was found that there was no tendency to condense or separate. The non-poisonous nature of this air-gas and its non-inflammability and non—explosive quality, if the gas happened to be left on in a room, secure for it properties of no inconsiderable value.

The small size of the plant required—not exceeding four feet sq. for the 8,000 candle-power hour size—make it well adapted for lighting country houses, churches, motor houses, schools, etc., no skilled labour being required to attend to it.

Owing to the freedom from explosions and other dangers, we understand that the fire insurance companies do not propose increasing their premiums.

HONOUR A PHYSICIAN AT WARSAW

Dr. and Mrs Douglas Remembered by Their Friends Prior to Their Departure From That Village

WAS A PLEASANT SURPRISE

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, July 2. — On Saturday evening the home of Dr. and Mrs. Douglas was the scene of a pleasant gathering. The members of the Methodist choir, of which both belong, as well as a few of their many friends, surprised the doctor and his wife by marching in and and taking possession of the house. After a short time they were conducted to places designated by the guests, and an address was read expressing regret that Warsaw was about to lose them, as both had done much for the general good of the community, and expressing hopes for future prosperity and happiness in their new and western home. In the name of the Methodist choir, and friends, Mrs. Douglas was presented with a handsome inscribed fern pot and the doctor with an elegant suit case.

The address accompanying the gift was as follows:

To Dr. and Mrs. Douglas,—

A few of your ffriends in Warsaw have met this evening to express to you their regret that they are about to lose you from their midst. In losing you from our village we feel that we are losing those who have always aime o romote the interests of the community.

You, Mrs. Douglas, have always and without a murmur, aided in every undertaking of interest to your church and choir, and in everything pertaining to women's work. Our Women's Institute, as well as the church, will miss you greatly. You have been opened your doors that we might use your home for meetings of various kinds.

To you, Dr. Douglas, this village, and the surrounding country, owes much. Largely to your efforts was due the success of the Choral Class, and the opening of the bank, the latter a very great convenience; the former a pleasure, and for our benefit as citizens. You leave a vacancy hard to fill. As our doctor, we will ever cherish your memory. It was such a comfort to feel that one so skilful was near at hand, and to know that bad roads, storms, late hours or personal weariness, would never keep you from your post. We say good-bye to you now, but we hope that at some future time we may meet and renew acquaintances. If, in God's providence, we never meet on this earth, we hope all to meet in a brighter, happier world. In your new and western home we wish you peace and joy, prosperity and happiness. Trials may come, but rightly used, they will make the brightness greater. Will you accept this fern pot and suit case, as a very slight token of our esteem. And we ask you to think not so much of the gift as of the hearts that go with it.

Signed on behalf of the Warsaw Methodist choir and friends.

Mrs. George Taylor,
Mrs. A. D. Payne,
Nathan Payne.

The gathering, and presentation were totally unexpected by the doctor and Mrs. Douglas, and as they much regretted leaving Warsaw, it was some time before the doctor could reply. With deep feeling he expressed gratitude for the thought that had planned the surprise, wonder that it could have happened so, and the deepest regret that he and his family saw fit to go to a larger centre where there would be better educational advantages for the children, who, he believed ,should be during their school days, under the parental roof. He enjoyed practising among them, as they seemed to have every confidence in his ability as a physician, and allowed him to display any skill as a surgeon that he might possess. He hoped that he would meet his Warsaw friends not occasionally but frequently, but that if they never met again on this mundane sphere they would all meet where partings were unknown.

An hour was spent in pleasant conversation and refreshments, with which the guests had come armed, and after "God Save the King" the party broke up at midnight, hosts and guests happier for the occasion.

Women's Institute

On the evening of July 1st the Warsaw Women's Institute held its annual consert. This was not to be a money making affair as the admission fees were very low and there was no outside talent. It was more for the purpose of bringing the people together for a social time, as ice cream and cake were served the people during the intermission. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mr. S. R. Payne.

The first number was a song and chorus, "The Land of the Maple," Mrs. Douglas taking the solos, and about twenty mixed voices the chorus. Miss Bessie Aikens recited "The Homesick Girl" very sweetly. This was followed by a quartette, "Where are you Going to, My Pretty Maid!" which was much enjoyed. Miss Dora Payne then sang in sweet voice "Somebody's waiting for you." Then after a few words from the president of the institute, ice cream and cake were served. Though as much cream was provided as was last year, there was none left this year; it was all used ere the demand had ceased.

The second part of the programme opened with a chorus, then a recitation, "Saved," by Master Archie Parker. It was an excellent selection, showing the evils of even social drinking, and was rendered with deep feeling. This was followed by a quartette, "Come Joyous Spring." The last number was a ribbon drill by twelve girls, who looked very pretty and graceful, and the colours —red, white and blue—added to the beauty of the drill.

After the singing of "God Save the King" the audience departed having spent a very pleasant evening. The thanks of the Institute are due those who worked so hard for the success of the evening. The stage was decorated with flags and looked very home like.

DEARTH OF APPRENTICES RESULTS IN SCARCITY OF SKILLED MECHANICS

A Somewhat Serious Condition of Affairs Recorded in Ald. Johnston's Monthly Labour Report.

NO LACK OF EMPLOYMENT

The report of the local correspondent of the Labour Gazette, Ald. Johnston, in the current issue, gives some interesting information concerning labour matters in Peterborough. It is as follows:

Considering the unseasonable weather during May, work has been active. In shops and inside places of employment, nearly all classes of workmen have found employment. A great difficulty seems to be the getting of first-class workmen in sufficient numbers to meet the requirements of the several trades. The apprenticeship system has been abandoned, and many workmen are not so well skilled in all branches of their work as they should be. Fire at the Peter Hamilton Implement works did damage to the paint and woodworking shops; the company, however, is busy preparing for rebuilding. No men are out of work in consequence of the fire. The construction of the Armouries and the Normal School is giving employment to a number of workmen. Transportation in all lines was active, and banks reported business good. The teamsters' strike for an increase in wages was settled, the men receiving $3.65. The union harness and collar makers are still out. The Sand and Lime Brick Company was very busy. The Taylor and Hall Cement Company was busy on drain pipes and other cement goods. The Canadian General Electric Company's transformer building is being rapidly pushed to completion. Work on the construction of the new Roman Catholic and Baptist churches will soon be begun. All manufacturing industries were busy, with full staffs.

Condition of Local Industries

Agriculture.—Work has been retarded on account of the very cold weather, seeding having been delayed and fall crops destroyed by the continued frosts. The weather moderated somewhat at the end of the month, and work in the district is now progressing satisfactorily.

Lumbering — Busy conditions prevailed.

Manufacturing—All industrial establishments were actively employed, and some had large numbers of orders ahead. The Quaker Oats Company is running 24 hours per day, and has added 40 workmen to its staff. The Peterborough Cereal Mill Company is also running 24 hours per day. The J. J. Turner Company is very busy and is running a full staff of employees. Public work on the Trent Canal is being rapidly pushed at several places. Curtis Brothers are very busy getting ready their kilns for brick, and have a large season's work ahead.

Mining—Conditions were somewhat dull.

Railway Construction and Employment—The building of a 300-foot siding into clay beds for the Cement Company was in progress. The city has sewer and granolithic sidewalk work in good running order, and has several miles of each to construct this year.

Condition of Particular Trades

Building—All trades were busy, with gas and steamfitters active.

Metal, Engineering and Shipbuilding—These trades were busy.

Woodworking and Furnishing — Busy conditions prevailed, except in the case of coopers, who were somewhat dull.

Printing — Printers and allied craftsmen were busy in all branches.

Clothing—Hat makers were active, and others busy.

Food and Tobacco Preparation — Ice handlers were active, and other trades busy.

Leather—Busy conditions prevailed.

Miscellaneous — Barbers, broommakers and furriers were active, and clerks, stenographers, hotel and restaurant, theatre, laundry workers, and delivery employees were busy.

District Notes

Work in the district has been somewhat impeded by the cold weather, seeding being kept back, and doubts are entertained as to the outlook for a good hay harvest. Sawmills were all busy, and work other than farming was active. Cheese factories were becoming active.

Nerves Gave Out, Almost In Despair

TWO SEVERE CASES OF NERVOUS PROSTRATION WITH WHICH DOCTORS COULD DO NOTHING CURED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Mr. Wm. Graham, Atwood, Ont., writes: "My wife had been ill for some time with nervous prostration, and we had two of the best doctors we could get, but neither of them did her any good. She gradually became worse and worse, could not sleep, and lost energy and interest in life. She was almost giving up in despair, when a friend advised a trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"From the first box of this preparation my wife used we noticed an improvement, and after using six boxes she is completely cured, and as well as ever she was—eats well and sleeps well, and feels fully restored. I cannot say too much in praise of this valuable medicine, and am satisfied that my wife owes her life to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food." This cure is certified to by Mr. C. H. McFarlane, druggist, Atwood, Ont.

Mrs. Ald. Stevens, Burgessville, Oxford County, writes: "Two years ago last November I was run down, and did not know what was wrong. I could not sleep nor eat, and at last my nervous system gave way entirely, and I had to go to bed. The doctor told me I had nervous prostration, and, though he doctored me for some weeks, I did not get any better.

"I then began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by the time I had used six boxes I was entirely cured. People remarked how well I looked, and I said, 'Yes, and I feel well, that is the best of it, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food did it.'"

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures diseases of the nerves in the only natural and effective way—by enriching the blood and creating new nerve force; 50c a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Brien said he would also recognize him from the pictures that are in print. Contrary to the general rumours that are at times reported to the effect that the Pope is ill and becoming infirm because of the recent troubles in France, the speaker remarked that he is in the best of health, is robust and sound of body and attends to his arduous daily work with vigour and despatch. During the conversation which was carried on in French, Rev. Dr. O'Brien told of the good results that St. Peter's T. A. S. is meeting with. His Holiness was interested and pleased and said "You must have good people to have such a large membership." The The Pope speaks fluently in Italian, French and Latin, can understand English but is only learning to speak it. Rev. Dr. O'Brien and his companions were asked by His Holiness to sit down while they were convening, an honour that is quite unusual.

Sight-Seeing

Rome is perhaps the most cosmopolitan city in the world and to the stranger there is something novel to be seen every day. But apart from the intermingled races, the historical remains of the city as it flourished under the Caesars, the ruins that remind one of the grandour of the voluptuous Romans who swayed the civilized world under the old empire, these are the great sources of interest to the tourist. Rev. Dr. O'Brien visited these again, and pointed out to his companions monuments that have tenaciously withstood the ravages of many centuries and which retrace the progress of the Catholic church to its first apostle, St. Peter. These are too numerous to mention, but the Catacombs are particularly important, as its subterranean passages shielded the early Christians against the worst outbursts of hatred and persecution by which the pagan city endeavoured to crush the new faith. Rev. Dr. O'Brien considers that Rome has increased in size and population during the past eight years and is now forging rapidly ahead.

Paris the Beautiful

Paris was the next city visited. To a Christian its environment is very unsettling, owing to its laxity of morals—which is so generally prevalent; but to the artist and the lover of the aesthetic in architecture, sculpture, painting and music, it is important to the student. Although the galleries of the Vatican, the walls of the Sistine Chapel and St. Peter's as a whole, is unsurpassed for its gems of art, the very nature of the Parisians is artistic, thus adding to the pervading spirit in the city. The religious trouble throughout France is manifest by the unrest and discontent that is noticed among the people. God and His holy name have been obliterated as completely as the Government could accomplish it, and the friction is not merely with the Catholic church, but with Christ. The insidious mandate that Briand and his fellows enacted was aimed at religion in every form, and threatened the very life of the church. Compromise not being possible, the Pope directed the clergy to withstand the iniquitous laws. Thus, standing alone against the tyranny of asking every prefect or mayor for the permission to hold service, the Catholic church met the brunt of the onslaught. Dr. O'Brien said that there is not a religious teaching community in France. Their lands and possessions have been confiscated and sold by the Government, and up to the present not a single report of a sale has been returned, and the money, which was, as the Government proclaimed, to be used for homes for the aged, has never been accounted for.

At present the condition is quiet, and the outcome cannot be foreseen, but there is constantly at work an insidious opposition against the Catholic church. The country is, moreover, in the throes of political turmoil, and all the time the people from the children in the schools to the aged, are being gradually affected by the infidel forces that are at work.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien said that it would not be so bad if the Catholic church was solely aimed at, for the people would at least be Christians, but religion in every form is being eradicated from the daily lives of the people.

British Metropolis

Rev. Dr. O'Brien said that he was glad to leave France, and he never in his life said with such relish that he was a British subject as when embarking at Calais. The law of questioning travellers at the ports is one of the great nuisances in Europe, and English people cannot become accustomed to it. In London the speaker had the pleasure of seeing His Majesty, King Edward, the most popular man in the British Empire. It was at St. James' Palace where he was holding a levee on the anniversary of the Indian mutiny and the surviving officers and men were presented to him. The King looks like his traditional picture.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien spoke in the highest term of the London police force and in population the British Metropolis has New York completely outdistanced.

Dublin Exposition

Ireland was the next place visited and the party of three stepped on the Old Sod with pleasure and yet with a certain feeling of sadness. Dublin had many interesting places to be seen including the International Exposition. Rev. Dr. O'Brien said that to those visiting the Toronto Exhibition there was nothing new to be seen at the Dublin show. The Canadian exhibit was by far the best and depicted accurately the conditions and wealth of Canada. At Nenagh, Tipperary, Rev. Dr. O'Brien visited his father's old home and his relatives. The broken treaty stone of William of Hanover was seen at Limerick, but the incident was soon forgottten in the Killarney district. The lovely lakes and the grandeur of the natural surroundings were enjoyed by the party. The Boyne water was crossed and the cities of Armagh, Drogedha, Londonderry and Belfast were visited, after which a short journey was made to Dumfries the home of Burns in Scotland. The party were reluctant to leave this beautiful country so quickly but they were compelled to in order to catch the steamer. The return trip was as enjoyable as the other parts.

Home, Sweet Home

Rev. Dr. O'Brien declared that his travels had proved to him that there is no country like Canada and few cities like our own Peterborough. Here there is contentment and prosperity that is unequalled in any other part that Dr. O'Brien has visited. Of Ireland he said, that the conditions are almost the same as they have always been, heavy taxation, discouragement of home industries and landlordism still exists and is driving the Irish to America, especially to the United States. They cannot conceive that we have liberties that are ideal, thinking that under British rule there are the same conditions as in Ireland. Consequently the people immigrate to the United States. Evictions are carried out as cruelly as in the days gone by, but the old feeling is dying out between the two parties and there is but little enmity between Catholic and Protestant.

At present the crops are promising but ther is practically no work for the labouring classes. The people are anxious for Home Rule but they will reject anything in the form of the last proposal made by the English Government which was altogether unfair to Ireland.

The party returned very much pleased with their trip and impressed that nowhere are there the opportunities and the ideal conditions that exist in our own Dominion.

American Cereal Company Have Reported Thefts Of Grain

Boys Were Not Guilty of Stealing From the Cars---They Only Swept Them After the Grain Was Taken Out --- Private Detective Watches the Cars Now.

TROUBLE WITH WITNESS

The seven boys who were charged with having stolen grain from cars on the spur line on, or about the 11th June, were discharged yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Dumble. The hearing was dragging along slowly when suddenly it brightened and things became interesting. Mr. R. E. Wood, who was conducting the prosecution, asked Mr. Trew, an employee of the Peterborough Cereal Company, a question and the latter refused to answer. Mr. Wood demanded that Mr. Trew be taken to the cells in the police station for contempt of court. Mr. Meldrum advised the witness to answer and finally he did so. The boys who were accused of taking the grain were, Percy and Gordon Holland, Norman and Walter LeBar, Edwin Armstrong, Geo. Brisbois and two Ahearn brothers.

Several of the boys gave evidence, but that of the men is more important.

A Troublesome Witness

Mr. Trew was called from his work in the mill, Police Officer Newhall being compelled to threaten him with arrest as he was very reluctant to accompany him. He was sworn and stated that he saw grain brought into the mill by boys on several occasions and recognized some of the boys who were in court. He said he saw it weighed and when asked, who weighed the grain the boys brought in, he refused to answer. "I don't think that is a fair question," witness said, and Magistrate Dumble told him he had to answer it. Mr. Wood then asked that he be committed for contempt of court. Mr. Meldrum interposed and advised Trew to answer the Magistrate's question because he had sworn to do so. Witness then said that he had seen Mr. Meldrum, Mr. Fair and Mr. Davidson weighing different lots of wheat the boys sold. Witness said he thought it was wrong for the boys to take the grain from the American Cereal cars. He said, "I suppose the cars belonged to the American Cereal Company, but I never asked them where they got the grain. Between Mr. Kerr, Mr. Goodwill, Mr. Wood and the Magistrate, the story was obtained from the witness, although with great difficulty.

Mr. Jas. A. Fair said the wheat and oats were used for chicken feed. He did not think it was wrong to take the grain, as he thought the cars had been swept clean. Witness said he thought the lads took it from the emptied cars of both companies, and as the Peterborough Cereal Company swept their cars before they leave the mill, he was of the opinion that the American Cereal Co. did likewise.

Mr. Meldrum

Mr. Meldrum stated that Percy Holland had come to him about six weeks ago and asked him if he would buy the sweepings from the cars. Their cars are always swept, but in shunting around, more grain is loosened from the sides of the cars. Mr. Meldrum said he thought the American Cereal Company followed the same practice, and therefore considered that there was no harm in buying the grain. The boys wanted pocket money, and they looked as if they needed it. Witness also stated that the boys did not say they were taking it from the American Cereal cars, and consequently he did not know the true state of affairs. The grain was dirty and looked like sweepings, and, as the boys said they swept the empty cars, he believed them. However, he felt satisfied they got it from the Quaker cars.

Mr. Poe, of the American Cereal Company, said they unloaded their cars with a large electric shovel, then they are shunted on to the siding and then taken back again to be swept out. Thus there is a considerable quantity of grain in the cars. Witness said the company wants the practice stopped because it leads to further theft, and cars have often come to the mills with the seals broken and a considerable quantity of grain has often been found missing.

Mr. Deane also cited cases where holes were found in the bottoms of the cars and bushels of grain stolen. The boys were not implicated in these statements, as the opinion is that men are guilty of these depredations, and the company is going to make it hot for them.

The boys were allowed to go after promising not to go near the cars again.

George Brisbois, who was supposed to have been with the other lads, was discharged as there was no evidence whatever against him.

THE ANNUAL OUTING WAS ENJOYED

St. Paul's Sunday School Picnic at Idyl Wyld Yesterday Was Largely Attended and Was a Success

THE ATHLETIC EVENTS

St. Paul's Presbyterian Sunday School was favoured with ideal weather for its annual excursion, which took place this year to Idyl Wyld. The commodious new steamer "Otonabee" was engaged for the occasion, and although there was a much larger attendance than usual, there was ample room and comfortable seating capacity. The steamer left the Wolfe street wharf at 9.30 and street railway wharf at 10 o'clock. From the very start a couple of hundred sturdy young Calvanists made the decks of the steamer fairly ring with their laughter and hum with their racket, while the adults enjoyed the unrestrained mirth and glee.

It was the first time for many years that the watchful shepherd of this flock was absent—he who had gone in and out among them for thirty-one years had just bidden them farewell. But the flock was well and carefully tended, Superintendent Madill, Librarian Pringle, Choir-leader Nelson, Elder Anderson and one or two others, bore the pleasant burden of not being weary in well doing.

After a delightful sail the steamer reached Idyl Wyld at one o'clock, having made the distance in just two hours and forty minutes from the town wharf. After dinner a spirited competition followed for the prizes offered in a programme of interesting races.

St. Paul's are great on races at their Sunday school picnics. The teachers take special delight in inculcating the practical application of St. Paul's injunction to "lay aside every weight, and the sin that doth so long beset us, and let us run with patience the life that is set before us," etc.

The following is the list of events and the names of the successful scholars in each:

50 Yard Race, (boys).—1, Chas. Bergoine; 2, C. Mongraw; 3, Max McClellan.

Potato Race, (girls).—1, Mable Pringle; 2, E. Goodenough; 3, L. Vanorman.

Three-legged Race.—1, W. Clark and R. Bowes; 2, A. Howson and R. Laing.

Primary Boys.—1, Herbert Mason; 2, Fred Vanorman; 3, Stanley Anderson; 4, Walter Beavis, 5, Willie Segum.

Senior Primary Girls.—1, Lillian Moore; 2, Wilma Nelson; 3, D. Birgon; 4, W. Meredith; 5, J. Anderson.

Nothing occurred during the afternoon to mar the pleasure of the excursionists. It was remarked, however, that only a small percentage of the fathers and young men of the congregation were present. "Scarcely a baker's dozen, all told," was the way one of the teachers put it. Somebody replied, "Well, they are the breadwinners, and it's hard for them to get away. A good old Knoxonian me hoer quickly responded with, "Oh! if it was a base ball match or a political meeting they wouldn't have that for an excuse."

The trip home was made in three hours—leaving Idyl Wyld at 5.30 and arriving at 8.30.

The ways and means executive have nothing but praise to offer for the manner in which they were treated by the steward and officers of the steamboat company. Every consideration was shown them during the day and a liberal spirit was shown in the settlement of their agreements.

IMMORALITY IN AN EAST RIDING HOTEL

Told to Constable Cochrane—Alleged Illegal Sale of Liquor

Mr. George Cochrane, High County Constable, has received a letter from an East Peterborough resident, which tells of the greatest immorality that can possibly be conceived, and of the barefaced breaking of the liquor law in one of the hotels of that riding. The informant in the letter states that the proprietor has no regard for Sunday as he says liquor can be had at any moment of the day or night.

But the actions of the waitresses in connection with the hotel, according to the writer, are even more disgraceful, and if the truth is told, there is certainly much room for improvement.

Mr. Cochrane, of course, could not do anything with the request to have things righted, but has sent the letter to one of the license commissioners of East Peterborough. He stated however if the names of the witnesses were sent to him he would prosecute the accused parties.

Mr. W. J. McCallum Expresses Appreciation of the Large Patronage He Received

Mr. W. J. McCallum wishes to give notice that he has disposed of his restaurant business to Mr. McEwen Spence, late of the Homewood Sanitarium, at Guelph, and that Mr. Spence took possession on Wednesday morning last.

Mr. McCallum also wishes to extend his sincere thanks to the people of Peterborough and vicinity, for the unstinted patronage given him during the sixteen years he has been in business and he is glad to state that he is retiring from the business when it is at its best.

In selling his restaurant to Mr. Spence, Mr. McCallum did so, feeling that the new owner was a most capable man and would have no trouble in meeting the wishes of the people here.

Mr. McCallum, in thanking the citizens for assisting him, sincerely hopes that the same support will be tendered Mr. Spence, who will, he feels sure, give every satisfaction.

Invites Patronage

Mr. McEwen Spence, late of Guelph, desires to notify the public that he has purchased the restaurant business conducted for the past 16 years by Mr. W. J. McCallum, and in doing so, wishes to invite a continuance of the large patronage extended to his predecessor. He assures the public of a prompt and satisfactory service, and hopes that the public generally will give him their support.

FIRST PRIVATE STEAMER TO NAVIGATE UPPER REACHES

Outside of the Government steamers engaged in their work on the canal, the first steamer to pass over the new Kirkfield lift lock and navigate the reach beyond to Lake Simcoe was a Peterborough boat, the Rob Roy, Mr. R. M. Roy's trim little yacht, left here on Tuesday in charge of Mr. Roy, who went to Kirkfield for the purpose of making the official photographs of the opening ceremony, being held to-day. It is a legal distinction that a Peterborough man should be the first to navigate that section of the canal. Word was received yesterday from Mr. Roy at Beaverton, informing those at home that he had reached that town and that the had found the canal perfectly navigable.

COW TRAMPED ON SMALL BOY

Alex. Pigeon, the ten year old son of Mr. George Pigeon, Kirk street, had a narrow escape this morning from injury by a cow. He was driving two cattle for Mr. Andrew Graham, the grocer, at the corner of Aylmer and McDonel streets, when he became entangled in the rope attached to one of the cows. He fell with his face upon the ground, and was thus dragged along the road about a hundred yards. The cow also trampled on him. It is not yet known how serious his injuries may be.

Ald. Duncan, who happened along at the time, witnessed the accident and carried the helpless youth into Mr. Graham's store. He is believed to be seriously injured.

A FAIR MARKET IN SPITE OF EARLY RAIN

Butter Fallen in Price, But Price of Eggs Avance

The threatening clouds of early morning prevented, for a time, the marketers from attending, but on the arrival of the sunshine many brought their produce for sale. Eggs were very scarce, selling at 18 cents per dozen. The price of butter is on the decline, and to-day it was marked around 22 cents per lb. Potatoes were disposed of at $1.25 per bag, and chickens at 75 cents and upwards per pair. Hay has been coming in in large quantities recently, and the price is now down to from $12 to $14 a ton.

New Siding

The Ontario Coal Co's new sheds on Wolfe street are completed, and an office at the corner of Aylmer and Wolfe street has been erected. A siding is being built from Aylmer street to run close to the coal shed, thus making unloading very feasible.

VILLAGE WIPED OUT

Twenty-Six Buildings in Lawrence Burned Away.

WIND FANS THE FLAMES

Loss Estimated at $75,000 — Forest Fires Raging Near Quebec—Three Men Drowned In Trying to Escape —Boy Plays With Gunpowder and Loses an Eye—Fatalities From Use of Fireworks.

Malone, N. Y., July 6.—Twenty-six buildings, including every business place in North Lawrence, were destroyed by the fire which, fanned by a strong wind, swept through the village yesterday at a pace which defied the efforts of the fire-fighters sent from Malone. The loss is estimated at $75,000, with small insurance.

Drown In Escaping Flames.

Quebec, July 6.—A fierce forest fire is raging near Reed Station, 60 miles from here, and has caused the death of three men.

They were trying to escape from the fire and rushed into a lake and were drowned. Only one of the victims has been identified. He is an Englishman named W. T. Macdonald.

SET FIRE TO POWDER.

Little Boy Will Lose Sight of Eye as Result.

Kingston, July 6.—Willie Davy, 6 years old, son of Charles Davy, Petworth, got hold of a bottle containing gunpowder, and, childlike, lighted a match and applied it to the powder, with the result that the powder exploded, bursting the bottle into fragments and burning the lad's face and arms terribly.

The little fellow will lose the sight of one eye. The house was also set on fire, but the flames were extinguished.

The Day After.

Chicago, July 6.—The Tribune yesterday says 37 men, women and children are dead, 2,153 are maimed, lacerated or burned as a result of Thursday's excess of patriotism in the United States. The roster of the dead is four more than last year's mortality.

New York leads in the number of injured, with Pittsburg a close second with 15 dead. The total number of injured is under last year's figures, which were 2,789.

Most of the casualties were due to carelessness in handling firecrackers.

LADY CLERK SWINDLED.

Film-Flam Operator Works Successful Game In Postoffice.

St. Catharines, July 6.—A slippery customer visited the city Thursday and endeavored to work a bogus cheque game upon several merchants. The first place he visited was Charles Togan's furniture store, where he tendered a cheque for $458 in payment for $132 worth of furniture purchased. He did not get away with the game, however, as Mr. Logan was suspicious and refused to accept the cheque. The stores of Andrew Foster, John W. Timmons and Roath & Furminger were also visited with the same or similar motives, but in no case did the game come out as anticipated.

At the postoffice he approached the stamp wicket and asked the young lady if she could give him a $20 bill or $20 in bills. She replied that she had a $10 bill and two $5 bills, and he then emptied his pocket, saying that would do. Fifteen dollars was found all right and taken by the young lady, but upon counting over the balance, $5 was found to be only $4.75. In the meantime he had asked her to put it in an envelope and seal it.

The young lady then turned to wait upon other customers, and later returned to him and told him of the shortage, to which he replied: "Oh, she must have given me the wrong change." He then handed her the envelope, promising to go and get the correct change, and she, supposing it to be the original $20 put it in the cash drawer. Suspicion that all was not right occurred to her next morning, and upon opening the envelope it was found to contain a blank paper. The man departed on a trolley car for the Falls.

CAUGHT MISSING TELLER.

Runyan Had $64,000 With Him When Arrested.

New York, July 6.—Chester R. Runyan, the missing teller of the Windsor Trust Company, who disappeared with about $96,000 of the company's funds, several days ago, was arrested in this city yesterday.

Runyan carried a satchel containing $64,000 when arrested. A Mrs. Cotler, in whose home he was captured and to whom he said he had given $15,000, was also detained by the police.

That Runyan was not the immaculate young man his employers thought he was, up to the day he went off with his dress suit case stuffed with the trust company's money, is now an established fact. For weeks before his disappearance he had been speculating in stocks under the name of Martin Chase. Speculative accounts that he carried with three stock brokerage houses have been unearthed.

HUNTER TO BE TRIED.

Haileybury Bartender Faces Charge of Aggravated Assault.

Haileybury, July 6.—Gardner Hunter, bartender, was arraigned before their Worships Cobbald and Driden here on a charge of aggravated assault.

Attorney Slaght entered the plea of not guilty for the defendant. Two witnesses for the crown were sworn showing the seriousness of the assault committed.

The defence offered two character witnesses. The defendant is held for trial at North Bay and released on $6,000 bond.

Too Noisy to Live.

New York, July 6.—Distressed by the noises of the 4th of July celebration, Mrs. Johanna Evart, a widow, hanged herself from a bedpost.

BAND GAVE A CHOICE CONCERT LAST NIGHT

Programme Had to be Curtailed Owing to the Inspection

The 57th Band gave another delightful programme in Victoria Park last evening, thoroughly pleasing a very big crowd of people. Owing to delay caused by the inspection of the regiment, it was 9 o'clock before the concert began, and the programme had to be curtailed. Some gems were given, however, the favourite being the Yankee Consul selection. A new number was the catchy Irish-Indian intermezzo, "Arrah-Wanah," which is the craze of the country just now.

YOUNG BOY STOLE A WATCH AND BROKE IT

Parents Have to Make Good the Damage by Paying Ten Dollars

At the police court yesterday afternoon a little boy named Monglow was accused of having stolen a watch, the property of Mr. W. G. Froeburn, on the first of July. After playing with it he smashed it, and, when found, the glass front was broken, the hands were torn off, the case dinged and the works badly damaged. The watch is valued at $17, and a jeweller estimated that $10 would be required to repair it.

Magistrate Dumble declared that the parents would have to make good the boy's mischief by paying the $10 in instalments of $2 per week.

AN IMPORTANT LINK IS ADDED TO CANADA'S TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

THE OFFICIAL FUNCTION

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Postmaster-General, Speaker of the Day—Declared Lock Officially Open.

Special Staff Correspondent.

The formal and official opening of the hydraulic lift lock at Kirkfield Saturday, marked, as Mr. Geo. Grant expressed it, another "watermark" in the development of national transportation interests as represented by the Trent Canal. By this opening twenty miles of direct canal are added to the one hundred and forty miles previously existing, making a total of 160 miles of internal navigation, not to speak of the large area of traffic tributary to the canal from the large expanse and long, rich and fertile shore line of beautiful Lake Simcoe, and the beautiful towns of Beaverton, Barrie and Orillia, whose importance needs some thinking to realize. The national aspect of the occasion is of greater importance, for the opening of the lift lock at Kirkfield represents another link in the chain of navigable waters which will make the Trent Canal part of the watery highway which in the near future will bear the freight of wheat-laden ships, carrying the annually renewed contents of the granary of the Empire from the Twin City gateway of the Northwest to the seaboard en route to the heart of the Empire in the Tight Little Isle. It did not need the assurance of Hon. Mr. Lemieux of the intention of the government to prosecute the great work to completion, for Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared to the same effect on his last visit to Peterborough. The fact that the completion of the canal is in sight added emphasis and conferred significance upon the function of Saturday which was in every way a happily successful event, unmarred by a single contretemps and unbroken by any departure from the defined programme. The Government authorities and the public who assisted on the occasion are to be congratulated upon the happy outcome of the day, and Mr. J. B. McClellan, the efficient superintendent of the canal, upon whom the burden of preliminary preparation and the carrying out of the programme mainly rested, is, together with those co-operating with him, to be congratulated upon the success that attended his and their efforts.

The Voyage to Kirkfield

Precisely at 7.20 o'clock Saturday the Toronto Flyer to which were attached the special coaches of the Government party, which arrived by the C.P.R. earlier in the morning, steamed out of the station, having on board besides the Peterborough contingent, the ministerial party and press representatives from the east, the former composed of Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General and Minister of Labour, representing Sir Richard Cartwright, acting Minister of Railways and Canals, and his private secretary, H. Perret; Mr. M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, and his private secretary, F. McCourt, and Dr. Coulter, Deputy Postmaster-General. The presence of the press representatives which in turn represented a very great aggregate publicity and influence, was secured by the action of Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P.

Arriving at Lindsay in good time, the party was greeted with a slight downfall of rain. Proceeding to the wharf the steamer Stoney Lake was there to convey the general party, while the Government steamer, Sovereign, conveyed the members of the press, and the Government tug, Bob Hall, the members of the canal staff.

Shortly after nine o'clock, the little fleet started on its voyage to Kirkfield. Some idea of the importance with which the event of the day was regarded, is shown by the fact that some fifteen or sixteen newspaper correspondents, representing the leading journals of Canada, and others in England, had accepted the member's invitation. These were:

J. A. Garvin, Ottawa Journal.
Ed. Grange, Toronto Globe.
Chas. Blue, Toronto Globe.

Hand, Gazette, Fenelon Falls; —Moore, Star, Fenelon Falls; W. S. Givens, Reporter, Millbrook; and J. H. Hales, Packet, Orillia.

AT KIRKFIELD

The first part of the voyage was "up-hill" work, the steamer rising through successive locks, till, at about 2 o'clock, Kirkfield was reached, the highest point on the canal—596 feet above the level of Lake Ontario and 830 feet above the sea level.

Youth's Leg And Trousers Burned In Sunday's Fire

DAMAGE WILL BE SLIGHT

A disastrous fire was very narrowly averted at Auburn last night in the residence occupied by Mr. Edward Tobin. One of Mr. Tobin's sons, a youth about 16 years of age, was rather seriously burned on the leg and the flames even ignited his trousers.

The alarm was sent in by telephone from the Auburn Mills as the person who attempted to open alarm box 59 failed in the attempt. The key, he considered would not fit the lock and he smashed it with a stone. In speaking to Foreman Pakenham afterwards he understood that the pendulum had to be dropped down 59 times in order to sound the alarm. All that is necessary is to pull down the small red once and the machanism does the rest.

The origin of the blaze was due to the explosion of an overturned lamp in a bedroom. A quantity of bedding and a suit of clothes were destroyed.

The building belonged to Mrs. McIntyre who resides near Curtis' brickyard.

Owing to the delay in sending in teh alarm the fire was practically extinguished when the firemen arrived on the scene. The alarm sounded about 11 o'clock.

Hammock Broke And Toronto Young Man Fell On A Stump

REMOVED TO THE HOSPITAL

An accident occurred at Chemong last night which at first seemed of a trival nature, but latterly assumed serious aspects. Mr. Ed. E. Attrill, of Toronto, who is visiting with his brother-in-laww, Mr. Heaton, at the Park, was resting in a hammock which was, unfortunately, hung over stump. Quite unexpectedly one of teh ropes broke and Mr. Attrill was thrown to the ground his back coming in contact with the stump.

Mr. Attrill did not appear to be seriously injured at first, but afterwards became unconscious. Dr. Young of the city, was called out and he ordered Mr. Attrill to be taken to the Nicholls Hospital. Mr. Belleghem's private ambulance made the trip and conveyed the injured man to Peterborough. He was found to be suffering from congestion of the brain and was unconscious for a considerable time. This afternoon it was learned that he had regained consciousness and his condition is slightly improved.

A LAKEFIELD MAN WAS KILLED

Wm. Hamilton, Jr., the Victim of a Fatal Railway Accident on Canadian Northern Railway

DIED IN WINNIPEG

A despatch to the Examiner to-day from Lakefield gives the sad information that Mr. William Hamilton of that town had been advised on Saturday of a fatal accident of which his son, William, was the unfortunate victim. It appears that the young man, who was an engineer on the Canadian Northern Railway running out of Port Arthur, was injured in a wreck, the details of which have not been learned. In this accident he was badly scalded and internally injured as well. The young man was taken to the General Hospital in Winnipeg, and word was received yesterday that the injuries he received were of such a serious nature that he had passed away.

His body will be brought to his home for burial.

To-day's Globe has the following despatch from Winnipeg, giving some further details of the wreck:

Winnipeg, Man., July 7.—The Canadian Northern express, eastbound, was wrecked six miles beyond Raidy River at midnight. The engine struck three cattle lying on the track and the entire train, with the exception of the sleeper and diner, was ditched. Fireman Vance was killed. He was so terribly burned that he died at Rainy River hospital two hours later. Engineer Hamilton was very badly scalded, but will probably recover. The passengers were nearly all ticketed to points in Eastern Canada, and all escaped serious injury. The dead fireman's home is in Thessalon, Ont., and the body will be sent there for burial.

AMERICAN VISITOR IN THE CITY

Mr. W. D. Nelson, of Cadillac, Mich., Here on Visit to Relatives—Second Visit in 24 Years

Mr. W. D. Nelson, of Cadillac, Mich., arrived in the city on Saturday on his second visit to his old home in 24 years. Mr. Nelson has a number of relatives in the township of Otonabee, and will spend a couple of months visiting among them. Last year he was here for about ten days on his first visit since he left to make his home in the United States, when a lad. On the occasion of that visit he was unable to see all his relatives and this summer he is taking a more extended vacation, and will spend the next two months re-visiting the scenes of his childhood. Mr. Nelson is a newspaper man in the prosperous Michigan city, and is satisfied with the land of his adoption. He mentioned an interesting fact in speaking of the industries of Cadilac, a city which is noted for the production of hardwood flooring, lumbering being its chief industry, and stated that from one of the mills in that city material for a bowling alley which was erected in Buckingham Palace for King Edward was manufactured.

AN ABUSE OF POWER

Toronto Star.

The very large majority which supports the Ontario Government in the Legislature is a power which ought not to be abused, even when the temptation to abuse comes in the form of swelling the Provincial revenues, and thus apparently promoting the public interest. The Government is the guardian, not only of the money and the material interests of the people, but of the honour and justice of the people, and it should assume that the people do not desire to see wrong done to a private individual, or to deprive him of his legal rights. In two or three recent cases there has been a disposition to ignore this public duty.

Chapter 15 of the Statutes of 1907 is an attempt to deal by legislation with the question of the title to mines in Cobalt Lake, claimed by the Florence Mining company under a discovery made by W. J. Green. There was a dispute as to whether at the time of discovery the lake was open for exploration. The Florence Mining Company contended strongly that it was open, and declared their willingness to prove all the facts upon which their claim is based. The Ontario Government, disregarding this claim, issued a patent to the Property in question to the Cobalt Lake Mining Company. The Government contends that when Green made his discovery the lake was not open for exploration. Admitting that the point was in doubt, the right course was surely to examine the claims of the Florence Mining Company carefully and not to sell the property to another company, and then rush to the Legislature for an Act confirming the sale. The Florence Mining Company had brought an action in the courts asking for a declaration that the letters patent to the Cobalt Lake Company were issued erroneously, and that the Florence Mining Company were entitled to the property. In the midst of this action the Government intervened and induced the Legislature to pass an Act confirming the sale. Surely this is an abuse of the power of legislation. Its tendency is to render insecure the title, not only to mining property but to all property. If A and B are disputing over the right to a farm. A may go to the Legislature and induce it to pass an Act declaring that the farm is his, and rendering all proceedings in the courts futile.

Chapter 23 of the Statutes for 1907 contains a provision relating to copyrights in school books. Certain copyrights in literary selections in readers were obtained by the W J Gage Company, the Copp, Clark Company, and the Canadian Publishing Company. By the legislation referred to these copyrights are appropriated by the Ontario Government, and may be transferred to any persons whom the Government shall authorize to publish readers. Here it is alleged that the Government is acting in the public interest by destroying a monopoly. But if it can confiscate the copyright in these selections it can confiscate any copyright, on the patriotic ground that works of genius ought to be widely circulated among the people of Ontario. The Ontario Statute is a direct contravention of the British copyright law; it is hardly contented that it can stand the test of legal proceedings. But it is not wise to fill the statute books with legislation that is used merely as a "bluff."

A similar disregard for private rights appears in the dealings with the O'Brien mine. Certain parties named Timmons alleged that the grant to the O'Briens was invalid, having been obtained by wrong representations as to discovery. The Timmons could not take proceedings themselves, but induced the Attorney-General of Ontario to do so. The Government being doubtful whether it could succeed in the action, compromised by accepting one-quarter of the value of the claim, amounting to about one million dollars, and confirming the O'Briens' title. It may be said that the people of Ontario made a million dollars by this operation. But that does not make the operation right. Either the claim of the O'Briens was just, in which case the Government had no right to deprive them of a million dollars, or it was unjust, in which case it had no right to hand them the balance of the property, ignoring the claims of the Timmons.

It should be remarked that this question had nothing to do with that of the public ownership of mines, or of the right of the public to the revenue from mines. The Government has a right to adopt any policy it pleases in these matters, but it should stand by its policy and keep faith with those who act in good faith under the laws and regulations that may be in force.

122 feet above Lake Simcoe and 258 above Georgian Bay. From Balsam Lake the canal cut through the solid limestone rock, by Ondersonk, extends six miles to the lift lock, the site of the great divide, the apex of the two watersheds tributary, respectively, to Lake Ontario and the Georgian Bay.

When the party arrived, the shores on both sides were found covered with thousands of people of the surrounding country. Rev. Father O'Sullivan was holding his parish picnic that day, and the lift lock opening was a chief element in the attractions.

The steamer Stoney Lake entered the lower channel of the lock, and the first recognized lift, which put the lock into commission, was made. The lift lock was fully described and illustrated in Saturday's issue of the Examiner, therefore no description of it is here necessary. It presents a striking appearance, though the steel superstructure is less cyclopean than the massive concrete monolith of its Peterborough fellow. It is enough to say that the lock worked perfectly in every respect. No official time of the look-up was taken, but the actual lift was about three or four minutes, a distance of 48 1-2 feet. The lift through the double locks at Fenelon Falls, 24 feet, was made in 24 minutes, a foot to a minute. The old wooden lock at Rosedale, in whose 100-foot chamber the Stoney Lake's 90 feet of keel was a pretty snug fit, took seven minutes to overcome a difference in level of between three on four feet. Thus, in one-sixth of the time required at Fenelon Falls, the lift lock elevates a craft twice the height.

THE SPEAKING

The lift swiftly and successfully completed, the steamer, having reached the upper level, steamed out into the northern approach, and the forward part of the hurricane deck made a capital speaking platform, and the rocky scarp on the western side, packed in all its upward slope of some fifty feet with humanity, made a splendid auditorium. Mr. R. J. McLaughlin of Lindsay performed the duties of chairman. He referred to the importance of the occasion—to open a magnificent work of engineering enterprise which connected the waters of Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay, and made Ontario an island.

Mr. Hall M. P.

spoke of the pleasure it gave him, as a native of Victoria County, to be present on the most important occasion in its history, the opening of another element in the great public works of Canada. It opened up 180 miles of navigation and served the transportation needs of a thousand miles of shore line. Reference was made of the completed canal opening up a navigation thoroughfare from Midland to Montreal, and forming a most efficient freight regulator, with 75-ton barges carrying the grain of the Northwest and the produce along its route, and also playing an important part in the development of Canada.

Hon. Rudolph Lemieux

who was received with very hearty cheers, thanked the people for their most kind and cordial reception, and, after referring to the great significance of the occasion, congratulated Mr. M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, for the success he had achieved in connection with this vast engineering work, which he—the speaker—had opened that day. He was present as one of the younger ministers, to represent the older ministers. He referred to the fact that here, in the heart of Ontario, he was brought into touch with his ancestors, as in his native province. This was the ter-centenary of Samuel de Champlain, one of his ancestors, who had, three hundred years ago, passed through these very waters. A circumstance suggesting that here, as in Quebec, monuments might well be placed to the memory of this intrepid pioneer of civilization and empire. The ceremony of to-day was one important step forward in the advancement of this district. They had literally risen fifty feet to make connection with Georgian Bay, and we could look forward to more extended transportation activity and facilities. Few subjects were more important than transportation, whether by the springless ox-waggon of the western plains, the whirlwind auto, or the agency of steam. Roads and canals were of great antiquity, but the Romans knew nothing of lifting immense ships great heights as had been done to-day. The great artist, Leonardo da Vinci, discovered the lift lock idea. The canal systems of England and France accounted for much of their thrift and commercial growth. Manchester had spent eighty millions to make itself a seaport, and the Suez and Panama Canals were evidences of the importance of canals. The Trent Canal had been begun fifty years ago, and if the energy of construction seen the past ten years had been early applied, it would long since have been completed. Canada, from Montreal to Lake Superior, had eight canal systems. The Trent Canal, when completed would add 200 to the mileage of systems, and, with a continuation of the energy of the past ten years, which might be counted upon, the end was in sight. (Applause). Canada had spent $114,000,000 in the development of her canal system, and the last fiscal year the expenditure was $2,500,000. Canada was under the influence of a Government of progress, and he assured his hearers that they might confidently look forward to the completion of the Trent Canal at an early date. (Applause.) Reference was also made to the abolition of all canal tolls by the present Government. Canal-building would develop alike the east and the west. The ship of State was sailing on the waters of prosperity largely through our canals. Canada may be in a position to undertake the great work of the Georgian Bay canal, which would be a great work: for all our avenues of transportation will be taxed before we shall be able to supply the demand. The Georgian Bay canal would make Canadian shipping supreme on the great lakes. The importance of the Trent Canal as a local benefit was shown by the fact that, when completed to Trenton, it would mean a saving of $32,500 to year in the cost of coal to the city of Peterborough, while the saving to the Lakefield Cement Company would be $35,000 per year. These were but samples of the widespread internal benefits. The canal and its low freight rates had determined the location of the great Cereal Works in Peterborough. All occasions like the present one are part of the making of Canada. The money of the people was better spent in building up our country by the arts of peace than in promoting burdensome militarism. (Applause.) Let us, urged the speaker, avoid such provocations to war, let the doctrine of conciliation prevail, whether in the domain of labour or international relations. Hon. Mr. Lemieux believed that the British Empire was the greatest secular influence for good which ever existed, and the best expenditure of public money was that which developed the citizens of all parts of the Empire to the highest level of life. (Applause.)

Colonel Sam Hughes

Congratulated Hon. Mr. Lemieux on being a successor of the great Champlain, and spoke of the important saving of freight on local farm products the canal would cause. He was glad to see the canal policy of the Government he once supported being so vigourously carried out. While he did not want to see the present Government in power till the canal was completed, he was anxious to see it finished.

Mr. George Grant

Spoke of the occasion and the work as another landmark, or, rather, "water-mark" in the Governments' history of canal construction. He hoped to be able to boast of having lived to see the canal completed.

Hon. Senator Cox

Expressed his profound satisfaction at being present to assist in the opening of another evidence of the rapid progress in the work of building the Trent Canal. He was not only glad to note this progress, but glad to hear Mr. Lemieux say that the work would be soon completed. This was gratifying, not only on account of local interests, but on account of the interests of Ontario, of Canada, and of the Empire. It would be another channel through which to pass the products of Canada to the Motherland, and this canal would be only a part of the improvements needed to this end. It was a great satisfaction to have with us to-day a minister of the most progressive Government Canada had ever had. (Applause.) The present occasion would widely make known the merits of the canal—there were correspondents present of all the leading Canadian journals, and also of the London Times.

Hon. Mr. Stratton

Expressed his pleasure on behalf of the Press of congratulating the Government on the great progress made in the construction of the canal. If the Government had taken the advice of the press, the canal would have been completed long ago — the press always tried to tell the truth; and the merits and importance of the canal were great truths. Peterborough was always greatly interested in the canal, and what we and the country wanted was achievements, such as was represented in the work of to-day. We were not looking for promises, but performances, and he hoped soon to witness the completion of the canal from

A Lindsay Ventriloquist In The City Yesterday

Lived in Peterborough Thirty Years Ago—Tells an Amusing Story in Connection With the Ventriloquistic Art.

WELL KNOWN IN THE CITY

Mr. Fred Edmunds, of Lindsay, whom many Peterborough people will remember being here about 30 years ago, was in the city yesterday looking over the scene of his younger days. Mr. Edmunds was a well known concert man when here, noted for his powers of ventriloquism and has an amusing story to tell of a former exploit.

When first he learned the art many of the Old Country people and particularly those from Ireland, where fairy stories abounded, were very superstitious and believed him to be in league with supernatural powers.

On one occasion he manufactured a little wooden man about two feet high to assist him in his ventriloquistic programmes, and with which he almost scared to death an Irishman who was a thorough believer in fairy existence. His father, he had often stated, the night before he passed into the regions beyond had seen a fairy which had spoken to him and he himself had seen one of the little men standing on a log in the pasture field, which had asked him if he were looking for his cows.

Mr. Edmunds, of course, was behind the log and had the extreme pleasure of witnessing the hasty retreat over rocks, stumps and brush piles to his home. He went straight to bed believing his time had come and all remonstrances on the part of his wife that he saw no fairy were unavailing.

Later on in the evening he was informed that Fred Edmunds with his wooden man was the solution of the difficulty. After that, Mr. Edmunds stated, the gentleman refused to meet him in the street so certain was he that his powers were more than mortal.

Lake Ontario to Lake Huron. On behalf of the press he congratulated the Government upon the splendid work opened to-day.

At the conclusion of the speaking, the crowd gave hearty cheers for the King, Mr. Lemieux, the ladies, and Mr. Stratton.

Over the New Waterway

The formal opening of the Lift Lock is only an introduction to the new stretch it opens — only the gateway to a new stretch of canal. From the Lock the happy party now set out on the voyage over what is known as No. 2 Section, built by Larkin and Sangster. It is a level of seven and a half miles, unbroken by locks, and is, so far as they are concerned, smooth sailing. To canalize this portion of the Talbot River valley, it was necessary to construct a dam and lock. This "drowned" an area of low-lying lands, includes some farms, of about six square miles, or about 4,000 acres. These submerged lands, with the dead trees thrusting their gaunt trunks through the shallow water makes the voyage along the canal far from inviting. It is suggested that this submerged area would make a great place for duck. If some enterprising sportsman would import some wild rice from Rice Lake, and sow it over these drowned lands, the resulting crop would make a paradise for duck. However, No. 3 Section, reaching from the boundary between Eldon and Thorald townships to Lake Simcoe, a distance of about six and a half miles, constructed by Brown & Aylmer, is something different, and better. So far as scenic effects and beauty of work are concerned, it is, perhaps, the finest example of canal proper on the entire route, so far. There are on this section five locks and dams, and several bridges. The locks and dams are splendid pieces of engineering work, in fact, without punning, they are concrete examples of Engineering skill, and skilful workmanship. Dam No. 1 is a specially fine piece of work. It is 30 feet in height, the foundation being several feet under ground, and protected with sheet piling. The lower, or exposed, face of the dam, shows waste weirs with curved overflow aprons, and the wing walls ornamented with gigantic recessed panels. This style of work is characteristic of all the locks and dams on this section. Half a mile below Lock No. 2, the canal leaves the valley of the Talbot river, and cuts straight through the country to the lake. The canal here is a splendid piece of work, the banks are neatly levelled, sodded on the canal face of the slope, and elsewhere seeded. The whole of the canal is protected by rip-rap work, margined above by a line or curb of reinforced concrete blocks, 24 inches long, and sunken one foot in the soil of the bank. At present, along this route, there are very pretty cottages being built for the lock-masters. The cost of each is $700—all the deputy minister will allow for the purpose. Senator Cox, who knows a little about building, was anxious to learn Mr. McClellan's secret—how he could construct such handsome and substantial buildings for so little money.

Prehistoric

There are some points on this section of historic, and, indeed, romantic interest. Near Lock 2 is the Portage Road bridge. This is the site of the grand portage on the route pursued by the Indians and voyageurs in their journeyings from the Northwest prairies to Eastern Canada in early days. Further down, nearer the lake, there is a place called "Champlain's Landing." This is the point where the great French pioneer, in passing up the Talbot River from Lake Simcoe, came to the head of navigation and with his party was compelled to "land" and make the portage to Balsam Lake; and it is possible that the very point where the canal leading to the lift lock, opened on Saturday, leaves Balsam Lake, the great Champlain and his party may, 300 years ago, have launched their canoes for the southern voyage. Near, or at "Champlain's Landing" an interesting find was made. In the course of canal construction it was found necessary to remove a large elm which was more than three feet in diameter and had been dead many, many years. In cutting into the tree to fell it, deep within there was found traces of an axe, and some ruddy cut letters which, however, were destroyed by splitting. Outside the part of the trunk where the axe marks were found there were counted 100 rings of annual growth. So that the tree must have been "blazed" much more than a hundred years ago for it had evidently been dead many years.

Along this section also is found a part of bridge of might for the benefit of the critic of the Government. This highway bridge a fine concrete arch structure, spans the canal at the 4th concession of the township of Eldon, the company is made that the structure, costing so much, only accommodates four or five farmers. But these farmers had rights which would have been removed if the bridge had been removed, or not built. They would have been compelled to travel four miles extra to reach a market. The Government could not rob them of their rights so the bridge was built and it is a good one, as is every structure in this section. Near Lake Simcoe the overhead bridge of the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk spans the canal, and a short distance below is the swing bridge of the Canadian Northern Railway, which passes by an arch way under the Grand Trunk tracks.

This brought the party to Lake Simcoe, a beautiful sheet of water with splendid farms, well tilled and fertile, sloping down to its shores, and three thriving towns at almost equidistant points. The entrance from the lake to the canal is protected by two splendid concrete breakwaters 300 feet apart at the lake entrance. To secure a safe approach to this miniature harbour it was necessary to dredge the lake bottom a distance of 1,000 feet out by a width of 600 feet. A steam of about half a mile brought the party to Beaverton, the terminus of the successful 12 hours' voyage of the day, from which everybody gathered a freight of happy memories and gratification at assisting at the formal completion of another link in the chain of Trent Valley navigation. At this thriving town a special train was boarded and conveyed the Ministers and the guests of the Government to Lindsay and Peterborough, respectively, where everybody arrived safely, not a single mishap or unpleasant occurrence happening to mar the pleasure of the day, or the complete success of the expedition.

During the day—at midday and in the evening—a simple but satisfying luncheon was well served on the steamer, Mr. W. J. McCallum, restaurateur, Peterborough, being the effective and satisfactory caterer.

Captain Young and his crew, though in strange waters looked after their charge in a most effective manner.

The Sylvester Band of Lindsay, accompanied the party, and enlivened the day with a liberal supply of good music, performing the "Maple Leaf" as the summit of the lift was reached, "Auld Lang Syne" when the lift lock and Lindsay were left, and other appropriate selections.

Uric Acid Stones In the Kidneys

CAUSED EXCRUCIATING PAIN— CURE EFFECTED SIX YEARS AGO BY

The passing of stones or gravel, as the uric acid formation is called, from the kidneys through the ureters to the bladder probably produces the most terrible pain that human being was ever called upon to bear.

Mrs. Walter Hornbrook, Coddy's, Queen's county, N.B., writes:—

"I was a great sufferer from kidney disease, which the doctor described as the uric acid stones passing from the kidneys to the bladder, I heard of similar cases being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and sent for some. Altogether I used seven boxes and was completely cured. That was six years ago, and I have never had a pain in my kidneys since. We are never without Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house."

Mr. Daniel Brown, English River, Ont., writes:—"For three years I suffered with urinary troubles, partaking of the nature of stones in the bladder or gravel, and the pain which I endured can scarcely be described. I was unable to do any work, and frequently discharged blood. Though I spent hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills I received no relief, and at last decided that I would never be able to work again.

"While in this condition I was advised to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and though I had no faith in them or in anything else, I decided to give them a fair trial. After using one box I felt a decided change for the better, and after taking five boxes I feel like a new man. I am entirely out of pain, and have no more discharge of blood. I can honestly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to any fellow-sufferer, and will cheerfully verify this statement to anyone writing me."

There could scarcely be a more severe test of any treatment for the Kidneys and when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prove successful in such cases as this they can surely be depended upon in less severe kidney ailments. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

CHURCH PARADE OF ORANGEMEN

DUTIES OF ORANGEMEN

As is customary on every Sunday evening before the Twelfth of July, the Orangmen of this district hold their annual church parade, and last night was no exception to the custom. The parade from the Orange Hall on Simcoe street, to All Saints' church, last night, was one of the largest in the history of the Order in Peterborough, and undoubtedly portends a gigantic walk on July 12th in Millbrook.

There were altogether about 300 of the brethren in uniform, including about 30 boys of the juvenile auxiliary, who marched behind the 57th Regimental Band.

All Saints' church was taxed to its capacity, the congregation consisting of Orangmen, while several hundred were unable to obtain admission, and where compelled to remain outside on the lawn, where they listened to the sermon.

The address to the followers of William of Orange by the Rev. W. Major, was one that they will not soon forget. In strong, forcible and emphatic language, he exhorted the brethren to live up to the conditions to which they subscribed their names in becoming Orangemen. He based his remarks on the words found in the sixth verse of the seventh chapter of Judges:

"And the number of them that lapped, putting their hands to their mouths, were three hundred men; but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water."

Before beginning his address Rev. Mr. Major welcomed the visiting brethren, on behalf of the church, on their first appearance at All Saints during his pastorate. He assured them that the church was pleased to have them worship there, and hoped for their appreciation of the service.

The words of the text which, he understood, where in the ritual of the Orange Order, describes the test of Almighty God for the formation of a special body of men for a special work.

The Israelites were suffering from the ravages of the Midianites, who came down on their lands like an army of grasshoppers, and leaving them in poverty. God selected Gideon to deliver His people from the hands of the enemy, and instructed him in the course to pursue.

In response to the call, 32,000 men assembled, but, from the words of the text it will be seen that only 300 were selected. The test brought forth the 300 watchful and alert, while the others, whose minds were not upon their duty, who stooped to take a deep draught from the waters of the river, were rejected.

The reverend speaker then compared the conditions as related by the biblical story in Judges' with those existing towards the end of the 17th century, when the Orange organizations were first formed, and of how William of Orange was successful. Although the times had changed, and the past was forgotten, there was still need, he said, for the existence of the Orange Order.

In reference to their duties, Rev. Mr. Major believed that neither their parades, nor their meetings, special or otherwise, were sufficient to fulfil the work off Orangemen, as handed down by their forefathers. It is most necessary for them, he said, to observe the rights of their constitution and to be watchful at all times, and ever on the alert. The speaker was delighted with the qualifications necessary to become an Orangeman, and he exhorted all to be faithful to their constitution. Orangemen must be beyond the influence of partyism; they must exercise care in bringing in new members. They must weed out the immoral; they must follow in the narrow path of rectitude, and be faithful servants off God.

In closing he appealed to his hearers to emulate the example of those who stood for the rejection of all signs of bigotry and slavery.

After the services were concluded the members of the Order marched back to the Orange Hall, where a brief meeting was held, and where a hearty vote of thanks in appreciation of the services and sermon was passed.

The parade last night included the 57th band, the juvenile auxiliary, in charge of Bro. W. G. Barclay, Past Master of No. 80, True Blud Lodge; 'Prentice Boys; Nassau Lodge, No. 457; Nassau Fife and Drum Band; Col. Saunderson's Lodge, No. 321; Diamond Lodge No. 80; J. W. Bell, Memorial No. 1175; Smith Lodge, No. 178, and some representatives from Lakefield Lodge.

During the service the choir sang Kipling's Recessional, the solo of which was well rendered by Mr. Fred Scrimshaw.

Mr. Biggs, who is a veteran of the South African war, stated that the country around Webwood is the roughest and most wild that he has ever seen, even in the land of the kopje, but describes it as a sportsman's paradise.

COUNTY ENRICHED BY SEVENTY DOLLARS

Result of Police Court at Havelock—Magistrate Edmison Presided

Before a crowded court room, filled with men, women and children, Magistrate Edmison presided at County Police Court in Havelock on Saturday afternoon, and disposed of four important cases, two of them being of the assault nature.

Allan Elmhirst who charged with assaulting David McQuaig, the trouble arising over a dispute between the two about the possession of a two-dollar bill. Evidence was given to the effect that McQuaig was pulled from his buggy and pounded. Elmhirst was found guilty and fined $20 and costs.

Elmhirst laid a complaint against McQuaig for using obscene language, but the complaint was dismissed.

Fred and Frank Varty were charged with assaulting Roy Cameney in a rather brutal manner, and apparently without provocation. They pleaded guilty and were assessed $20 and costs each.

The same two youths were found guilty of creating a disturbance on the station platform, and each was fined $5 and costs. Mr. Peter Cromar, station agent, laid the complaint.

Mr. Geo. J. Sherry of Norwood prosecuted for the Crown, Mr. Colville of Campbellford acted on behalf of the Varty boys, and Mr. G. A. Ghent of Havelock for Elmhirst.

PROCEEDS OF EXCURSION WERE ENCOURAGING

St. Peter's T. A. S. Returned Over Five Hundred Dollars Clear Profit

At the regular meeting of the T. A. S. yesterday afternoon, the officers-elect for the present term were installed in their new offices by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. Mr. George Aborn succeeds Mr. D. Cushing as president of the society. Rev. Dr. O'Brien spoke a few words of interest concerning his European trip and expressed his pleasure that the society had advanced during his absence.

The Excursion Committee presented their report, showing that the net proceeds of the picnic on Dominion Day were ($506, almost $200 in advance of that of last year. The entire proceeds were $1,050, which is a grand return for the day. The $506 will be given by the society as a part of the fund for the main altar in the new church.

OBITUARY.

ISAAC COLLIDGE

On Sunday morning Mr. Isaac Coolidge passed away at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Jas. E. Hettenhausen, 314 London street, after a protracted illness from kidney trouble.

The deceased was 60 years of age, and was born in Wilfred, Ont. He was a long-resident of Brockville, where for twenty-five years he successfully carried on business. About five years ago his health began to fail him, and three years later he came to Peterborough, hoping that the change of air would be beneficial to him. For a time his expectations were realized but the rally was only a short one, and he gradually became weaker until his death yesterday.

The surviving members of the family are Mrs. Coolidge, the bereaved wife of the deceased, and 6 children. They are Edwin, of Atlanta, Ga., Elmer and James, of Fort William, Mrs. George Fowler, of Montreal; Mrs. J. E. Hettenhausen, and Miss Grace Coolidge, Peterborough.

Mr. Coolidge was a member of the Methodist church; in politics he was a Liberal, and was a member of the Masonic Order in Brockville.

The funeral was held this afternoon to the G.T.R. station, and the remains taken to Brockville. Interment will take place to-morrow at 2.30 p.m., in Brockville.

JULIA CROWLEY

At nine o'clock this morning the funeral of the late Julia Crowley, wife of Michael Corkery, was held from Mr. Jas. F. Crowley's residence, Water street, to St. Peter's CCathedral, and afterwards to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

The deceased died in St. Michael's Hospital, after an illness from anaemia, beginning in February last. She leaves one daughter, Mary, besides her husband, whose home is in Trout Creek.

Back From Old Country After A Delightful Trip

Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., Has Made Twentieth Voyage---Was Presented With a Gold Spoon as a Mark of Appreciation of the Passengers---Sports and Concert Were Held on Board the Steamer

Mr. J. J. Turner, sr., returned on Saturday, after making his twentieth trip across the Atlantic, the voyage being characterized as the most pleasant he has ever experienced.

Mr. Turner left Peterborough on June 7th, sailing from Montreal on the 8th, on the Allan Liner Virginian. The voyage was a pleasant one, the weather being cold but fine.

Mr. Turner spent twelve days in England, principally in London, and on eleven days it rained. The weather was wet and cold continuously, and interfered with the seashore resorts, which Mr. Turner visited when abroad. Great improvements were noticed, in London, especially, in the transportation facilities. Horse cars have for the most part been laid aside and the trams are operated by electricity, the third rail system being used, which does away with the poles on the streets. The horse busses are also being replaced by motor omnibuses.

The return voyage was made on the C. P. R. Liner Empress of Ireland, on board of which were about 1800 passengers, the majority of them being English people coming to Canada. In fact there were only about one hundred Canadians on board. The ship left Liverpool at ten o'clock on Friday night, and reached Quebec at noon on the following Friday.

The feature of the homeward voyage was the celebration of Dominion Day, which was a great success, the passengers thoroughly entering into the spirit of the occasion. Mr. Turner was asked to wait upon Hon. Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, Hon. Mr. Bent, premier of Australia, and Hon. Adam Beck to ask them to deliver addresses, at a meeting held on the afternoon of July 1st, which they kindly consented to do, and their remarks were greatly enjoyed. Mr. Turner gave an address pointing out the many advantages enjoyed by Canadians and referred to the great resources of the country to which they were coming.

A programme of sports, consisting of running, jumping, etc., was started that afternoon and was finished on Wednesday, and the events proved decidedly interesting. Mr. Turner, as chairman of the Sports Committee, was largely instrumental in the success of the enterprise. Some fifty dollars were spent in prizes, which were presented to the winners by Mrs. (Hon.) Beck, of London.

On Wednesday night the usual concert, in aid of the Liverpool Seaman's Orphans' Home, was held and proved a very enjoyable affair, the programme being a choice one. Mr. Turner acted as chairman, and, in addition sang two songs, "Sparkling Moselle," and "The Maple Leaf." A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Turner for his exertion in arranging the meeting, sports and the concert, on motion of Hon. Mr. McBride, seconded by Hon. Mr. Bent, and the appreciation of the passengers was further shown by the presentation to him by Mrs. (Hon.) Beck on behalf of the passengers of a very handsome gold souvenir spoon, emblazoned with a picture of the vessel.

On Thursday afternoon Mr. Turner had an opportunity to further dilate upon the advantages of Canada when he was requested to address a meeting in the steerage. He was able to give the new comers much information that will be valuable to them and his words could not fail to be encouraging.

Among the passengers on board the steamer was Mr. Marconi, the inventor of the wireless telegraphy system, and his wife.

While in England, Mr. Turner succeeded in securing another sailmaker, Thomas H. Hodge, of Worcester, near Liverpool, who accompanied him to Canada, and started work at the factory here this morning.

One of the features of the trip was the presentation to Captain Foster of the Empress of Ireland, of a letter of appreciation of his seamanship. Captain Foster is the youngest captain out of Liverpool on a liner, and was most popular with the passengers.

GATHERED THE SECOND POTATO CROP

Mr. Wm. Miles Achieves a Remarkable Feat in Gardening—Another Crop Coming Yet

The second crop of potatoes harvested on July 6th., especially in a season as backward as the early part of this year, is a record to be proud of, but it is one which Mr. Wm. Miles of Weller street has to his credit. On June 17th, Mr. Miles dug his first potatoe crop, a reference being made to that fact in the Examiner of that date. After stripping the marketable potatoes from vines on that date he replanted them tillized the ground, with the result that on Saturday he was able to dig in the earth, and watered and ferthe second crop of potatoes fit for table use and of excellent quality. He hopes yet to repeat his record of last year, when he had three crops from the same ground, employing the methods made use of this year.

VIRGINIA MAN AT THE GOSPEL HALL

Mr. Henry Turner Gave Interesting Address Yesterday—Another Meeting To-morrow Night

At the Gospel Hall, George street, last night, Mr. Henry Turner, of Virginia, was the speaker, delivering two helpful and forceful addresses. In the evening he spoke from the text, "And in the midst of the throne and round about the throne were four living creatures, full of eyes before and behind." The four living creatures, the speaker remarked, represented the four Gospels. Another meeting will be held to-morrow night.

At St. Andrew's

Rev. Dr. Ross, a Canadian, now living in Erie, Pa., preached at both services in St. Andrew's Church yesterday to large congregations, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter. The usual meetings will be held this week, the Young Peoples' Society to-night and prayer meeting on Wednesday.

EARLY PARENTAL TRAINING TO PREVENT CRIMINALITY

The reported increasing criminality among the children of the city, to which reference was made in these columns on Saturday, furnished an appropriate subject for a timely sermon by Rev. H. M. Manning, in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church yesterday morning, on the text, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." The inclination to go astray, unfortunately, he said, developed early in a child, and, in view of this fact, the responsibility of the parents to train their children properly was apparent. He thought that the training should be undertaken when the child was quite young, and it should be permeated with firmness and kindness, both qualities being essential. There were times, he said, when it was hard for a father to tell his son that he must not pursue a certain line of action, or for a mother to advise her daughter against some pleasure she had set her heart upon, but it must be remembered that this was sometimes necessary, and that it was undertaken with the sole object of the child's good.

A wise parent will know where the child spends his evenings, and will not allow him to get his education on the street corners. The importance, from the standpoint of the future life of the child, of intellectual and spiritual training, was emphasized.

RECLARED THE PULPIT VACANT

Rev. Dr. Marsh the Preacher in St. Paul's Church Yesterday—Interesting Features of the Services

Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville preached in St. Paul's Church yesterday at both services, his sermons being heard and enjoyed by large congregations. In the morning his subject was "God is Love," and in the evening, "We Are Journeying." At the close of the morning sermon, as Interim Moderator of Session, he declared the pulpit of St. Paul's Church vacant, and announced that next Sunday, Rev. Dr. Rose of Erie, Pa., would be the preacher. The music at the services yesterday was enjoyed, the male quartette singing "Crossing the Bar," those taking part being Messrs. Crane, Nelson, Gillespie and Bennett. Mr. Kenneth Shook also sang "Lead, Kindly Light," with much acceptance.

ONTARIO FLOUR HAS A BETTER FLAVOUR

Than That Made From the Strong Western Wheat—Ontario Farmers Are Learning Rapidly

In view of the fact that the freight rate to Montreal from Manitoba is as low as it is to Ontario points, the success of the efforts of the Ontario millers to capture the market of the Maritime Provinces are nothing short of phenomenal.

The farmers of Ontario have lost heavily in the decline in the demand for Ontario wheat, which has resulted not only in lower prices for fall wheat, but in the present era of high prices for bran and shorts. Farmers and stockmen need hardly blame the millers for these conditions when agriculturists contribute to Western prosperity by buying Manitoba instead of Ontario blended flour when they purchase the family groceries at the general store. Even in those districts where wheat remains a staple, it is no uncommon sight to see the man who has hauled his own wheat to the mill jogging back with a barrel or bag bearing some well-known Western brand.

The people of Ontario have taken Western flour partly on its merits as a "strong" flour, and partly as a result of the glamour of the Great West, which has been so well advertised throughout the old and long settled parts of Canada. In spite of the vogue of the flour made from the spring wheat of the West, it is an indisputable fact that the flavour of the Ontario flour is very much superior. If enough Western wheat is added to bring up the proportion of gluten, the resultant blend is much superior to either the Manitoba or Ontario flour. The bread is nourishing and has all the delicate flavour of the Ontario wheat. It is with Ontario blended flour that Ontario millers have captured the Maritime market, to the mutual advantage of the millers of this province.

The increased market for Ontario flour is a matter of vital interest to farmers all over the province; it offers an inventive to wheat growers and will enable stockmen to procure feed at living prices. The purchase of blended flour for home use will help create a demand for the new flour right here in Ontario, and will mean an enlarged market for Ontario wheat.

"TO LIVE IS CHRIST, TO DIE IS GAIN"

Rev. E. A. Pearson's Text at the George Street Methodist Church Yesterday

SUCCEEDS DR. CROTHERS

At the George Street Methodist Church yesterday morning, Rev. E. A. Pearson commenced his pastorate as successor to Rev. Dr. Crothers, and delivered his initial sermon to a large congregation. Rev. Mr. Pearson's father, at one time, was a minister of the church, and many of the people remember his father's work among them. The text of the morning was taken from St. Paul's epistle to the Philippians, first chapter, and twenty-first verse—"For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." The speaker declared that these words contain the highest ideal of life and the noblest conception of death. Regarding life, the question is often asked "Is it worth living?" Men who have succeeded in their life's task, who have acquired all the wealth that they have cared to gain, after reaching the summit of their ambition, they stop and ask if it is worth while. Similarly with the man who in bitterness language, has "gone to the wall," whose efforts have been fruitless, he also asks, "What am I living for?"

This question is answered by the Apostle satisfactorily to everyone. Christ is everything in life; He is the source of life, and living for Him is a joy for all mankind. People should aim at leading others to God, thus glorifying Him and fulfilling their mission on earth.

Of the latter part of the text, "to die is gain," Rev. Mr. Pearson explained that death brings us to the full relationship with God. It is the introduction to the visible presence of the Lord forever the realization. Man strives on earth to attain the end which Christ intended for him, namely, eternal life in heaven, but the great reward, (the happiness that is most enjoyed, is the presence of Jesus. To see Him, to be, near Him, is the consummation of joy, as to be separated from Him is the despair of those who have forfeited their right to heaven. The speaker urged his people to live for Christ, that, dying, their death may be gain, and, while on earth, their life may be worth the living.

The music of the choir was splendid, the solos being particularly appreciated.

IMPROVEMENTS TO A CHURCH

During Summer Months St. Paul's Church Will be Thoroughly Renovated and Improved

During the next five or six weeks services will be held in the Sunday school room of St. Paul's instead of in the church auditorium, the reason being that during that interval improvements to the church will be effected. It is the intention, it is understood, to move the organ and the choir seats to the front, and place the pulpit at the rear of the choir, an arrangement which is being carried out with satisfaction in many of the newer churches. It is believed that the change will effect an improvement in the acoustic properties of the building. The walls will be tinted, and other improvements made.

EXCELLENT MUSIC AT CHARLOTTE ST. CHURCH

Three Solos Were Given There at the Services Yesterday—Lindsay Boy Soprano Was Heard

For a midsummer Sunday, the music in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church yesterday was of an especially excellent character. At the morning service two solos were given. Miss Manning singing with expression and much acceptance "The Contrite Heart," by Ambrose, and Master Scott Payton of Lindsay, who has been heard with pleasure on former occasions in this church, again delighted the congregation, singing a hymn, "Clean Heart." At the evening service the anthem was "Shepherd of Souls" from "The Sign of the Cross," by Barnett, and, following the sermon, Miss Belleghem was heard in Campbell's difficult composition of "The Ninety and Nine," in the rendering of which she did herself credit.

LARGE ENROLLMENT FOR THE BOYS' CAMP

Y. M. C. A. Boys' Annual Outing This Year Promises to be an Interesting One

The enrolment for the boys' Camp thus far has been encouraging. A full list will be published tomorrow. Gordon Manning is going again, a fact in which all who were at camp last year will rejoice.

There will be no excursion from the city on Visitors' Day, as a boat could not be secured, yet Visitors' Day will be held, and parents are asked to come on the regular train and boat.

SPLENDID WORK OF B SQUADRON

Took Honours at Kingston in Target Practice and Judging Distance

"B" squadron, 3rd P. W. Dragoons, Millbrook, in command of Major P. A. Davis, took the highest percentage of any unit in camp at Kingston at the target practice. Also, in judging distances, they were superior to all others, taking 95 per cent., Sergt. Blakely and Corp. Trew, making the above percentage. "B" squadron is certainly to be congratulated, as it was up against some of the best regiments in Canada, including the 5th Dragoon Guards of Ottawa, which is considered the crack regiment of Canada.

Major Davis, who was in command of "B" squadron, resides in Peterborough.

REV. MR. ARMITAGE AT ST. LUKE'S

Former Rector of All Saints' Church Preached to Large Congregations Yesterday

Rev. W. L. Armitage, vicar of St. Margaret's Church, Picton, was in the city yesterday, preaching at both services in St. Luke's Church, and is spending to-day renewing acquaintances with his many friends here. The services in St. Luke's yesterday were very large, many of his former parishioners attending to hear Mr. Armitage again. His work in Picton is flourishing, and the former Peterborough rector is greatly pleased with his church work in Picton. He is now commencing a month's vacation, which will be spent in Western Ontario.

A BIG EXCURSION FROM MARIPOSA

Went Down to Idyl Wyld on Steamer Otonabee

A big excursion was in Peterborough for a short time this morning on its way to Idyl Wild. It was under the auspices of the Oakwood Methodist Sunday School, and between 400 and 500 Lindsay and Mariposa people were in the party, which arrived by a special G.T.R. train shortly before 10 o'clock. The Street Railway Company had cars waiting for the excursionists, and carried them at once to the wharf, where they boarded the steamer Otonabee for Idyl Wild.

HOSTLER AT CHEMONG EXCHANGED HORSES

Mistake Noticed in Time to Obtain Clue to Right Owner

The hostler at the Chemong Park Hotel last night made a peculiar mistake in dispatching of the horses under his charge for the afternoon. He sent one gentleman, who resides on Dalhousie street, away with a steed belonging to Dr. Robinson, while the liveryman's horse went to the other address. The first party did not notice the mistake, but it was recognized by the other before leaving the hotel. The blunder was rectified on arriving in the city.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.
PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of even getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

COMMENDS THE EARLY CLOSING

A Dry Goods Clerk Writes on This Subject, but Does Not Like Proposal to Remain Open Until 9 Wednesday

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In you Friday's issue I noticed your editorial on early closing.

I wish to say, Mr. Editor, that I am entirely in favour of closing on Saturday nights at nine o'clock. But why is it necessary to keep open on Wednesday night until the same hour? The people of this town have ample time in which to do their shopping during the day, and were the stores to keep open on Wednesday night it would mean that there would be practically no shopping done in the afternoon, but the same old rush at night.

I am a dry goods clerk. We close at 10 o'clock, or thereabouts every Saturday night. That would mean one hour less work on Saturday and three more on Wednesday.

I do not take into consideration the Thursday half holiday, as that is an entirely different matter.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, and hoping this will meet with the consideration of all concerned, I am, Sir,

Yours truly,
"A CLERK."

Peterborough, July 6, 1907.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST ENGLISH FARM HAND

George Eccles Appeared on Charge of Indecent Assault

In the absence of Magistrate Dumble this morning, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, occupied the chair at the police court. John Baley, who but a few days ago was dismissed on a charge of being drunk, promising to "let it alone," was again arrested on Saturday while under the influence of liquor. He assaulted P. C. McDonald and thus had to answer to two charges. He was remanded until Friday.

George Eccles had a serious charge preferred against him, namely, that of having indecently assaulted Nellie Brown on or about the 14th of June. Eccles will be given a hearing on Friday. He asked for bail this morning.

19TH REGIMENT MAY COME HERE

Members Would Like to Visit the Lift Lock City

The Star-Journal of St. Catharines, makes some observations in Saturday's issue very complimentary to Peterborough and the 57th Regiment. According to it, the 19th may visit this city next 24th of May and if they do they will certainly be given the time of their lives. The Star-Journal says:

"Let's go to Peterborough next 24th of May," is the suggestion already being made by many members of the 19th and the suggestion may crystalize into fact long before Victoria Day arrives.

"The 57th bandsmen wear the new pattern service caps. Why can't we get them too?" is the query put forward by the musicians of the 19th. According to the census of 1901 the population of Peterborough was 9,239. At that time as at present, 57th was an 8-company regiment. The population of this city to-day is between 11,800 and 11,900, yet there are only four companies in the 19th. There is not the slightest doubt that St. Kitts can support four more companies. Indeed if the 19th were increased to eight companies it would be much easier to keep up the full strength than it is with only four companies. To be thoroughly efficient to occupy the position it has every right to hold, the 19th should have eight companies, signal corps, pioneers, bearer and bicycle corps, and Maxim gun detachment. Under such circumstances the regiment would flourish and take its proper place as one of the best and most important in the service.

CABLE CARS DROP 200 FEET

Shocking Accident On Incline Railway At Niagara Falls.

CABLE SNAPPED LIKE TOW

One Killed and Four Badly Hurt—None Likely to Survive—Cars Dashed Down Precipice With Terrific Force — People In Station at Bottom Had Near Call—Were Thrown In All Directions.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 8.—By the parting of a cable operating the cars of the inclined railway in Prospect Park, five persons were sent on a terrific flight to the bottom of the river bank Saturday. With the exception of one, a baby, all received terrible injuries, and one died in the evening. He was Peter Inda of the tailoring firm of Inda & Puls, 127 Franklin street, Buffalo, whose face was crushed beyond recognition, his skull crushed, his left shoulder dislocated, and his body badly bruised and lacerated.

The injured are: Veronica Olzuviska, 113 Kosciusko street, Buffalo, lower jaw broken in two places, all teeth knocked out, scalp wound, body lacerated. May die.

E. A. Burks, chief accountant of the Louisville & Nashville and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, with headquarters at Covington, Ky., face cut and bruised, body lacerated, left ankle sprained and left arm fractured.

Mrs. E. A. Burks,, suffering from shock, face lacerated, left hand broken.

The six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Burks, slight bruises about the body.

The accident happened just before the noon hour. Mr. and Mrs. Burks and their son were in the car ascending, while Peter Inda and the Olzuviska woman were in the car going down. The fact that the cable parted when the car ascending was about a third of the way up accounted for the fact that the Burks escaped with less serious injuries than the two occupants of the descending car.

Oscar Barbur, ticket agent at the foot of the inclined railway, saw the cars coming, and gave the warning in sufficient time to enable those in the waiting-room to make good their escape.

When the cars, shooting down the rails like a streak of lightning, crashed through the woodwork of the office and into the waiting-room below the scene was one of the wildest confusion. The occupants were thrown in all directions.

Doctors were summoned, and in a very few minutes a dozen of them were there. After rendering first aid to the injured, the victims were placed aboard the steamer Maid of the Mist and taken to the Canadian side of the river, where ambulances were in waiting to convey them back across the bridge to the Memorial Hospital here. It was impossible to bring them up the inclined railway, the accident putting it out of commission.

Supt. Perry of the state reservation cannot account for the accident. It is the custom to substitute new manila cables for the old ones at least once each year. These cables are four inches in diameter and have always been considered perfectly safe for the biggest loads.

The office of the Attorney-General of the State has made inquiry concerning the accident and Attorney T. F. C. Clary of this city has been deputied to represent the State office in handling the matter.

WORRIED BY HIRE SYSTEM.

Newly-Married Woman Is Worried by Debt and Suicides.

Winnipeg, July 8.—Worried over the fact that she could not meet payments on her furniture, Mrs. Hornibrook of Bushnell street, a newly-wedded woman, aged 23, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by drinking carbolic acid.

She bought furniture on the instalment plan and later a piano. When the payments on the furniture came due she sold the piano. Saturday the agent tried to collect on the piano, and finding it was gone, threatened her with arrest.

Afraid of her husband, who works at the electric light works, and worried for fear she would be arrested, she committed suicide.

INSTANTLY KILLED BY COAL CAR

Three Men Meet Terrible Death At Sydney Mines.

CHAIN RUNNER'S MISTAKE

Released Car Before Turning Switch —Dropped Four Hundred Feet— Miners Ground to Death Under Trolley Containing Ton of Coal —Crashed Down Without Any Warning—Admits Doing It.

Halifax, N.S., July 8.—A shocking accident by which three miners were instantly killed at No. 4 colliery of the Nova Scotia Steel Company's Sydney mines is one of the worst which ever occurred in that district of the Cape Breton coal fields. The dead are: John W. Nicholson, aged 22, leaving a wife and four children; Dennis Pendergast, single, aged 35 years, and Richard Broderick, 27 years, who leaves a wife and two small children.

The three men were working in the deep, when, without a moment's warning, a loaded box came crashing down the bank and into the pit, giving the unsuspecting men not the slightest chance to get out of the way.

Yesterday afternoon the Coroner, visited the scene, where it was ascertained the accident was largely due to the carelessness of a chain runner, Arthur Pearo, who, before shifting the switch to divert the car to the bank, detached the car from the haulage rope and allowed it to return at terrific speed down into the pit, where the men were at work, a distance of four hundred feet. When Pearo noticed his terrible mistake and saw the car pass from him and shoot into the mine he ran after it and shouted at the top of his voice to the men below, but they could not hear When the victims were discovered they were buried under a ton of coal which had been the contents of the box, and which had been thrown out by the force of the impact. The three men were taken to the surface. Broderick was dead, a large hole in the top of his head exposing the skull. Nicholson and Pendergast lived a short time. Doctors marvelled how they could live any time, in view of their terrible injuries. Pendergast was badly injured about the body and both legs were broken in several places. Arthur Pearo, who failed to shift the switch, is almost distracted. He makes no attempt to shift the responsibility, but blames himself for the whole thing.

TO CONTRADICT ORCHARD.

Haywood and Moyer Will Take Stand This Week.

Boise, Idaho, July 8.—Counsel for the defence in the Haywood murder case held a long conference Saturday both at their downtown offices and in the cell of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone at the county jail, and it was said afterward that it would be next Wednesday before Haywood would take the oath as witness in his own behalf.

The program as it now stands is to begin Monday morning by reading the depositions taken at San Francisco as to the explosion at the house of Fred Bradley. These depositions are to be supplemented later with the evidence of an expert in explosives. It is contended by the defence that if 10 pounds of dynamite had been exploded, as Orchard swears were contained in the bombs, he used, that amount would have blown Bradley into pieces and destroyed the whole front of the building.

Additional testimony will be given to show that before he fled from the Coeur d'Alenes in 1899 Orchard attempted to sell his interest in the Hercules Mine. There will be a showing also as to the movements and actions of Jack Simpkins when he went to Denver in the fall of 1905 after having parted with Orchard at Caldwell. This will about conclude the case, except for the testimony of Haywood and Moyer. It is believed that Moyer's testimony can be reached by Tuesday afternoon.

Steve Adams will not be called by the defence. To call him would open the way for the state to get his repudiated confession before the jury, and it is deemed the better strategy to avoid this.

The direct examination of Haywood, according to the statement of counsel for the defence, will be long. He will give a sketch of his life which will embrace all of its important events, including his connection with the Western Federation of Miners. It is said that opportunity will be given for the fullest and widest cross-examination that the prosecution may decide to make. Haywood himself will explain that the $100 sent to Jack Simpkins nine days before Steunenberg was murdered was the remainder of a federation expense account which Simpkins left with Haywood to be forwarded to him at his home in Spokane.

The presentation of the states' rebuttal will probably begin on Thursday next, and be carried over into the succeeding week.

OIL KING KNOWS LITTLE.

J. D. Rockefeller on Stand Is Unsatisfatory Witness.

Chicago, July 8.—John D. Rockefeller, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, occupied the witness stand in the United States District Court Saturday while Judge Landis plied him with questions regarding the financial strength and the business methods of the corporation of which he is the head.

Mr. Rockefeller was a very willing but equally unsatisfactory witness. He was ready to tell all that he knew, but he said that he knew practically nothing.

The net result of his examination was the declaration that he believed that during the years 1903, 1904 and 1905, the period covered by the indictments on which the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana was recently convicted, the net profits of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, were approximately 40 per cent. of an outstanding capitalization of $100,000,000.

Struck by Falling Rock.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 8.—Robert M. Dickson of Meridian, Mississippi, a Knight Templar, on his way to the Saratoga conclave, was just emerging from the "cave of the winds" on Saturday when a large rock tumbled from the cliff above and struck him upon the head, causing a compound fracture of the skull. He is in a precarious condition. Dickson is 24 years of age and unmarried.

Void Legacies For Masses.

Paris, July 8.—A number of suits have been brought in France by the heirs of Catholics, to recover property bequeathed to the church for the specific purpose of saying masses for the repose of the souls of dead persons.

The decisions of the court thus far have invariably been in favor of the claimants, on the ground that the law of separation rendered the execution of the legacies impossible.

The Government is not opposing the suits.

Intermediate Quakers Are Midland League Champions

Defeated Warkworth in Sudden Death on Saturday Evening---Only Goal Scored a Couple of Minutes Before Time Was Called---Greatest Contest in History of Warkworth---1,100 People There Back Sullivan.

Half-back—Archibald.
Half-back—Dingman.
Half-back—Donaldson.

Snatching a well-earned victory in the last three minutes of play, the above mentioned players represent the Peterborough Quaker Intermediate Football Team that trimmed Warkworth by the score of 1—0 on the plains of Northumberland on Saturday afternoon, and co-incident with that victory, won the distinguished honour of being the intermediate football champions of the Midland Leage for the season of 1907. The win of the Quakers was for more reasons than one a signal victory. The game was a sudden death for the highest honours and the Peterborough boys were thus handicapped by playing it on Warkworth grounds to keep down expenses. Apropos to the financial situation of the club it may be stated here that they have been given so little support in their home city that they deemed it advisable not to go to the expense of bringing the opposing team here. They therefore gave big odds to the crack eleven in the Northumberland town in playing the final game there. Also taking into account their long journey before arriving at their destination, their win was all the more creditable.

The game on Saturday, according to the Warkworth fans, was the best ever seen in that burg. Referee Sherin, of Omemee, was complimented by all for his impartial work and for his ability to eliminate all traces of rough work. The match pleased the football lovers of Warkworth from every standpoint, but the score. Until within three minutes of the call of time the board indicated no goals. The Quakers, however, who had had the better of the contest all the way through, rallied and the ball found a hold between the Warkworth stakes just before time was up. The greater part of the credit of it is due to Dingman, the centre half, who took the ball down the field, passed the defence and shot on goal. The rubber was stopped by the Warkworth goal artist but on the rebound, Yates sent it through and the game was won.

The whole Quaker team played the game of their lives, because they had to in order to win. Laing had a few hot shots to stop in the first half, which were easily turned aside, but during the second period of the game he might as well have had a couch. Sullivan and Scrimshaw on the back division were impregnable. Archibald, Dingman and Donaldson on the half way line were ever watchful, and only on few occasions did the ball get by them. Brodie and Yates played their usual scientific combination, while Crough's scintillating rushes were features. Caniff and Hagley worked like trojans on the left wing and on many occasions appeared dangerous for Warkworth.

The Peterborough boys have nothing but good to say of their treatment while away and they are arranging for another game there. The match was witnessed by about 1,100 people and during the evening every store in the village closed down to assist the team. Fred Doherty, of Norwood, was on their forward line-up but he was too closely watched by Archibald to be effective. Their best man was probably Hall at centre-half, who worked hard for a victory.

By winning the intermediate championship of the Midland League, the Quakers are now the possessors of the trophy for two successive years. The season with the exception of the first game when they were beaten here by Omemee by the score of 1—0, has been a most successful one. In the second match on Omemee they won by the score of 2—1. The score was a tie in Lindsay in the first game to decide the district, but on the second occasion they won out. Oshawa was defeated on their own grounds by the score of 2—1 and in Peterborough by 1—0.

Goal, Gilray; Backs, Humphries and son; Half-backs, Covert, Hill, Reardon; Forwards, Richards, Bunwash, Curtis, Allen, Doherty.

Peterborough Got Revenge; Not A Hit Made Off Quinlan

Locals Won Midland League Game From Port Hope by 6-3 Before Biggest Crowd of the Season---Quinlan's Great Pitching Was the Feature of a Good Contest

One Albert Quinlan was the hero of the Midland League ball game between Port Hope and Peterborough at Riverside Park on Saturday, which the locals nailed by a score of 7 to 3, thereby exacting sweet revenge for the trimming received in Port Hope on Dominion Day. The calcium light was on Mr. Quinlan at all stages, his masterly pitching winning him all kinds of praise and the feat he performed on Saturday has never been achieved in the history of baseball in Peterborough before, inasmuch as he did not give the hard hitting Port Hope bunch a single hit. The Crawfordites simply were at his mercy on Saturday as the local boy had everything, speed, control and curves. With perfect support only two men would have reached first base, one on a dead ball. The and the other on a dead ball. The visitors should never have scored four errors in a row in the fifth, giving them their three tallies. Flaherty was billed to pitch the game but failed to show up and Quinlan had to go in at a minute's notice, but at that he pitched the game of his life. The Port Hopers had nothing that looked like a hit, although Cheatham by a nice running catch cut off one that looked very likely. It was magnificent pitching and the youngster deserved all the nice things that were said about him after the game.

The veteran Surphlis was on the slab for the visitors, but he was beaten by the local boy on Saturday. Henry was somewhat of a mystery, it is true, and was only touched up for five hits, but the locals got them in bunches when they were needed.

With the exception of the balloon ascension in the fifth the local team played very snappy ball in the field, Cheatham at short especially shining. He accepted five chances in clever manner, being instrumental in retiring the side in the first innings, while in the eighth he received much applause for his pretty catch of Thompson's fly, which he gathered in with his finger tips while on the run. Another fielding feature was a fast double play started by Halliburton in the second which retired the side.

Jack Connors and Harry Burridge shone with the willow, each getting a double and a single off Surphis, and the hits all counted in the run. Connors is leading the squad with the stick just now and is playing ball as he never did before, having yet to make an error in centre.

The Port Hope team for the most part played snappy ball, fielding their positions well. Henderson dropped a fly from Halliburton's bat which dropped right into his hands but made up for it in the eighth, when he gathered in one from the same player, after a long run. Surphlis fielded his position in his usual clever manner.

The game was as good an exhibition of ball as has been seen here for some time and was witnessed by the largest crowd of the season. The fans were delighted with the showing of Manager Johnston's aggregation, who are playing great ball now, both in the field and at the bat. They will make things decidedly interesting for the Midland League teams from now on and with an even break of luck should be knocking at the door all the way along.

Wilson, of Oshawa, was to have umpired the game, but failed to leave his card and a double umpire system was tried, Sandy Lockington, of Port Hope, the secretary of the league, and Charlie Earls being the officials decided upon. Mr. Earls had to leave in the fifth and Mr. Lockington finished the game. Both gave satisfaction.

The game by innings was as follows:

First Innings.—O'Brien grounded out to Cheatham. Thompson did likewise and the local short stop gathered in Henderson's pop fly. No runs.

Burns was safe on Brown's fumble and stole second and third. Callaghan bunted to third and Burns was nipped at the plate, Callaghan being safe on fielder's choice. He stole second and scored on Burridge's pretty two bagger to left centre. Burridge came home on Connor's drive over second. Connors stole the middle station and was sacrificed to third by Quinlan. Cheatham grounded out to O'Brien. Two runs.

Second Innings.—O'Neil was out, pitcher to first. Kolb was safe on Graham's fumble but was forced at second on Walters' grounder to Halliburton, which resulted in a pretty double play, Walters being nipped at first. No runs.

Halliburton fanned, Graham died on a bunt to the pitcher and Johnston missed three. No runs.

Third Innings.—Surphlis was out on a grounder to Burns, and Brown and Boney fanned. No runs.

Burns and Callaghan failed to connect with Surphis' shoots, Burridge was safe on the pitcher's low throw to first, but Connors filed out to Brown. No runs.

Fourth Innings.—Burns gathered in O'Brien's fly, Halliburton fumbled Thompson's bunt and the runner was safe. He stole second but was nipped a moment later when Henderson drove one into Quinlan's hands, an easy double play resulting. No runs.

Kolb annexed Quinlan's high fly over second, Cheatham fanned. Halliburton was given a life when Henderson dropped his easy fly to centre, but Graham's best was a grounder to pitcher. No runs.

Fifth Innings.—It was a wild night at sea in the fifth. O'Neil was safe when Graham fumbled his easy ligrounder to first. Kolb was given a pass on balls. Walters hit to Cheatham, who threw to third to force O'Neill, but Hal dropped the ball and everyone was safe. (Surphis hit a grounder at Burns, which he allowed to go through his legs and O'Neill and Kolb scored. Brown hit a fly to right which Johnston dropped and Walters scored. There were still two on the bags with no one gone. Quinlan fanned Burney, threw O'Brien out at first and forced Thompson to hit a little one to third, which Halliburton whistled over to first in good style. Three runs.

The locals resumed the lead in their half. Johnston was out on a little one in front of the plate. Burns was given a charity, stole second and scored when O'Neil threw low to catch him at third. Callaghan was passed, stole the middle bag and counted on Burridge's slashing single over second. Burridge worked his way to third but was stranded, Connors fanning and Quinlan going out pitcher to first. Two runs.

Sixth Innings.—Henderson was hit by pitcher but died there as O'Neill filed out to Johnston, Kolb fanned and Walter's grounder was easy for Cheatham. No runs.

Cheatham filed out to Thompson in left, Kolb gathered in Halliburton's grounder, Graham reached first on Boney's error and stole second but Johnston struck out. No runs.

Seventh Innings.—Surphis fanned, Brown died on a grounder to Quinlan and Boney hit nothing but the summer breeze. No runs.

Peterborough clinched the game in and was more lucky, a fumble letting him down safe. Surphis drove one right into Graham's hands and the game was over.

Port Hope only got two balls into the first in good style. No runs.

Henderson made a pretty running catch of Halliburton's fly to centre which looked good for two bases. Graham and Johnston fanned. No runs.

Ninth Innings.—O'Neill died on a little one in front of the base, Burridge's pretty throw beating him a mile. Walters died on a grounder to their half. Burns fanned, Callaghan beat out a grounder, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Burridge's fly to left. Connors made the hit of the day, a flashing double sacker to right centre, scoring when Boney missed the throw from Surphlis on a grounder from Quinlan. Cheatham struck out. Two runs.

Eighth Innings.—O'Brien grounded out to Halliburton, Cheatham neatly annexed Thompson's fly to short and Hal shot Henderson's grounder over to Burns. Walters hit to the same player outfield and both of them should have been snapped up. The summary tells the tale:

THE TONIC OF HEALTH

Must be more than a stimulant—must be a food as well.

The "Best" Tonic is FERROZONE, which is both a food and a tonic; it aids digestion, promotes assimilation and converts food into blood, muscle, bone and nerves. No wonder it builds up the weak, makes them strong and vigorous!

FERROZONE

THE GREAT FOOD TONIC

FERROZONE contains exactly what your run-down system lacks. It supplies oxygen to purify the blood, phosphorus to develop the brain, iron to harden the muscles.

No combination of strength-giving, life-sustaining elements can surpass FERROZONE. Instant in effect, lasting in results, no medicine can benefit as much. You'll eat, sleep, think and feel better by using FERROZONE, which is a true tonic. Try it—now.

Ferrozone is sold everywhere in 50c boxes or six for $2.50. By mail to any address from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

MUSIC AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Worshippers at St. Andrew's church yesterday could not help being impressed by the excellence of the musical services. In the morning the choir sang, "Peace, Perfect Peace," with fine artistic feeling. The voices were well balanced and painstaking practice accomplished the desired attainment. A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Greenslade, "Face to Face," was a very pleasing rendering of this favourite selection, the harmony of tone being especially rich and smooth.

The Douro Picnic is being held to-morrow in King Edward's Grove, near the church, at which a good list of sports and games will be run off for valuable prizes. An exceptionally good day expected. Do not fail to take in this picnic, it is one of the best.

The men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday differed from any other in the manner in which it was conducted. It was, however, one of the notable meetings of the year. Keith will be the speaker on Sunday next.

Samples of Coloured Photographs

Two interesting coloured photographs are shown in the Roy Studio show case, Hunter street, which attract attention. The exposures were made in Riverside Park during the inspection of the 57th Regiment. The artist has enhanced the pictures by a delicate colouring, which gives the natural colour to the red coats, the green garage grounds and adjoining foliage and shrubbery. This auxiliary effect blends prettily in soft, delicate tones, and furnishes a pleasing innovation from the black and white photo effects in military displays.

Don't fail to attend the Douro picnic, to be held in King Edward's Grove, Tuesday, July 9th. The celebrated Dr. Foran of Ottawa will deliver an address on France and Christianity. This picnic is always one of the best held in this district.

NEW PASTOR SPOKE TO THE YOUNG

Rev. C. H. Coon Addressed Large Congregations in Mark Street Methodist Church Yesterday

A VERY GOOD IMPRESSION

Rev. C. H. Coon, the new pastor of Mark Street Methodist Church, commenced his pastorate yesterday, and preached to large congregations at both morning and evening services.

Mr. Coon is a forceful, earnest, interesting speaker, and his sermons were helpful and inspiring.

In the morning, the annual flower service was held, and the Sunday school scholars marched into the church carrying bouquets and flowers.

Preceding his sermon in the morning, the new pastor made a few remarks. He said that he did not deem an introduction necessary. He supposed that his congregation knew him better than he know them, and they were not strangers after all. He had enjoyed a visit to Mark Street Church last autumn, when he met a number of the congregation. Then, we all have the same song of praise to sing, said Mr. Coon, and we unite together as a family for that purpose. He felt no particular strangeness in coming to Mark Street Church, and he hoped that he and the congregation would work faithfully together, and that the good work done in the past might continue. Mr. Coon further remarked that his predecessor, Rev. J. G. Lewis, had done all he could to make his coming to Peterborough as pleasant as possible.

The speaker warned his new congregation to guard against making too much of first impressions. It gave him exceeding great pleasure to have his first service with the children.

The reverend gentleman preached a sermon especially to the young, taking for his text the words found in the fourth chapter of Timothy and and the twelfth verse—"Let no man despise thy youth." These words were addressed to Timothy by Paul. Timothy was to be an example to the people. The speaker said that youth was not valued enough. Youth should not be despised. Young people, too, think that their influence does not count for very much. The influence of children on an older person is often very great.

"The value of youth in the service of the church is exceedingly great, and some day you will be called upon for greater responsibilities in the service of your God," said the speaker.

INTERESTING SERVICES AT PARK STREET

Rev. A. H. Brace Preached a Special Sermon to Orangemen yesterday

The services in the Park street Baptist church yesterday were of an interesting character. In the morning a special sermon was preached by Rev. A. H. Brace to Orangemen, and in the afternoon, following the Sunday school, the Mission Band met. The Sunday school committee also met to make arrangements for the annual picnic on July 18th to Jubilee.

At the close of the evening sermon the ordinance of Baptism was observed, followed by a reception service when five new members received the right hand of fellowship to take their first communion.

The B.Y.P.U. meets this evening at 8. The Ladies' Mission Circle will meet on Tuesday at 3. Public service on Wednesday at 8.

UNUSUAL CONDUCT FOR YOUNG LADIES

Struck Geese With the Paddles—One Killed and Another Badly Injured

Unusual conduct for so called young ladies has been reported from the Otonabee River whereee two of them inhumanly treated a flock of geese the other day, belonging to a lady residing near the end of the street railway wharf. The ladies in company with two young men were on the return trip up the river when the former disgracefully attacked the geese with their paddles.

One of the birds was struck with such force that its back was broken causing its death, while a leg of one of the others was badly lacerated.

The names of the party were discovered and the two ladies apologized in tears, when they saw the results of their misconduct. The young men will have to pay for the geese or they may have to appear in court.

A Generous Offer To The City By Mr. Richard Hall

City Given the Two Stores Belonging to Nicholls Estate, on Simcoe Street, West of Old Ontario Bank, for Public Library—Front Must be Fixed.

GIFT WORTH ABOUT $20,000

The presentation to the city of a building, valued at from $15,000 to $20,000, to be used as a Public Library, was the feature of the Council meeting last night. The new library building is a gift from the Nicholls Estate, and is made by the trustees, in the belief that, in giving it to the city, the wishes of the deceased lady, by whose beneficience worthy enterprises in the city have been helped in the past, were being respected. Mr. Richard Hall, one of the trustees of the estate, attended the meeting of the Council and conveyed the information that the building would be given to the corporation to be used as a Public Library, for the benefit of the citizens.

The building is the large store on Simcoe street, which was formerly occupied by Mr. Hall as a dry goods store, and he gives it to the city conditionally. His only request was that the city expend enough money on the front to convert it into a library, and he informed the aldermen that as soon as he was given assurance that the place was being converted into a reading room, he would place the deed in the hands of the city.

The donation came unexpectedly to the Council, which had assembled to discuss widely different matters. The donation, too, will undoubtedly be received with great pleasure by those citizens who have learned to appreciate the necessity for public reading rooms in the city, a deficiency which has too long existed. There is, possibly, nothing that would be more appreciated in Peterborough than a library adequate to supply the demands of those seeking for knowledge and for edification, and the library will always stand a monument to the services rendered by the giver.

Mr. Hall, in presenting the offer to the Council, stated that he would be willing to give the city the two stores above mentioned, which, in dimensions, are 48x100 feet, providing the city would expend a reasonable amount—and mentioned the sum of $10,000—to repair the front of the stores to make them look like a library front.

Mr. Hall explained that the present library building had been sold, so that it would be necessary for the city to proceed with the work at once in order that Peterborough would not be without a library and mechanics' institute.

The offer took the Council by storm, and immediately Ald. Bradburn moved that it be accepted, at the same time tendering the thanks to the benevolent gentleman. Ald. Stevenson seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously amid great applause.

Ald. Stevenson also moved that the Council tender their thanks to Mr. Hall, on behalf of the city, for the act of generosity and for many other similar acts done for the good of the city in the past.

Ald. Phelan and Ald. Elliott spoke along the same lines, and the motion was seconded and carried unanimously by a standing vote.

"As soon as you give me assurance that everything will be right, I'll give you the deed," added Mr. Hall, as he left the room amid the generous applause of the aldermen.

In connection with the gift, it was moved by Ald. McIntyre and Johnston, that the matter of remodelling the front of the building be left in the hands of the Property Committee.—Carried.

Lindsay The Headquarters Of A Counterfeiting Gang

Charles Burke, of That Town, Arrested on a Serious Charge—Made Bogus Bills and Disposed of Them.

A SENSATION RAISED

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, July 9.—A sensation was created here yesterday afternoon, when the arrest of Charles Burke, for many years a resident of the town, was effected. Burke was charged with being the head of the gang which for some time has been flooding the country with counterfeit five-dollar bills of the Montreal, Dominion and Traders Banks. Detective Parkinson is as dumb as an oyster over the arrest, but from other sources it is learned that the Dominion police have been watching Burke for some days. The presence in town last week of Commissioner Sherwood, ostensibly on a holiday trip, passed unnoticed except by a few intimate friends, but even to them the grave chief of the Dominion police was an enigma. Parkinson was unknown to Lindsay folk, and the fact of his remaining behind did not excite unusual comment. It appears that when Col. Sherwood had located his man he left Detective Parkinson to draw the meshes around the victim. Parkinson, in addition to landing Burke, secured the complete photographic outfit with which it is alleged he had been producing the goods. The counterfeits which Burke is alleged to have issued are poor compared with previous imitations. Not only has he been handicapped by lack of bank note paper, but he had to use photography to produce the bills, the results being somewhat crude. However, it was easy to part with the bills in the rural districts. Twenty or thirty would be floated in a small village or town in a day, and then the distributor would skip, with the result that hundreds were in circulation in two or three weeks. Burke picked up three or four men around this town to help him with the job. These men scattered, some going east and some west.

AN EXCITING FIRE AT BRIDGENORTH

Building Attached to Mr. James Jopling's Residence Burned This Morning

A disastrous fire was narrowly averted at Bridgenorth this morning, when an ash-house adjoining the residence of Mr. Jas. Jopling took fire, and in a few minutes after it was first discovered the flames were mounting, and threatened to destroy the house itself. Willing workers were on hand shortly after the alarm was given, and by their energetic efforts the fire was confined to the building in which it originated.

SALARIES MAY ALL BE PAID BY THE CITY

Clerks Under City Officials Now Paid From Salaries of Latter

It is quite possible that in the near future all clerks employed by city officials will be secured and paid by the city. At the present time the clerks employed at the city hall are paid by the City Clerk and the City Treasurer out of salaries given them by the city. Last night, when the question of increase of salary was brought up, Ald. Bradburn suggested that all salaries of officials and under clerks be paid by the city, so that any one might be raised without interfering with the others. This suggestion met with approval and will probably be acted upon.

VALUABLE CITY OFFICE BLOCK SOLD

Hon. J. R. Stratton Purchased Property From Nicholls Estate on Water Street

Hon. J. R Stratton has purchased from the Nicholls Estate the building and adjoining property on Water street, north of the former Ontario Bank premises, the building at present being occupied by the law offices of Messrs. Reger, Bennet and Goodwill, and A. P. Poussette on the ground floor; the Public Library on the second floor, and living rooms on the upper floor.

BILL POSTERS SUPPRESS IMMORALITY

No Suggestive or Immoral Paper Will be Allowed on Boards of Members of Billposters' Association

At the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Bill Posters, held at Niagara Falls, Ont., yesterday, it was decided to hold the next annual meeting of the association in Peterborough on May 24, 1908. Mr. Walter Stocker, the retiring president of the association, is at the Falls attending the annual meeting, which was in many respects the most important in the history of that organization. A resolution, passed at the meeting yesterday, affirmed the decision that no member of the association will post any bill of a suggestive or immoral nature, and any member violating this rule will be fined one hundred dollars. The association also calls upon the Dominion Government to establish and maintain a strict censorship of posters imported from the United States.

RECORD CATCH REPORTED FROM STURGEON LAKE

Young Lindsay Fisherman Said to Have Caught 'Lunge Weighing 33 1-2 Pounds

Mr. R. H. Bradburn came to the city yesterday with the best fish story of the season, up to date. In justice to Mr. Bradburn, however, it must be stated that he was not the hero of the experience he described, which was to the effect that Mr. P. O. Hamilton, a young Lindsay fisherman, had succeeded in landing a 33 1-2 pound lunge, which constitutes a record for Sturgeon Lake for this year at least.

OBITUARY.

CATHERINE MARTYN

This morning at ten o'clock the funeral of Catherine Leonise Ida Martyn, the little daughter of Mr. Marin Martyn, 84 Lock street, was held to St. Peter's cemetery. She was four months old, and had been ill but eight days with a cold that changed to broncho-pneumonia. Her death occurred yesterday.

WILL OFFER BANK PREMISES FOR SALE IN NEAR FUTURE

The building owned and occupied for many years by the Bank of Montreal, on the southeast corner of Simcoe and Water streets, will be disposed of by the bank, now that a decision has been reached to move the offices to the enlarged premises on the opposite corner. The suggestion has been made that the building might be purchased by the Peterborough Club and fitted up as club quarters. The matter has been discussed for some time, although nothing official has been done in the matter as yet.

Local Citizens Purchase Empty Mining Claims

Agent Said to Have Sold Claims That Did Not Exist—Purchasers Have Their Money Back.

A SCHEME THAT FAILED

The old adage that "far off fields are green" was recently demonstrated in Peterborough, when some eight or nine citizens agreed to the purchase of mining claims in the Cobalt district, the non-existence of which has recently been demonstrated. The alleged trick was played by a Peterborough agent who has spent considerable time in search of the hidden treasure in the gold fields of Cobalt, and it came as a big surprise to those who has put up their cash in payment for the claims.

From the reports received it appears that the agent confidentially told each of the victims that he had only a couple of claims for sale, but when some of those who had agreed to purchase, discovered that there were others who had the same claims they became anxious.

One of the number recently went up to Cobalt to investigate and found that the claims, so far as he could see, did not exist. On returning he made the agent "cough up," to use a slang expression, and each of the purchasers has received his money back.

Bank Of Montreal Buys Simcoe Street Property

Handsome New Bank Premises Will be Fitted Up—Buys 22 Feet From Nicholls Estate.

WILL EXTEND OFFICES

An important real estate transfer is recorded in the city to-day. The Bank of Montreal has bought from the Nicholls Estate a portion of the building for years known as the Hall-Ennis property, in addition to that formerly occupied and owned by the Ontario Bank. The portion bought from the Nicholls Estate is 22 feet wide and 75 feet deep, and it is understood that the intention of the bank is to fit the whole property purchased up for offices for the bank, and it is assumed that the new offices will be in keeping with the elegance and dignity characteristic of the business offices of this institution.

The new offices building will have a frontage of over 40 feet on Simcoe street, and when the changes have been effected it will be a creditable addition to the bank premises of the city.

OTHER MUNICIPALITIES ARE AFTER A LOCAL INDUSTRY

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I notice that the citizen ratepayer will be called upon to vote another increase of taxation for the benefit of the shareholders of the Colonial Weaving Company. There seems to exist a feeling that industrial movements must be aided by other ratepayers' money. Their plea seems to be that they have a claim upon the public ratepayer to help them to start business. This thought is certainly born from a selfish source. If this principle is allowable then every house builder and every contractor who may build a few houses and give employment to a number of workmen, should at once ask aid from the corporation of the City of Peterborough. It is hoped that every ratepayer will think twice before marking his ballot on Thursday and show our autocratic council of aldermen that we are not to be governed by a family compact.

Yours truly,
"RATEPAYER."

In reference to the above letter it may be explained that the Colonial Weaving Company has already received a number of offers from other municipalities in which more liberal terms are given than those asked by the Company from Peterborough, but the fact that the majority of shareholders of the Company were resident in this city influenced them in their decision to remain here, if possible. It is also pointed out that the terms of this bylaw are identical with those offered other companies to locate in Peterborough during the past ten years.

Other cities are apparently willing to make concessions even greater than those suggested here to secure industries, and if the policy advocated by the writer in the above letter is to actuate the city council and ratepayers the industrial supremacy of which Peterborough citizens dream, is a long way in the future.

THE EAST'S AWAKENING

In view of the fact that Canada is apparently becoming looked upon by the Japanese as a favourable objective point, to which the emigration of such portions of the populations of that empire, as may desire to seek fortunes on foreign shores, may be directed, as is evidenced by the recent arrival in British Columbia, of some hundreds of Japs, and the further information that several thousand are about to come in the near future, the following editorial, headed, "The Awakening of the East," from a recent issue of the Glasgow Daily News, will be read with some little interest:

While the eyes of the West are turned with hopefulness to these deliberations in Holland, there goes on in the East an awakening which does not everywhere by any means signify things pacific. Not that the growing movement, the increasing restlessness, among the millions who have so long been dormant or dumb necessarily means trouble in every case either. It does not; but everywhere, even in Japan, now so fervent in the protestation of pacific intentions and so ardent for material progress, it means that there are new conditions emerging which the older nations will have to reckon with in their calculations for their own and the world's future. As regards our ally some of these features are brought to the front in the Earl of Ronaldshay's article in "Blackwood's." Writing of "The Old and the New in Japan," which so crudely and incongruously jostle one another in every corner of the country," and giving his impressions of "four months of persistent travel and inquiry in the Mikado's empire," he says that the end which the Japanese keep steadfastly in view is a far higher one than mere proficiency in arms. It does not stop short of political, diplomatic, commercial, industrial and colonial equality with the first Powers of the Western world. And that this aspiration is not without its shady, and even dangerous, side, he goes on to emphasize in some observations on the theme of which something has already been heard—the commercial morality of certain classes of the Japanese.

. . . . When those who are responsible for the course and direction of Japanese progress succeed in inculcating in all classes of the community a due sense of the immense value of an unimpeachable honesty in every branch of commercial intercourse they will have succeeded in removing a serious stumbling block from the path which the nation is striving to pursue.

THREE FACTS

For Sick Women To Consider.

First.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements of the female organs, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can.

For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, inflammation of the female organs, weakness and displacements, regulating the periods perfectly and overcoming their pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

Third.—The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.—Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.—Mrs. Pinkham is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

EDITORIAL NOTES

This awfully complicated fire alarm system—Sunday night a young man, wishing to send in an alarm from box number 59 thought he had to pull the lever fifty-nine times before the location of the fire could be determined at the fire station.

As a step in the evidently much-needed reform in the habits of the youth of the city, might not the curfew be re-established to good advantage? Children on the streets after dark, except they are in the company of their parents or responsible persons will learn no good, and the strong probabilities are that such a practice will lead them eventually into either disgrace or crime.

Poor Port Hope. First Trenton steals the Canal outlet, then Cobourg comes and takes the terminus of the Lake Ferry, and, as if to add insult to injury, the report now comes that the same greedy town is actually going to take awway the monument to the gallant late Col. Williams, which, since the Rail Rebellion has occupied a place on the town's public square. But worse than all, the baseball team came to Peterborough Saturday to administer a defeat to the local ball players, and were depending on their man Surphlis to do the trick, when lo, a youngster, named Quinlan sent them home without a hit. There's a surplus of trouble for you.

In the selection as president of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference of Rev. R. Duke, recognition has apparently been given a man worthy of elevation to the most important and responsible position in the gift of the Conference. The Christian Guardian, in its last issue has this to say of the president-elect:—

Like many other good men, Mr. Duke was born in Ireland, of good Methodist stock. After conversion, he began active Christian work, and finally decided to enter the ministry. He studied theology under the late Dr. W. B. Pope, and was ordained during the presidency of the late Rev. L. H. Wiseman. He came to Canada in 1876, and joined the Toronto Conference, Allandale being his first circuit. He was the organizer of the Proportionate Giving Association, which was afterwards amalgamated with the Association of Christian Stewards. He is a strong temperance advocate, and an enthusiastic worker in its ranks. He took quite an active part in the movement for Methodist union, which was so happily consummated. He has held many of the offices in the gift of the Conference, having been secretary of Conference, chairman of district, and delegate to General Conference. The church has now shown her appreciation of his character and labours by appointing him president of Conference.

SCHOOL BOOK PRICES

Toronto Globe: Now that Dr. Pyne has a little more leisure perhaps he might be able, as Minister of Education, to answer one or two questions.—

Was the reduction in the price of school books trumpeted abroad by Premier Whitney some time ago a real thing, or just an ordinary, everyday sham? The Globe has been informed, and has evidence to prove, that one of the firms in the school book trust, or partnership, is still selling books at the former prices, and that the reduction of almost fifty per cent. supposed to have been made on the first of July is not in force. Mr. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education, when spoken to last night about the matter, said he certainly understood that the agreement for the reduction in price is now in force. Mr. J. A. Cooper, a member of the school book commission, on whose report the Government took action, said it was the understanding that the agreement was to become operative on the first of July. He would be greatly disappointed if the old prices were shown to be still called for.

The point is that wholesale and retail houses, stocking up with Ontario Readers at the present time, are doing so for the purpose of meeting the rush when the schools open in the autumn. If they are billed at the old prices there will be no reduction to parents this season, and Mr. Whitney's proud boast that he had cut prices almost in two becomes the merest political petty-fogging.

Wake up, Dr. Pyne; thousands of heads of families will soon be counting the change they get from the bookseller; they will ask you then what The Globe asks to-day: "Was the reduction in the price of school books a fake?"

DON'T LIKE BRITISH FAIR PLAY

Yankee Refers to an Incident Occuring at Jackson Park

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—A stranger in your city, I crave permission to use your columns to point out something that occurred at your beautiful pleasure resort, Jackson Park, last night. Some poor foreigner, a German I should judge by his accent, was endeavouring to make a little money by shining shoes and he was being followed around the park by a crowd of over one hundred youths and boys who, when he secured a customer, would annoy him so much that he was unable to do any work whatever. He was jostled and even struck by the crowd and appeared to be in fear of his life, as indeed he might be. I have heard much of British fair play, but if this is a sample, I don't think much of it. There did not seem to be any police protection available and if the tormented German had drawn a knife on the crowd he could not have been blamed very much.

Yours truly,

"YANKEE."

FROST REPORTED IN NORTH TOWNSHIPS

Damage to Extent of Thousands of Dollars Said to Have Been Done

Mr. W. A. Stabler, live stock dealer, was in Harvey and the northern part of Smith last week, and reports heavy frosts in the vicinity of Scott's Mills, Harvey, and also in Smith. He was at the former place on Tuesday night, and states that on the following morning the frost was quite noticeable, and he even scraped it up with his hands from the boards.

Mr. Stabler informed the Examiner that the effect would be disastrous to the farmers in that vicinity, and that he believed thousands of dollars worth of damage had been done.

Apples, he said, were frozen on the trees; potato tops and grains were frost-bitten, and many of the leaves on the trees in the northern part of Smith and in Harvey have turned brown.

Mr. Stabler further stated that the frost was the most severe ever experienced in the month of June in those townships.

BIG CROWDS ENJOYED THE PICTURES

Programme at Jackson Park Last Night Was Appreciated—The Moving Pictures

The new pictures at Jackson Park last night attracted a big crowd and the entertainment was greatly enjoyed. A most amusing set of pictures are being shown this week, including Willie and his new camera, showing the exploits of a Kodak fiend, an Eirl Day, stolen by gypsies and other interesting views. The band will be present to-night and there will no doubt be a big crowd on hand.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

The Sunshine is differently and better constructed than common furnaces. It's stronger, safer, more healthful

The dome, the two sections of the fire-pot and the frame of the ash-pit are all securely fastened together by our famous "cup joint." Three "cup joints" in all, you see.

All sections, you will notice, fit together perfectly, and are lined with a layer of asbestos cement, which unites them so firmly together that they become, in every purpose, one solid piece of metal. Can never spring or fall apart.

And that's not all! The top of the dome is fastened to the sides with cement and boiler rivets, making the Sunshine just as smoke, gas, heat and dust tight as a steam boiler. From a hygienic standpoint it takes precedence in the furnace world.

Notice, too, the Sunshine is equipped with an automatic gas damper. This damper automatically opens when the gas in the furnace reaches a certain pressure and allows it to escape up the chimney. Eliminates all danger of an explosion or gas escaping through the registers

Safest as well as most healthful, easiest managed, cleanest, greatest labor-saving and fuel-economizing furnace you can buy.

If your local dealer does not handle the Sunshine write direct to us for free booklet.

Negotiations Off With Light And Power Company

Company Refuses to be Directed by Hydro-Electric Commission---City Must Now Look to Commission to Obtain Water Power---Report of Special Committee

All negotiations between the city and the Peterborough Light and Power Company for the purchase by the former of the light and power privileges and plant belonging to the latter belong to the past. Last night a report on the proceedings up to the present time were presented by Ald. Stevenson on behalf of the Special Power Committee at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, when the above mentioned fact was brought to the attention of the aldermen.

The cause for the unexpected action, according to the report, was the refusal of the Peterborough Light and Power Company to negotiate further with the city when they discovered that all negotiations must be consummated subject to the approval of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario. The dealings, therefore, with the Light and Power Company are off and if the city wishes to provide herself with electric power and light, other steps must be taken.

Other steps were suggested in the comprehensive report presented by Ald. Stevenson and on the strength of the committee's recommendation it has been decided that the city make applications to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for the acquirement of a water privilege, the construction of the necessary works, and the transmission and supply to the city of electrical power and energy.

Your special committee on the purchase of the business of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

After the passing of the legislation authorizing the purchase by the city of the business and assets of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and the acquirement of water privileges for the purpose of developing electrical power, your committee requested Mr. Larmonth to furnish the balance of the information regarding the assets of the company, which had been promised in January, as stated in the previous report of this committee. No reply was received until April 25th, when a letter was forwarded by the company to the effect that the company would like to know before giving any further details on what terms the city will be allowed to purchase the plant by the Hydro-Electric Commission, to the approval of which the purchase had been made subject by the Legislature.

In consequence thereof the committee applied to the Hydro-Electric Commission for a conference, and on May 10th forwarded to the Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, statements of the situation, and of the negotiations to that date. On May 17th your committee interviewed Hon. Mr. Beck, and were assured by him that while the commission could not lay down in advance the terms of the proposed valuation, it did not desire to interfere with the conduct of the municipality, and would not withhold its approval unless the agreement arrived at should be one that would be manifestly improvident or unreasonable or where by ignorance or improper influences the council had been induced to enter into an agreement clearly contrary to the interests of the people.

Your committee thereupon informed the company of the position taken by the commission, but on May 28th your committee were informed that the company would not re-open negotiations unless they received satisfactory assurances that Hydro-Electric Power Commission would sanction the purchase if it were approved of by the city council and the ratepayers.

Your committee pointed out that for the commission to take such a course would be not only unreasonable but clearly illegal, and that, in our opinion, the commission had gone as far as it could possibly be asked to go towards meeting the view of the company at this stage. The company have however adhered to their position and if they continue to do so negotiations of the character heretofore carried on are necessarily at an end. Your committee had hopes that a personal conference with Mr. Robert Stewart might overcome the difficulties that had arisen, and delayed taking any steps for this reason during the past month.

Your committee are of the opinion that while the negotiations for the purchase of the Peterborough Light and Power Company are thus at a deadstill, still it is of the utmost importance to the city that steps should be taken to secure through the authority of the Hydro-Electric Commission the development of a water power, and for the necessary works for the purpose of supplying power to manufacturers and residents of this city at the lowest prices consistent with sound business principles and that this work should be undertaken by the city corporation.

Your committee therefore recommend as follows:

1. That an application be made to the Hydro-Electric Commission for the acquirement of a water privilege and the construction of the necessary works, and the transmission and supply to the city of electrical power and energy.

2. That this committee be authorized to take such steps as may be found necessary for the carrying out of such application.

Moved by Ald. Stevenson, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to apply under the seal of the corporation to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for the transmission and supply of the electric power or energy to the corporation of the City of Peterborough, and for the acquirement on behalf of the city of such lands, water privileges and other property and the construction of such works as may be required therefor.—Carried.

COLD KILLS THE GERM

Lieut. Perry Says There Are No Bald Heads in the Arctic Region

The people who come back from Klondike testify to the fact that no native bald heads are there. The evidence is that the cold climate kills the germs that eat the hair off at the root. Lieut. Perry, who went to the Arctic Regions, gives the same evidence. Newbro's Herpicide has the same effect as the cold climate. It kills the germ that eats the hair off at the roots, and the hair grows again. Herpicide is the first hair remedy built upon the principle of destroying the germ that eats the hair off. Its phenomenal sale demonstrates the correctness of the scalp germ theory. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. McDermid & Jury, special agents.

Eczema's Itch is Never Ending

EXCEPT BY ACTIVE AND PERSISTENT TREATMENT WITH THE GREAT ECZEMA CURE.

When left to itself, eczema runs on indefinitely, causing keen distress from itching and covering the body with sores that refuse to heal.

Even with careful treatment, eczema is obstinate in yielding to curative measures, but the regular and persistant use of Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most certain means known of overcoming this torturing disease.

Internal treatments for eczema have long since been discarded, except the use of medicines to regulate the bowels and enrich the blood, while local applications are used to relieve the itching and heal the sores.

It is the remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Ointment in the cure of eczema which has given it world-wide recognition as the standard ointment for itching skin diseases.

Mrs. Robert Clendenning, Welland Station, Ont., writes:—

"For three years my dauthter, Fanny, was afflicted with eczema in an intense and persistent form, and for nine days she was totally blind. The burning, itching and disfigurement were horrible, her entire face being completely raw for months, and the distress so great that she could not sleep.

"The best efforts of two eminent physicians failed to even mitigate her awful suffering. One day when I was low-spirited over my daughter's condition Dr. Chase's Ointment was recommended to me and to our surprise Fanny was helped with the first box and she has since been entirely cured by this treatment.

"Her face is now as smooth as a baby's and she is in splendid health. The credit for this cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I cheerfully give you permission to state my daughter's case, hoping that it will lead many others to secure the same good results."

There are a score of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment, with its extraordinary soothing, healing properties, is useful in every home; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Shortly after Willie Taylor met with the accident, by which he lost his legs it was stated that the F.O.E. and C.O.F. lodges in the city were to provide for the erection of a news-stand in which the unfortunate boy might earn a living. At the present time he is selling papers from the street corner. Has the benevolent inclinations of these societies weakened, or are they simply waiting?

Yours truly,

A STEEL BRIDGE AT DOBE'S CUT

Old Structure Known as Dobe's Bridge is Being Rebuilt of Steel

The G. T. R. has commenced the work of making improvements at the bridge on the line between Peterborough and Lindsay, about three miles west of Bear's station, at what is known as Dobe's Bridge. It is learned that the present wooden structure will be entirely replaced by one that will be modern in every respect. The new bridge will be constructed of steel, of the same span as the old one. The first step that is being taken is the building of a siding alongside the main line on which the carpenters' cars will be stationed until the work on the bridge is completed. The men have but lately finished the bridge on Bethune street over the creek, re-planking it and making general repairs.

The rebuilding of Dobe's bridge is an advance step and will be in keeping with the improvements that are being made by the G. T. R. on their many lines.

City Receives Offer To Purchase Power At Locks

Owner Will Sell for $25,000---Applications Received for Engineer at the Hall but no Appointments Made--- Petition for Foot Bridge---Many By-laws Passed

As the hands of the clock pointed to the hour of one this morning, the City Fathers, after a continuous five-hour session, filed out of the Council Chamber, having just then concluded the evening's programme. A session of the Committee of the Whole began at 8 o'clock, followed by a Council meeting, again by Committee of the Whole, and concluded by a meeting of the Council. The questions discussed were, like the opinions, varied. Among the minor considerations was an offer from the owner of the water power at the Locks bridge, to sell out to the city. The various reports of committees were read, bylaws were passed, communications and deputations were received, and motions were put through galore.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor McWilliams, Ald. Duncan, McIntyre, Elliott, Johnston, Wilson, Stevenson, Morrow, Leary, Bradburn, Phelan, Tovey, and City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall.

Communications

A petition, very extensively signed, was presented to the Council to have a foot-bridge across the Otonabee River near the C. P. R. tracks, in view of the fact that the railway company will not permit trespassers on their property. At the time the C. P. R. built the bridge, the Mayor stated that the company offered to build a foot-bridge then for the cost of $1,500, but the offer was refused by the city. Ald. Morgan and Tovey spoke in favour of the scheme, and the communication was referred to the Board of Works to report on.

Communications were received from residents on Rogers street and Bethune street, for sewers, which were referred to the Board of Works.

Moved by Ald. Morrow and Leary, that Mr. Bogue's letter in reference to the creek diversion be left in the hands of the legal committee.

Sale of Water Power

A letter was read from Mr. J. H. Burnham in reference to the sale of the power at the Locks dam, which is owned by Mr. M. J. Irwin of Toronto. At present, the latter stated, there were 1,500 h. p. available at the locks, and that, at a small cost it could be increased to 2,400 h. p. It was offered to the city by Mr. Burnham for the sum of $25,000, if the corporation wished to purchase it. The communication was referred to the special Power Committee.

Water Street Sidewalk

Mr. Jas. Middleton, on behalf of a delegation, asked the Council to attend to the filling in of the sidewalk on the west side of Water street, between Dublin and Antrim streets. He considered that it was a dangerous spot if left unfilled. Mr. Jas. Stubbs stated that he had been waiting since last June to see the old sidewalk torn away and the hole filled in, in order that a cement walk may be laid. Mr. Middleton also explained that there was a quantity of earth in the vicinity which might be got very cheaply. Messrs. John Craig, and Jas. Ruth were also present.

Ald. Wilson stated that the Board of Works had already laid out a considerable amount of money, and it would be a question whether there would be any left. Ald. Duncan understood that last year the residents there agreed to do their own filling in, but Mr. Middleton denied this. Ald. Elliott stated that the gentlemen present had done much to improve the property there in appearance, and he believed that their request should be attended to. The matter was left in the hands of the Board of Works.

In connection with the remodelling of the old fire hall, the question of securing the plans from the architect was left in the hands of the chairman of the Property Committee.

Municipal Work

The question of sending delegates to the Municipal Associations was discussed. The Dominion Municipal Association meets this year at Port Arthur and the Provincial Association at Toronto. It was decided to send the Mayor to the Dominion Municipal Association, and the Mayor, the City Clerk, Ald. Johnston, Ald. Tovey, the last two mentioned being the senior members of the Council, to the Provincial Association.

Ald. Morgan recommended that, for the benefit of the firemen, two incandescent lights be placed on Hunter street, one between Water street and the bridge and one on the centre of the bridge. The Fire, Water and Light Committee will deal with this matter.

Ald. McIntyre read a communication from the Peterborough Light and Power Co., asking the council to see that the lights in Victoria Park are turned off during the day. This was left to the Property Committee.

Ald. McIntyre also brought up the question of the carters' shelter, and on motion, it was decided to compel the carters to use the new quarters instead of the street corners.

Engineer Applications

The following applications were received in response to an advertisement for engineer for the fire engine:

J. H. Barkwell, Dalhousie street
S. T. Wainwright, Bethune street, $700.
George Jewell, Charlotte street.
F. T. Couthope, $780.
E. A. James, $780.
Geo. Jameson, Townsend street.

Moved by Ald. Stevenson, seconded by Ald. Morrow, that the applications be left with the Fire, Water and Light Committee with power to appoint a temporary engineer.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Morrow, that the council re-engage Mr. Wainwright at the same salary as he has been getting in the past. The $700 asked by him is $100 more than he has been receiving. The original motion carried.

Ald. Elliott stated in this connection that if Mr. Pakenham were given authority to abandon his duties as foreman of the fire hall and to attend to his more important duties, as inspector of the city's wiring, that the difficulty at the fire halls would be removed.

THE AGONY OF PILES

ZAM-BUK GIVES SURE RELIEF

A Farmer's Wife's Telling Testimony

There is one sure way to ease for sufferers from piles! Just apply a little Zam-Buk and lie down for a few hours! Do it before going to bed, and you will be grateful for the ease which follows.

Mrs. Wm. Varrion, of Whitemouth, Man., says: 'I must admit that Za.-Buk is a wonderful balm for piles. I had piles so bad that I could hardly walk, and I suffered intense agony. I used several ointments, but got no relief until I tried Zam-Buk. It cured me, and I have had no return of the trouble."

Mrs. E. Taylor, of Greenwood, avenue, Toronto, writes: "For 4 years I suffered acutely from bleeding piles. During that time I spent an immense amount of money on 'remedies' and doctors' prescriptions, but got no ease. Zam-Buk was different to everything else I had tried, and it cured me."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for all diseases suppurating inflamed or ulcerated skin areas, ulcers, abscesses, eczema, old wounds, chafed places, cuts, burns, insect stings, sore feet, sunburn, etc. All stores and medicine vendors at 50c. a box, or Zam-Buk Company, Toronto, for price; 6 boxes for $2.50.

HE CREDITS SHAKSPERE WITH REMARK

Mr. Todd Remarks That He, and not the Bible Said "Cleanliness is Next to Godliness"

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir, — In my letter on the Garbage Bylaw, which appeared in your issue of Friday, is an error on my part that I feel should be corrected. In my haste in closing, I said, 'The Scriptures say cleanliness is next to godliness." I should have said, "Shakspere says, 'Cleanliness is next to godliness,' and the Scripture bears out the statement."

It is plain that the Scripture teaches that the process of cleanliness precedes godliness, and experience teaches that as individuals become more God-like they manifest cleanliness in deed and thought. However my error might mislead some, and cause them to quote wrongly.

If we follow the example of the Great Exemplar, Christ Jesus, or even obey our British law, we should credit each individual with his or her expression of thought. For it is all we have, or know, of the true individuality, who, although seemingly dead, are ever with us to be spoken of, and thus taking their part, in the great drama of life. Hence the correction. Thanking you in advance.

THE PILGRIMAGE TO ST. ANNE

Annual Excursion Will be Run on July 23rd—Special Train Will Leave Peterborough

The annual pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre will be held on Tuesday, July 23, when a special train will be run on the C. P. This may be purchased at an additional cost of $3.00. The special train will arrive in St. Anne the following morning, and on the return trip the train will leave at 11.30 a.m. on July 25, though the tickets are valid to return on any regular train up to July 30.

In the past, this trip has been largely patronized by Peterborough parties, and it is expected that this year will be no exception.

Methodist Sunday Schools on Annual Outing by Steamers Otonabee and Monarch

This morning two Sunday School excursions left the city. The steamer Otonabee carried several hundred members of the George street Methodist Sunday School on their annual outing, the objective point this year being Idyl Wyld, and the members of the sister school, Mark street, embarking on the steamer Monarch, left for Gore's Landing, where the day was to be spent. Both excursions were well patronized, and in each case the prospects for a pleasant day were bright. To-morrow the Charlotte street Sunday school will hold its picnic, also at Idyl Wyld.

Grounding Of Telephone Wires Practically Assured

Agreement Submitted to Council Last Night and Accepted With One Alteration—Street Pavements in Sight.

A LENGTHY DISCUSSION

At last the City Council is within sight of the castle of its dreams in respect to an agreement, which has been in the prospective for many moons, between it and the Bell Telephone Company concerning the placing of the wires of the company in conduits underground. The citizens are now, possibly, in a fair way to be greeted in the not distant future with the paved streets, the hope for which has been so long cherished by them. Last year's Council, it will be remembered, could not come to an agreement satisfactory to the Bell Company, the important point of separation being the length of time the company should have undisputed rights over the streets, as far as their conduits were concerned.

Last night, in Committee of the Whole, a report was submitted jointly by the company and a special committee, consisting of the Mayor and City Solicitor, and approved of by them, and, with a slight amendment, a bylaw, governing conditions therein, passed its third reading in Council.

In the removal of the poles from the streets, the City Council has in view the laying of pavements on the road, which, of course, may not be realized for a few years to come.

With the one extra clause inserted, the agreement will be submitted to the company's officials in Montreal for sanction or rejection. If the former, the company agree to have all their poles off certain parts of streets in the business centre of the city eliminated before June 30, in the year 1908.

In connection with the matter, the Mayor stated that he and the City Solicitor had been in communication with Mr. Dorn, the local manager, and Mr. F. D. Kerr, the local solicitor of the company, and that they had come to an agreement, considered to be fair to all parties. The agreement was then read and submitted to the Council.

The Bell Company propose to lay the wires in conduits underground on certain streets and to erect any poles on the said streets for 50 feet on either side of St. George street, these poles to be used for distributing purposes. The streets submitted by the company, under which they will place their conduits, are George street, from Sherbrooke street to Brock street; Brock street, from Chambers street to George street; Hunter street, from Aylmer street to Water street; Simcoe street, 150 feet east and west of George street; Charlotte street, 150 feet west of George street, and on Chambers street, 150 feet north of Hunter street.

The agreement also calls for the work to be supervised by the City Engineer; the company shall not encumber, unnecessarily, the streets when the conduits are being laid, and the streets must be left in the same condition afterwards as before. The company agree to construct and maintain their conduits so as not to injure the corporation works. The company also agree to have the work completed before June 30, 1908.

In connection with the clause referring to the condition of streets after some discussion, it was moved by Ald. Morrow and McIntyre, that it be so amended to read that, "providing the company do not leave the streets in the same condition as found, the city be given the permission to repair them, after giving reasonable notice, and charging the cost to the company."

The city in return, according to the agreement, providing that the company fulfill their promises, will allow the company to use the streets above named for the purpose of laying their conduits, reserving the right to have the agreement terminated by the Board of Railway Commissioners if there is a sufficient cause, or by any rights which may hereafter be granted to the city.

It was moved by Ald. Morrow and McIntyre, that the agreement, as now submitted, be approved of, with the introduction of the clause referred to above in connection with the repair of the streets, which was carried.

Mr. F. D. Kerr was present in the interests of the Bell Telephone Company, and, in spite of his arguments, the Council persisted in adding the extra clause, the import of which they did not believe was embodied in any other portion of the agreement.

In the Council meeting, the bylaw authorizing the execution of the agreement with the Bell Telephone Company passed its third reading.

HOME-MADE MEDICINE

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salatone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary afflictions, and also in rheumatism and sciatica. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels these in the urine. To allow this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known as rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

Anyone suffering from any of these afflictions will no doubt be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended remedy.

2,500 MEN IN MINES GO ON STRIKE

2,500 Miners on Strike at Leading Mines in Cobalt.

Demand Recognition of Union—Hundreds Leave Town—Finish Fight the Cry—Riots Are Feared—Want Liquor Supplies Stopped—American Union Said to Be Responsible—What the Miners Want.

Cobalt, July 9.—Practically all the the men of the thirty leading mines in Cobalt district were on strike last night. Most of them were paid off after breakfast yesterday morning and told that no more meals would be served to them. The sleeping quarters and the dining-rooms at the mines are locked, and the provisions have been put in the managers' houses.

Fully 2,500 men were without shelter last night, after a hard rain. Many have only their money from last week's work. The town council will open the opera house, but not more than 500 men can find sleeping room there.

Union agitators addressed large crowds in the public square yesterday, but there was no open demonstration. Special police deputies were sworn in at the request of the Cobalt Chamber of Commerce.

Over 500 miners left town. Every train was crowded. The railroad has sent special police to guard 25 cars of merchandise on the sidings, and retailers are refusing credit to the strikers. The question of to-day's supply is serious, but the people are disposed to give food. The police are confident of controlling the situation. There is little intoxication.

To Recognize Union.

Mine managers are determined to run the mines themselves, without recognising the union, but the strikers are equally confident of success. Yesterday the Nipissing worked 200 men, the Chambers-Ferland 100, McKinley-Darragh 50, Coniagas 40 ond the LaRose 40.

These mines will continue work while the men remain. A demand is made for higher wages for unskilled labor, but the real fight is for recognition of the union and for skilled workmen in all departments. The managers and union schedules otherwise are identical.

The merchants will appeal to the Government at Toronto to arbitrate, but no suggestion of arbitration comes from the union or managers. At present, wages are as high as are paid elsewhere in Canada, and are fully up to the average of the States.

The union reports 600 new members to-day, the total claimed being 1,400. There are few Canadians, French or Italian workers in the union.

The Ontario law inflicts a heavy penalty on strikers who incite to riot, or who destroy property. Cooler-headed union men have done everything possible to prevent a strike. When trouble seemed certain, President Duke of the local union resigned his office, and he is now working, with the more intelligent strikers, to prevent an outbreak.

President McGuire, Duke's successor, says the fight will be to a finish, and that no outside interference will be permitted. He declares he has ample funds to feed the strikers for weeks, if necessary, and to have ordered tents from Toronto and Montreal.

Hundreds of strikers are walking the railroad at midnight to Haileybury, five miles to the north, but that town is already over-crowded.

The union mass meetings last night broke up quietly.

The men's demands are:

On the surface: Carpenters $3.75; helpers $2.75; mechanics $3.75; pipe fitters $3.25; blacksmiths $3.75; helpers $3; engineers 35 cents per hour; firemen 30 cents per hour; ore sorters, $3; hammersmen $3; teamsters $2.75; hoistmen $3; cage or bucket tenders $3; other surface labor $2.75.

Underground: Timberman $3.50; machine runners $3.25; helpers $3; cage or bucket tenders $3; other underground labor $3.

The miners ask that not more than 65 cents per day be charged for board.

Miners in shafts 25 cents extra per shift in extra wet shafts.

Mine owners to furnish oil skins to miners.

Working day: Surface work, 10 hours except Saturday's, to be 8 hours, and 8 hours all underground.

Wrecking Train Wrecked.

Toronto, July 8.—Arthur Lillen, 13 Franklin avenue, Toronto Junction, had his leg broken in a train wreck at Cardwell Junction on the G. T. R. Sunday. The accident occurred to a wrecking train which had gone up to clear away the wreckage of a freight train which had been derailed about a week ago. The whole of the wrecking train except the engine, left the rails, falling a distance of 20 feet to the second track. The officials can give no explanation of the occurrence. The tracks were all clear again within an hour.

EXTORTIONIST MAYOR GOES TO JAIL

Schmitz of San Francisco Sent Down For Five Years.

REMARKABLE SCENE IN COURT

Great Crowd Send Up Thunderous Cheer—Hats Thrown In the Air—Spectators Climbed Upon Chairs—Counsel Protests In Vain Against Unseemly Conduct—Photographers Get Pictures.

San Francisco, July 9.—Mayor Schmitz was yesterday sentenced to five years' imprisonment for corrupt practices in the administration of municipal affairs.

The passing of sentence upon the convicted mayor was accompanied by a most remarkable demonstration. As the last words fell from the lips of the judge the great crowd that had stood throughout the dramatic scene sent up a thunderous cheer. Men threw their hats in the air, others climbed upon chairs and the greatest confusion prevailed.

Counsel for Schmidt protested, and appealed to the court to immediately put a stop to this unseemly occurrence. "If we had a sheriff worthy the name it would have stopped instantly," replied Judge Dunn.

"No one could have stopped that cheer, your honor."

Then the order was given to clear the court-room.

In the meantime half a dozen photographers had set off their flashlights, and in the midst of the skirling, struggling crowd and the suffocating smoke stood the convicted mayor dictating a statement to a score or more of newspapermen.

Anti-Papal League Discovered—International Conspiracy.

Rome, July 9.—The Vatican has been informed of the existence of a secret international league, embracing Teutonic and Anglo-Saxon countries, of which it is said many members are of the German Catholic centre.

The ostensible object of the league is the petitioning of the Vatican for the suppression of the index expurgatories, but it is stated that its real object is to stir up strife among Catholics, causing schisms similar to the ultra-liberal movement in Italy.

The Pope, it is asserted will shortly take severe disciplinary measures against the new league.

PORT HOPE'S VERSION OF THE GAME

No Mention Made of Quinlan's Brilliant Pitching Feat—Blame the Umpire

The Port Hope Guide has the following report of Saturday's game. It reads about as was to be expected. It will be noticed that no mention is made of the fact that Port Hope failed to get a single hit off Quinlan, or that Peterborough made more hits off Surphlis in either one of the games than Port Hope did off Quinlan in both of them:

Port Hope met their second defeat of the season at Peterborough on Saturday afternoon last, the score being 6 to 3. Port Hope was represented by the same team that defeated Peterborough here on July 1st, and there was only one change in the Peterborough line—Johnston taking Poulter's place.

The weather early in the afternoon was very threatening, and about 2.30 Jupiter Pluvia let forth for a time, but about 3 o'clock the sun shone forth and everything was lovely. About 500 people were in attendance and when the hour for starting had rolled around the umpire could not be found. Wilson, of Oshawa, according to President Jex's instructions, was to have held the indicator, but he either missed the train or had cold feet. He did not show up at any rate and the pleasant undertaking fell to Earle of Peterborough, and S. Lockington of Port Hope.

Peterborough got busy in the first innings and scored two runs, but were blanked in the next three. Port Hope didn't take a share in the run getting until the fifth when they banged the ball around and the Peterborough fielders were unable to gather it in. Three men crossed the plate and with two out and the bases full Thompson came to bat. He hit a hot one down the third base line scoring Surphlis; Thompson reached first at least 15 seconds ahead of the ball. But it was hitting Peterborough a little too hard and Earls called him out and of course Surphlis' run did not count. The decision meant the loss of one run to Port Hope that we are sure of, and we feel pretty confident that two or three more would have crossed the plate before Petrborough would have settled down. It is an old game of course to find fault with the umpire, when your team meets defeat, and we have always endeavoured not to do this. Every umpire will make a mistake, but this was altogether too open. There wasn't the slightest chance for a doubt; the runner had crossed the base and he was returning to the bag when the ball reached there, and many of the best sports in Peterborough expressed their disgust at the decision. Earls retired from the umpiring staff at this stage of the game, and our only regret was that he did not leave earlier.

Peterborough added two runs in the fifth and two in the seventh, making the score at the close 6—3.

The Port Hope team, as a whole, did not play as snappy ball as they have been doing all season. They entered into the game in a half-hearted manner and it was only now and then that they gave exhibitions of their true form. The mighty Surphlis was in his usual good form. Henry has become quite a favourite with the boys and some "other people" in Peterborough, and his good work was loudly applauded. He only allowed 5 hits and 11 men failed to connect with his benders.

DECIDING GAME WILL SOON BE PLAYED

Two Teams Are Tied for First Honours and the League's Cup

The final game in the Intermediate Baseball League has yet to be played between the Strathconas and the West Ends, and the result will determine the winner of the cup for the League's first year, 1907. The purpose of the league has been realized and the experience gained should be of assistance in the future. The teams realize that a double schedule is necessary and the rule of not permitting a team to sign new men during the time the games are being played should be amended as a team should have the right to sign a man at any time, if he is agreeable to the rest of the teams. This is the first year for the league and it is hoped that there will be many more of them.

BASEBALL

The Peterborough baseball team will practice to-night at Riverside Park, and every player is expected to be out in uniform. The diamond at the park was re-measured last night and will be in better shape for the next game.

• • • •

Urkes a trip is arranged for out of town, there will be no game for the team on Saturday.

• • • •

The final game for the championship of the Intermediate City League will be played on Saturday afternoon between the Strathconas and West Ends. It should be a great exhibition of ball.

• • • •

The Port Hope Guide alleges that Peterborough wants an umpire that will give them everything. The statement is wrong. We don't want everything, and especially not lemons, which were handed to us on Dominion Day.

There will be a meeting of the City Baseball League in the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

The standing of the Midland League is as follows:—

	Won.	Lost.	Per cent.
Port Hope	5	2	.714
Cobourg	5	2	.714
Peterborough ...	3	3	.500
Oshawa...	1	6	.142

LACROSSE

The Peterborough Lacrosse Club will journey to Beaverton to-morrow where they will play a C.L.A. game with Case Cameron's aggregation. Although defeated here on Dominion Day they have hopes of being able to reverse the score.

On Saturday Newmarker will play here and one of the best games of the season should result. Newmarket has gathered together a very fast team and they will do their best to take a fall out of the locals. They will run an excursion here and will be accompanied by a big crowd.

CRICKET

To-night a practice of the Cricket Club will be held at 6.30, when arrangements will be made for a game to be played on Saturday with the "Has Beens," on the Oval. A full turn-out of players is desired.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE BOYS' CAMP

Party Will Leave for Sandy Point on Thursday—Large Number of Boys For the Camp

The enrolment for the Y.M.C.A. Boys' Camp is still increasing, half a dozen more having sent in their names yesterday. Those who are going will note an important change in the time of going on Thursday. The party will leave on the noon train, not the morning train, as announced.

The boys should be at the train early to get their baggage checked.

A HIGHLY RESPECTED RAILWAY MAN

Late W. D. Hamilton Was a Member of Masonic and Oddfellows' Lodges

The Toronto Globe of to-day has the following reference to the death of Mr. W. D. Hamilton, of Lakefield, the circumstances surrounding which were given in the Examiner of yesterday.

Mr. W. D. Hamilton, the engineer of the ill-fated express, was so seriously injured in the wreck on the C. N. R., at Rainy River on Friday midnight, that he diedd in the General Hospital at Winnipeg at 6.30 a. m., on Sunday. He was well known in Toronto, Peterborough and Lindsay, having been an engineer on the Grand Trunk for a number of years. He was a prominent Oddfellow and Mason, belonging to the Lindsay Masonic Lodge, and Toronto Mystic Shiners, also Peterborough I.O.O.F., Peterborough. The body will be brought to Lakefield for burial, that village being the home of the deceased. The funeral will take place on Thursday.

SOME COMPLAINTS ABOUT THE DUST EVIL

Citizen Says Carts Are Only Out When It Is Going to Rain

A well-known citizen complained to the Examiner to-day of the dust evil. He stated that he could always tell when it was going to rain, because that was the only time the water-carts were out, i.e., when they were not needed. The citizen was of the opinion that the manner in which the world was neglected was shameful.

SUPERIOR QUALITY OF GRAPHITE FOUND

Haliburton District is Proving to be Rich in This Mineral

News has been received of the discovery of a rich graphite mine in the township of Cardiff, Northumberland County. The fortunate proprietor is Mr. Thos. Bick and it is conceded that his find is of a superior quality to those that have already been staked in that district. The mine is being operated and shipments of the ore are being made. A local gentleman has a sample of the graphite which shows a yield that is almost pure.

The district has been said to be rich in graphite and this latest discovery is most encouraging as it is considered more valuable than any that have as yet been located.

In Tember From a Bad Liver
Calyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more miserable or gloomy and discouraged than liver complaint, and consequent billousness and dyspepsia, and nothing so thoroughly and promptly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

DECLARES THE LAW IS OBSERVED

Mr. M. McNichol Denies That Liquor is Illegally Sold in Havelock

Mr. M. McNichol, of Havelock, proprietor of one of the three hotels in that village, was in the city to-day and called the attention of the Examiner to a report which appeared in another local paper to the effect that the law was being violated in hotels in that town. Mr. McNichol gives that statement a denial, stating that in his hotel, and, he believes in the other hotels of the town the law is rigidly observed, and it is, he declares, impossible for one to secure liquor between closing time on Saturday night and Monday morning. He stated further that the people of Havelock were indignant that such an erroneous report should have been circulated.

Mr. Roy made a trip to Kirkfield in his yacht, the Rob Roy, for the purpose of preserving the ceremony in picture form, and he has succeeded in getting a series of magnificent pictures, perfect in their clearness. Many familiar faces can be detected on board the steamers and in the crowd around the lock.

TRIAL DRAGS ON SLOWLY.

Reading Testimony In Haywood Case Takes Whole Session.

Boise, July 9.—The entire morning session in the Haywood trial was taken up yesterday with the reading of testimony. Testimony was taken by a commission appointed by Judge Wood, who is presiding at the present trial.

The defence during the stay of the commission in San Francisco secured the testimony of Bradley himself and several others, expressing the belief that the explosion was due to gas and declaring that the havoc wrought by it was not caused by dynamite.

Orchard declared that the bomb arranged by him to be exploded when the front door was opened contained about 10 pounds of dynamite, encased in a large section of lead pipe.

SUDDEN SQUAL UPSET THE SAIL BOAT

And Three Young Persons Who Were Good Swimmers Were Given a Ducking

A ducking and a gallant rescue are reported from Stony Lake this morning. The facts of the case are that Walter Curry, a son of Mr. J. W. Curry, K.C., of Toronto, who, with his family is living at Mr. Dumble's cottage for the season, was returning to his island home, with a young boy friend, and Miss Alberta Gooding, who is also a visitor at the Curry home, in a sail boat, when a sudden squall upset the boat and the three young persons were thrown into the water. Fortunately other campers in a gasoline yacht were near at hand and the young people were taken in before they had been in the water long. As a matter of fact they are all good swimmers, so that there was no danger.

WEDDING BELLS.

HUTCHINSON-O'DONNELL

At St. Peter's Cathedral this morning Miss Ella Loretta O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. Patrick O'Donnell, of this city, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. William Hutchinson, son of Mr. Wm. Hutchinson, of Toronto. Rev. Father McColl performed the ceremony in the presence of many friends of the contracting parties. The bride was assisted by Miss Emma Phalon of Ennismore, and the groom was supported by Mr. Joseph O'Donnell, brother of the bride.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white silk with lace trimmings, and wore a becoming hat of blue. She carried a bouquet of carnations. Miss Phalon was dressed in white with hat to match, and also carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

After the wedding the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's parents, 672 Stewart street, where dainty refreshments were served and an enjoyable time spent. The many beautiful presents received by Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson testify to the high esteem in which they are held by their friends. The groom's present to the bride was a crescent of pearls, and, to the bridesmaid, a ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson went to Toronto on the C. P. R. evening train, and in future they will reside there.

CLEMENS-RECORD

Friends in Peterborough of the young principals in a pleasant nuptial event, which took place recently in Caledonia, Mich., will be interested in the following report taken from the Caledonia News of Thursday, July 4:

On Tuesday evening, July 2, the Methodist Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding, when Mr. Harry D. Clemens and Miss Mary Record plighted their troth and launched their bark on the sea of matrimony. The church was effectively decorated with a profusion of flowers and potted plants. At seven o'clock, as the Clemens orchestra played a selection, the bridal party approached the altar, where Rev. F. R. Godolphin impressively performed the ring ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by the Misses Ida Wegner and Millie McConnell. Elo Bowman and Roy Dodge attended the groom. Little Loucile Loring carried the ring in a calla lily, and flowers were borne by the little Misses Ruth and Nora Kennedy of New York. Mr. E. C. Apsey acted as master of ceremonies, and the Sunday school class of Miss Mary's was given an honourary position in the wedding procession. Immediately after the ceremony, decorated carriages transported the party to the bride's home, where a reception was tendered to over a hundred guests. An elaborate three-course lunch was served in the dining apartment by ten misses, Clemens' orchestra playing throughout the evening. Among the many beautiful presents received was a gift of $100 from the bride's father, also an ancient family cane, which has descended for several generations and is highly prized in the Clemens family. Both the bride and groom are well known in this vicinity and command the deepest respect of all who know them. Miss Record has been actively engaged in various phases of public life, and will be greatly missed in church and social circles. Their prospects for a bright and happy future are most promising, and when they leave for their future home the best wishes of a host of friends go with them. They will reside in Philadelphia, where Mr. Clemens is already established among the machinists of that city and will be at home to their many friends at 1217 Redfield street after August 1.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.

PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of even getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

Gifts Amounting To $20,800 Are Made By Nicholls Estate Trustees

Another Large Distribution of Funds From This Estate Announced, in Support of Local Religious and Charitable Institutions

SEVENTEEN SUNDAY SCHOOLS HAVE BEEN HELPED

DONATIONS ANNOUNCED BY TRUSTEES OF THE NICHOLLS ESTATE TO LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS

$5,000.00 Hospital for Current Requirements
3,000.00 St. Andrews Church for Repairs and New Gallery
2,000.00 St. Paul's Church for Re-building Organ
2,000.00 Y. W. C. A.
2,000.00 Y. M. C. A. for Repairs to Building
1,000.00 Children's Aid Society
300.00 Each to Fifteen Sunday Schools for Library Purposes
150.00 Each to Two Sunday Schools for Library Purposes

Further donations to church and charitable organizations in the city to the extent of $20,800 from the funds of the Nicholls Estate are announced to-day, and the announcement of the gift of this sum of money, which will be available at once, will be learned with pleasure by the heads of the various organizations interested.

This morning the heads of 24 institutions were notified of the action of the trustees of the estate in making the further donations specified above, and to many of them the intelligence came as a surprise, a pleasant one it must, of course, be assumed.

In making these benefactions, the trustees are acting, of course, along lines inaugurated by the late Mrs. Nicholls during her lifetime, and in her will, and in the belief that she would wish the money devoted to the purposes to which it is now being put, the trustees have decided to make the donations as indicated.

The Nicholls Hospital which was Mrs. Nicholls' especial care, is given $5,000, which will be used for current requirements, and will be received by the Board with gratitude, since it will provide for many comforts, which otherwise would be impossible. Probably, during her lifetime, no institution in the city was nearer to Mrs. Nicholls' heart than the hospital, provided through her beneficience, and in making a grant of $5,000, there is no doubt that her wishes are being respected.

The two Presbyterian churches, St. Andrew's and St. Paul's, each of which is given $3,000, have also to thank Mrs. Nicholls for many favours bestowed, both during her lifetime and since her death. The donation of the amount to St. Andrew's will make possible the erection of a gallery and other improvements, as well as repairs, which have been contemplated for some time, but which have been impossible of execution because of the lack of funds.

The reception of an equal amount by St. Paul's will enable that church to effect repairs to the organ, practically rebuilding the instrument, and making other improvements to the interior of the church.

Two donations of $2,000 each to the Young Women's and Young Men's Christian Associations are made, and these amounts (without doubt be wisely expended. In the case of the Y. M. C. A., the money will be used for repairs to the building, and for the Y. W. C. A. it is understood that no definite plans have as yet been laid, though the impression is given that the debt on the building will probably be reduced by the amount of the subscription.

Probably none of the grants are more fully appreciated than that of $1,000 to the Children's Aid Society, an institution which in the past has rendered service of untold value to the youth of the city and county. In another column to-day the president of the society, in acknowleging the gift, makes some reference to the extent of the work of the organization.

Fifteen Sunday schools in the city are made richer to the extent of $300 each, the stipulation being made that the money shall be expended for library purposes. Two other schools are given $150 each. It will be remembered that a few months ago this estate made a donation to Knox Presbyterian Church, which accounts for the fact of that church not having been mentioned in this distribution.

The cheques in each case were received this morning.

Youths Were Driven Off By Man With A Razor

FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE

As the result of a warrant being issued for the arrest of two youths, Frederick Williams and Edward Harrison of this city, they are now fugitives from justice, and are reported to be making safety across the line. The young men, together with Frank Scriber, also of Peterborough, are charged with using profane language in Chemong Park one evening last week while the camp meeting in connection with the Methodist Summer School was in progress.

The papers were yesterday served by Constable Cochrane on Scriber, who claims that he was (with the other parties, but that he used no insulting language. He has promised to appear when called upon.

According to reports, the young men run amuck in the park and might have inflicted injuries. It is stated that they hovered around the rear of the pavilion where the meeting was being held, used grossly insulting language, and made indecent proposals to a number of the ladies.

They afterwards are said to have entered a boathouse in which there was only a lady, and that they attempted a disgraceful assault upon her. Her screams were heard by her husband, and the men were driven off with a razor.

Williams and Harrison disappeared the following day, and it is stated by their friends that they have gone to Buffalo.

HEAVY PENALTY FOR STEALING A BICYCLE

Boys who steal bicycles in Toronto are being pretty severely dealt with, and the suggestion is made that an example may be made of local youths in a similar way to the justice meted out by Magistrate Edmison. The Star of last night says that William A. Johnston was sent to the Central Prison for four months, for stealing a bicycle.

The Chest Pains of Bronchitis

If the cough is dry and hard, if there is pain, soreness and tightness in the chest; if you have difficulty in getting your breath, you have reason to suspect that you have bronchitis. Lest it should become chronic and lead to serious lung trouble, do no delay the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, the most certain cure for bronchitis.

INTERESTING FAMILY REUNION AT THE PARK

A social function of importance took place at Jackson Park yesterday evening when a re-union of the Cox family, of which Mr. Henry Cox, East City, is the oldest living member, was held. The guests included the children of the eldest family, their children, and their children's children, and altogether there were about 75 present. Supper was partaken of in the park and a most enjoyable time was spent.

Among the guests from out of the city were Mrs. A. C. Weir, Toronto; Mrs. Dingman, Rochester; Mr and Mrs. Coon, Havelock, and many others.

Women's Work at Exhibition

One section is devoted to Women's and Children's work, the other section to Graphic and Applied Arts. All the cases in this building have been removed and new arrangements for the reception of exhibits have been completed. The Graphic Art section of the building is arranged in the form of four galleries. One devoted to Graphic and Applied Art, one to amateur photography, one to professional photography and the remaining one to amateur art and sketch work.

GREAT BRITAIN PREPARES FOR HOSTILITIES BETWEEN JAPAN AND UNITED STATES

Acknowledged That There is a Possibility of Trouble, and Prepares for Eventuality.

STEPS ARE BEING TAKEN

Examiner Special

London, July 10.—Great Britain to-day acknowledged the possibility of war between the United States and Japan, but took steps, which, it is hoped here, will prevent the Empire being drawn into the struggle, in spite of the treaty which exists with her ally, Japan.

London, July 10.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, at The Hague, says that, as a result of his inquiries there, he learns that the Japanese-American situation is really strained, although both Governments are trying to conceal the fact. He stated that before June 9 the question had entered upon an acute phase. Japan has been sending the United States extremely categorical notes stating, without bitterness, but in the clearest tones, the dilema that unless she was able to control California, Japan will consider herself free to act directly against California.

ATTORNEY GENERAL WILL ASSUME THE PROSECUTION

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Ont., July 10.—Col. Percy Sherwood, of the Dominion Secret Service, was in consultation with the Attorney General at the Parliament buildings this morning in connection with the arrest at Lindsay, Ont., and Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, on charges of counterfeiting, of a number of men. He asked that the Attorney General's Department assume charge of the case with a view to its centralization and trial and this was consented to. Col. Sherwood will place all of his information at the disposal of the Province at Department.

Explanation Of Terms Of Colonial Weaving By-law

TERMS ARE REASONABLE

In view of the fact that there is apparently some little misunderstanding among some of the ratepayers of the city in reference to the terms and conditions of the Colonial Weaving Company bylaw, which will be voted on to-morrow, the Examiner has endeavoured to obtain the facts in connection with the proposal, and publish them for the benefit of those ratepayers who are unfamiliar with what the passing of the bylaw involves.

The only concession the company are being given is a free site, upon which to erect their factory, and a fixed assessment for the full present value of the lands upon which the company's buildings will be erected.

Under the bylaw the company are bound to erect a suitable brick building, at least 60 feet wide by 200 feet long.

The company are further bound, within one year, to instal in such building, thirty thousand dollars' worth of machinery.

The company are further bound to constantly employ at least 60 hands. The present plans of the company would require at least 100 hands to operate the new machinery which they propose to instal.

There is no reason why this company should not be given the same aid which has been extended to other factories locating in Peterborough, but even under the present bylaw the company is not being extended the same treatment as has been extended to others, inasmuch as they have to pay school taxes for the full assessed value of their land and of the new buildings which it is proposed to erect.

More favourable terms have been offered by other towns to the company than are being granted by Peterborough. It is only the loyalty of the shareholders of the company to Peterborough that is inducing them to resist the tempting offers of other towns. That spirit of loyalty in our citizens should be encouraged rather than discouraged, especially when it means the bringing in of $50,000.00 of new capital.

Another point of interest in connection with the bylaw is the fact that whereas, at the present time, the property upon which the company propose to erect their buildings is assessed for $1,900, the assessment, after the buildings have been erected, will be increased to $3,500, giving the ratepayers the benefit of this increased assessment and corresponding increase in taxation.

TAIL DEVELOPING SLOWLY ON THE NEW EARLY MORNING COMET

The new comet is developing a tail. It may not amount to much, but there are evidences of its existence. This morning Rev. Dr. Marsh was up at 2 o'clock, and had a good opportunity of seeing the comet, which he saw in right ascension one hour and thirty-four minutes, with a declination of plus seven degrees and seven minutes. It was travelling rapidly eastward, and was brighter than it had been previously. A hazy elongation was noticed, and, while it can hardly be described as a tail, it approaches it in appearance.

The comet will be visible until September, but it will probably be in existence for thousands of years to come.

NO TROUBLE TO GET RID OF FURNITURE

"For goodness sake take that advertisement about furniture for sale out of your paper," said a young business man who had been running a condensed ad. in the Want Column of the Examiner for the last few days. He ordered it inserted a week but half that time was sufficient to dispose of the whole houseful of furniture, and he wanted the advertisement taken out because intending purchasers were still coming for it.

FORT WILLIAM VISITOR HERE TO-DAY

Ex-Mayor Dyke and Saskatchewan Telephone Expert Here

Ex-Mayor Dyke of the progressive city of Fort William is in the city to-day, accompanied by Mr. Francis Dagger, telephone expert for the Saskatchewan Government, and are the guests of Mr. F. D. McKay. They investigated the Machine telephone system, and Mr. Dyke, in speaking to the Examiner, stated that he was greatly amazed with its simplicity and accuracy. For his own benefit he asked the opinion of local subscribers, and he found all to be pleased with it.

This was Mr. Dyke's first visit to Peterborough, so he visited the lift lock and other points of interest, and was much pleased with the city.

Fort William, he said, was growing at an enormous rate. During the past four years its population had doubled and was now in the neighbourhood of 15,000.

Mr. Dyke stated that Fort William had unlimited water powers. The Kamanistiqua Water Power Company has developed 15,000 h.p. at one of the cataracts, and that 100,000 h.p. awaited development. At Dog Lake and Lake Nechgon it was estimated that 160,000 h.p. could be obtained.

The railways are busy, too, in Fort William, the C.P.R. alone paying $100,000 per month in wages there.

The two visitors left this evening, greatly pleased with their brief stay in Peterborough.

THE FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TO-MORROW

Body of the Late Mr. Hamilton Taken to Lakefield To-day

The remains of the late Mr. Hamilton, who died in the General Hospital at Winnipeg as a result of injuries sustained in a train wreck near that city, were brought to Peterborough last night on the midnight C.P.R. express. They were kept at Mr. Bellegham's undertaking establishment until this morning and were conveyed to the Grand Trunk station and taken to Lakefield on the first train this morning. The funeral will take place to-morrow to the Lakefield cemetery.

ENCENIA WAS ATTRACTION

Providence smiled benevolently upon beautiful King Edward Grove, of Douro, yesterday, where hundreds had gathered to do honour to Rev. Father Keilty, the amiable parish priest, on the occasion of his annual picnic. The event, which is always the gala day of the year for the good folk of Douro township, was marked with the greatest success from every standpoint, and the memory of it will long be cherished in the hearts of the eight hundred or more persons in attendance. The bright sunshine from early morning, the genial countenances of all who were present, the admirable addresses and the excellence of the eatables spread by the ladies of Douro, all converged to make the picnic of 1907, the banner one in the history of that prosperous township.

Needless to mention, the glad hand of welcome, was heartily extended by Rev. Father Keilty and his parishioners, to the visitors present from all parts of the country. They were there from Peterborough, Norwood, Havelock, Dummer, Ennismore, Otonabee, Asphodel and even Young's Point, so far distant, sent its coterie to swell the numbers of the assemblage gathered together in God's great out-of-doors. The day was certainly well spent and enjoyed by all fortunate enough to be present.

The principal feature of the programme for the day for the young people was undoubtedly the dancing. The violins were tuned early in the day and with the exception of the time for the deliverance of the addresses, there was no cessation of the light fantastic, until the sombre shades of night began to fall. Youth and pleasure had met, and nothing occurred that would in any way have a tendency to mar the enjoyment of the youths and maidens.

The Encenia

For the elder folk the Encenia, embracing addresses from some of the prominent men of the city and county, was the chief attraction.

The speeches were eagerly listened to, and the speeches had all words of eulogy for the promoter of the picnic, Rev. Father Keilty, for his faithful ministrants, and for the manner in which the various events were carried out.

During the afternoon an excellent line of sports was run off, on the large field to the south of King Edward Grove, which formed considerable attraction, and which were keenly contested. In fact the success of the picnic in its every detail, reflects great credit on Father Keilty the priest at St. Joseph's, who was principally instrumental in its successful culmination.

After dinner the dancing platform was very liberally patronized, until the speaking began, shortly after four o'clock. Rev. Father Keilty first regretted the absence of Dr. Foran, of the Ottawa University, who was to have addressed the gathering on France and Christianity, and read a letter regretting that it was impossible for him to be present on account of the serious illness of his wife.

Among those on the higher platform overlooking the dancing pavilion were Rev. Father Keilty, Rev. Father McCall, Mr. P. J. Monaghan, Toronto, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., Mr. John Finlay, M.P., Mr. R. F. McWilliams, Mr. William Rudkin, Mr. Harry Phelan, Mr. J. J. Crowe, Mr. Joshua Smithson, Mr. Thompson, Reeve of Havelock, Mr. Jas. Andrews, Mr. R. M. Elliott, and Warden McNulty, who presided in his usual happy manner as chairman.

Warden McNulty, before calling upon the various speakers, thanked all those present for their attendance and referred in complimentary terms to the importance of the [illegible]

A NATIONAL WATERWAY

The importance, from a national standpoint of the opening of the lift lock Kirkfield, and the resultant opening up to navigation of a large area, and, seeing the ultimate end, the completion of this national waterway, is evidently appreciated by the Toronto Globe, for, in an editorial reference in yesterday's issue of that paper the following appears:—

The opening of the lift lock at Kirkfield is an event that proves the vigorous policy of the Government in perfecting and completing this important link in our inland water transportation. The sneers of Conservative politicians at this highway and at the Government's policy in regard to it show a failure to appreciate its value and importance. They cannot comprehend what it means to bring barge navigation and small-boat navigation to a large number of interior commercial centres. Such navigation, once the links are completed on the Severn to Georgian Bay can never be made subject to monopolistic control. The continuous possibility of small freighters coming in will keep rates always at competitive levels, and will be a perpetual and effective regulator of local railway charges. When the lower Trent is made navigable to the Bay of Quinte there will be a short cut for barges and small vessels from the foot of Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay. It is true that this is a kind of navigation that has been largely superseded by the big freighters and grain carriers, but it is a kind for which there will always be a demand on the smaller inland waters. And while the Trent navigation will always be restricted to small vessels, there is no limit to their number, and they may at any time develop into an important part of the transportation system between the east and the west.

Apart entirely from the purposes of through traffic, the canal system will continue with every extension to serve more efficiently the local transportation needs. The possibilities of this waterway were appreciated as early as 1837, and although the military needs which prompted the earlier work have passed away or are otherwise met, the highway still serves many important commercial centres whose growth it has promoted and encouraged. And its usefulness has not been lessened, but has rather increased by the development of other and more extensive transportation systems.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux's address at the opening of the lock showed a thorough grasp of the affairs of his important department. It is as Minister of Labour that he has become most widely known to the people of Ontario, but this ceremony has had the good effect of bringing out prominently his important public services in an entirely different direction. He fully realizes and appreciates the importance of the transportation problem in this country of magnificent distances. In taking up and carrying on the vigorous policy of the Government he has exemplified the difference between the old habit of toying with public works to win or affect elections, and carrying them out seriously with an appreciation of their importance to the country. The Trent Valley navigation is but typical of the Government's policy toward transportation in all parts of the Dominion. The people of Ontario and of the other Provinces should hear Hon. Mr. Lemieux more frequently for, it is already evident that he is destined for a long career of usefulness in the front rank of Canadian statesmen. He has given proof of the discernment with which Sir Wilfrid Laurier surrounds himself with the ablest men in public life. Occasional ceremonies marking the completion of public works have the good effect of making the public better acquainted with the men who are directing governmental affairs.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Speaking at the ceremonies connected with the opening of the new Lift Lock on the Trent Valley Canal, Hon. Mr. Lemieux made a significant statement, says the Hamilton Herald. He said that the Georgian Bay Canal scheme is being matured, and the time is not distant when Canada will be in a "position to undertake even this gigantic work." This would indicate that the canal will be built by the government as a public work, and not by a private company as a commercial undertaking.

Mr.P. J. Mungovan

The first speaker called upon was Mr. P. J. Mungovan, of the Catholic Register, Toronto, often known as the "Rambler," who immediately captured the hearts of his hearers by his eloquence. He was pleased to be present, he said, at the Douro picnic of 1907, and to participate in the enjoyment to be derived therefrom.

His remarks were based chiefly upon the glories of the past as Mr. Mungovan has seen a good many seasons come and go.

He was glad to be a representative of the old generation at the picnic and to meet the good people of Douro and their friends in a grove with such a prominent name as King Edward. He paid a glowing tribute to his Majesty King Edward, chiefly because he was the son of a Sovereign who was beloved and honoured the world over.

The speaker also referred to the rapid strides that our Dominion was making along all lines and he was thoroughly in accord with the great statesman who has said that "the 20th century belongs to Canada." It would be impossible, he stated, to foretell the greatness which our country may attain, because of its glorious records of the past and its advanced state of civilization. Religious strife was now at an end, and all sects were struggling mutually for Canada's benefit. In closing Mr. Mungoven jocularly remarked that he had not come prepared for an address befitting the occasion but promised good, sound, common sense from the speakers to follow. Evidently Mr. Mungoven's fame as a speaker as well as a journalist, had preceded him as he was loudly applauded on rising and more so when he resumed his seat.

The second speaker on the list was Mr. Jno. Finlay of Norwood, who in a brief address congratulated Father Kelity on his excellent picnic and on the size of the gathering and thanked the people of Douro for their assistance to him in the past.

Mr.R. R. Hall M. P.

Mr. Hall assured the gathering that it was a pleasure for him to be present to take part in the picnic and congratulated Father Kelity and his assisting committee for the splendid work accomplished in making it so successful. He was pleased to see that no rain had fallen to mar the pleasure of the picnickers.

Mr. Hall then gave some facts and figures bearing out the assertions that the 20th century belonged to Canada. One hundred years ago the United States had the population that Canada has now and that at the present rate of increase our country in 100 years from now would be in the neighbourhood of that of the United States—about 80,000,000.

The people of Canada to-day were a more vigorous race than those of the south. Canada was making wonderful strides, he said, in the increase of her railways and her fishery development. Our facilities are great and we are bound to advance.

The speaker also referred to the high position of Ontario among the provinces and stated that the province to which we belong yet exports twice the value of produce as the Northwest.

In closing he thanked Father Kelity for the privilege of being present upon the platform and wished the reverend gentleman every success in continuance of his work.

Other Speakers

Mr. Jas. Andrews, ex-County Councillor was the next speaker. He also was very much pleased to be present and complimented the ladies on their inviting spread of eatables.

Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, referred to the excellence of the crops in Douro which he had been pleased to observe while driving out from the city and also to the advanced system of agriculture in the township as shown by the crops.

He noticed that the young people took a great interest in the church work and was glad to see that in this they were following the example of their parish priest.

Reeve Thompson of Havelock was glad to accept the invitation of Father Kelity and to be present on his picnic day. As he drove through Belmont, Dummer and Douro, he was also pleased to see that Peterborough County, so far as Ontario was concerned, was one of the banner counties. He had recently been through the United States, but failed to see where Canadian soil did not compare with that across the line. Mr. Thompson also expressed a few words of praise to the fair sex who were present in large numbers.

Rev. Father McColl

Congratulations were also extended to Father Kelity by the next speaker, Rev. Father McColl. He was delighted with the addresses that preceded, and with the success of the picnic. He was particularly pleased with the address of Mr. Mungovan, a man who had lived in three generations and was fond of reciting the glories of the past. He praised the pioneers of Canada, whose sterling characters had won for them respect. But he was pleased to live in the present age, as he believed the world was going ahead and becoming better year by year. He also spoke of the advances made by Canada and the British Empire, and of the great improvement in the conveniences of living. He believed that in this respect the parish of Douro was keeping pace with the rest of the country.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams

Mayor McWilliams, on behalf of the city, extended to Rev. Father Kelity his congratulations for the programme made in connection with his parish. He was glad to see such an advancement in the county, because it was always sure to better the conditions in Peterborough, where a benefit would be reaped.

Messrs. Harry Phelan, city alderman; Wm. Rudkins; Joshua Smithson, License Commissioner of East Peterborough, and J. J. Crowe of North Dummer, also added their congratulations to Father Kelity and expressed their pleasure at being present. The latter speaker referred to the wonderful changes in the prosperity of Douro, from the time when he was a boy. He could remember the log houses by the roadside, where now stand brick and frame structures, and he paid a tribute to the hospitality of the big-hearted Irishmen of Douro.

Hon. J. R. Stratton

Hon. Mr. Stratton was the last speaker on the programme. It was almost twenty years, he said, since he first came to Douro to do honour to Father Kelity, the parish priest. He had always enjoyed his visits there, and hoped that he might again have the pleasure of attending. The citizens of Peterborough, he said, were always glad to see the advancement of the surrounding townships, and he assured the hearers that the city appreciated the rapid strides that Douro was making. Peterborough was now an important city of the Dominion. Although centred in some of the best agricultural districts of the county, its manufactures were of great importance also. Last year it was fifth in manufacturing enterprises in the Dominion. The output of its manufactured products last year alone amounted to $11,000,000, which was more per capita than any other city of Canada. The growth of the city of Peterborough, he said, was a fair indication of the growth of the Dominion.

In conclusion, Mr. Stratton congratulated Father Kelity on the success of the day, and the ladies on the excellence of the edibles.

Rev. Father Kelity

After the addresses of the day were concluded, Rev. Father Kelity extended his thanks to all for coming to his picnic. It had always been customary to hold it during the third week in June, he said, but owing to other circumstances it had been delayed this year until July, so that it was a matter of congratulation to know that there was such a large attendance. He thanked the gentlemen on the platform who had kindly consented to assist, and everybody for making the day pass so happily.

He exhorted all his hearers to remember the new commandment given by our Saviour, "That ye love one another" and closed with some kindly advice, wishing everyone Godspeed in their daily duties.

Results of Sports

The sports were very ably looked after by the Sports Committee, consisting of Messrs. F. Walsh, M. Walsh and W. Barrie and during the afternoon the following events were run off:—

Boys' race 100 yds.—Gus McGarity.

Men's race 100 yds.—E McCann, Wm. O'Rourke.

Running long jump—Jno. Crough.

Running long jump, boys—E McCann.

Boot race—Jas. McGrath.

Running, hop, step and jump—Chas. Kelly.

High jump—J Crough.

High jump, boys—G McGarity.

High kick—Jos Towns.

Standing broad jump—W. Guerin.

The Dancing

The dancing was one of the features of the day and the platform was in use whenever available. Excellent music was provided on the violin by Messrs. M D Sullivan, Jno. Sullivan, Peter Doherty, Miss O'Connor, of Enismore, and Mr. Curtain of the same township. The accompaniments on the organ, which was raised aloft on a high platform, were capably performed by Miss Margaret Sullivan. The music as it floated through the grove was irresistable and those who could not be accommodated with space on the big platform looked on with eager enjoyment.

The step dancing which took place in the evening was the centre of attraction at that particular time and everybody was looking over somebody else's shoulder to obtain a look at the clever artists. Those who participated in this specialty were Messrs. J. McCliggott, A Quinlan and Jos. Lonergan.

A large refreshment booth was situated on the ground and was very liberally patronized. It was in charge of Messrs. Frank Leahy, Jno. Allen and Augustus Whibbs. The gate keepers were Messrs. Maurice Condon and Patrick Fitzpatrick, while Messrs. Jno. Allen and Patrick Farley attended to the doors where meals were served.

The ladies of Douro certainly deserve praise for the excellent edibles provided for dinner and supper. Hundreds passed through the big dining hall and enjoyed to the fullest extent the wholesome provisions. In a word, the Douro picnic of 1907 was one of the most successful in the history of the parish and will be remembered long by those who were in attendance.

AN OTONABEE LABOURER WAS FINED

Assaulted His Late Employer—Dispute Over Wages

Before County Magistrate Edmison yesterday, Jos. Brown, a farm labourer for Mr. Patrick Tagney, of Otonabee, was assessed two dollars and costs for assaulting Mr. Fred Sedgwick, with whom he formerly worekd.

From the evidence it was learned that Brown, who had been working a couple of months for Sedgwick, when he left him without notice, and hired with Tagney. Brown demanded the full amount of his wages, amounting to over $30, but his first employer refused on the ground that he had promised to remain with him for seven months, and had left without notice.

On the day of the argument about the wages, the testimony of the complainant showed that the had invited the defendant to his home to settle the dispute whereupon he was assaulted and thrown to the ground. He was fined two dollars and costs for his hasty action.

Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for Mr. Sedgwick, and Mr. R. F. McWilliams for the defendant. While all parties were present the dispute was settled by Sedgwick paying Brown $24.

309 GEORGE STREET : : PETERBOROUGH

REMANDED FOR THE THIRD TIME

Four Yankees, Alleged Pick-pockets, Appeared Again To-day

The four strangers who are held by the authorities charged with having relieved several men of their money on circus day, June 25th, occupied the prisoner's box at the police court this morning for the third time since their arrest. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, was absent, being at Chemong, and the case was enlarged until this afternoon at two o'clock.

Chief Rossel asked that a further enlargement be made until Mr. Wood had returned. Mr. Gordon, counsel for Bradford and Lewis, asked His Worship to proceed with the case and give his clients a hearing. He said that it was unreasonable to keep the men confined in the gaol weak after week without showing any evidence against them. Mr. Bradford's wife and mother are in the city and Mr. Gordon said he was informed that the prisoner's little child is seriously ill at their home. The ladies are waiting for the outcome of the police court case and at the same time are anxious to be home.

Mr. Kerr counsel for the remaining two men remarked that the Crown had a right to ask for a remand but they had done so on two occasions already. To-day it was not the Crown Attorney who asked for it but Detective Greer, of Toronto, and the Chief.

Mr. Dumble remarked that they had not time to wait for detectives to get ready. Chief Rossel said he would not take the responsibility in Mr. Wood's absence.

Mr. Kerr appealed to the court's sense of justice and Canadian fair play, and asked that something be done at once.

His Worship enlarged the hearing until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

GEORGE St. SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

Held at Idyl Wyld Yesterday Was a Most Enjoyable Affair

The annual excursion of the George street Methodist Sunday School was held yesterday per steamer Otonabee to Idyl Wyld and proved a most enjoyable outing, thoroughly appreciated by the 400 people who took part in the pleasures of the day. The weather with the exception of a rather strong wind, was delightful, and the sail down the river was enjoyed by everyone.

Reaching Idyl Wyld at 11.30 o'clock the first event of importance was dinner, an item on the programme that proved most satisfactory. Afterwards a programme of sports, including a baseball game was held.

At baseball the Grace Sunday School defeated the George street Sunday School by 5—4 in an exciting five innings game. Rev. E A Pearson, the new pastor, acted as umpire in a manner satisfactory to all. The teams were as follows:—

YOUNG PEOPLE HAD AN ENJOYABLE OUTING

Skipped the Light Fantastic at Chemong Park Last Night

A party of young gentlemen of the city entertained their lady friends to a delightful hop at the pavilion Chemong Park, last evening. The hosts of the pleasant affair were Messrs. Harry Hall, Harry Cressman, W. Cox, Robert Hall, Harold Hall, S. McCordich, and Gordon Miller. They left Peterborough at 8 o'clock and drove to Chemong, arriving there about an hour later. Everyone enjoyed the dancing, which lasted several hours, the time passing all too quickly.

Mr. Nicholl of the opera house orchestra, provided excellent music, and was liberal in responding to encores for every number.

Refreshments were served during the evening by the young ladies. The drive home was not the least delightful feature of the outing, as the weather was ideal and the exhilarating breezes of the midsummer night were perfect.

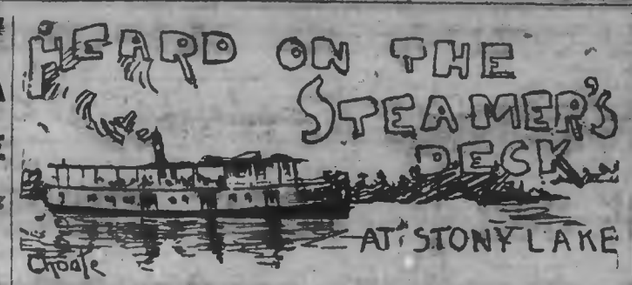
W. SHERIN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Agent for several first class Insurance Companies. Money to Loan.



Stony Lake, July 6. — "Oh, I'm so glad to be here!" This is one of the most common expressions to be heard about the wharves these days. Things are a bit quiet yet for the gay young people and there is not much of the merry laughter of august to be heard, yet these are the balmy days for the old time camper and student of nature. Everything seems so new, and fresh, and bright, as though it had been creating the previous night, and was still blinking under the brightness off the day. These nature lovers are not a little reluctant in giving away to the lovers of fashion and dress who are due to arrive shortly, yet they will be crowded out and will have to move farther back.

The up-boats to-night will doubtless be well patronized by weary, week-end visitors, all hungry for fresh air and a day of rest.

Prosperity Or Otherwise; Two Months To Decide

If Weather Conditions are Favourable, Crops in the West Will This Year be Good and Success Assured.

MR. EYRES' OPINION

The next two months will decide — the West will experience the best year in its history, or otherwise, according to the happenings of the next sixty days.

This is the opinion expressed by Mr. William Eyres, who yesterday returned from a trip of over a month in the Canadian West, taken in the interests of the Peterborough Saskatchewan Land Company. At the present time, Mr. Eyres states, the country looks promising, wheat is growing rapidly, and on land near that owned by the company, the measured on June 20th, grain fifteen inches high. If the weather continues favourable the West will be able to overcome the set-back which the late severe winter and the unfavourable spring gave the country.

The object of Mr. Eyres' visit to the West was to make an inspection of the lands of the Peterborough Saskatchewan Land Company, situated about 45 miles south of Battleford. Eight days were spent in going over the land thoroughly, and Mr. Eyres expressed himself as greatly pleased with it. The whole 19 sections are all practically fit for cultivation, and the location is excellent. Two railway lines running through the property are graded and the steel will be laid shortly. These lines are the C.P.R., and G. T. P.

A proposition has been made to the company already to sell 5,000 acres of the property for the establishment of a large farm, and it is possible that it may go through. Mr. Austin, who accompanied Mr. Eyres, is remaining behind in the West to attend to any matters which may arise in connection with the disposition of the property.

Mr. Eyres is enthusiastic over the prospects of the West, and during his trip he visited the various centres of population in the country, and was in a position to form a correct judgment. He was in Calgary, Edmonton and Regina, as well as Winnipeg, of course, and in all of these cities he saw evidences of the prosperity of the West, and is convinced that if the crops this year are satisfactory, there will be a great impetus given to trade.

Ranching last winter received a severe set-back, and it will take the ranchers some time to fully recover from the effects of the hard winter. Mr. Eyres' son has a large ranch east of Calgary, and he with about a hundred other ranchers started out on May 23rd on the annual round-up of cattle. This has not been completed yet but it is estimated when all the animals have been gathered in; it will be found that not more than 50 per cent of those which commenced the winter will be located.

They are, however, not discouraged, and the ranch industry will recover itself rapidly from this temporary disaster.

In Calgary Mr. Eures visited his grandchildren and found them all well, and prospering in proportion to the universal prosperity being experienced in that city.

An interesting feature of Mr. Eyres' visit, to him, was his attendance at a service held in a Roman Catholic church, near the location of the lands of his company. This was the only church in the vicinity, and the people were principally Germans, but they have adopted the Canadian custom of the observation of the Day of Rest, for although the church had seating capacity for only 240 persons there were on this day fully 300 people crowded into it. Mr. Eyres could not understand a word the officiating priest uttered, because he spoke in German, but he was impressed with the reverent attitude of the parishioners, young and old alike paying close attention to the service, which was of an hour and three quarters' duration.

Euthiastic belief in the future of the West, seems to be characteristic of the people, and those who are in a position to judge are convinced that the prosperity of the country will continue for years to come.

Editor Post Card column,—

Sir, — The trams are carrying a great many passengers, and I think more might be done for the workmen who earns all the money. In other towns there are workmen's low fares, and the streets are properly mended.

A WORKINGMAN.

Editor Post Card Column, —

Sir, — I submit it is "up to" you, as the voice of the people to institute a crusade against the continuing neglect of our city council to repair the city streets, and to compel those companies to repair and to keep in good condition the road bed of such streets they tear up for purposes of their business, such as the street railway, the water works company, the gas works, etc.. Those companies tear up good road bed, and simply have no regard for anything, other than their interests, and a smile for the aldermen; and will for months leave in a shameful condition the streets they have torn up. Near Auburn on Water street, the street railway has left their tracks worse than a railroad would leave them—no earth at all over the ties between the rails, and very poor light around. Last night an auto going north ran on to the track, to give a horse the right of way. It was stopped on its "bumping the bumps" course in about twenty feet. To have gone on farther would certainly have broken an axle, and then a spill, and some one hurt. The horse and rig struck some old ties at the side of the road, and almost upset. A board had to be borrowed from a neighbour's fence to get the auto on to the road bed again. While is city engineer?

Yours, etc.,

DUTY.

DEFENCE NEAR CLOSE.

Two Witnesses Give Evidence Contradicting Orchard's Statements.

Boise, July 10.—There were few spectators in the courtroom when the trial was resumed yesterday. The day began with the testimony of J. W. O'Reilly, who lived near the Bradley apartments. O'Reilly declared he had passed the apartment-house but a few minutes before the explosion, and saw a Japanese servant cleaning the stoop and vestibule. He did not believe it was within the range of possibility for anyone to have placed a bomb there in the manner indicated by Orchard in the time which elapsed between his passing and the report of the explosion.

The next deposition taken up was that of Mrs. Charles Pickard, who, as Mrs. Crow, had been employed by the Bradley's as cook. She told of having smelled gas in the house for several days prior to the explosion and had called up the Gas Company to complain of it.

Mrs. Crow denied absolutely that she had gone to the theatre with Orchard, as he had testified.

Haywood is expected to be called on Thursday.

The defence in the Steunenberg murder case yesterday charged that Detective James McPartland has been guilty of an attempt to manufacture testimony against Wm. D. Haywood, but was unsuccessful in getting the basis and details of the charge before the court and jury.

Alva A. Swain, a newspaper correspondent, who represents The Pueblo Chieftain at Denver, was called to the stand and questioned as to a conversation he had with Detective McPartland in Denver last fall.

It is claimed by the defence that McPartland told Swain that he had a letter from Harry Orchard saying that when Haywood paid him for the Vindicator job he took him to one of the Denver banks to draw the money and that when they came out of the bank Swain was standing at the door and saw them. It is said that Swain told McPartland that he could not remember the incident, whereupon McPartland impressed him with the importance of it as evidence and significantly urged him to recall it and become a witness in the case.

Detective McPartland denies that he ever suggested anything improper to Swain.

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC AT RICE LAKE

A DELIGHTFUL TRIP

Yesterday the annual excursion of the Mark Street Methodist Sunday School was held at Gore's Landing, and in every respect it was the most successful in the history of the school. The steamer Monarch carried about 150 young people and their parents down the river and across the lake to the objective point of the party, arriving at the landing about noon. Dinner was soon under way, and during the afternoon games were played, for which appropriate prizes were given. The following is a list of the winners in the different events:

Boys' Race, 5 and under — Harry Wright, Roger Matchett.

Girls, 5 and under—Elva McIntyre, Roberta Rightmeyner.

Boys, 8 and under—Everett Castle, James Dickson.

Girls, 8 and under—Iola Matchett, Edna Prentice.

Boys, 12 and under—Lorne McIntyre, Chas. Telford.

Girls, 12 and under—Roxie Castle, Pearl Brisbin.

Boys, 16 and under—Alfred Crowe, Horace Coon.

Girls, 16 and under—Myrtle Coon, Maud Stevens.

Young Ladies' Race—Miss Lillie Crowe, Miss Bessie Crowe.

Young Misses' Race—Kent Throop, Ward Gamble.

Teachers' Race—Miss Bessie Crowe, Mrs. M. W. Matchett.

Largest Family on Hand — Rev. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coon.

After a delightful afternoon spent in various pursuits of pleasure, the steamer, carrying a tired but happy crowd, left for home about five o'clock, which was reached in good time. A pleasant feature of the outing was the fact that the new pastor was present, and an opportunity was afforded him of meeting a large number of the young people connected with the congregation.

11 CTS. WAS HIGHEST PRICE PAID

The salesmen at Monday morning's meeting of the Victoria County Cheese Board were disappointed at the prices offered by the buyers, Messrs. Brown, Flavelle and Gillespie, the latter of Peterborough. Eleven cents was the highest price paid and Mr. Flavelle got the first call, taking 6 factories at that figure. Mr. Gillespie called a number of factories at the same price but all refused with the exception of North Ops. Some of the salesmen were indignant because deductions had been made in some cases because the cheese had deteriorated on account of the hot weather.

Mr. Gillespie was finally able to secure six more factories.

Among other things the management of St. Paul's church, Peterborough, was given permission to mortgage the church property to the extent of $5,000, for the purpose of renovating and repairing the church.

Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville was elected moderator pro tem., and the following ministers were present:—Rev. Mr. Abraham, Port Hope; Rev. Wm. Johnston, Millbrook; Rev. H. J. Keith, Peterborough; Rev. E. A. Thompson, Hastings; and Rev. Mr. Skene, of Baltimore. Elders present were Messrs. J. U. Shook, and Robert Harrison, Peterborough; and Rev. J. McNaughton, Port Hope.

Rev. Mr. Abraham will visit Centreville and Rev. Dr. Marsh, St. Paul's church, until September.

With regard to the Mill street church, Port Hope, which is now without a pastor, a motion was passed to the effect that the moderator of the church, Rev. Mr. Skene, of Baltimore, with the elders and managers, should ascertain the numerical and financial standing of the congregation, and endeavour to arrive at a plan for definite services for the future, and to report at the next meeting of the Presbytery.

The following were appointed to visit the mission field:

Rev. S. S. Burns of Lakefield, to visit Lakefield.

Rev. Mr. Keith of Peterborough, to visit Chandos.

Rev. Mr. Keith asked permission for St. Paul's church, Peterborough, to transfer the property of Knox church to the Knox church congregation, which was also granted.

A report was received from the Marmora Mission field asking that an ordained missionary be put in charge there.

The Presbytery then adjourned to meet on the last Tuesday of September, in Knox church, Peterborough.

St. Luke's Congregational and Sunday School excursion takes place Thursday, July 11th to Idyl Wyld per steamer Otonabee. Boat leaves Wolfe Street wharf at 8:15, Ashburnham at 8:30. Return fare Adults 50c, Children 25c.

Father Kelly Pleased

Rev. Father Kelly, parish priest of Douro, to the Examiner to-day, expressed himself as better pleased with the success of the picnic held on Tuesday at King Edward Grove, than with any picnic ever held previously by him in the county of Peterborough.

WEDDING BELLS.

DELANEY-CONDON

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at St. Joseph's church, Douro, on June 25th, when Miss Norah Condon, daughter of Mr. Jas. Condon, Douro, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Miss Emma Condon, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by Mr. T. Kennedy.

The groom's present to the bride was a gold bracelet; to the bridesmaid a gold chain and locket; to the groomsman a pair of gold cufflinks. The ceremony was performed before a large number of invited guests.

After the ceremony there was a wedding dinner served at the home of the bride's parents. A large number of presents were received.

The bride was dressed in cream silk with pearls and over lace trimmings, and wore a hat to match; while the bridesmaid was dressed in white dotted muslin with hat to match.

The happy couple will make their home in Douro.

THOMPSON-SEARIGHT

Examiner Special.

Norwood, July 10.—This afternoon a pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. C. J. Searight of this place, when his daughter, Bertha, was married to Mr. Jettie Thompson. At 1 o'clock, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Vida Wilkins, the bride, leaning on her father's arm, entered the room, where, under an evergreen arch, beautifully decorated with wedding bells, the ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Adams.

The bride's dress was a dainty white organdie, trimmed with Maltese lace insertion and silk, and she also wore a veil and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by the groom's sister, Miss S. Thompson of Springbrook, who was gowned in white organdie and carried pink roses, while Mr. John Marks of town, acted as best man.

Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold watch and chain; to the bridesmaid, a gold chain and locket; to the best man, a gold scarf pin. The happy couple left on the 2.10 train for Toronto and other points, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit with hat to match. On their return they will reside in Norwood, where the groom is engaged in business. The bride received many handsome presents, which testified to the high esteem in which she is held by her friends. The bride was the recipient of many congratulations and good wishes on the part of her friends, and the happy couple have the best wishes of the Examiner for a long and happy married life.

JOHN WESLEY WAS THE AUTHOR

Famous Methodist Preacher Remarked That "Cleanliness is Next to Godliness"

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I notice a discussion in your columns in reference to the authorship of the expression, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." Mr. R. J. Todd at first credited it to the Bible, then changed his mind and decided that Shakespere was the one to whom credit should be given. For my own satisfaction, I have looked the matter up, and find that a Methodist preacher of some little notoriety, John Wesley, was the man who originated a phrase which is quoted frequently. It was in delivering his sermon, No. 92, on "Dress," and these are his words: "Certainly this is a duty, not a sin; cleanliness is, indeed, next to Godliness."

This should satisfy those who are in doubt as to whom to give credit for this wise remark.

When Your Health Fails, What Then

Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle. Success is for the strong and alert — for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy. It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion and to keep health at high water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The Counterfeiters' Arrest Created Big Sensation

Lindsay People Greatly Aroused Over the Apprehension of Burke, Charged With Making Bad Money.

WAS WELL KNOWN THERE

Lindsay, July 9.—The sudden and unexpected arrest of Charles Burke of this town, charged with counterfeiting $5 Traders Bank bills, caused great excitement in Lindsay last evening. The finding of a photographic outfit, and of tools, dies, etc., said to be used for counterfeiting, was the result of a search of the house in which the prisoner lived.

Suspicion has been directed towards Lindsay for some time as a probable place from whence counterfeit $5 bills came. Dominion Detectives Parkinson and Cowan have been here for some time on the case. Their investigations, combined with those of Chief Ralph Vincent of Lindsay, culminated in the arrest of Burke last evening about 5 o'clock.

A Retired Bachelor

Burke is a well-known citizen of town, middle-aged, and reported well-to-do. He has lived a retired life for years, and is a bachelor. He lives with his brother in Pumpkin Hollow.

Wynne Was a Farmer

Accomplices were suspected, and Archie Bowyer, a youth of town, and R. Wynne, a farmer near Downeyville, were arrested at Sault Ste Marie.

Burke was lodged in jail, and appeared before Police Magistrate Jackson this morning, to be remanded for eight days pending developments.

The counterfeits were exceedingly poor ones, and the difference between them and the genuine is easily distinguishable.

An inkling of the local counterfeiting was had from the statement of a young Englishman at Montreal, who is said to have been circulating the bogus money. Rumours say the counterfeiting has been going on for some years.

The presence of Col. Sherwood, Commissioner of Police, in town last week is accounted for. He stopped at a local hotel with the two detectives, Parkinson and Cowan, incognito.

One Man Escaped

The Englishman at Montreal, who was captured with the counterfeit money on him and who confessed the whole affair, was in company with another man, who escaped.

The town is greatly stirred over the affair, Burke being universally known. He is reported to be worth thousands. Bowyer and Wynne had always plenty of money when in town.

Burke owned a sawmill some years ago. The police are still working on the case, and other arrests may follow.

Many Relatives There

Chas Burke has lived in Lindsay for the best part of his life. With narrow forehead, clever if crafty-looking face, with a black moustache, and eyes that blink nervously, he is of a characteristic type. He is over 45 years of age, and of tall build. He has never been married. He formerly was proprietor of a sawmill, but it was burned down some years ago. He has numerous relatives in town.

Much Secrecy Shown

The utmost secrecy is kept on the affair as yet, as other arrests are likely to follow.

APPRECIATION OF THE GIFT

President of Children's Aid Society Acknowledges $1,000 From the Nicholls' Estate Trustees

WILL BENEFIT THE WORK

In acknowledging the receipt of the donation of $1,000 from the trustees of the Nicholls Estate, Mr. J. H. Burnham, the President of the Children's Aid Society, has forwarded the following letter to Mr. Rich. Hall, the resident trustee:

Richard Hall, Esq., Trustee of the Mrs. Nicholls Estate:

Dear Mr. Hall,

In behalf of the Children's Aid Society I wish to express to you our profound gratitude for the gift of $1,000 from the Mrs. Nicholls fund. We may lose our Shelter at any time and this sum will be of great help to us, enabling us to provide for the future in that respect. In the past 15 years we have taken over and put in homes fully 300 dependent children, not counting of course the much larger number protected and assisted. Although still very much in need of capital for Shelter purposes we welcome your kind donation as a good solid beginning.

Again thanking you on behalf of the Society,

I remain,

Yours faithfully,

J. H. BURNHAM,

President C. A. S.

COURT CHEMONG FORGING AHEAD

Two Meetings a Month Will be Held—Delegates to High Court

The membership and business of Court Chemong, 530, I. O. F., has evidently grown to such large proportions that two meetings each month are deemed necessary. The Court has now finally decided to adopt this course, and has been fortunate enough to secure a lease of the S. O. E. Hall for the second and last Thursday evenings of each month. The first of these semi-monthly meetings will therefore be held on Thursday evening, July 11, and promises to be of more than usual interest to the members. Bro. A. Bradshaw, D.S.C.R., the resident organizer of the Order, has proved himself a hustler, and will again be to the front with quite a number of candidates for initiation into the mysteries of the Forest regions and camp. The names of those who are fortunate enough to be chosen as delegates to the High Court of Eastern Ontario will also be decided on so that their credentials can be forwarded to the High Secretary forthwith.

The Order has quite a number of large Courts in Ottawa, comprising a very large membership, and the High Court of Eastern Ontario, which meets in that city on August 21 and 22, promises to be one of the most interesting and important ever held in this division of the Order's domains.

RICHARDS AND HIS WIFE ARE UNITED IN GAOL

Was Found Drunk on Hunter Street Last Night and Remanded for a Week

Separated from his better half by a judgment of Police Magistrate Dumble, who sentenced her to one month in jail for disorderly conduct, William Richards apparently cannot live without her and successfully managed to be sent to gaol by being drunk and disorderly last night. It is true that he pleaded not guilty, but it is probable that he did not know what he was doing. Police Officer Newhall who arrested him, testified that he was kicking at a door on Hunter street at 9.30 and would not desist. He was in a drunken state and was placed under arrest.

Chief Rossel asked that he be remanded for one week as he may be implicated in another affair. Richards will, therefore, spend a week near his spouse in Castle Nesbitt.

HOLD A DAIRY SHOW ON BROAD LINES IN TORONTO

Toronto, July 10. — A National Dairy Show, for Toronto is an assured event, if not for next January, then during the winter of 1907-8. The local committee in charge of the arrangements met yesterday at the City Hall, and it is probable that during the Exhibition in September a mass meeting will be held by exhibitors there, breeders of dairy cattle and members of the local committee. It is proposed to invite the Dominion Department of Agriculture to take an active interest in the show and arrange for exhibits from the other leading dairy countries of the world, as well as from the other provinces of Canada. The intention is to hold the show on much broader lines than was at first proposed.

Charged With Retaining Insurance Co's Funds

Charge Laid Against John E. Code, Heard at Special Police Court Session This Afternoon.

THE EVIDENCE HEARD

At a special session of the police court this afternoon John E. Code was charged with having taken, carried away, etc., the sum of $92.92, the property of the London Life Insurance Company, during the month of April. Mr. Gordon who appeared for the accused did not elect or plead, but was willing that the preliminary hearing be proceeded with. Mr. Code was at one time the local agent for the Company.

Edward E. Reid was sworn and stated that he was assistant manager of the London Life Insurance Company, with headquarters in London, Ont. His particular duties were in connection with the agents in the different offices. He recognized an agent's agreement which was produced in court and which was signed by John E. Code and approved of by the company. He commenced duties about Sept. 10th, 1906. Mr. Code's monthly returns were all right until the months of February and March, 1907.

Witness read a letter which Mr. Code wrote him in April explaining how he had fallen in debt about $120.00, and saying that he had ruined himself by appropriating the company's funds for his own needs.

The writer said that it would have been better for him had he not been given such a large territory in which to work.

Witness explained to Mr. R. E. Wood, Crown Attorney, how the company's loss was made out at $92.92. The total deficit was $147.92 but Mr. Code's salary and commission amounted to $55.00, leaving a balance of $92.92. The statement was made out by the accountant in the head office.

To Mr. Gordon witness said that at the end of April Mr. Code's agreement would be cancelled if the deficiency were not made good.

A settlement was finally effected on the basis of Mr. Gordon paying on behalf of his client $101.92 into the court and with the provision that his client is to be given access to the books of the company with a view to carrying the case to the Division Court.

Writ Issued

A writ is being issued on behalf of Mr. John E. Code, of this city, against the London Life for $125, the amount which Mr. Code claims the Company is owing him, and this suit will be heard at the next sitting of the Division Court.

Quaker Football Team A Credit To Peterborough

Colbourne Man Writes to Editor of Examiner—Quakers Play a Good, Swift, Clean Game, He Says.

CALLS DOWN WARKWORTH

A Colborne football player who witnessed the championship game at Warkworth on Saturday had the following complimentary remarks to say of the Peterborough Quakers:—Editor Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—It was my good fortune to be present at the championship football game played at Warkworth on Saturday evening, the 6th inst., between the Warkworth team and the Peterborough Quakers. Before I went on the grounds my sympathies were somewhat with Warkworth, as the village is situated in my home county, Northumberland. However, soon after the game started I was very anxious to see the Quakers win. I have no doubt in that but the way the members of the Warkworth team conducted themselves. They played a good game, but I would like to say a few words regarding the manner in which some of Warkworth's citizens acted. Soon after the game commenced there were frequent cries from the crowd, such as "jump on him," "jump on the man," "play the man," "cut chop," "they can cut out clog, but they can't play football." A number of the smart Alecks of the ugly kamlet were provided with tin horns, through which they bellowed abusive and senseless remarks. Their efforts did not appear to materially assist their team in winning the game, and it is to the credit of the Peterborough team that they paid no attention to the insulting remarks or the tin-horn music of the Warkworth kunsh, but attended strictly to business. It was evident that the Quakers were present to win the championship, and I was delighted when, during the last two or three minutes of the game they shot the ball through the Warkworth goal. As a football player, I have this to say of the Quakers—they play a good, swift, clean game, and their conduct at Warkworth was a credit to good, clean sport, and to the city of Peterborough. I might say (that the Quakers' exhibition of "head-ball" seemed to be quite a puzzle to the Warkworth team.

Then here's to the Quakers
And the game that they play;
Big talk and tin horns
Never spare them away.

One of the Best Lacrosse Games of the Season is Expected on That Date

The Peterborough lacrosse club went to Beaverton this morning, and are playing a C.L.A. game with the Checkers this afternoon. A strong team will represent Peterborough, and they were hopeful of defeating Beaverton, although defeated in the game here.

Newmarket will be here Saturday and will be accompanied by a big crowd as there will be an excursion from Doyletown for the occasion. One of the best games of the season should be seen at the Riverside Park on Saturday.

LOCAL JUNIORS WON IN LINDSAY

Defeated the Leaders of the Junior League in a Ten Innings Game by 6-3

A team representing the Lillies of the Intermediate City League, journeyed to Lindsay on Monday and defeated the Maybes, leaders of the junior league by 6—3. The Post says:

The local juniors had the game in their mit in the ninth, when an overthrow brought two runs in, but the last man out third, and the ball was returned to the bag, and the runner put out, thus leaving the scores a tie, 3 all. In the last innings the Lillies made a garrison finish, much to the sorrow of the rooters, and scored three runs, the locals being unable to even up.

Ferguson, the Peterborough kid, was a southpaw and a sidewheeler. He pitched a good game. In the last he was replaced by Belleghem—a baseball name in Peterborough, by the way. Starr, for Lindsay, was invulnerable in the first six innings, but let up towards the last. The teams gave fair support, but were considerably hampered by a high wind. The line-up:—

BALL CLUB MAY PLAY IN OTTAWA

Have Received an Invitation to Visit the Capital and May Accept

The Peterborough Baseball Club has received an invitation to take part in the baseball tournament which will be one of the features in connection with the Ottawa Old Boys' Reunion at the end of the month. The boys are considering the invitation, and it is likely that it will be accepted if it does not interfere with the league fixtures. At least four games will be played on the trip, the locals leaving Peterborough on the midnight train on Friday, July 26, and returning on the following Wednesday. The trip would be an enjoyable outing for the men and they would have a good chance of carrying off the honours. Among the teams entered are some from Montreal and New York.

Bridgenorth, contrary to rumours, has not given up football. The boys have purchased a new wind bag, and are at practice once again. The Quakers may expect a challenge from these famous sports.

THREE POUNDS OF BUTTER

This Was Record of One Cow Whose Milk Was Tested in This District

Mr. T. H. Binnie, who is making the tests in connection with the milk-testing operations for the associations in this district has furnished the Examiner with the following facts concerning the results of the tests he has made:—

At Keene the cow giving the highest milk yield, gave the lowest test and has a record of 1,540 lbs. of milk testing 2.4 per cent. Here we also see the lowest milk yield and the lowest fat yield going together in a record of 36.3 lbs. milk and 10.95 lbs. butter fat. The highest fat yield was 51.80 lbs. from 1,460 lbs milk and the highest test was 4.2 per cent. from 650 lbs. milk.

At Central Smith one cow is credited with the phenomenal yield of 1,930 lbs. of milk, testing 2.9 per cent. This calculated as butter is practically 2 lbs. per day. Another cow giving only 1,500 lbs. per day has a butter fat yield of 78.32 lbs. This is a trifle better than 3 lbs. of butter per day. The highest test was 4.9 per cent. from 900 lbs. milk while the lowest was 2 per cent. from 1,080 lbs. The lowest milk yield was 345 lbs. testing 3.6 per cent, while the lowest fat yield was 12.42 lbs. from the lowest milk yield, 345 lbs.

SHOULD TAKE ACTION AT ONCE

Some Advice From Mt. Pleasant Correspondent in Regard to Street Railway Extension

Examiner Special.

Mount Pleasant, July 9. — The Metropolitan Railway Company, which runs from North Toronto through a good farming country, is a profitable investment, why should the Peterborough Radial Railway Company hesitate for one moment in extending their now short line through a splendid farming country via Scott's Corners, through Mount Pleasant to Omemee and Lindsay? Especially to Omemee, as it might result in saving the expense of opening up another locks to the Trent Valley Canal.

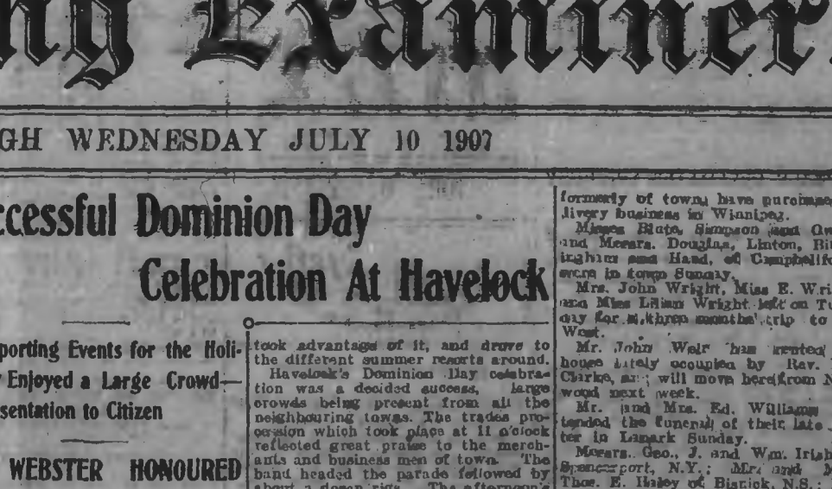
The city of Peterborough should move in these matters, along with our American cousins, who are ready to spend their last dollar to make the monetary move. Canadians prefer taking a mortgage or placing their gold in the banks at three per cent., rather than helping the labouring man or mechanic. Think of that mighty power on the Otonabee River at Peterborough lying almost idle until our United States citizens got possession of it. Their enterprise may send in the capture of this great Dominion without the firing of one shot.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McLean were at Richmond Hill attending the wedding of their grand-daughter, Miss Ella Marsh. Their daughter, Mrs. Wm. Greig, and her daughter, Katherine Jean Greig, accompanied them. They remained visiting in Toronto for several days with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McLean, the former the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McLean.

A Tonic From a Cod Liver

Calvin justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster to the ages of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more miserable or gloomy and disencouraged than liver complaint, and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia, and nothing so thoroughly and promptly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

A BUNGALOW COSTING $2,315



This one storey bungalow laid out on square lines has a very desirable arrangement of rooms. The library or lounging room is entered from the porch and is given the location with the most attractive outlook. Adjoining the living room is the dining room and with its kitchen and pantry service makes a most convenient group. The kitchen has a rear stairs to cellar. The bedrooms contain large closets. The bath is conveniently reached from all rooms.

Examiner Special.

Omemee, July 8.—The 1ift lock excursion to Kirkfield was attended by a number of citizens, and thoroughly enjoyed.

Has Taken a Thousand Zutoo

Always Cured Headache. Never Affected her Heart.

Here is a testimonial from the wife of Doctor W. L. Shurtleff, K.C., of Coaticook, Que., who has taken a thousand Zutoo Tablets (the Japanese Vegetable Headache remedy.)

It should convince any doubting one, that while the tablets cure headache, they do not, like the drug cures, affect the heart, nerves or stomach. No one would or could take such a number if they were not perfectly harmless. Mrs. Shurtleff herself had to discard the drug cures.

Here is what she says:

I have always been a great sufferer from headache, and have taken a great many headache cures. I found that after taking them for a time they caused palpitation of the heart. Three years ago I began using Zutoo. I have likely taken over a thousand tablets. I have never yet felt the least ill-effect from using them and they cure my headaches as quickly as any remedy I ever took.

must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

"A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for. A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

PEACE DELEGATES ARE BUSY

Conference at Hague May Suspend Sittings for Short Vacation—Definition of Blockade Judicially Laid Down—Neutral Powers to Be Notified—Confiscation Justifiable If They Try to Escape.

The Hague, July 9.—It was reported yesterday that M. Nelidoff, president of the peace conference, is desirous of leaving The Hague July 20 to take a fortnight's cure at some Spa, and it is considered possible that the conference, like that of 1899, will then suspend its sittings, enabling the delegates to take a vacation.

The Italian proposition regarding blockades, submitted yesterday to the sub-committee dealing with the question, comprises seven articles. It gives the judicial definition of a blockade and establishes that to make it effective, a blockade must be officially declared and the neutral powers must be notified. Vessels attempting to run a blockade can be seized and the vessels and cargoes confiscated.

Dr. Ruy Barbasoa (Brazil) presented a proposition modifying the American proposition on the subject of the immunity of private property at sea, suggesting that the rules regulating private property on land be extended to naval warfare, with the addition that when the commander of a belligerent fleet, by the necessities of war, is obliged to seize and destroy a merchantman belonging to the enemy he must deliver to her captain a written statement enabling him to put in a claim for indemnity.

GAVE KNOCK-OUT BLOW.

Prize-Fighter Saves Woman From Would-Be Murderer.

St. John, N. B., July 9.—Tom David, a Syrian, shot his wife twice in the abdomen while waiting at a crowded station of McAdam, on the C.P.R. yesterday morning.

Mrs. David, who until recently lived with her husband in Lowell, Mass., ran away and joined a Syrian colony at Woodstock, N. B. She is very beautiful and has two children.

David came here to get her to return, but the couple quarreled on their way back and when at McAdam he pulled a revolver and shot her. He was preparing to shoot a third time, when Jack Powers of St. John, once the heavyweight champion of America, sprang forward and struck David on the jaw, knocking him out.

David was arrested, and is now in jail.

Student Shot Governor.

Hankow, China, July 9.—The Governor of the Province of Nganghwei was murdered Sunday by a student. Accompanied by the director of police, the governor was about to enter a school at Ngankin, capital of the Province of Nganghwei, when the fatal shot was fired.

The director of police seized the assassin and decapitated him on the spot.

Bowmanville In Darkness.

Bowmanville, July 9.—At 9 o'clock yesterday morning a thunderstorm with a heavy downpour of rain, passed over this district. Citizens do not remember when it was so dark in the daytime before. It was impossible to discern persons across a room. The storm was of short duration.

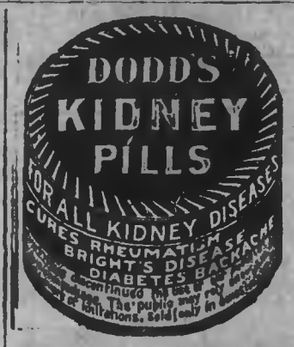
Babe Drowns In Pail.

Parry Sound, July 9.—An 18-months-old son of Moses Schmidt of Conger Township, a short distance from this place, was drowned by falling head first into a pail of water.



BIG BLAZE AT TORONTO.

Paint Factory Entirely Gutted—Firemen Had Narrow Escapes.

Toronto, July 9.—Fire this morning caused considerable damage in the three-storey premises at 145 Church street, occupied by P. D. Dods & Co., color manufacturers.

Flames were in full possession of the building when the firemen arrived, and were threatening other premises.

In Dalhousie street, to the rear, a family by the name of Payne had to be removed from their home.

It was necessary for the firemen to break into the house to arouse the inmates and get them out.

In effecting an entrance to the Dods warehouse, the "back draft" suddenly shot a wave of flame into the firemen, some of whom were severely scorched.

At 2.30 the fire was in full possession from top to bottom of the Dods building, and the Lyons Stained Glass Works, who occupy a portion of the same building, though with a thick dividing wall, were being threatened.

The oils and paints provided great fuel, and numerous explosions helped to spread the flames and make the work of the firemen dangerous.

No estimate of the loss has yet been made.

WINE RIOTS AGAIN.

Situation In Southern France Becoming Serious.

Paris, July 9.—Despatches from the south of France yesterday report that the situation is again growing serious. The dissatisfaction with the new wine law, and the supplementary measure now under consideration by Parliament, together with the arrest of thirty persons suspected of complicity in the burning of the prefecture at Narbonne, have reinflamed the people.

The mayors and other municipal officers are holding meetings and have decided to again resign their offices unless the arrested persons are released, the troops are withdrawn and the Wine Fraud Bill is modified.

Gen. Bailloud, commander of the Sixteenth Army Corps, has issued instructions to preserve order, and all the troops in the disturbed region have been confined to barracks.

CHILD'S TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

A Little Winnipeg Boy Victim of Mosquitoes.

Winnipeg, July 9.—Yesterday morning word was received that the body of nine-year-old Arthur Tudge was found in the woods three miles from Winnipeg Beach. He only had on his bathing suit and he went out Saturday to Winnipeg with St. George's Sunday school excursion. When the train returned it was found he was missing.

The boy's clothing was discovered in the bathhouse and it was thought he was drowned. The lake was dragged, but without success.

Searching parties were instituted and yesterday the boy was found, clad only in his bathing suit. His sufferings from exposure and mosquito bites must have been terrible.

Moncton, N. B., July 9.—Etta Ramsay, 14, run away from her home Friday with John McLeod, a painter, aged 50, and has not been located. The Ramseys are a prominent family and the girl is good-looking.

She told her mother she wanted to visit a friend at the seashore some miles away, but the parents objected, and they supposed the girl went down town only.

She left, however, on the next train with McLeod. The police looked for them all over the province, but no trace has been found.

MAN TAKES AWFUL LEAP.

Edward Lewis on Way From Hospital Ends His Life.

Toronto, July 9.—Leaving the General Hospital to go to the Weston Sanitarium as a consumptive patient, Edward Lewis hurled himself over the Sherbourne street bridge at one o'clock yesterday afternoon to find instant death in the ravine 150 feet below. Both legs and arms, the back and neck were crushed.

Lewis, who had been a porter at the Elliott House since October last, had been failing in health. On June 25 he went to the General Hospital, where he remained until yesterday morning when it was thought that he would be better at the Weston institution.

Accordingly he was allowed to depart, saying he would just call in at the Elliott House on his way. He did this and talked with employes there, saying he wanted a little fruit to take back with him. He sat in the bar for a while, leaving at 11.30, saying he was glad that he was feeling better.

As far as can be learned he was next seen at the bridge, where he made the fatal leap.

BANK PRESIDENT CHARGED.

Seven Indictments for Fraud Against Head of People's Bank.

St. Louis, July 9.—Seven indictments have been returned by the Federal grand jury against Edward G. Lewis, president of the People's United States Bank, charging fraud.

In one indictment Lewis and Francis V. Putnam, cashier of the bank, are charged with using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud the bank's stockholders. Another indictment is against Lewis, Frank J. Gabot and William M. Miller, charging conspiracy to defraud the Government on postage rates on the mailing of publications issued by Lewis.

The other indictments stand against Lewis alone, charging him with a scheme to defraud through the People's United States Bank. All the defendants gave bonds.

STRIKERS USE FORCE.

Men Who Refused to Join Movement Are Attacked.

Rotterdam, Holland, July 9.—The attitude of the dock laborers who struck against the use of elevators in unloading grain ships is increasingly militant.

Attacks on the men who refused to join the movement are so frequent and threats to damage shipping and other property are so persistent that a large force of cavalry has been posted on the quays and police patrols have been detailed for the protection of steamers while loading and unloading.

A committee was appointed to superintend the imperial outlay and prevent any further alleged illegal disbursements, which have frequently occurred.

Tokio, July 9.—Admiral Sakamoto declares that "It is too much to expect a burning patriotism in the American naval service in case of war with Japan. It is likely that most of the crews would desert and leave the ships."

He had apparently met with instantaneous death.

He attacked three of them, two of whom were probably fatally injured.

A Mysterious Booming.

A strange phenomenon is that of the so called "guns of Burrisaul," in India. Burrisaul is a station in the Sunderbunds, the marshy delta of the Ganges, a region covered with a vast and luxuriant jungle of tropic vegetation. Here in the rainy season there is occasionally heard a loud, booming noise like the discharge of distant artillery. It seems to come from the south, but if one follows the sound in that direction its apparent distance does not diminish. Travelers have suggested that it may be produced by the heavy surf of the monsoon season thundering on the shores of the bay of Bengal or on an island, but the place of its origin has never been identified, nor has it been explained why the roar of the waves should be heard so much farther inland here than on other coasts.

When "Girl" was "Gell."

Concerning the pronunciation of "girl," it is to be feared that only very careful English people fail to rhyme it with "pearl" nowadays. The song of some years back—"My dear little girlie girlie, with hair so nice and curly, and every morning early"—shows the custom of the great public in our time, though in the "Villkins and his Dinah" period "girl" was rhymed with "dwell." "Gell" was no doubt the nearest the average man could get to the sound imperfectly represented by "gairl" and at any rate was better than the vulgar "gal." But in these days few authors would go to the trouble of writing "gurl" to show that a character was peculiar in thus pronouncing the word as Thackeray did in the case of Mrs. Bungay. So says a London correspondent.

Moran of the Lady Letty

By FRANK NORRIS,

Author of "The Octopus," "The Pit," Etc.

now he would probably never know the explanation of that mystery.

The day passed in preparations to put to sea again. The deck tubs and hogsheads were stowed below and the tackle cleared away. By evening all was ready; they would be under way by daybreak the next morning. There was a possibility of their being forced to tow the schooner out by means of the dory, so light were the airs inside. Once beyond the heads, however, they were sure of a breeze.

About 10 o'clock that night the same uncanny trembling ran through the schooner again, and about half an hour later she lifted gently once or twice. But after that she was undisturbed.

Later on in the night, or, rather, early in the morning, Wilbur woke suddenly in his hammock without knowing why and got up and stood listening. The Bertha Millner was absolutely quiet. The night was hot and still. The new moon, canted over like a sinking galleon, was low over the horizon. Wilbur listened intently, for now at last he heard something.

Between the schooner and the shore a gentle sound of splashing came to his ears and an occasional crack as of oars in their locks. Was it possible that a boat was there between the schooner and the land? What boat, and manned by whom?

"Put your ear to the water."

The creaking of oarlocks and the dip of paddles were unmistakable.

Suddenly Wilbur raised his voice in a great shout:

"Boat ahoy!"

There was no answer. The noise of oars grew fainter. Moran came running out of her cabin, swinging into her coat as she ran.

"What is it? What is it?"

"A boat, I think, right off the schooner here. Hark—there—did you hear the oars?"

"You're right. Call the hands. Get the dory over. We'll follow that boat right up. Hello, forward there! Charlie, all hands, tumble out!"

Then Wilbur and Moran caught themselves looking into each other's eyes. At once something—perhaps the latent silence of the schooner—told them there was to be no answer. The two ran forward. Moran swung herself into the fo'c'stle hatch and without using the ladder dropped to the deck below. In an instant her voice came up to the hatch:

"The bunks are empty—they're gone—abandoned us!" She came up the ladder again.

"Look," said Wilbur as she regained the deck. "The dory's gone. They've taken it. It was our only boat. We can't get ashore."

"Cowardly, superstitious rats, I should have expected this. They would be chopped in bits before they would stay longer on board this boat—they and their Feng shui."

When morning came the deserters could be made out camped on the shore, near to the beached dory. What their intentions were could not be conjectured. Ridden with all manner of nameless oriental superstitions, it was evident that the Chinamen preferred any hazard of fortune to remaining longer upon the schooner.

"Well, can we get along without them?" said Wilbur. "Can we two work the schooner back to port ourselves?"

"We'll try it on anyhow, mate," said Moran. "We might get her into San Diego anyhow."

The Chinamen had left plenty of provision on board, and Moran cooked breakfast. Fortunately, by 8 o'clock a very light westerly breeze came up. Moran and Wilbur cast off the gaskets and set the fore and main sails.

Wilbur was busy at the forward bitts preparing to cast loose from the kelp, and Moran had taken up her position at the wheel when suddenly she exclaimed:

"Sail ho! And in God's name what kind of a sail do you call it?"

In fact, a strange looking craft had just made her appearance at the entrance of Magdalena bay.

CHAPTER VII.

WILBUR returned aft and joined Moran on the quarter deck. She was already studying the stranger through the glass.

"That's a new build of boat to me," she muttered, giving Wilbur the glass. Wilbur looked long and carefully. The newcomer was of the size and much the same shape as a caravel of the fifteenth century—high as to bow and stern, and to all appearances as seaworthy as a soup tureen. Never but in the old prints had Wilbur seen such an extraordinary boat. She carried a single mast, which listed forward; her lugsail was stretched upon dozens of bamboo yards; she drew hardly any water. Two enormous red eyes were painted upon either side of her high, blunt bow, while just abaft the waist projected an enormous oar, or sweep, full forty feet in length—longer, in fact, than the vessel herself. It acted partly as a propeller, partly as a rudder.

"They're heading for us," commented Wilbur as Moran took the glass again.

"Right," she answered, adding upon the moment: "Hoh! More Chinamen. The thing is alive with coolies. She's a junk."

"Oh!" exclaimed Wilbur, recollecting some talk of Charlie's he had overheard. "I know."

"You know?"

"Yes. These are real beachcombers. I've heard of them along this coast—heard our Chinamen speak of them. They beach that junk every night and camp on shore. They're scavengers, as you might say—pick up what they can find or plunder along shore—abalones, shark fins, pickings of wrecks, old brass and copper, seals, perhaps; turtle and shell. Between whiles they fish for shrimp, and I've heard Kitchell tell how they make pearls by dropping bird shot into oysters. They are Kai-lingh to a man, and, according to Kitchell, the wickedest breed of cats that ever cut teeth."

The junk bore slowly down upon the schooner. In a few moments she had hove to alongside. But for the enormous red eyes upon her bow she was innocent of paint. She was grimed and shellacked with dirt and grease and smelled abominable. Her crew were Chinamen, but such Chinamen! The coolies of the Bertha Millner were pampered and effete in comparison. The beachcombers, thirteen in number, were a smaller class of men, their faces almost black with tan and dirt. Though they still wore the cue, their heads were not shaven, and mats and mops of stiff black hair fell over their eyes from under their broad, basket shaped hats.

They were barefoot. None of them wore more than two garments, the jeans and the blouse. They were the lowest type of men Wilbur had ever seen. The faces were those of a higher order of anthropoid apes; the lower portion—jaws, lips and teeth—salient; the nostrils opening at almost right angles, the eyes tiny and bright, the forehead seamed and wrinkled, unnaturally old. Their general expression was one of simian cunning and a ferocity that was utterly devoid of courage.

"Aye!" exclaimed Moran between her teeth. "If the devil were a shepherd, here are his sheep. You don't come aboard this schooner, my friends! I want to live as long as I can and die when I can't help it. Boat ahoy!" she called.

An answer in Cantonese singsong came back from the junk, and the speaker, gesturing toward the outside ocean.

Then a long parleying began. For upward of half an hour Moran and Wilbur listened to a proposition in broken pigeon English made by the beachcombers again and again and yet again and were in no way enlightened. It was impossible to understand. Then at last they made out that there was question of a whale. Next it appeared the whale was dead, and, finally, after a prolonged pantomime of gesturing and pointing, Moran guessed that the beachcombers wanted the use of the Bertha Millner to trice up the dead leviathan while the oil and whalebone were extracted.

"That must be it," she said to Wilbur. "That's what they mean by pointing to our masts and tackle. You see, they couldn't manage with that stick of theirs, and they say they'll give us a third of the loot. We'll do it, mate, and I'll tell you why. The wind has fallen, and they can tow us out. If it's a sperm whale they've found there ought to be thirty or forty barrels of oil in him, let alone the blubber and bone. Oil is at $50 now, and spermaceti will always bring $100. We'll take it on, mate, but we'll keep our eyes on the rats all the time. I don't want them aboard at all. Look at their belts. Not three out of the dozen who aren't carrying those filthy little hatchets. Faugh!" she exclaimed, with a shudder of disgust. "Such vipers!"

What followed proved that Moran had guessed correctly. A rope was passed to the Bertha Millner, the junk put out its sweep, and to a wailing, eldritch chanting the schooner was towed out of the bay.

"I wonder what Charlie and our China boys will think of this?" said Wilbur, looking shoreward, where the deserters could be seen gathered together in a silent, observing group.

"We're well shut of them," growled Moran, her thumbs in her belt. "Only now we'll never know what was the matter with the schooner these last few nights. "Hoh!" she exclaimed under her breath, her scowl thickening. "Sometimes I don't wonder the beasts cut."

The dead whale was lying four miles out of the entrance of Magdalena bay, and as the junk and the schooner drew near seemed like a huge black boat floating bottom up. Over it and upon it swarmed and clamored thousands of sea birds, while all around and below the water was thick with gorging sharks. A dreadful, strangling decay fouled all the air.

The whale was a sperm whale and fully twice the length of the Bertha Millner. The work of tricing him up occupied the beachcombers throughout the entire day. It was out of the question to keep them off the schooner, and Wilbur and Moran were too wise to try. They swarmed the forward deck and rigging like a plague of unclean monkeys, climbing with an agility and nimbleness that made Wilbur sick at his stomach. They were unlike any Chinamen he had ever seen—hideous to a degree that he had imagined impossible in a human being. On two occasions a fight developed, and in an instant the little hatchets were flashing like the flash of a snake's fangs. Toward the end of the day one of them returned to the junk screaming like a stuck pig, a bit of his chin bitten off.

Moran and Wilbur kept to the quarter deck, always within reach of the huge cutting-in spades, but the Chinese beachcombers were too elated over their prize to pay them much attention.

And indeed the dead monster proved a veritable treasure trove. By the end of the day he had been triced up to the foremast, and all hands, straining at the windlass, had raised the mighty head out of the water. The Chinamen descended upon the smooth, black body, their bare feet sliding and slipping at every step. They held on by jabbing their knives into the hide as glacier climbers do their ice picks. The head yielded barrel after barrel of oil and a fair quantity of bone. The blubber was taken aboard the junk, minced up with hatchets and run into casks.

Last of all, a Chinaman cut a hole through the "case" and, actually descending into the inside of the head, stripped away the spermaceti, clear as crystal, and packed it into buckets, which were hauled up on the junk's deck. The work occupied some two or three days. During this time the Bertha Millner was keeled over to nearly twenty degrees by the weight of the dead monster. However, neither Wilbur nor Moran made protest. The Chinamen would do as they pleased. That was said and signed. And they did not release the schooner until the whale had been emptied of oil and blubber, spermaceti and bone.

At length, on the afternoon of the third day, the captain of the junk, whose name was Hoang, presented himself upon the quarter deck. He was naked to the waist, and his bare brown torso was gleaming with oil and sweat. His cue was coiled like a snake around his neck, his hatchet thrust into his belt.

"Well?" said Moran, coming up.

Wilbur caught his breath as the two stood there facing each other, so sharp was the contrast. The man, the Mongolian, small, weazened, leather colored, secretive—a strange, complex creature, steeped in all the obscure mystery of the east, nervous, ill at ease—and the girl, the Anglo-Saxon, daughter of the northmen, huge, blonde, big boned, frank, outspoken, simple of composition, open as the day, bareheaded, her great ropes of sandy hair falling over her breast and almost to the top of her knee boots. As he looked at the two Wilbur asked himself where else but in California could such abrupt contrasts occur.

"All right," announced Hoang. "Catchum all oil, catchum all bone, catchum all same plenty many. You help catchum, now you catchum pay. Sabe?"

The three principals came to a settlement with unprecedented directness. Like all Chinamen, Hoang was true to his promises and had already set apart three and a half barrels of spermaceti, ten barrels of oil and some twenty pounds of bone as the schooner's share in the transaction. There was no discussion over the matter. He called their attention to the discharge of his obligations and hurried away to summon his men aboard and get the junk under way again.

The beachcombers returned to their junk, and Wilbur and Moran set about cutting the carcass of the whale adrift. They found it would be easier to cut away the hide from around the hooks and loops of the tackle than to unfasten the tackle itself.

"The knots are jammed hard as steel," declared Moran. "Hand up that cutting-in spade; stand by with the other and cut loose at the same time as I do, so we can ease off the strain on these lines at the same time. Ready there, cut!" Moran set free the hook in the loop of black skin in a couple of strokes, but Wilbur was more clumsy; the skin resisted. He struck at it sharply with the heavy spade. The blade hit the iron hook, glanced off and opened a large slit in the carcass below the head. A gush of entrails started from the slit, and Moran swore under breath.

"Ease away, quick there! You'll have the mast out of her next—steady! Hold your spade—what's that?"

Wilbur had nerved himself against the dreadful stench he expected would issue from the putrid monster, but he was surprised to note a pungent, sweet and spicy odor that all at once made thick the air about him. It was an aromatic smell, stronger than that of the salt ocean, stronger even than the reek of oil and blubber from the schooner's waist—sweet as incense, penetrating as attar, delicious as a summer breeze.

"It smells pretty good, whatever it is," he answered. Moran came up to where he stood and looked at the slit he had made in the whale's carcass. Out of it was bulging some kind of dull white matter marbled with gray. It was a hard lump of irregular shape and about as big as a hogshead.

Moran glanced over to the junk, some forty feet distant. The beachcombers were hoisting the jig sail. Hoang was at the steering oar.

"Get that stuff aboard," she commanded quietly.

"That!" exclaimed Wilbur, pointing to the lump.

Moran's blue eyes were beginning to gleam.

"Yes, and do it before the Chinamen see you."

"But—but I don't understand."

Moran stepped to the quarter deck, unslung the hammock in which Wilbur slept and tossed it to him.

"Reeve it up in that. I'll pass you a line, and we'll haul it aboard. Godsend, those vermin yonder have got smells enough of their own without noticing this. Hurry, mate. I'll talk afterward."

Wilbur went over the side and, standing as best he could upon the slippery carcass, dug out the lump and bound it up in the hammock.

"Hoh!" exclaimed Moran, with sudden exultation. "There's a lot of it. That's the biggest lump yet, I'll be bound. Is that all there is, mate? Look carefully." Her voice had dropped to a whisper.

"Yes, yes; that's all. Careful now when you haul up. Hoang has got his eye on you, and so have the rest of them. What do you call it anyhow? Why are you so particular about it? Is it worth anything?"

"I don't know—perhaps. We'll have a look at it anyway."

Moran hauled the stuff aboard, and Wilbur followed.

"Whew!" he exclaimed with half closed eyes. "It's like the story of Samson and the dead lion—the sweet coming forth from the strong."

The schooner seemed to swim in a bath of perfumed air. The membrane of the nostrils fairly pringled with the sensation. Moran unleashed the hammock and, going down upon one knee, examined the lump attentively.

"It didn't seem possible," Wilbur heard her saying to herself, "but there can't be any mistake. It's the stuff, right enough. I've heard of such things, but this—but this"— She rose to her feet, tossing back her hair.

"Well," said Wilbur, "what do you call it?"

"The thing to do now," returned Moran, "is to get clear of here as quietly and as quickly as we can and take this stuff with us. I can't stop to explain now, but it's big—it's big. Mate, it's big as the Bank of England."

"Those beachcombers are right on to the game, I'm afraid," said Wilbur. "Look, they're watching us. This stuff would smell across the ocean."

"Rot the beachcombers! There's a bit of wind, thank heaven, and we can do four knots to their one, just let us get clear once."

Moran dragged the hammock back into the cabin and, returning to the deck, helped Wilbur to cut away the last tricing tackle. The schooner righted slowly to an even keel. Meanwhile the junk had set its one lug sail and its crew had run out the sweeps. Hoang took the steering sweep and worked the junk to a position right across the Bertha's bows some fifty feet ahead.

"They're watching us, right enough," said Wilbur.

"Up your mains'l!" ordered Moran. The pair set the fore and main sails with great difficulty. Moran took the wheel, and Wilbur went forward to cast off the line by which the schooner had been tied up to one of the whale's flukes.

"Cut it!" cried the girl. "Don't stop to cast off."

There was a hail from the beachcombers, the port sweeps dipped and the junk bore up nearer.

"Hurry!" shouted Moran. "Don't mind them! Are we clear for'ard—what's the trouble? Something's holding her." The schooner listed slowly to starboard and settled by the head.

"All clear!" cried Wilbur.

"There's something wrong!" exclaimed Moran. "She's settling for'ard." Hoang hailed the schooner a second time.

"We're still settling," called Wilbur from the bows. "What's the matter?"

"Matter that she's taking water," answered Moran wrathfully. "She's started something below, what with all that lifting and dancing and tricing up."

Wilbur ran back to the quarter deck.

"This is a bad fix," he said to Moran. "Those chaps are coming aboard again. They're on to something, and, of course, at just this moment she begins to leak."

"They are after that ambergris," said Moran between her teeth. "Smelt it, of course—the swine!"

"Ambergris?"

"The stuff we found in the whale. That's ambergris."

"Well?"

"Well!" shouted Moran, exasperated. "Do you know that we have found a lump that will weigh close to 250 pounds, and do you know that ambergris is selling in San Francisco at $40 an ounce? Do you know that we have picked up nearly $150,000 right out here in the ocean and are in a fair way to lose it all?"

"Can we run for it?"

"Run for it in a boat that's taking water like a sack! Our dory's gone. Suppose we got clear of the junk and the Bertha sank? Then what? If we only had our crew aboard; if we only were ten to their dozen—if we were only six—by Jupiter, I'd fight them for it!"

The two enormous red eyes of the junk loomed alongside and stared over into the Bertha's waist. Hoang and seven of the coolies swarmed aboard.

"What now?" shouted Moran, coming forward to meet them, her scowl knotting her flashing eyes together. "Is this ship yours or mine? We've done your dirty work for you. I want you clear of my deck." Wilbur stood at her side, uncertain what to do, but ready for anything she should attempt.

"I tink you catchum some'ting, smellum pretty big," said Hoang, his ferret glance twinkling about the schooner.

"I catchum nothing—nothing but plenty bad stink," said Moran. "No, you don't!" she exclaimed, putting herself in Hoang's way as he made for the cabin. The other beachcombers came crowding up. Wilbur even thought he saw one of them loosening his hatchet in his belt.

"This ship's mine!" cried Moran, backing to the cabin door. Wilbur followed her, and the Chinamen closed down upon the pair.

"It's not much use, Moran," he muttered. "They'll rush us in a minute."

"But the ambergris is mine—is mine," she answered, never taking her eyes from the confronting coolies.

"We findum w'ale," said Hoang. "You no find w'ale. Him b'long to we—eve'y'ting in um w'ale b'long to we, savvy?"

"No; you promised us a third of everything you found."

Even in the confusion of the moment it occurred to Wilbur that it was quite possible that at least two-thirds of the ambergris did belong to the beachcombers by right of discovery. After all, it was the beachcombers who had found the whale. He could never remember afterward whether or no he said as much to Moran at the time. If he did, she had been deaf to it. A fury of wrath and desperation suddenly blazed in her blue eyes. Standing at her side, Wilbur could hear her teeth grinding upon each other. She was blind to all danger, animated only by a sense of injustice and imposition.

Hoang uttered a sentence in Cantonese. One of the coolies jumped forward, and Moran's fist met him in the face and brought him to his knees. Then came the rush Wilbur had foreseen. He had just time to catch a sight of Moran at grapples with Hoang when a little hatchet glinted over his head. He struck out savagely into the thick of the group—and then opened his eyes to find Moran washing the blood from his hair as he lay on the deck with his head in the hollow of her arm. Everything was quiet. The beachcombers were gone.

"Hello! What—what—what is it?" he asked, springing to his feet, his head swimming and smarting. "We had a row, didn't we? Did they hurt you? Oh, I remember. I got a cut over the head—one of the hatchet men. Did they hurt you?"

"They got the loot," she growled. "Filthy vermin! And, just to make everything pleasant, the schooner's sinking."

CHAPTER VIII.

"SINKING!" exclaimed Wilbur.

Moran was already on her feet. "We'll have to beach her," she cried, "and we're six miles out! Up y'r jib, mate!" The two set the jib, flying jib and staysails.

The fore and main sails were already drawing, and under all the spread of her canvas the Bertha raced back toward the shore.

But by the time she was within the head of the bay her stern had settled to such an extent that the forefoot was clear of the water, the bowsprit pointing high into the heavens. Moran was at the wheel, her scowl thicker than ever, her eyes measuring the strength of water that lay between the schooner and the shore.

"She'll never make it in the world," she muttered as she listened to the wash of the water in the cabin under her feet. In the hold empty barrels were afloat, knocking hollowly against each other. "We're in a bad way, mate."

"If it comes to that," returned Wilbur, surprised to see her thus easily downcast who was usually so indomitable—"if it comes to that, we can swim for it—a couple of planks"—

"Swim?" she echoed. "I'm not thinking of that. Of course we could swim."

"What then?"

"The sharks!"

Wilbur's teeth clicked sharply together. He could think of nothing to say.

As the water gained between decks the schooner's speed dwindled, and at the same time as she approached the shore the wind, shut off by the land, fell away. By this time the ocean was not four inches below the stern rail. Two miles away was the nearest sand spit. Wilbur broke out a distress signal on the foremast in the hope that Charlie and the deserters might send off the dory to their assistance, but the deserters were nowhere in sight.

"What became of the junk?" he demanded suddenly of Moran. She motioned to the westward with her head. "Still lying outside."

Twenty minutes passed. Once only Moran spoke.

"When she begins to go," she said, "she'll go with a rush. Jump pretty wide, or you'll get caught in the suction."

The two had given up all hope. Moran held grimly to the wheel as a mere matter of form. Wilbur stood at her side, his clinched fists thrust into his pockets. The eyes of both were fixed on the yellow line of the distant beach. By and by Moran turned to him with an odd smile.

"We're a strange pair to die together," she said. Wilbur met her eyes an instant, but, finding no reply, put his chin in the air as though he would have told her she might well say that.

"A strange pair to die together," Moran repeated, "but we can do that better than we could have"—she looked away from him—"could have lived together," she finished and smiled again.

"And yet," said Wilbur, "these last few weeks here on board the schooner we have been through a good deal—together. I don't know," he went on clumsily—"I don't know when I've been—when I've had—I've been happier than these last weeks. It is queer, isn't it? I know, of course, what you'll say. I've said it to myself often of late. I belong to the city and to my life there, and you—you belong to the ocean. I never knew a girl like you—never knew a girl could be like you. You don't know how extraordinary it all seems to me. You swear like a man, and you dress like a man, and I don't suppose you've ever been associated with other women, and you're strong—I know you are as strong as I am. You have no idea how different you are from the kind of girl I've known. Imagine my kind of girl standing up before Hoang and those cutthroat beachcombers with their knives and hatchets. Maybe it's because you are so unlike my kind of girl that—that things are as they are with me. I don't know. It's a queer situation. A month or so ago I was at a tea in San Francisco, and now I'm aboard a shark fishing schooner sinking in Magdalena bay, and I'm with a girl that—that I—that I—well, I'm with you, and, well, you know how it is—I might as well say it—I love you more than I imagined I ever could love a girl."

Moran's frown came back to her forehead.

"I don't like that kind of talk," she said. "I am not used to it, and I don't know how to take it. Believe me," she said, with a half laugh, "it's all wasted. I never could love a man. I'm not made for men."

"No," said Wilbur, "nor for other women either."

"Nor for other women either."

Wilbur fell silent. In that instant he had a distinct vision of Moran's life and character, shunning men and shunned of women, a strange, lonely creature, solitary as the ocean whereon she lived; beautiful after her fashion; as yet without sex, proud, untamed, splendid in her savage, primal independence—a thing untouched and unsullied by civilization. She seemed to him some Bradamante, some mythical Brunehild, some Valkyrie of the legends born out of season, lost and unfamiliar in this end of the century time. Her purity was the purity of primeval glaciers. He could easily see how to such a girl the love of a man would appear only in the light of a humiliation—a degradation. And yet she could love, else how had he been able to love her? Wilbur found himself, even at that moment, wondering how the thing could be done—wondering to just what note the untouched cords would vibrate; just how she should be awakened one morning to find that she—Moran, sea rover, virgin unconquered, without law, without land, without sex—was, after all, a woman.

"Mate!" she exclaimed of a sudden. "The barrels are keeping us up—the empty barrels in the hold. Ahoy! We'll make land yet!"

It was true. The empty hogsheads, destined for the storage of oil, had been forced up by the influx of the water to the roof of the hold and were acting as so many buoys. The schooner could sink no lower. An hour later, the quarter deck all awash, her bow thrown high into the air, listing horribly to starboard, the Bertha Milliner took ground on the shore of Magdalena bay at about the turn of the tide.

Moran swung herself over the side, hip deep in the water, and, wading ashore with a line, made fast to the huge skull of a whale half buried in the sand at that point.

Wilbur followed. The schooner had grounded upon the southern horn of the bay and lay easily on a spit of sand. They could not examine the na-

A HISTORIC HIGHWAY.

How Colonel Zane Kept His Contract to Mark the Road.

It is said that the beginning of one part of a historic road may be traced to the following incident: In early days, before the public conveyance by stage between the east and west, travel was generally by horseback. Judge Brown, senator for Kentucky, reached Wheeling on the way to the capital wet and tired. He was a guest of Colonel Ebenezer Zane, an early settler at Wheeling. Standing before the fire in Zane's comfortable cabin, he remarked, "Zane, if you will have a roadway marked from here to Limeston (Maysville), I will have congress grant you a section of land at the crossing of the Muskingum, Hocking and Scioto rivers." Zane fulfilled the contract, and congress made the grant.

May 17, 1796, congress granted to Ebeneser Zane three tracts of land, one square mile, one on the Muskingum, one on the Hocking and one on the Scioto river, in the state of Ohio, for the purpose of building ferries on the road from Wheeling, W. Va., to Limeston, which road was to be opened by the president of the United States. These grants were confirmed to Zane and patented Feb. 14, 1800. On April 3, 1802, congress made the same allowance to Isaac Zane, his heirs or assigns, located in the Northwest Territory, now the state of Ohio. Zane made good use of his grants. He located the town of Zanesville on the Muskingum, the town of Fairfield on the Hocking and Chillicothe on the Scioto. The story runs that when Judge Brown passed over the "road" he found it well marked by—blazed trees.—Exchange.

POCAHONTAS.

Her Visit to England and the Effect It Produced.

Pocahontas was born in the year 1595. Her father, Powhatan, was the lord and ruler of thirty tribes or clans of savages inhabiting that vast domain which was then called Virginia, after the Virgin Queen, Elizabeth. His friendship was dearly sought for by the white men and considered essential to the life and success of the colony. Like most red men, he distrusted the whites and their designs.

In England Pocahontas was treated with all the honor shown to royalty. Her grace and charm seem to have won all hearts, and she was at her ease with the best in the land. She was presented at Queen Anne's court, attended a ball given by the bishop of London and visited the Globe theater to see Shakespeare's "Tempest." In fact, she took on the garb and accessories of civilization with that easy grace which belongs to the truly great and was as much at home in court as in her own western solitudes. But inwardly she seems to have pined for her own free, open life of the forest, and when she was about to return on the good ship George she sickened and died at Gravesend, having lived long enough, as one commentator has said, to unite two hemispheres, two races, two civilizations.—William Ordway Partridge in Circle Magazine.

Ballooning in Great Britain.

The sudden craze over ballooning has caused the splendid grounds at the Ranelagh Club to be filled each Saturday afternoon, even when the weather is not fine, with an assembly scarcely less distinguished than a royal gathering.

There is a distinct ducal following among the younger set of English noblemen of this exalted rank, and the Duke of Westminster and the Duke of Roxburghe are particularly keen on the latest craze that has occupied the interest of the most prominent society set. In fact, so keen is their interest that Ranelagh Club seems to have given itself up to huge meetings of lovers of the exciting sport.

The polo matches at Ranelagh are of secondary importance this year, and even the famous driving competitions now occupy second place in popular interest.

Slayer and Sleigher.

In the first number of the Atlantic Monthly Ralph Waldo Emerson had a poem called "Brahma," which puzzled both critics and common readers. Some said it was the greatest poem of the century. Some said it was nonsense. The first verse ran as follows:

If the red slayer think he slays,
Or if the slain think he is slain,
They know not well the subtle ways
I keep and pass and turn again.

That winter it happened that a relative of the poet Longfellow, living in another state, bought a sleigh, and in a family letter to the cousins in Cambridge there was a wail lest the January thaw which had followed the purchase should keep them from enjoying the gay cutter that season. When the letter was answered, Longfellow contributed this verse, which, it is said, has never been printed before:

TO —— ON THE PURCHASE OF A SLEIGH.

If the red sleigher think he sleighs,
Or if the sleighin think it is sleighin,
They know not well the subtle ways
Of snow, that comes and goes again.

Surprised the Ghost.

A ghost, a vague white form which flitted about a small neglected graveyard in Galway, much to the alarm of those who lived near by, one of the gentlemen of our party undertook to lay. Going out not far from midnight, he did indeed soon become aware of a white figure looming toward him through the darkness. Our friend, however, held on his way undeterred.

"Ghost," he said in sepulchral tones when he came near, "could you drink a glass of whisky?"

"I could so, your honor," blithely responded the ghost, taken off his balance by the unexpected offer and standing revealed as the principal poacher of the neighborhood, who had availed himself of this spectral guise to set his night lines and carry on his other depredations undisturbed.

Ducks and Drakes.

The momentous day had arrived, and the inspector was putting his usual series of inquisitive questions to a class of small boys.

"Now, tell me," he said, "why it is that a duck can swim and a hen can't."

"Because a duck has webbed feet," piped one of the miniature philosophers.

"Yes," said the inspector. "Now, can any of you swim?"

Stony silence, during which the inspector and the teacher whispered together.

"Come, come," said the inspector; "you should all know how to swim. Your teacher tells me he can swim. Why is it you can't if he can?"

"Please, sir," said the same little boy, "the teacher has very big feet."—London Answers.

Limit of Human Strength.

Experiments upon a number of men have shown that a man five feet high and weighing 126 pounds will lift, on an average, 156 pounds through a vertical distance of eight inches, or 217 pounds through a height of 1.2 inches. Others 6.1 feet high and weighing 183 pounds could lift the 156 pounds to a height of thirteen inches, or 217 pounds to a height of six inches. Other men six feet three inches high and weighing 188 pounds could lift 156 pounds to a height of sixteen inches, or 217 pounds to a height of nine inches. By a great variety of experiments it was shown that the average human strength is equivalent to raising thirty pounds through a distance of two and one-half feet in one second.

How to Make Oil of Swallows.

Among the valued specifics of a bygone age was oil of swallows. In the "Countess of Kent's Choice Manual" (1676) there are the following curious directions for making it: "Take one handful of mother thyme, of lavender cotton and strawberry leaves of each alike, four swallows, feathers and all together well bruised, three ounces of nallet oil, beat the herbs and the swallows, feathers and all altogether, until they be so small that you can see no feathers, then put in the oil and stir them well together, and seeth them in a posnet and strain them through a canvas cloth and so keep it for your use."

Easy Rhyming.

William Makepeace Thackeray in his lines "Peg of Limavady" acknowledges himself a cockney. It was hardly necessary for him to do this, as not only in that poem, but in others, he makes the syllable "ing" rhyme with syllables like "in" and "en," failing to sound the concluding "g." Richard Harris Barham of Ingoldsby legends, a most facile rhymer, has done the same thing over and over again, thus lightening his labors greatly in the pursuit of rhymes.

An Ancient Superstition.

It is a historical fact that a cock was publicly burned at Basel in August, 1474, for the diabolical crime of laying an egg, the egg being also burned lest it should produce a cockatrice or fiery flying serpent. "On the Thursday before St. Lawrence's day," writes Gross in his "Kurtze Basler Kronik," "they burned a cock on the Kolenberg, together with an egg which he had laid, for they feared that a dragon might be hatched therefrom. The executioner cut open the cock and found three more eggs in him, for, as Vicentius saith in the sixth book of his 'Speculum Naturale,' it hath always been held that a cock in his old age may lay an egg, whence ariseth a basilisk if it be hatched out on a dung heap by the serpent called coluber. Wherefore the basilisk is half cock and half serpent. He saith also that certain persons declare they have seen basilisks hatched from such eggs."—Cornhill Magazine.

Against the Middle.

When Bill, the ranchman, came to New York to play the races he put up at one of the most expensive hotels in the city and took one of the most expensive rooms. Then he went broke. The proprietor of the hotel and the clerk held a private consultation.

"We will let him stay here," they decided, "but from now on we will feed him liver and bacon until he pays his bill. Nothing does he get in this house from now on but liver and bacon."

They fed Bill liver and bacon for breakfast, dinner and supper for about three weeks. Then his luck turned. He forthwith walked out to a strange cafe to get something to eat. He looked over the bill of fare.

"What's this in the middle?" he asked. "Liver and bacon?"

"Yes, sir," the waiter answered.

"Give me everything on the bill of fare both ways from liver and bacon," ordered Bill.

HAS HAD VARIED CAREER.

Winston Churchill Achieved Distinction in Many Different Fields.

Winston Churchill, who was recently appointed privy councillor, is a very young man to have achieved what he has and to have distinguished himself in so many different fields. At 33 he has mastered things which most men would take half a century to learn. In the dozen years since he reached his majority he has been in army campaigns in India, taken part in the battle of Khartoum, been a war correspondent in South Africa, has fought the Boers and been captured by them, afterward effecting a remarkable escape, has traveled in America and the Philippines, been a parliamentary leader on both the Conservative and Liberal sides and attained fame in the field of literature. He is very boyish looking. Some time ago he thought to give himself an appearance of greater age by raising a moustache. About that time he had occasion to take into dinner a lady who had a reputation for wit.

"Mr. Churchill," she said, "I like your politics as little as I like your moustache." It should have been a crushing shot, but not so to Churchill. His reply was on the instant, "Madam, you are not likely to come in contact with either."

"Jim Crows" In India.

Every little while the world is asked to consider the possibility of an uprising of the natives of India against the "beneficent" rule of the British. Things have recently been pictured as very much unsettled and the possibility of another Sepoy rebellion not remote. Why this should be so has long been a mystery. Kipling, who is an authority on India, told us in "The White Man's Burden" that the Indians are getting all the grain in the Anglo-Indian partnership and the white man only husks. But from India comes another story.

A recent number of "The Friend of India," published in Calcutta, declares that arbitrary rule "has converted the loyalty of the native army into disaffection." The Indian army outnumbers the European soldier element two to one. Since the Sepoy rebellion half a century ago the natives have been highly equipped and well trained in modern methods. An uprising to-day would be something more than a riot if the people have long been nursing a social grudge. A "frowning gulf of social intercourse" lies between the white man and the native in India, says Prathifal Signh, a cultivated Indian, who describes the situation in the Hindoostan Review. The writer asserts that a haughty attitude, brutal discourtesy and utter want of discernment characterize the behavior of the Britisher toward his brown brother. He speaks of "the bitter feelings already existing between the rulers and the ruled in India." British army officers are not alone in maintaining a haughty attitude toward the natives. "Raw civilians" sent out as civil servants lose their heads and put on airs of superiority the moment they get "east of Suez." The railroads have "Jim Crow" cars, "for Indians only," and no Indain is allowed to enter cars labeled "For Europeans only." "Sullen discontent" is noted now among the Sepoys, just as in the days preceding the mutiny of 1854. Evidently England cannot afford to disarm her white forces in India at present.

Ancient Abbey Sold.

Glastonbury Abbey, the impending sale of which was cabled recently, has been sold at auction for £30,000. The sale was hardly concluded when Mrs. Isabel Garrison, an American, arrived in hot haste, crying excitedly: "Am I too late? Is it really sold?" She explained that she had traveled from London prepared to bid £35,000, but was delayed on the journey. It was her ambition to buy the abbey as a joint possession for England and America, and to establish there an English branch of the American Boy Knights of the Round Table She pleaded to be allowed to secure the abbey by paying £35,000, but the auctioneer refused.

There was some American bidding during the sale. One American advanced his bids £1,000 at a time, until Mr. Jardin, a Nottingham merchant, outbid him, and secured the abbey.

Where Cats Are Saluted.

At the Government House in Poona, India, every cat which may happen to pass out of the front door after dark is saluted by the sentry, who presents arms to pussy. Tradition relates that in 1838 Sir Robert Grant, governor of Bombay, died in the Government House. On the evening of the day of his death a cat was seen to leave the house by the front door and to walk up and down a particular path where the late governor had been in the habit of strolling after sunset. A Hindoo sentry observed this and told a priest, who declared that in the cat was Governor Grant's soul, and it should be saluted. As the particular cat could not be identified by the sentry, it was decided to present arms to all the cats.

"Charlie's Day."

Observing a time-honored custom, the veteran pensioners of Chelsea Hospital the other day gave three cheers for King Charles II., and each drank two pints and a half of beer in his honor. May 29, or, as it is known familiarly among the old soldiers, "Charlie's Day," is a proud day at the hospital, and the memory of its royal founder is always perpetuated by the aged inmates with as much gusto and spirit as their advanced years will allow. Having been inspected by the Duke of Connaught, who brought them a greeting from the King, they responded to the Duke's call for "Three cheers for King Charles II.," and finally gave three cheers for the Duke himself. The inspection over, the Duke, with a number of officers and visitors, made his way to the kitchen, where the special dinner to which the pensioners are treated on "Charlie's Day" was in preparation.

The Reason Was Plain.

"There was a woman," said a lawyer, "whose husband was killed in a railroad accident. The railroad, to avoid suit, gave her $5,000 damages. The sum satisfied the woman, but a month or two afterward, taking up a newspaper, she read about a man who had lost his leg in the same accident, and, behold, this man was given by the company damages to the amount of $7,500. It made the woman mad. She hastened at once to the office of the railway's claim adjuster. She said bitterly:

"'How is this? Here you give a man $7,500 for the loss of his leg, while you only gave me $5,000 for the loss of my husband.'

"The claim adjuster smiled amiably and said in a soothing voice:

"'Madam, the reason is quite plain. The $7,500 won't provide the poor man with a new leg, whereas with your $5,000 you can easily get a new husband and perhaps a better one.'"

Trial Delayed Eight Years.

Eight years after the crime was committed Thomas C. McLelland was charged, at Edinburgh, the other day with murdering his aunt, Jane Broadfoot, at West Mains, Wigtownshire.

Since then he has been confined in Perth criminal asylum. He recently recovered his reason, and on being liberated was at once rearrested.

He now acknowledges that he shot the woman, but was acquitted on the ground of insanity.

Although found not guilty and certified to be sane at the present time, he was again sent to prison at Perth, to await the King's pleasure. The next step toward his release will be the forwarding of a petition to the Secretary of State for Scotland.

The Wily Arab of Tripoli.

Down the street the faint intermittent tinkling of a bell was heard "Burr-ro!" ("Get out!") in warning rasped the high pitched voice of a camel driver. I dodged quickly into the shop of a silversmith and watched four lumbering camels squdge softly by. To prevent those behind the driver from being stolen the halter rope of each is tied to the tail of the one ahead, and on the tail of the last camel as he flips and flaps it from side to side tinkles a bell. A wily one of the faithful, not being rich in this world's goods, turned covetous eyes on a nomadic brother who passed through the town leading a string of six camels. "Allah! Allah ursel el Allah! Could not the brother spare one of his jimal?" (camels). So, dusting the flies from his eyes and hooding himself with his barracan, he stealthily followed. He was aware that near the New gate the street narrowed and made a double turn. No sooner had the driver and head camel rounded the first corner than the wily one seized the bell attached to the hindmost camel. With a stroke of his knife he severed it from the tail of the animal, and, keeping it tinkling, he quickly fastened it to the tail of the next, cut loose the last beast and—"Allah wills"—made off with his loot.—C. W. Furlong in Harper's.

Put New Blood Into the Arteries
AND THE FEELING OF WEAKNESS AND FATIGUE WILL GIVE WAY TO HEALTH AND VIGOR
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
At this time of year nothing is of such great value to the human system as new rich red blood. Feelings of languor and depression, headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, impaired digestion, nervousness — these all tell of thin, watery blood and a run down system.
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all else a blood building restorative which puts new blood into the arteries and by so doing lays the foundation for health and vigour.
It sharpens up the appetite, and strengthens the nerves, which control the flow of digestive fluids, forms new firm flesh and tissues, and gives vigour to these vital organs of the body.
Mr. Fred H. Gould, Purdy, Hastings Co., Ont., writes: "I was troubled with nervous headaches, which at times were very painful and caused much suffering. It has been thoroughly cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can recommend this treatment most highly and believe that as a general system builder it has no equal."
Mrs. W. Chappel, Barrie, Ont., writes, "I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of building up the nervous system and of improving the health generally and I have also found it a good remedy for female troubles.
"We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment as a household remedy for all kinds of sores and cuts and think it is a splendid ointment."
You can be sure that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing you good because each dose goes to the formation of a certain amount of pure, rich, red, blood. It cures by the building up process, and its cures are, therefore, thorough and lasting; 50 cents a box; 6 for $2.50, at all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MAY PLEAD INSANITY.

Absconding Bank Teller Said to Be a Lunatic.

New York, July 10.—That a plea of insanity may be the defence of Chester B. Runyan, the paying teller of the Windsor Trust Co., who is charged with defaulting with $96,000 of the Trust Co.'s funds, was indicated by his counsel when Runyan was arraigned in court yesterday.

On behalf of Runyan, his counsel entered a plea of not guilty of the charge of grand larceny, and asked for an adjournment until Monday. He said he had been informed that the prisoner's maternal grandmother had died in an insane asylum, and that Mrs. Runyan believed her husband's mind was affected.

Another Arrest.

New York, July 10.—Late yesterday the police arrested Harry Kirkstein, a telegraph operator, 22 years old, on a charge of acting with Mrs. Laura Carter in receiving and disposing of $5,000 stolen from the Windsor Trust Co. by Chester R. Runyan.

Engine Turned Over.

Cobalt, July 10.—Between Englehart and Earlton, on the northern extension of the T. & N. O. Railway, there are several bad stretches of muskeg, which have given great trouble to the railway.

As a result of the heavy rains, a short distance from Earlton, a portion of track sank yesterday morning, when a pulp wood train was going over it. The engine turned completely over, and the engineer, Thomas Gould, was buried under his engine.

The deceased was a popular resident of New Liskeard, and leaves a wife and two children and a sister here.

Traffic was delayed several hours.

GOVERNMENT TAKE ACTION

Hon. W. J. Hanna Gives Instructions —Express Companies Not to Forward Packages of Liquor—Hotels Limit Sales — Will Cancel Licenses for Breach — Cobalt Miners and Lemieux Act.

Ottawa, July 10.—Mr. F. A. Acland, Secretary of the Labor Department, left for Cobalt at noon yesterday to explain to the striking miners there the provisions of the Lemieux act. The miners are evidently under the impression that the act does not apply to silver and other metalliferous mines. The act, however, compels investigation by a board of conciliation and investigation before a strike or lock-out can take place in any mine. Mr. Acland will endeavor to induce the strikers to apply for a board of conciliation and return to work pending its findings.

Hon. W. J. Hanna had a telegram from J. J. Finlan, mayor of Cobalt, and Foreland Reeves, chairman of the committee, yesterday, asking, on account of the strike, if the Provincial Secretary could prevent the express companies from carrying liquor to the station until the strike be settled. The hotelkeepers at Haileybury and Latchford, it was stated, had promised not to sell any liquor in packages.

The Government, Mr. Hanna said, had taken the matter up with the T. & N. O. railway commission and the express companies operating, and had urged that no express packages whatever containing liquor be forwarded pending the settlement of the strike.

The Government also gave instructions to the license commissioners in the district to see to it that the hotels at New Liskeard and Latchford do not sell any package liquor.

Should the hotels be found contributing to drunkenness the commissioners are so to report, and the licenses will be suspended or canceled.

The action of the Government is due to a fear entertained that the supply of liquor to the miners on strike might lead to serious mischief, and would seem to indicate that the struggle is likely to be a severe one.

It is definitely stated that the owners of Cobalt mines have banded together and have already taken steps to enlist the aid of the Ontario Government in settling the strike of miners.

Frank Loring, who arrived from Cobalt yesterday and waited upon the Attorney-General, is credited with being the representative of the mine owners.

Mr. Loring says that the Government is expected to provide protection further than a special favor of constabulary, and that the owners have determined that they will not recognize the union of miners and will employ whoever they choose. Many of the men would return to work if they were given protection. He says the men have practically gone out in a body in every mine, but the Foster. He considers the agitation is largely the work of miners from the Western States.

It is estimated that about 2,000 men have quit work, and in local brokerage offices the outlook is regarded as serious.

JAPS ORDER BIG GUNS.

Krupp to Furnish Artillery for New Warships.

London, July 10.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Mail say that Admiral Yamamoto's naval commission, which has just left Germany, placed a big order with the Krupps for 12-inch guns for the new Japanese Dreadnoughts, which are being built in Japan and England. The order will take nine months to complete.

It is stated that it was given in Germany because the British works are already working to their full capacity to turn out Dreadnought armament for British and foreign ships. As many as 120 12-inch guns are now being built in England. The Japanese commissioners found that the British gunmakers had not expanded their plants proportionately to the demand for big guns created by the general adoption of the Dreadnought armament, while the Krupps, within two years, have enlarged their plant at Essen by extensions costing $15,000,000, and increased the staff from 24,000 to 30,000 men.

Will Continue Legation.

Rio Janeiro, July 10.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday rejected the amendment to the Foreign Office budget, suppressing the Brazilian legation to the Vatican.

COUNTERFEITERS ARE IN THE TOILS

Police Stop Big Scheme to Make Bogus Bills.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED

Plant Located at Lindsay—Men Believed to Be Part of Same Gang—Engaged In Extensive Forgeries of Dollar Bills—Were Reproduced From Photographs — But Were Easily Recognized.

Lindsay, July 10.—No further arrests had been made here up to a late hour last night as a result of the arrest of Charles Burke here and R. Wynn and A. Bryean at Sault Ste. Marie on charges of circulating counterfeit notes of the Montreal, Dominion and Traders' banks.

Detectives Parkinson and Cowan of Toronto are still here, however, and several citizens are under surveillance, pending, it is said, the rounding up of a gang of counterfeiters. At Montreal a young Englishman named Eveley was taken in by the police, but his partner, Bob Logie, well-known here, escaped and is said to be across the line.

Charles Burke, aged 60, reputed to be worth $15,000, and a life-long resident of Lindsay, who was arrested at his home on Monday, is supposed to be the "man behind." Yesterday his home was searched, revealing dies, a photographic outfit, bank bills, paper and all, the necessary equipment for an expert counterfeiting establishment. Several other houses in the neighborhood were also searched, when the bunch of bills and other pharphernalia were found.

A Man of Mystery.

Burke has been a mysterious quantity in this town for several years. He was in the saw mill business up the river for some time. The mill was burned down 15 years ago, and since then Burke has been accumulating a bank account, and the citizens have wondered at his apparent prosperity.

The story that leaks out now is that several years ago a citizen had a fake counterfeiting machine, which so interested Burke that he wanted to go into business with the man, guaranteeing to pass the bills if he would make them, not knowing that the machine was a fake. Shortly after this he took up the study of photography, and was known around as an expert photographer.

Four years ago Bob Logie came on the scene, and at the same time bogus Bank of Montreal bills were circulated in Lindsay, but no trace of the counterfeiters was found.

During the last three years it has been the custom of Burke and Logie to go west for the summer, and it will be remembered that during these periods vivid reports of counterfeit money in circulation came back from the west.

This year, it is supposed, the gang contemplated the biggest coup that had yet been attempted. Wynn and Bonyea were sent to the west to cover the ground formerly covered by Burke and Logie, while Eveley and Logie were to work in the east, and Burke was to remain in Lindsay, working all the smaller towns in the surrounding counties. At present there is a lot of bogus money in circulation throughout the country.

Twelve years ago three men named Murphy were convicted for making bad money and it is alleged that Burke had some connection with this gang.

Burke will come up for preliminary trial on Monday next.

Caught in the Act.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 10.—Richard Wynn and Arthur Bonyea, were taken into custody on the American side of the river on a charge of circulating counterfeit money in the form of $5 bills of the Traders' Bank of Canada. When arrested Bonyea had $900 of the spurious currency in his possession and Wynn $75. The arrest followed an attempt made by Wynn to pass a bogus bill at the store of Baldwin & Besner, where he made some purchases. The bill was soon questioned and the police were notified, with the above result. The men were brought to the Canadian side of the river and lodged in the cells.

Upon appearing before the magistrate they acknowledge the charge and stated that they had procured the money from Burke of Lindsay.

The men, who are both over 60 years of age, were remanded for eight days.

No Bail for Schmitz.

San Francisco, July 10.—Judge Dunne yesterday refused to admit Mayor Schmitz to bail and denied him the privilege of visiting his attorneys. Schmitz appeared in court to ask for bail and to answer the indictments charging him with accepting bribes from the gas company and the United Railroads. In the first he failed.

The second was a formality and was carried through without incident.

Penalty for Defrauding Government.

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—A sentence of two years in jail and a fine of $10,000 were yesterday imposed upon John H. Seward of the fruit importing firm of J. H. Seward & Co. of this city.

He defrauded the Government by increasing the weight of decayed fruit on which there was a refund of duty of one cent a pound.

Workmen Injured.

Montreal, Que., July 10.—The caving-in of the earth of the foundation of a building being erected at the corner of McGill and St. James streets resulted in serious injury to two men yesterday morning. Superintendent Allen and two workmen were buried. Allen had his arm and several ribs fractured. Alex. Gaul was taken out unconscious.

Got Infernal Machine.

Schenectady, N.Y., July 10.—A jury in the County Court yesterday afternoon acquitted John Hallman, who was indicted for attempted murder.

He was alleged to have sent an infernal machine to Daniel Miller, said to have been his rival in love. Miller is now totally blind.

ROCKED BOAT; THREE DROWN.

Dreadful Fatality In Hudson River Due to Foolish Trick.

New York, July 10.—Three members of the crew of the steam yacht Yacona, belonging to Henry Clay Pierce, of St. Louis, were drowned in the Hudson River early yesterday, when a small yawl, carrying six of the Yacona's crew and a dockman, was capsized by a sailor who rocked the boat. Four of the party were picked up by a passing tug. No traces have been discovered of the three missing men, and the police are convinced that they are drowned. They are Rudolph Johnson, Frederickson and Herman Von Borsen.

The Yacona came into port Monday after a week's cruise in Long Island Sound, and Captain McDonough gave several of the crew shore leave. Six of the Yacona's crew came down to the landing at Eighty-sixth street early yesterday after an all-night frolic, and hailed the Yacona for a launch. There was no answer from the yacht, and in their anxiety to get aboard the sailors induced Appleman, a dockman, to take them out to the Yacona. The dockman wanted to divide the party and make two trips, but against his warnings, all six piled into the yawl, and started for the steam yacht. Several times during the trip Appleman warned his boisterous passengers to remain quiet, as their movements threatened to overturn the craft. Within a dozen boat lengths of the Yacona one of the sailors gave the yawl a violent lurch, and she capsized, throwing all seven men into the water.

Appleman succeeded in not only clinging to the keel of the overturned boat, but also assisted three of the sailors. All four were finally picked up by the tug which had been attracted by the shouts of the men. The crew on board the Yacona hearing the cries of distress threw a powerful searchlight over the waters and lowered a boat to search for the three missing men. No traces of them could be discovered. The police also searched the river without result.

Henry Clay Pierce, the owner of the Yacona, is chairman of the board of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, of Missouri.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL.

Two Prisoners Manage to Get Away From Whitby Prison.

Whitby, July 10.—Albert McKeown of Nebridge, and M. J. Ryan, who are serving long sentences in the County Jail here, escaped yesterday afternoon, and although the sheriff and county constables have searched the neighborhood, no trace of the getaways has been found.

McKeown is about 20 years of age, and has a record. He has broken jail before and is an adept at the job.

The prisoners were taken out in the jail yard to work. The turnkey left them for a little while, and both took advantage of his absence. They got an hour's start before the officers were after them.

Ryan is about 35 years of age.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.

PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

OUR AUSTRALIAN TRADE.

Returns Show Imports From Canada Increased By $350,000.

Ottawa, July 10.—The Department of Trade and Commerce has received a report from J. S. Larke and D. H. Ross, Canadian trade agents in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia, respectively.

This year's harvest in Australia will probably be below the average owing to the dry weather. Good prospects for developing a good leather trade with Australia are reported, provided Canadian firms will devote sufficient attention to the Australian market.

Canada's trade with Australia shows a satisfactory increase. Australian imports from Canada last year totaled £303,751, an increase over the preceding year of over $350,000. The increase was principally in textiles, drugs, apples, paper, spirits and vegetables. On the other hand, Canadian exports to Australia decreased in lumber, agricultural implements and fish. Canada's imports from Australia totaled last year £72,695, an increase of about £20,000 over the preceding year. The principal increases were in meats, butter, wool, tin and cocoanut oil.

Canada imported butter to the value of over $15,000 last year from Australia.

Roblin Protests.

Winnipeg, July 10.—At the session of the railway commission, which opened yesterday morning, Premier Roblin took the stand and protested vigorously against the Grand Trunk Pacific line passing through the Agricultural College grounds.

Yesterday afternoon the commission visited, with the Premier, the college grounds.

BURKE DISCOURSED ON AIRSHIPS AND THINGS BUT MANUFACTURED BOGUS BILLS

This is the Impression Gained in View of Recent Events at Lindsay —Sensation is increasing.

TOWNSPEOPLE MISTAKEN

Lindsay, July 10.—Time and vigilant policemen are ruthless destroyers of municipal hopes. It seems that Lindsay's dreams of becoming the birthplace of the first perfect airship were sadly dissipated by the arrest on Monday evening, of one of her sons, Chas. Burke, on a charge of making counterfeit five-dollar Traders Bank bills.

Most of the townspeople knew Chas. Burke. It was well known, too, that to all outward appearance he didn't do anything very strenuous in the way of earning his daily bread. It was generally thought that he lived on income derived from estates of his deceased father and brother. He was considered a genius in a way—something of an inventor. For the past few years, according to town traditions, Charlie Burke had been perfecting a flying machine, in a building on the bank of the Scugog River, near here. It an enormous winged creature had appeared floating calmly over the buildings on the main street, the Lindsayites would probably have received it with the assumption that the Burke Airship had been released at last.

Did Not Find Airship

But the arrest of Burke here, and of Archie Bouyea and Dick Wynne, two other Lindsay men, in the American Soo, on Monday, rather dampened the sky exploring enthusiasm of the Lindsay people. Detective John Parkinson, of the Dominion police; Henry T. Cowan, of Montreal, and local Chief of Police Vincent searched the Burke homestead and found, not the rudiments of a flying-machine, but the essentials of a counterfeiting plant, with which, they allege, Charlie Burke has been making bogus money for years, and distributing it, through his suspected confederates, in many parts of Canada.

The prisoner Burke has been locked up in the town jail now for nearly two days, and after several conversations with him, the detectives say they are convinced that Burke was the leader, and Lindsay town the headquarters of a gang of counterfeiters, who have been carrying on operations profitable to themselves for several years. In Burke's rooms were found photographic apparatus, dies, stamps, and other paraphernalia. The bills said to be of his manufacture are the product of a process of photographing and coarse electro engraving. They are not the work of an engraver, and no experienced bank clerk could be deceived by them. But in spite of their poor paper and smudgy indefinite printing, they might be, and were promptly accepted by dealers in the smaller towns. Even the merchants of Montreal were the innocent victims of the distributors of these counterfeits.

Cautious Counterfeiting

What the Lindsay people want to know is: How could Burke and his associates carry on this business in their midst for years without discovery? Now that the arrests have been made, it is recalled here that, at various times, there have been a number of counterfeit bills, of different banks taken up by the local branches. The suggestion is that if accused is guilty, and has been in the business for years, care has been taken not to make too many notes of one bank. Judging from the plates found, the method of engraving and printing were very simple. Just a few cents worth of chemicals, a strip of tin-foil, and a little sunshine sufficed to turn out the green goods. Burke was known as a man who kept pretty much to himself. He liked people to mind their own business; and none of the townsfolk cared to pry into the secrets of the Burke residence and outhouses down in "Pumpkin Hollow."

Fell From Auburn Dam And Was Drowned

John Lefebvre, Thirteen-Year-Old Boy Met Death This Morning---Had Been Fishing and Was Not Missed For Some Time---Fishing Pole Was Found in an Eddy

The Otonabee claimed its first victim of the season this morning, when John Lefebvre, the 13-year-old son of Mr. Ernest Lefebvre, fell from the Auburn dam and was drowned in the swift waters below. No one saw the accident, but there seems no doubt of the boy's fate.

The little fellow was fishing from the dam, in company with his uncle. The two fished for a while at the north side of the dam, and then the boy said he would try the south side, and went away, while his uncle remained at the other end of the bridge. From there he could not see the boy in his new position, but no doubt, thinking that the boy would take care of himself, had no apprehensions that anything was the matter until he went to look for the little fellow.

Going to the south side of the dam the boy could not be seen, and his uncle at once became alarmed as to his safety, and his fears were strengthened by the finding of the lad's fishing pole floating around in an eddy below the dam. No other sign of him was found, although the alarm was given and a number of men and boys were quickly at work in an endeavour to find the body.

It is thought that young Lefebvre fell from the extreme western pier on the south side of the dam, which is made quite slippery by the spray.

There is a strong current below, and a boy would have little chance for his life in a battle with the eddies.

At noon, stop logs were placed in the dam to lower the level of the water below the dam, and it was hoped that this would render it possible to find the body if it remained in the neighbourhood.

Mr. Lefebvre, the boy's father, is at present in Toronto. His mother resides at 872 Water street, and there are several sisters and brothers.

At the time of going to press the boy's body had not been recovered, although a large number were searching the waters below the dam.

BAILIEBORO MAN HAD LEG BROKEN

Taken to Nicholls Hospital—Break of a Serious Nature

Mr. Jas. Lucy, of Bailieboro, met with a serious accident last week near his home and is now in the Nicholls Hospital suffering from the effects of a broken leg. Mr. Lucy was driving home one morning from the cheese factory, to which he draws milk, when the waggon upset, causing him to break his leg just above the ankle. The fracture was a very painful one as the broken bone protruded through the skin.

Mr. Lucy was brought in to the city in Bellegham's ambulance on Saturday and taken to the hospital.

WEDDING BELLS.

PAYTON-MOSS

A very quiet wedding was celebrated last Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock at the George street Methodist parsonage when Miss Winnifred Moss, daughter of Mr. John Moss, Aylmer street, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur W J Payton, son of Mr. Jas. Payton, George street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson. Mr. Thos Medd was best man and the bride was assisted by Miss Jessie Goodfellow.

After the ceremony the happy couple returned to the home of the groom's parents, where a dainty spread had been prepared. Mr. and Mrs. Payton spent a few days in Toronto and in a short time will reside at the corner of Maitland avenue and Charlotte street.

ALLEGED ACCOMPLICES STAND TRIAL

Two Men Arrested in Toronto on Charge of Picking Pockets Are Committed for Trial

In view of the interest being taken in the fate of the men charged here with having been guilty of picking pockets of visitors to the city on the occasion of the circus on June 25th, it may be apropos to recall the manner in which men arrested in Toronto when the circus visited that city were dealt with. The opinion of the local authorities is that they were part of the same gang as that arrested here and committed for trial at the preliminary hearing yesterday. George Wilson and Frank Thompson, the two men arrested in Toronto were committed for trial, and their cases will come up at the next assizes.

SUN SPOTS APPEAR AGAIN

Dr. Marsh Reports Disturbances on Both Eastern and Western Limbs of Sun

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago when the presence of the sun spots was recorded it was mentioned in answer to an inquiry made Dr. Marsh, that they would probably re-appear in a short time on the eastern limb of the sun, and this prediction proved correct, for yesterday Dr. Marsh again noticed on the extreme eastern limb a large disturbance, and at the same time there was a disturbance on the western limb, the result being that a magnetic field was established between these two disturbances, and the effect upon the earth is the presence of magnetic disturbances, and beautiful aurora borealis were noticed last night.

Dairy Industry Affected By Alleged Combine

Canadian Dairyman Calls Attention to Facts Which Indicate Alarming Condition of Affairs.

SELLING BELOW COST

A combine in Canadian cheese. This is the latest, and, if the statements of those who should know are well authenticated, it will prove to be one of the most dangerous trade amalgamations yet proposed. The last issue of the Canadian Dairyman calls attention to certain facts which, it believes, give indication of the existence or the formation of a combine in the cheese manufactured in this country. The Dairyman says:—

There are some strange features connected with the cheese situation in Canada and Great Britain that should be followed closely by our dairymen. Early last year, when it was announced that certain large firms in Great Britain had entered into arrangements with firms in Canada, in regard to the purchase of cheese in Canada, it was rumoured that a movement might be on foot to establish a combine in cheese. The effect of such a combine would be to drive the independent buyers in Canada out of the field, and to force the retailers in Great Britain to buy only from the combine. This, ultimately, would have the effect of lowering the prices paid to the producers in Canada for their cheese, and of advancing the price paid for the cheese in Great Britain by the consumers.

These rumours, at the time, were laughed at by most dairymen. Nevertheless, we felt it well to draw attention, editorially, to the fact that inasmuch as Canada furnishes about ninety per cent. of the cheese consumed in Great Britain, it would be necessary for the combine to corner only Canada's supply to secure control of the British market. This would be a much more simple feat than that accomplished by the tobacco combine, which succeeded in securing absolute control of the tobacco industry, not only in the United States and Great Britain, but in Germany, Australia and other countries as well.

Were the big cheese buyers to follow the tactics of the tobacco combine, one of their first moves would be to force the small, independent buyers in Canada out of the field by paying higher prices for cheese than the smaller buyer could afford. In time, this would result in the small buyers losing their customers in Great Britain. The next step of the combine would be to gain control of the situation in Great Britain. This would be accomplished by selling cheese at lower prices than the small retailers over there could afford. In time, these retailers would have to give up, and the combine would have the field, both in Canada and Great Britain, to itself. When the tobacco combine was fighting for control in the United States, it used to establish large stores next door to the independent stores, and then sell tobacco at less than cost until the little fellows were driven out of business, after which prices advanced to a point that netted the combine large profits.

The Canadian Dairyman has no desire to indulge in "scare" articles, or to appear to desire to magnify what may be an easily explained situation into one of a critical nature. The foregoing remarks have been called out by the fact that certain firms, during the past two years, have been operating in Canada on a larger scale than ever before known, and by the situation in Great Britain. While it is difficult to gain an accurate idea of the conditions that may be affecting the market in the Old Country, the despatches indicate that a struggle of unusual intensity is in progress. Two weeks cheese has been retained at lower prices than it has cost wholesale, and the condition of the trade, in consequence, is much disturbed.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Belleville reporters object to do any work on Sundays. It is the day of rest—in the mind. So Sunday parades, like Sunday funerals, have to go.

At last Lindsay has a real live sensation—nothing short of the discovery of a bogus money manufacturing establishment, in full working order, in the midst of the town. One of its most highly respected citizens, too, is the man accused of being the operator.

A SMALL VOTE ON THE BY-LAW

Ratepayers Taking Little Interest in Result of Vote on Colonial Weaving Company By-law

The vote taken to-day on the Colonial Weaving Company bylaw was very light, the ratepayers apparently being satisfied with it, since little opposition was in evidence during the day. The total vote polled will be very small in proportion to that available.

ANOTHER WRITER WHO FORGOT TO GIVE NAME

A Havelock Writer Sends Letter Referring to Alleged Violation of Law

The Examiner to-day received a letter from Havelock, signed "A Real Citizen," in which references were made to a letter alleged to have been published in these columns charging that the law was being violated. No such letter was ever published in this paper, and no reference has been made in the Examiner to illegal selling of liquor in that town. The writer of this letter, too, neglected a very important consideration to the publication of his letter, in that he did not sign his name, not, as has often been stated, for publication, necessarily, but as an evidence of good faith. Unless this is supplied the letter cannot be published.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY ON HUNTER STREET TO-DAY

Mr. J. C. Sullivan's Horse Made a Dashing Run

The equine attached to Mr. J. C. Sullivan's delivery wagon made a wild dash along Hunter street this afternoon, beginning at the Toronto Bank and slowing up of its own accord at Noble's Temperance House. It is supposed to have become frightened at an auto car behind it, and on the first bound broke the bridle, part of which was attached to the tie stone. A crossing near the Oriental was broken, but little other damage was done.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE CELEBRATION

Local Orange Lodges Will Go to Millbrook To-morrow to Take Part in Demonstration

To-morrow, July 12th, the Battle of the Boyne will be celebrated in right royal fashion. Celebrations will be held in Millbrook and Havelock, and the lodges in this district will divide their attention between these two towns. It is probable that those in the western portion of the district will go to Millbrook, while from the northern and eastern sections they will visit Havelock. A special train will leave this city on the G. T. R. about 10 o'clock for Millbrook, and those who wish may remain here until the departure of the regular train at 11.45.

The weather conditions promise to be favourable for to-morrow, the indications being that the weather will be clear and somewhat cooler. In other places the celebration will be held with equal gusto. In Stirling preparations are being made for a very large crowd, while in Frankford and a number of other places minor celebrations will be held. Apsley lodges will hold a celebration of their own to-morrow, instead of attending those at Havelock or Bobcaygeon.

MANITOBA WHEAT CROP IS NOT EXTRA GOOD

Letter Received by Ald. Leary, From His Nephew

Ald. Leary to-day received a letter from his nephew, Mr. Reginald Orr, of Binscarth, Man., in which the writer describes the condition of the crops in the north-western section of the province. Mr. Orr states that the wheat there will not be as good a crop as that of the past year, but the farmers are in hopes of a fair harvest.

He has some 200 acres in wheat, the best being 18 inches in height and the worst about 10 inches, but of course none of it has yet headed out.

COUNTY ASSAULT CASE ON MONDAY MORNING

Jas. Mills Men to Come Before the County Magistrate

On Monday morning at 11 o'clock another county assault case will be heard before Magistrate Edmison. Mr. Stabler, of Smith, is the complainant and claims he was assaulted by a Mr. Stubbs of the same township. The trouble apparently has arisen over a shovel. Mr. F D Kerr will act as counsel for the defendant.

A BRUSH PILE FIRE BROUGHT OUT BRIGADE

Alarm No. 21 Was Sounded About Nine O'clock Last Night

An alarm was sent in to the fire-hall last night about 9 o'clock from box 21, at the corner of George and King streets, but it proved to be a false one. The brigade hurried to the supposed scene of the conflagration, when they discovered it to be a brush pile across Little Lake. They proceeded no further to investigate.

FOY TO PROSECUTE.

Col. Sherwood Hands Counterfeiters Over to Provincial Authorities.

Toronto, July 11.—Although arrested by Dominion officials, the gang of counterfeiters under arrest will be prosecuted by the Ontario Attorney-General.

Col. Percy Sherwood, chief of the Dominion Secret Service, saw Hon. Mr. Foy yesterday and asked him to take over the prosecution. Mr. Foy consented.

The object is to centralize the prosecution, if possible. Although Lindsay seems to have been the headquarters of operations, only one was arrested there, two being captured at the Michigan "Soo" and one at Montreal. The department is considering the advisability of prosecuting all at Lindsay.

LITTLE SHOOTING DONE.

Canadians at Bisley Waiting For the Important Events.

Bisley, July 11.—The weather still continues very cold, and yesterday there was considerable rain, making not the best shooting weather for the men in camp. The Canadians are nursing themselves for the big things, and did little shooting.

For the Mackinnon Cup, Canada, Australia, England, Scotland and Ireland have entered teams. For the Kolapore Cup, the blue ribbon of the team events, teams are entered from the mother country, Guernsey, Australia, India and Southern Rhodesia.

The Duke of Connaught will inspect the Canadian to-morrow.

NO TRUTH IN IT.

Japan Denies Rumor About Exactions Regarding the U. S.

Washington, July 11.—From the state department and from the Japanese Embassy here came swift and conclusive denials yesterday of the accuracy of the statement cabled from The Hague to The London Daily Telegraph and reprinted in this country, to the effect that Japan has made categorical demands upon the United States Government for satisfaction in connection with the treatment of Japanese in San Francisco, and has served notice of her intention to deal with the Californians herself if the national Government fails to do so.

FORTY-FIVE DOLLARS PAID THROUGH THE COURT

Trespassers on the C. P. R. Fined One Dollar Each This Morning

The city's treasury was boosted this morning by the fines that were collected from 45 persons who pleaded guilty to trespassing on the property of the C. P. R. on July 2. Originally there were 54 people summoned, but for various reasons only 45 were fined. Magistrate Dumble said that he believed the company merely wished to warn the citizens, but he would have to sustain the C. P. R. in their legal position, since they had entered the actions. It was a habit that had been formed, and if a fine was not imposed the law would be ignored. Each person pleading guilty was therefore fined one dollar.

Mr. Harry Dunford objected to paying a fine. It was his wife who had been apprehended by Detective McQuay, and at the time she was told that her name was wanted for the sole purpose of learning the amount of traffic over the bridge.

Mrs. Dunford was informed that she would not be prosecuted.

Mr. Dunford said that he thought the C. P. R. would never act in that manner. Mr. Dumble said that railway companies have no morals.

Mr. Dunford strongly objected to paying the fine, and asked if he could go to jail for his wife. He was told that such a thing was impossible, and still he refused to pay.

Mr. W. H. Moore appeared on behalf of the C. P. R.

PROJECTING SPIKES ARE DANGEROUS

Citizen Complains That It is Endangering Pedestrians

A citizen complained to the Examiner to-day of a large spike which projects from a Bell Telephone Co's pole near the corner of Murray and George street, and is so low that one walking close to the outer edge of the walk is in danger of striking one's head upon it. He stated that he had complained to the city engineer but nothing had yet been done about it.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

UNBREAKABLE FIRE-POT

The lower portion of a fire-pot is usually nearly or partly filled with dead ashes, leaving the live, red-hot coals in the upper part. The result is that the upper portion expands much more than the lower.

This uneven expansion causes a strain too great for a one-piece fire-pot to stand. Sooner or later it will split, allowing precious heat and sickening gases to escape.

But the fire-pot of the Sunshine is constructed to meet this condition. It is in two sections. The upper half expands, as much as necessary, independently of the lower. When cool, it contracts back to its original size, fitting to the lower half perfectly.

And this strong, unbreakable, gas and heat-tight, two-piece fire-pot is just one of the many superior features of the Sunshine.

ANNUAL OUTING OF ALL SAINTS' W. A.

A Delightful Excursion to Gore's Landing Was Enjoyed by Goodly Number Yesterday

The anhual excursion under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' church, was held yesterday afternoon to Gore's Landing, to which delightful resort about one hundred persons, comprising the members of the Auxiliary, and many others were conveyed by the steamer Monarch. An early start was made after noon, and the steamer arrived at the Landing in ample time for tea, after having thoroughly enjoyed the sail down the Otonabee river.

After taking tea at Mr. Harris' excellent hotel, and spending an hour or two on land, the return journey was undertaken and the city was reached about ten o'clock, the homeward trip in the evening being equally enjoyable with that taken in the afternoon.

Pains in the Back Over the Kidneys

TELL OF DISEASED KIDNEYS AND THE PROVEN CURE FOR THIS DREADFULLY PAINFUL AILMENT IS

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

When kidney disease does not arise from exposure to a draft or chilling of the body it is usually developed gradually as a result of liver and bowel disorders.

It is because of the intimate and dependent relations of the liver, kidneys and bowels, that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure diseases of the Kidneys when mere kidney medicines fail.

By quickening the action of the liver and bowels this treatment immediately lessens the work of the kidneys, and at the same time restores their natural vigour. In this way the most serious and complicated diseases of the kidneys are thoroughly cured.

Miss Delia McDermott, 373 Main street, Moncton, N.B., writes:

"For some time my mother could not walk across the floor, or stoop over because the pains in her back just over the kidneys were so severe. She had severe headaches, backache, spells of blindness and dizziness, and tried many remedies without obtaining any relief. The doctors of our town said that the trouble was due to the turn of life.

"A lady friend advised mother to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by the time she had used two boxes of this great medicine she was perfectly cured and the old trouble has never returned."

Mr. J. Edwards of Colborne, Ont., and who is employed by the Kennedy and Davis Milling Company, Lindsay, Ont., states: "I have been taking Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for some time and can positively say they are the best medicine I have ever used. I was troubled very much with my kidneys, and had dreadful pains in my back, which increased by leaning over.

"I can testify to the exceptional merits of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because they have cured me, and shall gladly recommend them to anyone inquiring about them.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

BEST IN THE HISTORY OF SCHOOL

Charlotte Street Sunday School Had a Delightful Picnic Yesterday

The annual picnic of the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday School held yesterday, at Rice Lake, was unanimously voted the most enjoyable outing in the history of the school. About 300 people were in attendance, a feature of the affair being the large number of the parents and other friends of the school that were present, the representation of senior members present being greater than usual.

The steamer Otonabee was chartered for the occasion, and left Peterborough about 8.30 o'clock with a very happy crowd on board. Perfect weather smiled upon the excursionists and the sail down the Otonabee was much enjoyed. Two hours were spent at Idyl Wyld where dinner was partaken of after which the steamer returned to Jubilee Point, where a stop was made for four hours and a very interesting programme of sports was run off with the following results:—

ENJOYABLE PICNIC AT VILLIERS

Annual Outing of Young People of the Village Held Recently, and Was Gratifying Success

On Thursday, July 4, the annual Villiers picnic was held in the Pine Woods, by kind permission of Mr. Alfred Harris.

The necessary arrangements were made by members of the Villiers Old Boys' Association, of which Mr. Jack Dickson is the genial and active president.

The charming woods is an ideal spot for a gathering of this kind. The weather being fine, there was a large attendance, and throughout the afternoon and evening the woods presented a very pretty and animated scene. During the afternoon a number of races were run off. The results in the various events were as follows:

Senior Girls' Race—Bessie Hastie, Mabel Steele, Bella Wood.
Girls' Race No. 2—Maggie Myers, Edith Steele, Edith Wood.
Junior Girls' Race—Bella Hastie, Ethel Steele, Agnes Wood.
Free for All Race—Bessie Hastie, Maggie Myers, dead heat; George Dickson, Mabel Steele, dead heat; Alex. Hastie, Edith Steele.
Boys' Race—George Dickson, Alex. Hastie, Willie Redpath.

In the Free for All twenty competitors started and all ran the full distance. A most exciting finish was witnessed. Two runners tied for first, and also two for second.

At 5 o'clock some of the ladies of the village provided an excellent tea for all the friends present. The tables were covered with many good things, more than sufficient to arouse the envy of a royal cook.

Mr. Pete Wood had charge of the musical arrangements, his accomplished playing contributing largely to the success of the dancing and eliciting warm praise from the many who took part.

The last dance was over by 11 o'clock, and ended one of the most enjoyable picnics ever held in the township.

Mr. Geo. Gall of Keene had charge of the refreshment stand as usual.

PLAIN TALK FROM THE DOCTOR

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder troubles, stated that to the following prescription is due a great deal of his success:

One ounce fluid extract dandelion;
One ounce compound salatone;
Four ounces compound syrup sarsaparilla.

Mix and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

This mixture will, he says, positively cure any diseases arising from weak, clogged or inactive kidneys, and will aid these organs to cleanse the blood of the poisonous waste matter and acids, which if allowed to remain, cause lumbago, lame back, rheumatism and sciatica, and at the same time will restore the kidneys to healthy normal action. The ingredients, which are purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can be procured from any good druggist and mixed at home at very little cost.

This advice will undoubtedly be much appreciated by many readers.

Officer Newhall Saw Mr. Hurl Robbed On Circus Day

An Account That Was Exact in Every Detail—A Chain of Evidence Against the Four Alleged Pick-pockets That Was Unshaken by Cross-Examination—Another Case Heard on Friday.

MEN WERE COMMITTED

"That man, Newhall, is a cracker-jack!" was Chief Ruzel's terse, but expressive compliment of Police Officer Newhall's excellent work on June 25th, Circus Day, when he shadowed Bradford, Lewis, Goldfard and Phelps, and established a chain of evidence against them, which proved to be solid throughout, when the prisoners appeared before Magistrate Dumble yesterday afternoon on the charge of having picked pockets amongst the crowd that thronged the streets on the 25th of last month. The explicit charge that was placed against the prisoners was that of having relieved Mr. William Hurl of Young's Point, of the sum of $12.50, and on the strength of the testimony that was taken His Worship committed the four men for trial, and in regard to several other charges of the same character the men were remanded until Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

The Court Room

The dingy court room was thronged with a curious crowd, who were interested to the extent they braved the sultry atmosphere of the room, where not a solitary breeze could find an entrance to besport itself, but where every person had to patiently endure the oppressiveness that resulted from bad ventilation.

Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution, and Messrs. Gordon and Kerr represented the prisoners. Mr. W. Johnston, of the firm of Dumble and Johnston, was the court stenographer for the occasion.

The Prosecution

Mr. William Hurl of Young's Point, was the first witness called.

A slight hitch occurred at this point, owing to the witnesses being called upon to leave the court room. P. C. Newhall was one of them, and this left but P. C. McDonald to guard the prisoners. Mr. Wood wanted the latter as a witness, and the counsel for the defence offered to have his evidence taken first. Mr. Wood said that in that case he would need P. C. Newhall's assistance, but it was finally decided to dispense with P. C. McDonald's testimony.

Mr. Hurl stated that he drove to Peterborough on the 25th ult., with his daughter, intending to see the circus. He arrived in the city rather early, and to the three dollars which he already had in bills he added ten dollars more by drawing on his account at the Bank of Toronto. He had finished his dinner by 11.30, and had paid 25 cents for it, the same for his daughter, leaving $12.50 to the good. A couple of hours later he and his daughter left the Crown Hotel, crossed over to the south side of Hunter street, then to George street. No car being then close at hand, he walked on down to Simcoe street, and waited about a minute for a south bound car. There was a crush, as many attempted to gain entrance, as it was one of the closed cars.

How he Was Robbed

His daughter preceded him, and, as he reached the vestibule, and was about to get into the car proper, he was jammed up against the wooden partition, by a man who pushed from behind. The man, whom the witness recognized as the prisoner Phelps, said, "If you wern't smoking they'd let you in," and witness was not smoking. As the words were spoken, witness stated that he felt a distinct pressure against his right-hand trousers pocket. Owing to the crush he could not move his hands down, but, with a strong suspicion that he had been robbed, he touched his daughter and told her to follow him off the car. By this time Charlotte street was reached, and father and daughter got off, the former realizing that his worst doubts were only too true.

Witness saw nothing more of the men, but he went to the police station and reported his loss. He afterwards went to the circus with money his daughter had, but the performance had lost its delight for that occasion. His money was composed of three two-dollar bills and one five-dollar bill which he thought was a Bank of Toronto bill, and one one-dollar bill.

Mr. Kerr questioned Mr. Hurd, but failed to shake his evidence in the major details. Witness said that he recognized Phelps in the evening when he saw him at the police station. He had seen his face in the car when Phelps spoke to him.

A Surprise by P. C. Newhall

There may have been two or three in the court room who knew, P. C. Newhall's evidence, but it was a great surprise to the majority of those present, and to the defence as well. According to his evidence, he followed the four men from 1 o'clock until after 3, caught them red-handed, and finally rounded them up with the aid of three other constables at the Commercial House, when they believed themselves most secure, and, as Goldfard himself said to his companions, "There's not a cop in sight." It was a masterly stroke of work. It was carried out without an error and bespeaks the thoroughness of Officer Newhall's training in "Old London Town" on the force that is considered the best in the world.

Officer's Story

P. C. Newhall's evidence was too exhaustive to give in print, but a short account may suffice. He was sworn, and stated that he was coming on duty, dressed in regular trousers, but civilian coat, and left his home in North Monaghan, below the Exhibition Grounds, about 10 o'clock. At Lansdowne street, on which the circus was being held, he saw four men together on Lock street, just at the corner. They were in a crowd and jostled up against the people, acting in a manner that looked suspicious to witness. He decided at once that they were worth watching and felt sure of their intentions. He followed them to the grounds and saw them go up the new part of George street. Witness took a car and the four men also boarded it at Lake street corner. They went as far as Brock street. Here witness saw Phelps and Bradford in the front vestibule. An old man with his arms full of parcels entered the car and was crowded by the two men. Witness said he saw Bradford put his hand in the old man's pocket and take money from it. The men got off at Central Park and returned to Charlotte street, all the time crowding against people and acting suspiciously. Witness went to the police station, and put on his full uniform, and returned to the corner. Phelps and his companions were on the rear vestibule of a car and witness drew near them, and he once looked Phelps square in the face. Immediately they had scattered as if by magic, but were soon together on a trailer going south. They behaved themselves on this trip. At the ground witness saw Bradford throw something away, which he had asked a friend to pick up as he was busy watching the men. They soon returned up town and witness went home and party disguised himself in old clothes. He saw his men at Lansdowne street when he got back still at their old game. Another trip was made up to Brock street when the four men got off, and three of them went into the bar of the Commercial House while Goldfard remained outside. A car was approaching, and he went in, soon reappearing with his pals. It was just five minutes to two as the car passed Hunter street with all five on board. At Simcoe street the car stopped and Mr. Hurd and his daughter got on. Officer Newhall corroborated Mr. Hurl's evidence. He was only a few feet distant from Phelps when the latter crowded Mr. Hurl and witness said he saw Bradford take a buckskin bag from Mr. Hurd's pocket.

Cat and Mice

The rest of the evidence was similar to that already given. In fact, it was painful, being a case of a cat playing with a number of mice, that she had cornered, or a spider [illegible] and patiently spreading it for four over-confident and rash flies. Officer Newhall remained with his men until shortly after 3, when he saw them enter the bar of the Commercial House again, when leaving Mr. Larmonth to watch the entrance from the street, he went and called for help. Constables Meharry, and Adams, and Mr. B. Lucas soon arrived, entering from the rear. Lewis got away and ran as far as Dutton's, but was overtaken by witness.

There was further evidence but it was only regarding the statements made at the police station by the prisoners.

Mr. Gordon cross-questioned P. C. Newhall, but it availed him nothing, similarly with Mr. Kerr, as the recital was exact in every detail.

His Worship considered the evidence of sufficient weight to commit the men. He asked the counsel for the defence if they would agree to have no preliminary hearing for the other charges, but they were unwilling, so the four men will again appear on Friday morning.

The case was concluded at five minutes to seven o'clock.

Improvements To The Interior Of Knox Church

Gallery Will be Erected Along the West Side of the Building—Will Cost About $500.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

At a meeting of the congregation of Knox Church, held last night, a decision was reached to proceed with some necessary improvements to the church building. A gallery will be erected along the west side of the building, and the location of the choir loft will be changed. At present the choir is seated to the side of the church, and in future, after the changes have been effected, it will be located near the pulpit. The gallery, while not an immediate necessity, so far as the seating accommodation of the church services is concerned, is being provided primarily for the use of the Sunday school, which at the present time is badly crowded, and it could, of course, be used, should occasion require it, for the regular church services.

It is anticipated, too, that it will only be a matter of a short time until this will be necessary, since the attendance is increasing rapidly. The gallery will cost, it is estimated, in the neighbourhood of $500.

The Board of Managers were last night constituted a building committee, and were authorized to proceed with the work at once, and, as a consequence, tenders will be called at once, and, as soon as possible, the extra accommodation will be provided.

Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake, July 10.—Mr. J. R. McKelvie, the genial proprietor of the Bellevidere House at Crowe's Landing, met with a painful accident the other day. VALUABLE BICYCLE STOLEN; PRACTICE WHICH STRICT MEASURES STOP

The practice of stealing bicycles is one which is apparently becoming very common in the city, and for the benefit of the guilty parties attention is called to the action of Col. Dennistoun, in Toronto the other day when he sentenced an offender to four months in Central Prison for taking a wheel which did not belong to him. Yesterday afternoon a gentleman borrowed a wheel to go to Bolivar street for the purpose of looking through a house he was thinking of buying. He left the bicycle, which was a Cleveland, practically new, outside the door and when he came out about ten minutes later it was gone and an old one left in its place. Steps are, it is understood, being taken to set the machinery of the law into operation to recover the new wheel. If the person who took it will call at the Examiner office and leave the wheel he will be given the one that was left, and proceedings will be stopped. Mr. Dumble will probably deal severely with the next case of stealing bicycles that comes before him, in view of the fact that recently a number of complaints have been received at headquarters, of valuable wheels having been taken.

FIRST EXCURSION TO THE NEW LOCK

Orillia Steamer To-day Taking a Party to Kirkfield Lift Lock From Lake Simcoe Town

The new section of the Trent Canal, made available for navigation by the opening of the Kirkfield lift lock is apparently attaining a popularity for excursion parties. To-day the first excursion to the lift lock is being run from Orillia and it promises to be well patronized, since deep interest is being taken in the lock by the people of that town. An additional attraction is the fact that it is a delightful sail, through the lake and the five locks in the lower reach of the canal to the lift.

CHANGING SENTIMENT

Oliver Goldsmith's "Deserted Village"

Goldsmith in his "Deserted Village," spoke of a certain chapel where those who "went to scoff, remained to pray." So in life one often laughs at what he does not understand and later, when he does understand, his laugh turns to praise. There were some who doubted the merits of Newbro's "Herpicide," the scalp germicide and hair-dressing; but since they have tried it, they are now among its best friends and strongest endorsers. Herpicide kills the germ that eats the hair off at the root, and the hair then grows again. As a hair dressing it is incomparable, try it. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. McDermid & Jury special agents.

SOVERIGN FIRST STEAMER TO ENTER ORILLIA PORT

This morning the steamer Sovereign returned to the city, after having made the return trip to the new Kirkfield Lift Lock, and Lake Simcoe.

After the opening of the Lock on Saturday the steamer went to Lake Simcoe, where some work had to be done and on Monday she steamed into the Orillia Harbour, and claims the distinction of being the first boat to reach that town from Peterborough. No claim will be made, however, against the Board of Trade of that town for the flag offered by it for the first steamer to reach port over the new lock. During the interval the steamer has been engaged towing on the canal near the new section, and the return trip was commenced on Tuesday afternoon, Fenelon Falls being reached the same night, and the trip from that town to Lakefield made yesterday.

Re-Stocking Stoney Lake With Fish Proposed

A Meeting of Those Interested May be Called in the Near Future to Consider Question.

AN IMPORTANT MATTER

The question of re-stocking the Kawartha Lakes with fish is one that will, in the near future, have to engage the attention of those who are interested in the success of Stony and other lakes, from the standpoint of the tourist. It is stated to the Examiner that that fishing this year is the poorest and most unsuccessful in a number of years, and there is a feeling that some action will have to be taken in the near future if these lakes are to retain their popularity.

One of the cottagers to-day suggested that a meeting of those interested should be called as soon as possible and some consideration given to the matter. He believed that the Government would be willing to co-operate if the matter was submitted to it, and he was of the opinion that all the interests would be conserved by a prompt and effectual consideration of what seems to be an important matter.

This season there are fewer persons at Stony Lake than is usually the case at this season, and this circumstance may be attributed, it is believed, to the fact that the fishing is not as good as many would like to see it.

It is pointed out in this connection that not only are the cottagers interested in the preservation of the fish, but it is also an important consideration with the business men. If Stony Lake is to lose its prestige as a fishing and summer resort, the business men of this city will lose considerable very profitable trade, while, on the other hand, if steps are taken to insure a systematic re-stocking of the lakes at stated periods, and if the usual result is reached, an increase in the number of fish of a legal size, the increase in the number of summer visitors who will be attracted will mean considerable to the merchants and men engaged in almost every line of business, not only in the city, but in Lakefield and at different points contiguous to the lakes.

It is probable that a meeting will be called in the near future of those interested, and a solution of a difficulty which promises to become acute may be reached.

Peterborough's Progressiveness And Hospitality Are Praised

Interesting Contribution From the Pen of "Rambler" in the Catholic Register.

THE INSTITUTIONS PROSPER

Mr. P. Mungovan, who, as "Rambler," has contributed a number of decidedly interesting articles from time to time in the Catholic Register, was a recent visitor in Peterborough, and in the last issue of the Register, he tells of the incidents connected with that visit, among other things saying:

Taking advantage of the holiday in connection with the commemoration of the birth of the Dominion, the Catholic Register's representative took an outing in Peterborough, and a very pleasurable outing it proved. The time happened to be opportune as to the life of the city, whose name places it under the patronage of the great fisherman, St. Peter, Prince of the Apostles. A number of circumstances sufficiently important to be spoken of as events, were in order, and in all we had a share.

The annual picnic of the T.A.S., or Total Abstinence Society, which for some time has had a high place among the societies of the continent, the return from abroad of its director, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, and last, but by no means least, the confirming of over two hundred children by His Lordship the Bishop of the Diocese, were all things that occurred during our visit. Peterborough strikes one as clean, wholesome and thriving, with just enough of the stir of business to give it a prosperous appearance and just sufficient of the langourous life of the country town to harmonize with the summer season and make it an ideal spot for a summer outing. The Catholics of Peterborough make a fine showing in the matter of church property, their Cathedral with its auxiliaries occupying some of the finest sites in the city, while their interest in education is of the highest.

Confirmation at St. Peter's

On Sunday morning at 9 o'clock Mass the confirmation took place. This Mass is especially for the children, overcrowding by adults being prevented by a charge of ten cents made at the door, the extra charge merely acting as a reminder that adults are only allowed on sufferance. At the Confirmation Mass, however, a large number of the parents assisted.

His Lordship of Peterborough

Many old friends will be pleased to learn that His Lordship Bishop O'Connor never looked better than now, and it is hard to imagine him as even nearing the autumn tide of of life's cycle, the erect and alert figure, ruddy complexion and dark hair showing but little of the changes due to the passing of time. His Lordship's voice is if anything stronger than formerly, and the musically modulated words and tones when he addresses his people, have gained in force without losing anything in their power of pleasing. His exceptional executive ability in business matters have placed the temporal affairs of the diocese on a most comfortable and satisfactory footing, and this, with the lively interest he displays in everything that concerns his people, have won for him the generous and pronounced admiration of all over whom he has jurisdiction. His Lordship is unremitting in his attention to his affairs of his diocese, and the geniality, simplicity, grace and practical piety that made for him many years the ideal priest of Barrie, are still with him as he exercises the larger functions of his work as the venerated Chief Pastor of the progressive diocese of Peterborough.

St. Peter's School

In all probability Peterborough has the finest and best equipped Separate School in Ontario. For completeness we know of nothing like it in Toronto. We have, of course, larger schools, both Public and Separate, but for completeness of detail we have yet to meet its equal. The school occupies one of the three corners on which most of the ecclesiastical property stands. The ground had to be raised several feet, but it is now smooth and level and surrounded by an ornamental fence, the front being of iron. The building is of brick with high foundations of stone, and contains seven rooms, with cloakroom for each. The lighting is all from the left, the windows taking up the entire side. Wainscoting of Virginia maple is seen throughout, and above it slate blackboards run round three sides of the class-rooms. Rooms for the teachers, a small library, cupboards, nothing is lacking. Wide stairways running on two sides from the top storey to the bottom, together with the rooms in every room, make provision for fire. The large basement has concrete floors, and here the boys play in rainy weather. The heating, ventilation, plumbing and lighting are of the best, and the rows of taps and white basins show that cleanliness is part of the curriculum of the school. The top storey is a concert hall fitted up with box office and 600 opera chairs, with a stage upon which 200 children may be arranged, with drop-curtains and scenery, stationary piano, footlights and generou selectric lighting. In the front hall, with its wide stairway, a beautiful Union Jack floats, and here, too, a small organ is situated, to the sound of which the boys march to and from their classes. We had the honour of being shown through the building by His Lordship, who takes a just pride in the Cathedral school, as he does in all that pertains to the advancement of the children. Much more might be said, but even the foregoing will show that there are few schools that can compete with St. Peter's, Peterborough.

Dr. O'Brien's Return

Rev. Dr. O'Brien, who has been in Europe taking a few weeks' much needed rest, returned on Sunday morning in time for the great picnic of the T. A. S., which was held the next day. The time announced for the train was 5.30 a.m., and 40 of the stalwart men of the parish awaited his coming. The train was an hour late, meantime the welcome preparing was getting warmer and warmer, and when the loved doctor stepped to the platform he was greeted with such genuine feeling that he declared it to be the happiest moment of his experience since he left.

The T. A. S. is a telling power in Peterborough, its influence working throughout the community, and an intoxicated man is something seldom witnessed. "Our pledge is just against the first glass," said Dr. O'Brien; "that's enough."

Peterborough's Hospitality

Peterborough's hospitality is of the old-fashioned, warm-hearted order, which is generous and open-armed, and has not yet gone into the "cribbed, cabined and confined" atmosphere of pink teas and kindred functions. This was widely demonstrated at the picnic.

Reference is also made in the article to the other institutions of the Catholic Church in the city, Mount St. Joseph, St. Joseph's Hospital and the House of Providence. He also pays a tribute to the retired parish priest, Rev. Father Lynch, and a veteran school teacher, Mr. Sullivan.

A Bridge Construction That Rivals The Lift Lock

Mr. Allan McCarthy Tells of Enormous Structure at Parry Sound—Black Flies Make Difference of 50 Cents in Men's Wages.

SOME IMPRESSIONS GIVEN

Mr. Allan McCarthy of East City believes that the enormity of the Peterborough lift lock is overshadowed by the immense bridge that the C. P. R. is erecting over the prosperous town of Parry Sound. Mr. McCarthy returned on Tuesday evening from the Parry Sound district, after a week's absence in connection with his business of house-moving, and was greatly struck with the immensity of the big structure, which is now in the course of construction. The bridge, he says, is 2,307 feet long and 115 feet in altitude, and is an enormous undertaking. It is on the line of the C.P.R. to Sudbury from Toronto, and is the largest of 14 which the company is constructing in that distance. Only one-third of it has already been built, but it is expected that it will be completed by January 1, 1908. A number of Peterborough boys are working on it, and while there Mr. McCarthy met Mr. Jas. McGill, overseer of a construction gang, whom many here will remember.

The wages paid to labouring men in that district are enormous. Common labourers there receive as high as $3.30 per day, and at short distance outside the town, where the black flies and mosquitoes are rampant, they are getting as high as $3.80 a day.

In speaking of the ravages of the black flies, Mr. McCarthy stated that it was almost impossible to work where they abound. He told of a Toronto youth who went up to that district to work with a survey party, who was almost eaten alive with the ravenous insects. He had only been there a short time before his father had to be sent for to take him home. The back of his neck had been bitten so badly that he was unable to move his head.

To a distance of about 100 miles north of Toronto the crops were looking exceedingly well considering the lateness of the season. But from there north the destruction of the late frosts was quite noticeable, and in most cases the grains had scarcely risen above the ground. There were also heavy frosts in that vicinity last week.

Mr. McCarthy went up to Parry Sound for the purpose of fulfilling his contract in removing some houses from the site for the new C. P. R. station. He, however, found that the work would take about three months, which was much longer than he could spare from the duties he had at home, so he has sub-let the contract to a Toronto firm. While away he visited a number of towns and cities, and discovered that in no place was the work of house-moving done so cheaply as in Peterborough. The prices charged were invariably three times those charged in this city.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

EMERALD ISLE WELCOMES THE KING

Dublin Ablaze With Flags and Bunting.

SUSPICIOUS PERSON JAILED

Thousands Line the Streets and Cheer King Edward and Queen Alexandra —Police Have Difficulty in Protecting a Suspect From Vengeance of Excited Crowd—Arrested After Long Chase.

Dublin, July 11.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra, who arrived here from Kingstown yesterday afternoon, visited the exhibition.

Subsequently their Majesties passed in procession through the streets of Dublin to the viceregal lodge.

At Kingstown, where the royal yacht anchored in the harbor before daylight, the streets were bedecked with flags and triumphal arches. All the vessels were dressed with bunting and thousands of people poured into Kingstown from the country in order to witness the landing of their Majesties.

Suspect Arrested.

Holyhead, July 11.—Plain clothes officers who are accompanying King Edward and Queen Alexandra on their tour of Wales took a suspiciously acting individual into custody.

The man had hidden in the bushes alongside the approach to the residence of Sir Richard Bulkeley, just before the arrival of the King and Queen. As soon as he was discovered he made frantic efforts to escape, but was captured after a lively chase and lodged in jail.

The police had difficulty in protecting the prisoner from the vengeance of an excited crowd of people.

BOURASSA TALKS.

Says the Reports of His Political Movements Are Premature.

Montreal, July 11.—Henry Bourassa, M.P. for Labelle, being in the city yesterday, was asked what he had to say as to the truth of the rumors flying about touching his future political course.

"The news," he replied, "is, to say the least, premature. As a matter of fact, will we have a general provincial election this year? The present Legislature is only three years old and there is no reason, not even a constitutional pretext, to excuse a dissolution. The increase in the federal subsidy is an act of the Imperial Parliament, brought about by the wish of the Federal Parliament, so if the adoption of this measure necessitates or authorizes an appeal to the people it is London or Ottawa that should decree a dissolution. It would in fact be the height of absurdity to pretend that the Government of Quebec has the right to submit for the immediate approbation of the people of one province a modification of our federal charter, which equally concerns all the provinces which depends solely on the federal treasury, and for which the Federal Parliament is alone responsible."

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

Lightning Ignited Her Clothing, Her Body Badly Scorched.

Moncton, N.B., July 11.—During a severe electrical storm which swept this section Tuesday thirteen-year-old Mary Trites was killed by a bolt of lightning in her home, two miles from Painsec Junction. The child had gone upstairs in company with her little sister to lower a window, and had just placed her right hand on the sash when there came a terrific peal of thunder, followed by a vivid lightning flash. Almost instantly the clothing of the little girl sprang into a blaze, and she was hurled back against the foot of the bed which stood in the room. The other child, frightened by the thunder, threw herself on the floor and cried out to her mother. When the latter rushed upstairs she found the eldest child on the floor terribly burned and lifted her onto the bed, where she expired a few minutes later. Her arm and breast had been fearfully burned, and it is thought that her back was broken by the shock. The child was a daughter of George Trites, I. C. R. section foreman. The house was badly damaged by the bolt.

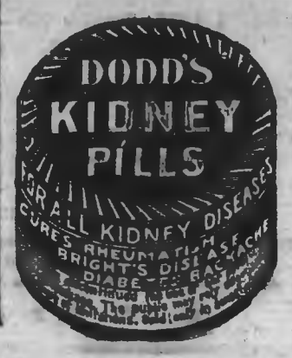
Gough, Strathroy; grand K. of R. and S., Alexander Coulter, Toronto; grand M. of E., John Burns, Hamilton; grand M.-at-Arms, F. B. Hubert, Brantford; grand inner guard, Thomas Manley, Sarnia; grand outer guard, H. J. Dilley, Toronto; supreme representative, W. C. Macdonald, Toronto.

Hamilton was chosen for the next place of meeting in July next.



THE DOMINION IS STILL GROWING

Census Figures Show Population Increase of Over 1,000,000.

STATISTICS FROM OTTAWA

Present Population Estimated at 6,500,000 — Unprecedented Development In All Lines of Industry In Last Six Years—Enormous Increase In Product of Larger Manufacturing Concerns.

Ottawa, July 11.—A bulletin issued by the Bureau of Census and Statistics showing the growth of Canada's manufacturing establishments during the past six years, and giving the comparative average production per establishment in 1901 and 1905. The various industries are divided into three groups: First, those with products of between $200,000 and $500,000 per establishments; second, those with products of between $200,000 and $1,000,000 per establishment, and third, those running over one million dollars per establishment.

Compared with the census of 1901, there were in the first class 178 works producing each $500,000 and over in 1905, as against 72 in 1900; in the second class there were 62 works producing $750,000 and over in 1905, as against 24 in 1900, and in the third class there were 17 works producing $2,500,000 and over, as against 6 in 1900. There were four works in 1905 producing each $5,000,000 and over, whereas not one factory had reached the amount in 1900.

The greatest volume of production by a single factory in 1905 was over $8,000,000, and the greatest in 1900 was under $4,500,000. The production of all works in the year 1900 was $481,053,371, and in 1905 it was $717,118,092.

In the third class there were four Canadian sugar refineries producing on the average $4,288,065 per annum, nine smelting establishments producing on the average $2,899,707, twelve slaughtering and meat packing establishments averaging $1,687,481, six flouring and grist mills averaging $3,318,242, four cotton mills averaging $1,715,333, and three agricultural implement works averaging $1,725,737.

All told, there were in 1905 eighty-one establishments with an annual production of over one million dollars each, as compared with thirty-nine in 1901.

Canada now has a population of over six and a half millions. The Department of Census and Statistics has found that on the first day of April, this year, the population of Canada was, as nearly as could be estimated, 6,504,900. This is a growth of population in six years, since the last decennial census, of 1,133,585. The total population in 1901 was 5,371,315. If the present rate of growth is maintained Canada will show a population of over seven and a half millions when the next census is taken.

Since April 1 the immigration has totalled over 100,000, so that the total population at the present date is in the neighborhood of $6,600,000.

TRACTION MERGER A TRUST.

Court Decides That Merger Is a Monopoly.

New York, July 11.—Judge George C. Holt, in the United States Circuit Court, Tuesday stamped the Ryan-Belmont traction merger a monopoly in violation of the corporation law of New York and paved the way for the dissolution of the iniquitous combine.

The decision is the most important in its bearing upon the local transit situation that has been rendered since Ryan and Belmont effected their notorious combine of all the transit facilities in Manhattan. It means that a battle royal must be fought for the control of the streets of New York, with the issue strongly and sharply drawn between competition and monopoly.

To Ryan and Belmont personally it means that they must vindicate their legal rights to the $108,000,000 of water which they pumped into the Interborough-Metropolitan Co. at the time of its formation as well as to the millions of profits of the combine which are to be realized in the future.

ENGINE BLEW UP.

Engineer and Fireman Blown Twenty Feet In the Air.

Montreal, July 11.—A freight engine of the Central Vermont blew up near St. Albans, smashing into a thousand pieces. Three men were seriously injured. It also smashed a number of loaded cars and tore up the track.

Driver James Scott and Fireman Robert Wood were hurled 20 feet away and terribly mutilated. Brakeman George Stanton was on top of the car next the engine. He was hurled through the air, lighting in the ditch, fracturing both arms.

The conductor was unhurt. He wired up and down the line of the wreck. Nothing was left of the engine at all.

STRIKE AT COBALT.

Detective Greer Sent Up With Force of Policemen.

Cobalt, July 11.—There is no change in the mining situation here.

It does not appear that to date any serious effort has been made to effect a settlement. The root of the matter is that the mine owners and mine managers will not give any recognition to the federation, though they will deal with the men as individuals.

Detective Greer and a posse of constables arrived to-day.

Union Men Strike.

London, July 11.—A strike of 16 iron moulders and coremakers occurred at the Labatt Manufacturing Company yesterday morning when a non-union man who had been employed at the McClary Manufacturing Company came into the works as an employe.

The police force were summoned to the scene, but the men quietly withdrew.

LAND PRICES HIGH.

Rates In the Northwest Reaching Prohibitive Point.

Ottawa, July 11.—Advices which have reached here are to the effect that the price of land in the Northwest has gone so high that intending investors from the United States have been driven back. This is laid at the door of the speculators, into whose hands much of the land has fallen.

It is claimed that the day of the bonafide colonist is just about done, so serious has the speculative system become, and that the development of the Northwest will be hampered, and the people discouraged by the operations of grafting financiers.

King's Physician Dead.

Trying To Rob Quinlan Of His Well Earned Record

Port Hope Guide Claims That Crawfordites Should Have Been Given Credit for Two Hits---Someone Had Evidently Been Enjoying a Sound Sleep During the Game

The fact that they were unable to get a hit off Quinlan on Saturday is evidently rankking in the minds of the Port Hope team. The Guide in referring to it says:—

"The above looks nice in print for Quinlan, but it will stand a number of corrections. Unfortunately the Port Hope scorer did not keep an account of the hits, but if our memory serves us correctly Port Hope had two hits. Thompson placed a slow one down third base line and it was cleanly fielded and he had no trouble in beating it out at first. Surphlis sent a hot one down to second base that was not touched by any of the fielders. The Peterborough scorer claimed that it should have been handled by the second baseman and consequently gave him an error and did not credit Surphlis with a hit. The second baseman, we are all aware, could have touched the ball, but it was travelling too fast to be handled by him, and in this case the batter is entitled to a hit."

In regard to the above paragraph anyone who saw Saturday's game and who knows anything about baseball will know that it is absolutely wrong. The Port Hope team did not get anything that looked like a hit and in their heart they know it too. In regard to the two cases referred to they can be easily explained. The Guide says that Thompson placed a slow one down the third baseline and it was cleanly fielded. Some one's eyes must be giving him trouble. The case referred to was an easy grounder to Haliburton on which Thompson should have been out a mile. Hal. came in on the ball and after getting his hand on it, fumbled the Spalding and allowed it to roll behind him. Of course Thompson had no trouble in beating it out. Neither would he have had if Hal. had thrown the ball over the grandstand. The other play on which Port Hope claims a hit was somewhat similar. Surphlis hit a grounder between first and second, which should have been easy for Burns. It was not coming any faster than a ordinary infield hit, and the local second baseman was right in front of it, but allowed the ball to go through his legs. Surphlis is the last man to want to claim a hit on the play and he certainly would have kicked if a hit had been chalked against him in a similar case.

There is no use of Port Hope trying to rob Quinlan of his record. He won it fairly and squarely, according to the rules of scoring and both players who made the errorrs on which Port Hope claim hits, are quite satisfied that they were misplays and that they should have had the ball. That the feat will stand as a record for a long time in the Midland League, is certain, and no squealing on the part of the Port Hope team will make the fans forget that they couldn't connect once safely with the ball on Saturday, July 6th.

PETERBOROUGHS LOST A HARD GAME

Defeated in Beaverton Yesterday After Leading in First Quarter

The Peterborough lacrosse team journeyed to Beaverton, and were defeated in a C.L.A. game yesterday afternoon by 15-6, in a hotly contested match. The score is no indication of the play as Peterborough made it warm for the homesters at all stages of the game. In fact during the first quarter they had all the best of the play, leading at the end of the period by 3 goals to 1, and the Beaverton pick-ups and their supporters were badly scared. The blue and white aggregation appeared to have the home team beaten and there was little over which Beaverton could enthuse during the first quarter.

Jack Kelly of Brantford, refereed the contest, and the locals state that he did not give them any the best of it. The total penalty time for Peterborough players was 145 minutes, which shows the disadvantages under which the Peterborough team was struggling, and that they were able to hold the score down as well as they did is a credit to the plucky manner in which they worked. At one period for ten minutes there were four Peterborough players on the fence and the other eight were holding off as best they could the attacks of the Beaverton twelve.

About one thousand persons saw the game, which was at stages very rough. Peterborough was without the services of several men, and the game they put up under the circumstances was a very creditable one, and the defeat is not of the kind to be ashamed of. Boyle and Robertson jumped into the game with almost no practice, and both played good games.

The Beaverton team was the same with one exception that defeated the locals here, Nick Carter of Sudbury replacing Tucker of Orillia. The new man played a fine game for the All-Stars.

The locals lined up as follows:
Goal, Backus.
Point, Boyle.
Cover point, Regan.
First defence, Derocher.
Second defence, McCabe.
Third defence, Meagher.
Centre, McGrath.
Third home, Judd.
Second home, McLean.
First home, McDonough.
Outside home, Robertson.
Inside home, Best.

BIG MATCH HERE ON SATURDAY

Newmarket Will be Here With a Strong Line-up

The Newmarket lacrosse team will be here with a big crowd of their supporters and their strongest line-up to meet Peterborough in a C. L. A. game Saturday. The contest should prove one of the best ever seen in this city. Both teams must win the game to have any chance, and lovers of lacrosse may depend upon seeing a rattling exhibition of the national game.

The lacrosse enthusiasts in Peterborough hardly realize that the local team is playing in faster company than ever before, and that the quality of lacrosse played in this district is of the highest, as some of the best men in the C.L.A. are figuring on the line-ups of the several teams.

BASEBALL

There will be doings in Frankford to-morrow when Frankford and Wellington meet in a baseball game over which there has been all kinds of excitement. Interest is at fever heat and it is said that all kinds of money will be wagered on the game. Three of the local ball team will take part in the game. Yebbie Flaherty and Harry Burridge will do the battery work for Frankford and Quinlan, with McDonald of Toronto doing the receiving, will be on the slab for Wellington. Each team will likely have several other imported players on the line-up.

The following players are asked to be on hand with their uniforms: Laing, Sullivan, Scrimshaw, Archibald, Dingman, Donaldson, C Fitzgerald, Caniff, Hamilton, Brodie, McFadden, Yates, Evans, Deforge, P. Miss Jean Davidson has returned to Toronto, after spending a pleasant month's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson, 690 George street.

Mr. J. W. Bennet, according to the Montreal Herald, is one of the Canadian visitors registered at the Canadian High Commissioner's office, 17 Victoria street, London.

Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs of Toronto, who are spending their vacation at their summer home, Chateau Du Lac, Stony Lake, were in the city to-day. Mrs. Stubbs has been successful in landing a very fine black bass 17 1-2 inches in length.

Mrs. M. Galvin, her daughter Laura, her father, Mr. Schaek of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. Vernon Schaek of Batavia, N.Y., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Duffus of Otonabee for two weeks. Before returning they will visit Stony Lake.

Mr. Maurice Saunders, accountant of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, has received instructions to report at the head office of the Bank, which means that he will probably be transferred to some other place. Mr. Saunders has made a host of friends since coming to Peterborough, who will regret to learn of his departure from the city.

When Your Health Fails, What Then

Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle. Success is for the strong and alert — for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy. It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion and to keep health at high water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

SMITH OCTOGENARIAN REMOVED BY DEATH

Andrew Young Passed Away at the Age of Eighty

Death removed this morning a Smith township octogenarian, who has been a respected resident there for three-quarters of a century, in the person of Mr. Andrew Young.

The deceased, whose home was on the 4th line of Smith, was a man esteemed not only in his native township, but in the city and throughout the county. His recent illness was but of a week's duration. He was brought to the Nicholls Hospital a few days ago and underwent an operation, but from which he was too aged and feeble to recover.

The late Mr. Young was born in England in 1827, and emigrated here in his youth with his parents. He has since lived in Smith where he met with good success in the pursuit of his occupation as a farmer, and where he has made a host of host of friends during his lengthy life.

Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Paul of Smith, and Mrs. McDonald, city, and one brother, Thos. Young of Smith. His sons are Thos. of Alexander, Man.; John, of Glengarry, Man.; and James on the homestead; and his daughters, Mrs John Archer, Smith; Mrs. Jas. Montgomery, Dundalk, and Misses Mary and Bessie at home.

The deceased was in religion a Baptist and a prominent member of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist church of Smith, and a staunch Liberal in politics.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

PRISONERS PROTEST INNOCENCE

A Few Notes on the Trial Held Yesterday Afternoon

After the preliminary hearing of the four men who were committed for trial yesterday on the charge of having taken $12.50 from Mr. Hurl of the Young's Point district, on circus day, a reporter chanced to snatch a minute's conversation with the four prisoners. They were in the south cell at the police station, and scarcely knew what to say about P. C. Newhall's evidence. Phelps spoke up and said, "Do you believe that story, Jack?" and when told that it seemed to be flawless Phelps and Bradford exclaimed "The whole story is a lie from beginning to end." They asked, "Does the judge and the people also believe that yarn?" the reporter replied that the officer's story would probably be generally accepted. The men protested that they were innocent, and would not give P. C. Newhall any credit for his work.

The men had their supper shortly after seven o'clock, being forced to eat with a spoon, the knives and forks being kept from them. They did ample justice to the ham and eggs and when told of the committal of two men in Toronto on a similar charge said "That has nothing to do with us, anyway."

In the court room Phelps listened to all the proceedings with rapt attention and showed interest in the evidence. He often interjected an exclamation of scorn as Officer Newhall told his story.

Bradford is perhaps the youngest of the four men and the best looking. The other two in appearance are typical Jews. Bradford reminds one of a young athlete, is clean shaven and is quite boyish in his appearance.

The article that Officer Newhall said that he saw Bradford throw away in the exhibition grounds is believed to be a purse. The constable said that it was found where he directed the men to search, and bears the inscription J. W. Burns. It contained photos of actresses, New York addresses, laundry bills, and a paper with a complete route of the circus, and the dates of the performances in the different cities. It has been widely advertised, but has not been claimed.

In his evidence P. C. Newhall said he found $38.50 on Lewis; $63 was found on Phelps; on Wednesday, the third of July Detective Anderson found a $50 bill secreted in the trousers of Phelps; Bradford yielded $44.06; Goldfard had four five dollar gold pieces hid on his person which he said that he had forgotten all about.

P. C. Newhall said during his evidence that he saw the men sitting on the cribwork at the corner of Lock and Crescent street in the afternoon of June 25th. Two empty pocket books were found by the officer at this point afterwards.

Mrs. Bradford, wife of one of the men, was present, and also the prisoner's mother. They remained at the court from 2 o'clock until 7, and endured the heat and oppressiveness of the room. They were interested in all the proceedings.

MR. DUMBLE HAS POOR OPINION OF FAST AUTOISTS

Inconsiderate, Vulgar and Ungentlemanly Said His Worship

Mr. Ozias de Leplante was charged with having driven his automobile on Charlotte street and George street at a speed greater than 10 miles an hour contrary to the bylaw, at the police court this morning.

P. C. McDonald testified that on July 3rd, about 10.30 p.m., Mr. Leplante's car came along at a rate of between 13 and 15 miles an hour, according to his opinion. He did not sound his "Honk! Honk!" but turned up George street with undiminished speed.

Mr. John McCann, inspector of the Street Railway Company, and Mr. F. R. J. MacPherson, gave evidence which went to show that the speed was not and could not have been greater than ten miles an hour.

His Worship did not convict Mr. Leplante, but said that he hoped it would be a warning to him to be more careful. The noise of his machine would lead one to believe that his auto was travelling at a great speed. Mr. Dumble said it was a sign of an inconsiderate, and vulgar person, to speed an auto on the public highways thereby terrorizing pedestrians and persons driving in carriages. The pedigree his Worship gave darling autoists was not very complimentary.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT AT SAW MILL

Young Son of Mr. Herbert Roseborough, Terribly Injured at Lakefield Mills

CRUSHED BY TRUCK

Master Sherman Roseborough, the 12-year-old son of Mr. Herbert Roseborough, of Smith, met with a terrible accident Thursday afternoon. The little fellow had come into the village with his father, and had gone down to the Cavendish Company's mill to watch the operations. He was standing beside the track of one of the carriages which conveys the logs to the band saw, and just before the carriage came to where he was standing he stepped on to the track, with the result that the end of the carriage caught his right leg and crushed it against the rail, taking a piece of the flesh right off the leg above the ankle. The other leg was also badly bruised.—Lakefield News.

RECORD SHIPMENT OF LUMBER

100,000 Feet on Two Scows Towed Down Stony Lake to Lakefield and Loaded on Cars

Last week Mr. S. L. Purdy of Cox Hill shipped two scowloads of lumber, the largest scow having 100,000 feet on board. The lumber, which was cut in Methuen township, was towed down from Stony Lake and loaded on cars here. We understand Mr. Purdy has limits in Chandos and Methuen townships on which there are over 2,000,000 feet of timber. He intends cutting it and shipping down this way.—Lakefield News.

ENJOYED SERMONS OF DR. LANGFELDT

Orillia Packet Pays Tribute to Pulpit Eloquence of Local Divine in That Town

The Orillia Packet, of this week says:—The Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, of Peterborough, preached two eloquent and impressive sermons in St. James' church on Sunday. His morning subject was the power of Christianity. He dwelt on the fascination which power had for men, and on the power the Gospel had shown by its influence on the history of the world and on the lives of men, and urged that Christians should so live as to display that power in its highest ofrm. In the evening he preached from the text, "Ye cannot serve two masters," and pointed out the hopelessness of the attempt to serve God and the world at the same time.

The Home-Coming Of Robt. Logie, A Pathetic Event

Large Crowd Gathered at Railway Station, to Meet Man Charged With Issuing Counterfeit Money.

HIGHLY RESPECTED FAMILY

Toronto Globe Special.

Lindsay, July 11.—Robert Logie, arrested in Toronto yesterday, and supposed to be connected with the gang of counterfeiters whose rounding-up last Tuesday caused a widespread sensation, arrived here this evening at 10.25 in charge of Detective Parkinson and a Toronto officer. A large crowd, principally of the Hoodlum element, greeted Logie on his stepping from the car. Logie, never jaunty, looked jaded and crestfallen on seeing a number of his old friends. The officers hustled him through the crowds to a carriage and drove off rapidly to the county jail. The Logies come from a family of some distinction. Col. Sands, his grandfather, belonged to the British army and resided in Lindsay during the sixties. Robert's father served in the American army and died in Lindsay some years ago. His mother was a lady of culture and education and highly respected in this vicinity. Her death occurred in March last at an advanced age. Robert and his brother have occupied the beautiful homestead and farm on the east side of the river, the property being the most commanding and desirable of any in this vicinity. They are considered to be in affluent circumstances, and much surprise is expressed that one of them should become connected with the serious charges preferred. The house was searched today by the police, but it is not known whether or not anything of an incriminating nature was found.

Logie will likely come up before the Magistrate for a hearing tomorrow.

Ratepayers Declare Themselves For A Progressive Policy

By-law to Secure New Mills of Colonial Weaving Company Carried by Majority of 211 by Ratepayers Yesterday.

LIGHT VOTE WAS POLLED

By their votes yesterday the ratepayers of the city decided in favour of a policy of building up the industries of Peterborough. The bylaw providing for the purchase of a site for the mill of the Colonial Weaving Company, and to fix the assessment of the property at $3,500 was carried by a substantial majority of the ratepayers who voted, the total vote, however, being small. It is difficult to secure a heavy vote on a bylaw of this nature without the added incentive of a personal contest to induce the voters to turn out, and the proportion of the ratepayers in favour of the passing of the bylaw, as indicated by the voting of yesterday is quite satisfactory to those who are anxious to establish in the city an industry which promises to develop into a most important one.

In every polling subdivision in the city a majority in favour of the by-Law was recorded, the total majority in favour of its passage in the eleven polling subdivisions being 211.

The total vote in favour of the by-law was 353, while those opposed were 142.

The ratification of the Legislature will be necessary before the bylaw can be acted upon, and at the next session of that body a bill will be introduced ratifying the bylaw, and it is not anticipated that there will be any difficulty in securing the necessary consent of the Legislature.

The details of the vote in the eleven polling subdivisions in the city are as follows:—

	For.	A'nst.	Maj.
Sub. Div. No. 1	28	14	14
" " 2... ...	28	16	12

To Commence Work

An officer of the Company to-day informed the Examiner that as soon as tenders could be called on the plans and specifications which will be prepared at once, the construction of the new buildings will be proceeded with.

The business of the Company is increasing so rapidly that it has become necessary to provide for an increased output at once, and this will be given in the new building.

Indians Maiden's Pendant Found On Charlotte Street

Given to Historical Society—Had Lain in Soil for Over 300 Years Enshrouded in Interesting Tale.

SOME ANTIQUE PICTURES

The Peterborough Historical Society wishes to acknowledge some contributions of an interesting character from two citizens for exhibition at the Victoria Museum. One of them in particular, an Indian pendant, which was found in the soil in front of the Snowden House on Charlotte street by Mr. "Kit" Rutherford last year is enshrouded in an interesting tale of the customs of the aboriginal men.

The pendant is of brown stone and was found in about 8 feet of soil of recently undisturbed strata, demonstrating that it had lain there for more than 300 years, before discovered by Mr. Rutherford. It is about three inches in length and a little over an inch in breadth with a small hole through it at the top. Authentic history shows that these pendants were worn in the ages of the past by the Indian women and maidens. In early infancy the lower lip of the babe was pierced by a fine needle and a little wooden peg placed in the hole to prevent the wound from healing. This was left in the lip of the girl for a number of years and then gradually replaced by a larger one so that the hole would be enlarged. About the age of twelve years the pendant was added, first one of a small variety and gradually enlarged according to the social standing of the wearer, and upon this the size of the pendant totally depended.

The other collections referred to, are a number of antique portraits of members of the Royal family, presented by Mrs. Frederick Mitchell, which are also of great historical value. One is of the late Queen Victoria when she was a Princess, one of her consort, Prince Albert and a third of Lord Palmerston. The frames are of solid mahogany and certainly are works of art. Two are pictures of the royal palaces of the late Queen, one of them being Windsor Castle. They are of a different type from the others and are probably more antique. The prints are very rare and are certainly worth the trouble of going up to the museum to witness.

PROPOSAL TO CHANGE THE HOLIDAY

Want Thanksgiving Day on Monday Instead of on Thursday in Future

It is understood that representations are being made to the Government with a view of having the day on which the national holiday of Thanksgiving is celebrated, changed from Thursday to Monday. It is pointed out that the public generally would much prefer to have the holiday fixed for the second day in the week, instead of breaking it in the middle, as is done when it is held on Thursday. Some opposition to the change is developing, chiefly from the railways, it is said.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE PICNIC

Annual Outing Under Auspices of Peterborough Printers, Arranged for Civic Holiday, Aug. 12th

Last night a meeting of the committee in charge of the annual Printers' Picnic was held, when final arrangements were made for this event, which promises to be the most successful in the history of that function. It will be held on Civic Holiday, August 12th, to Idyl Wyld, the steamer Otonabee having been engaged for the day. In view of the fact that no excursions out of the city will be run that day on the railways there should be a record crowd on the Printers' Picnic. A good list of prizes for races etc., has been prepared, and music will be provided for both trips on the steamer and at the Island, so that the day promises to be one of unalloyed pleasure. The committee is working energetically to secure the success of the event, and efforts in the past give every reason to believe that they will not be disappointed.

WILL PUT STOP TO THE PRACTICE

Of Stealing Bicycles From Doorways and Leaving Them in Unfrequented Places

The bicycle, reference to the theft of which from a house on Bolivar street, was made yesterday, has been recovered. It was taken, presumably by the one who stole it from the doorway, to a point near the boundary road and left there. The fact that a large number of wheels have disappeared in a similar manner from that particular section of the city, leads to the belief that there is some person living there who has a mania for taking wheels and leaving them on the roadside.

The practice is very annoying to the ones unfortunate enough to have their property taken, and there is always the probability, of course, that the wheels may not be recovered or that they will be destroyed. The police will in all probability make an example of the one caught in this practice.

A SOCIAL EVENING AT KNOX CHURCH

Enjoyable Programme Was Given by Young People of That Church —Opening of Tennis Courts

The official opening of the new tennis courts adjoining Knox church was announced for last night but the weather interfered with the programme to a certain extent. In spite of the disagreeable climatic conditions, a pleasant evening was spent in the church, where a social evening was given. There was, considering the weather, a splendid attendance. A good programme was given, and refreshments were served by the young people of the congregation.

The pastor, Rev. H. J. Keith, occupied the chair and announced the following programme:

Piano solo, Mr. Davenport.
Vocal solo, "Irish Folk Song," Mrs. Keith.
Solo, "Annie Laurie," Mr. Robt. Burns.
Piano solo, Miss Geraldine Byers.
Vocal solo, "Not the House that Makes the Home," Miss Carr.
Solo, "Will you Come to my House?" Miss Winnie Anderson.
Recitation, "To-morrow," Mr. D. Campbell.
Recitation, "Mistakes," Miss Clifford.
Solo, "Beware," Mr. Campbell.

Miss Winnie Anderson acted in a most efficient manner as the accompanist of the evening.

If the weather permits the opening of the tennis courts will take place to-night.

THE ALL-RED LINE

Now that the British Government shows some inclination to appreciate the importance and assisting the project to establish a fast passenger and mail service between Great Britain and Australia and Great Britain and China and Japan via Canada, and there is a prospect of Sir Wilfrid Laurier returning to Canada with a substantial subsidy assured for this great Imperial project, it may be interesting to recall that the idea was first mooted by the late Hon. Joseph Howe, the famous statesman of Nova Scotia.

We are all familiar with the fact that, as far back as 1851, Joseph Howe prophesied that persons then within the sound of his voice would live to hear the screech of the railway whistle within the passes of the Canadian Rockies; but it is not so well known that, in the year 1838, Mr. Howe foresaw the possibilities which lay before Canada as a means of inter-communication between the Mother Country and the Antipodes on the one hand, and with the Orient on the other. Letters written during his visit to England in that year show that he foresaw the triumph of steam navigation at a time when very few experts believed that the position of the "wind-jammer" on the high seas was seriously threatened.

"The successful voyage made to and from England and New York," he said in a letter to Lord Glenelg (reproduced in the Hon. Judge Longley's volume upon Joseph Howe in Morang's series of The Makers of Canada), "have solved the problem of the practicability of steam navigation across the Atlantic, and rendered a revision of the system of packet communication between Great Britain and her North American possessions extremely desirable, if not a measure of absolute necessity." Proceeding, he said: "If Great Britain is to maintain her footing on the North American continent she must, at any hazard, at even increased expenditure for a time, establish such a line of rapid communication by steam as will ensure the speedy transmission of public despatches commercial correspondence, and general information through channels exclusively British, and inferior to none in security and expedition. If this is not done the British population on both sides of the Atlantic are to receive, through foreign channels, intelligence of much that occurs in the Mother Country and the Colonies. . . . Much evil has already arisen from the conveyance of intelligence by third parties not always friendly or impartial. . . . The pride, as well as the interests of the British people would seem to require means of communication with each other second to none which are enjoyed by other States."

These words, with some additions and modifications, could very well be used by the advocates of joint support by the British, the Canadian and the Australian Governments to the project which is now becoming a matter of practical politics. But as has been pointed out, it is well to remember, when the Conservatives of this country, and especially Sir Charles Tupper, claim that the All-Red project is merely the Tupper fast Atlantic service in another form, that conditions are very different now from what they were when the Conservatives went out of office in 1896. Then the trade of the Dominion was stagnant and such a line would have had to be State-supported for many years, while now commerce is expanding at an enormous rate and such a service will start with an assurance of profitable business from the outset.

It is known that the experts of the various postoffice departments interested are of the opinion that if such a service is established it must, to be successful, have its all-the-year-round mail terminus at Halifax, so that when the new steamers enter that magnificent harbour, as they probably will before many years have passed, the people of Nova Scotia will have reason to again remember "Joe" Howe, as well as to thank William S. Fielding for his share in securing Empire recognition of the value of Halifax as a mail port.—Ottawa Free Press.

SWITCH IN THE PARK WILL BE CHANGED

Property Committee Decide to Put It Inside the Court House

At the meeting of the Property Committee last night it was decided to change the location of the switch operating the lights in Victoria Park. The police have been turning the lights on and off as required, but mischievous boys have meddled with the switch after the departure of the limb of the law with the result that often there was no light at night and in the day time all the lamps in the park were burning.

The Property Committee decided to place the switch in the corridor of the Court House, where it could not be reached by prankesome boys.

MERELY A PUDDLE, NOT A SWIMMING BATH

Citizen Enquires About Condition at Corner of George and Brock Streets

A citizen inquired of the Examiner this afternoon if the swimming pond at the corner of Brock and George streets is a public institution or is being conducted by private enterprize. The reporter was nonplussed by the question, but it transpired that the citizen was referring to the big puddle of water that has extended on the pavement there for the last couple of days. He suggested that a life saving crew be employed in the neighbourhood, saying that someone would surely get drowned there.

RURAL SCHOOLS.

Dr. Robertson Deplores Disgraceful Manner In Which They Are Kept.

Toronto, July 12.—At the Dominion Educational Association, in convocation hall, the speakers were Principal Robertson of Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue and Rev. J. A. Macdonald.

Principal Robertson of Macdonald College, Guelph, delivered a strong address on "The Training for Rural Schools." He dealt with education as the development of life. Life was a series of experiences and experiments. The school system was totally inadequate for rural sections. There were special problems in Canada to be met—problems due to our youth; problems due to our size; problems due to our wealth, for Canada is a wealthy country; problems due to the foreign immigrants being poured into our citizenship — new blood and ideals. The duty of the people to the rural youth was to increase the body of education and to make the availability by education easier.

Principal Robertson touched on the disgraceful manner in which rural schools were kept. The outbuildings were fearful and should be remedied.

Deputy Minister of Education, A. H. N. Colquhoun in a speech advised changing the name of the university to "Ontario" instead of Toronto, and urged that the chairs be kept free from politics.

CASSIE CHADWICK'S CASE.

Appeal to Be Made to Courts to Set Her Free.

Columbus, Ohio, July 12.—The attorney for Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick has announced his intention of procuring from the Attorney-General of the United States his opinion whether Mrs. Chadwick is eligible to parole under the rules of the Ohio State Prison, to which she was sentenced. It has been supposed that Federal prisoners confined here were not eligible to such release, and it has never been attempted, but Judge Taylor of the Federal Court at Cleveland held in a case last week that Federal prisoners committed to state institutions are subject to all conditions of such prisons.

Mrs. Chadwick has been in prison two years and six months. When she has served three years and two months, the shortest sentence prescribed by law for the crime of which she was convicted, she will be eligible to parole if the Attorney-General holds she comes under parole rules.

APPOINTMENT TO 'VARSITY.

Biology Instructor, Lecturer In History and Superintendent Chosen.

Toronto, July 12.—At a meeting of the board of governors of the University of Toronto yesterday afternoon, Graham Campbell, son of A. H. Campbell, Toronto, was appointed superintendent of buildings and grounds. Mr. Campbell is a graduate of the university. There were over 80 applicants for the position.

Dr. A. G. Huntsman was appointed instructor in biology for the next session.

It was announced that Keith Grahame Fieling, B.A., fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford, had accepted appointment as lecturer in the department of modern history for one year. Mr. Fisling made an unusually brilliant record at Oxford.

A WOMAN'S ORDEAL

DREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS

Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free.

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private ills, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than to submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female disease.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise sick women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Delle. Emerentienne Montreuil, of 114 Latourelle St., Quebec, Que.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered for eight months with what the doctors called prolapsus, which caused great weakness all over my system, with faint dizzy spells. I kept growing weaker and weaker. I tried several medicines which they claimed would cure my trouble, but nothing was of the least benefit until I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and this helped me so rapidly that I could hardly believe my good fortune. I would gladly have paid $25.00 for that first bottle, for it started me on the road to health, and five bottles cured me. I am most grateful for my splendid, robust health, and shall certainly recommend the Vegetable Compound in glowing terms to all my friends and acquaintances, for it is deserving of all the praise I can give it."

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

WANTS CANADA TO CONTRIBUTE

To the Defence of the Empire—Navy League, Toronto Branch, Has Plan for Canada's Future Action

A RESOLUTION PASSED

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Toronto branch of the Navy League, at which His Worship Emerson Coatsworth, Mayor of Toronto (in the absence of the president) took the chair, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"That the Executive Committee of the Navy League, Toronto branch, desires to place on record its regret at the position taken by Canada at the late Colonial Conference which prevented the passing of the following resolution, which was proposed by the Hon. Dr. Smart, Commissioner of Public Works, Ceylon:—That this Conference, recognizing the vast importance of the services rendered by the navy to the defence of the Empire and the protection of its trade, and the paramount importance of continuing to maintain the navy in the highest possible state of efficiency, considers it to be the duty of the Dominions beyond the seas to make such contribution towards the upkeep of the navy as may be determined by their local legislatures — the contribution to take the form of a grant of money, the establishment of local naval defence, or such other services, in such manner as may be decided upon after consultation with the Admiralty and as would best accord with their varying circumstances.' And to express the opinion that the request made by Canada to Great Britain to support the All-Red steamship lines (a project first advocated by this branch in a memorial to the Canadian Government in 1896) would be more consistent if accompanied, as originally suggested by this branch, by an offer of some adequate preparation on the part of Canada to assist in the protection of her own ocean-borne commerce, of which upwards of two hundred millions of dollars in value (exclusive of Canadian shipping) is yearly exposed to the risk of war on the high seas.

"And, further, that this Executive Committee looks forward with confidence to the establishment in Canada of a system of local naval defence, to co-operate with the Royal navy, on the lines indicated by the first lord of the Admiralty at the Colonial Conference, and assented to by the Premiers of the self-governing colonies other than Canada."

INTERESTING ADDRESS BY MR. TURNER

At the meeting in the Gospel Hall last night, Mr. Turner, of Virginia, spoke on the Book of Revelation. The address was listened to with wrapt attention by a goodly number. To Keep the Skin in Health

AVOID PORE-CLOGGING POWDERS AND CURE ALL SKIN IRRITATIONS AND ERUPTIONS WITH

Dr. Chase's Ointment

It is quite possible that, while you know of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema psoriasis and the most severe forms of itching skin disease, you may have overlooked its value as a beautifier of the skin.

There are minor forms of skin trouble, such as rough, red, skin, chafing, chapping, pimples, blackheads, blotches, irritation, or poisoning from the clothing, etc., which disfigure and form a starting point for serious trouble.

A few applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment at such times not only remove these blemishes, but also restore the health and beauty of the skin, and positively prevent further development.

Miss C. Stanley-Jones, professional masseuse and nurse, 243 Simcoe street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "In my occupation as a nurse I have come across many cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used with extraordinary results. One case I recall was that of a child of sixteen months, who was in a bad way with scaly head. It was a really nasty case, causing the child to suffer very much and to be very troublesome. I persuaded the mother to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in ten days the child was entirely cured.

"Another case was that of a lady who was greatly troubled with eczema on the face. The doctor was dosing her with medicine, which was doing no good. In this case cure was effected in seven days with only one box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Both of these cures were lasting."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is delightfully pure and creamy, is pleasant to use, and is rapidly absorbed. It acts as a food for the skin, making it soft, smooth and velvety. By its soothing, antiseptic and healing properties it allays inflammation, relieves itching, and heals sores, wounds and ulcers; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 9

ANOTHER ENGINE FOR POWER HOUSE

Report to This Effect From Lindsay —Water Commissioners of That Town Tell of Visit Here

A MAGNIFICENT PLANT

The Lindsay Watchman-Warder, in its last issue, contains a reference to the recent visit of the Water Commissioners of that town to Peterborough. The paper says, in part:—

"They were given a most hearty welcome and were splendidly received and well entertained. They have only the kindest words for the Peterborough Water Commissioners, who not only gave every possible assistance in the securing of useful information, but also did much to make the stay of the Lindsay representatives in Peterborough a pleasant one.

"The visitors were given a view of the city with its many fine residences and public buildings. A trip was also made to the power house and plant of the Water Commission of the city. This is located about a mile and a half west of Peterborough, on the Otonabee River. Like Lindsay's plant, it was first erected and operated by a private company, but later was taken over by the corporation.

The Peterborough Plant.

"The power house is very complete in every detail. There are three engines, each with three cylinderas, to force the water to the mains. Water is sent to all parts of the city by direct pressure, no standpipe being used. All the power for the driving of the engines and the other operations necessary is secured from the dam erected by the private company that commenced the enterprise. This means much to the city as it causes a great saving in expenditure for fuel, etc., such as Lindsay has to make for the operations of its plant. As a consequence of this saving in expense, Peterborough citizens enjoy a cheap water rate for the service given. In addition to the three engines now in use, it is the expressed intention of the Peterborough Commission to install a fourth engine this Fall."

Commissioner of Highways Sees Time When They Will Come Into Common Use—Report on Road Improvements

In his annual report on highway improvement in the Province, a copy of which has been received at this office, Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Public Works, emphasizes the necessity of efficient methods in the construction of roads. The outlay on country roads in the Province during the ten years, 1896-1905, represents, he says, a value of $21,000,000, made up of a cash expenditure of $10,432,902, and 10,510,900 days of statute labour. Expenditures on town and city streets represent a large additional amount. During the period 1903-1906 there was expended on the county roads of Lennox and Addington, Middlesex, Peel, Lincoln, Oxford, Wellington, Hastings, Lanark, Wentworth and Simcoe counties, under the Good Roads Act, an aggregate of $887,282, of which $260,444 was spent in 1906. Of the aggregate, the Government's contribution was $295,751, and the miles of road improved totalled 2,076. In a reference to the growing use of automobiles on the roads, and the antagonistic feeling existing thereto in some rural localities, Mr. Campbell foresees the time when teams will pass, and the automobile will come into common use.

Architects To Be Asked To Submit Designs

For the New Public Library Building Was Discussed by Property Committee Last Night---May Visit Other Places in Order to Get Information About Building

A meeting of the Property Committee of the City Council was held last night for the purpose of considering the best way to make use of the property on Simcoe street, offered to the city by the executors of the Nicholls Estate for use as a public library building. Of course, it was not possible to do very much at the first meeting, as the question is a very big one and will require careful consideration before definite action is taken. It was, however, decided to ask the local architects and outside architects as well to submit designs for the alterations necessary in the building, as well as an estimate of the cost, the understanding being that only the design accepted will be paid for.

There were present at last night's meeting, Ald. McIntyre, chairman, the Mayor, Ald. Elliott, Stevenson and Morgan.

The chairman, in introducing the matter, said that Mr. Hall had stated that he wanted the Council to take out the front of the building as far as the second storey, so as to take away the appearance of a store from the building, and substitute a front worthy of such a building.

The chairman had photographs and plans of several public libraries in Ontario, including those in Lindsay, Paris and Ottawa, and these were looked over by the committee. It was found that not much inspiration could be gained from them.

The Mayor suggested that in altering the building the front might be moved back and a number of pillars employed, which he thought would add greatly to the appearance of the building.

Ald. Stevenson said that the Council had to decide whether the library should be a public library, in which the privileges would be free, or else run as a Mechanics' Institute, as the present one is.

The question was not discussed at any length last night, although the committee were of the opinion that it was very important. The feeling among the aldermen seemed to be that the library should be free, if that were at all possible. The question will have to be taken up later. The committee decided that the first step to carry out was the securing of an architect to prepare the plans for the building. There was considerable discussion over this point.

Ald. Morgan moved, seconded by the Mayor, that the local architects be invited to submit designs for fitting up the public library building with an estimate of the cost, on the understanding that no design be paid for unless accepted, and that the City Clerk be instructed to write outside architects, to invite designs and estimates from them, designs to be submitted before August 15.—Carried.

It was moved by the Mayor that the Public Library Board be requested to name a small committee to confer with the Property Committee in reference to the public library. This was seconded by Ald. Elliott, and was carried.

The Mayor moved that the committee be given authority to send a deputation to view libraries in other places, if it is deemed advisable. Ald. Elliott seconded the motion, which was carried.

Ald. Elliott stated that if anything was to be done in connection with the market scales the work should be done now, so as not to interfere with operations in the busy season.

The chairman was authorized to see that the work ordered to be done was carried out.

Mars Comes Close To The Earth; 37,000,000 Miles Off

May be Seen in South Eastern Sky During Evenings — 15 Years Since Planet Was as Near the Earth.

GOOD VIEW TO-NIGHT

During the last few weeks a number of persons have noticed a bright heavenly body in the south-eastern sky, about ten o'clock each night, and its peculiar brightness has attracted considerable attention. It has been ascertained upon inquiry of the local astronomer, Rev. Dr. Marsh, that it is the planet Mars, and that its brightness is due to the fact that it is quite close (astronomically speaking) to the earth. In round numbers it is but 37,800,000 miles distant from the earth, whereas the average distance of this body at opposition, is 48,600,000 miles. It is still a good distance off it is nearer by about 11,000,000 miles than the average.

To-night Mars will be directly south of Peterborough at 11.45, and at that hour will have an elevation at that hour will have an elevation of 17 degrees and 17 minutes at the apparent horizon. The great telescopes of the world will be trained on this planet to-night, when the best opportunity for viewing it will be afforded.

Rev. Dr. Marsh has been observing Mars during his five inch telescope during the last few weeks, and has made outlines of the markings on its face. If the sky is clear to-night he intends to make a drawing of the body as it appears in his telescope.

The favourable conjunction of this panet occurs at intervals of 15 or 17 years, the last one having been in 1892.

Over 700 Orangemen Went To Millbrook From Here

To Celebrate the 217th Anniversary of Battle of the Boyne—Big Procession Down George Stree From McDonnel Street.

BIG DAY FOR MILLBROOK

Despite the threatening clouds of early morning which appeared to portend a rainy day, hundreds of Orangemen gathered on the streets of the city prior to their departure for Millbrook shortly after 10 o'clock. The rain seemed to be no detriment to the enthusiastic wearers of the orange and crimson, and more than 700 followers of the Order entrained at the Grand Trunk station for the village to the south, which to-day will literally be alive with Orangemen.

When the gombre clouds rolled away many pleasant smiles lit up the faces of the hundreds on the streets and it was with glad hearts that they left Peterborough on the morning of the glorious Twelfth to celebrate the 217th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

Most of the lodges congregated at the Orange Hall, Simcoe street, and marched to the corner of McDonel and Bathurst streets, where they greeted their brethren from the Nassau and the two Lakefield lodges who had come in on the Lakefield train. The parade down through the city was a large one, and it every district sends as many as Peterborough, the village of Millbrook will be inadequate to accommodate them all.

The parade, so far as the city lodges were concerned, was headed by the 57th Regiment Band, which accompanied them to Millbrook. The Prentice Boys followed, with the True Blue Lodge coming third and the Young Britons fourth. Following these were the J. W. Bell Memorial L O L No. 1157, and L O L No. 80. Col. Saunderson's Lodge No. 321,

W. H. G. ARMSTRONG
County Master of Orange Lodges, who led parade this morning

Downer's Corners, marched from the lodge room and joined the procession at McDonel street. The Nassau Fife and Drum Band and the Lakefield Brass and Fife and Drum Bands also accompanied their respective lodges.

On their return this evening the lodges will parade from the station to McDonel street, where the Nassau and Lakefield lodges will entrain for home.

The parade this morning was led by Bro. W. H. G. Armstrong, County Master.

Havelock village was also a great attraction for the Orangemen, most of whom went from the eastern parts of the county and from Hastings and Northumberland counties.

JUVENILES APPEARED AT POLICE COURT

Another Example of the Lawlessness That Abounds Among Younger Element—A Change Needed

BOYS STOLE FRUIT

Yesterday afternoon saw another special session of the police court, on this occasion to deal with juvenile law-breakers.

The first lad to be dealt with was Willie Sullivan, who was arraigned on the charge of having stolen a bicycle, the property of Mr. Richard Hall, on Friday evening of last week. Wilfrid Hall was the first witness and his evidence was to the effect that at 8.45 on the evening in question, he left his wheel at the officers' entrance to the drill shed, and on going to get it five minutes later it was gone. Its loss was reported to the chief, and the wheel was returned to witness on Saturday morning.

Charlie Burgoyne stated that he was on his way home at 9.30 that night after fishing and saw Sullivan with a bicycle at the C. P. R. station. The latter said that he gave young Hall three dollars for it. Witness asked for the lend of the wheel while he took his fishing tackle home and Sullivan gave it to him. He returned to the station and both the boys went up town to the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets. Witness said that P. C. McDonald came along later and asked about a wheel, and he told the officer all about it. They both went to Sullivan's home, but he was out.

P. C. McDonald stated in evidence that when he met Sullivan a little later he denied all knowledge of the wheel, but soon was led to see differently, and took witness to the south side of the drill shed where it was standing against the wall. Burgoyne and Sullivan are playmates.

His Worship said that the case was a serous one as many reports have been sent in about bicycles being missed, stolen, etc., and it was about time that the epidemic was stamped out. It was the fruit of bad training, he continued, bad education, bad life, and pampered selfishness. It showed a total disregard for the difference between mine and thine. It leads to worse crimes, and if unchecked will mean the ruin of the boy.

Mr. Dumble severely reprimanded young Sullivan, and allowed him to go but on suspended sentence. Mr. Goodwill, representing the Children's Aid Society, suggested that the boy be flogged by the mother or by one of the policemen, with her consent, but the Magistrate refused.

Boys Stole Fruit

Keher Galvin, George Ahearn, Bennie Conroy and Eddie Hargrove, were charged with having stolen fruit from Longo, the Hunter street fruit dealer's rig, a few days ago. Frank, the shortest of the Longos, a lad of about 14 years of age, was sworn and said that Galvin and Ahearn had not stolen any fruit, and as those two boys had pleaded not guilty they were discharged by the magistrate, who said that he was proud to think that they had not been guilty of the crime.

Hargrove and Conroy pleaded guilty, but young Longo's evidence in regard to the matter was taken. He said that the four boys followed the rig on Cedar street. Witness drove the horse while an older partner of the firm sold the "bananas." While the man was in a house the boys came up to a rig and asked for an orange. Witness said he gave Ahearn and Galvin a banana and an orange each; but the other two boys exclaimed "If you don't we will punch you," or something to that effect, and therewith snatched two oranges and ran down the street.

Young Hargrove went into the witness box and said that no threats were made to the boy, but that he and Conroy took an extra orange, and on the next street grabbed an orange each. His Worship was very indignant with the two boys for their conduct, but in a rather hopeless manner, said, "It is just another example of the lawlessness that prevails among the younger element in the city.

Mr. Goodwill called attention to the number of juvenile cases of petty thefts that have been committed during the past two weeks, and said there was a crying need for immediate action. He thought that the boys or parents should be held responsible and punishment inflicted as an example. He was very indignant that the parents of none of the four boys were in court, showwhat little interest they took in their sons' welfare. Magistrate Dumble imposed a fine of $2 on each of the two boys, and said that they would be detained in the cells at the police station until the money was forthcoming. Mr. Goodwill objected to placing the boys in the cells because they would lose all fear of gaol in the future.

The boys were very repentent when these strict measures were carried out, but it was then too late.

New Shelter Building For Children's Aid Society

Meeting of Officers Will be Held in Few Days to Consider the Situation—The Proposals.

CO-OPERATION IS DESIRED

The gift of $1,000 from the trustees of the Nicholls Estate to the Children's Aid Society will come at a particularly opportune time, because just now the officers are brought face to face with a serious problem—that of providing a new shelter. The owner of the present shelter is offering the building for sale, and the price put upon it makes its purchase by the Society impracticable, though for other purposes it might be worth all that is being asked for it.

A meeting of the officers and the Board of Managers of the Society will be held on Wednesday afternoon next, when the question will be given consideration. At the present time there are only two boys in the shelter, but the intention of the Society, it is understood, is to build or buy one with accommodation for about ten, and the desire is to establish a shelter in which the two classes of inmates can be cared for—the waifs and the incorrigibles, the two sections which the Society tries to help.

Since the care of the children is a matter in which every citizen should take a deep interest, it is hoped that the officers of the Society will be given the hearty co-operations of the citizens, and suggestions as to the solution of the problem now engaging their attention will be welcomed.

It is probable that property with some quantity of land attached will be secured, and boys who prove unmanageable will be committed to the shelter for a few weeks and put to work, in the hope that this course will prove beneficial to their morals.

The gift from the Nicholls Estate will prove of material assistance in procuring suitable quarters for the wards of the Society.

Popular Cure For Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in loosening the cough, clearing the air passages, and soothing the excited nerves. ADVISES ACCEPTANCE OF OFFER OF MR. McNAMARA

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Mr. McNamara, the well known contractor, has made a splendid offer to the city of a large block of land, two and a half miles south of the C.G.E. Works, and like them, situated between two railways. Mr. McNamara's object no doubt is to make a profit out of the remaining land. But we need not go so far as to look the gift horse in the mouth, for a present to the city of a large, level piece of land in every way suitable for manufactories is worth accepting without delay. The land in question is part of lots 9 in the 9th, and 9 in the 10th, of North Monaghan. These lots run back from the river, by which their fronts are broken, about a mile to a mile and a half. Originally they belonged to Dr. Kinoaid, but they were purchased a few years ago by the present owner, who looks to the expansion of the city in that direction. Lots now outside the city boundary in North Monaghan sell for $300 a fifty-foot lot, and if Peterborough increases in the next five years to the same extent, and in the same direction that she has increased the past five years, lots on McNamara's 24-acre farm will fetch that price also. Electric power is now easily carried, but as a matter of fact it is a shorter distance from the Cereal dam and the Looks dam to McNamara's farm by at least a mile than from the Nassau power house to the C.G.E. Twenty thousand of a population is not too much to look forward to even in three years if our Mayor and Council continue energetically their beginning in the acquirement of power. There is no better site in Ontario than McNamara's land, with the T.V.O. and two rival railways alongside. It was less than that that brought the C.G.E. and Cereal Works here. Let us accept a generous offer with gratitude.

Yours truly,

"TAXPAYER."

WEDDING BELLS.

HOY-JONES

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the George Street Methodist Church parsonage this morning, when Mr. George Wesley Hoy of the village of Kendal was united in marriage to Miss Eva Jones of Hope township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson. The young couple were unattended.

SMITH-FAWCETT

Knox Church, Lakehurst, was the scene at half past seven o'clock, Wednesday evening last, of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Lizzie Fawcett was united in marriage to Mr. William Renwick Smith, both of Lakehurst, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. S. Sutherland Burns, B. A., of Lakefield, Presbyterian church. The church was prettily decorated with evergreens, marguerites and potted plants. The arch under which the ceremony took place being especially pretty and the whole forming a charming back ground to the bridal party.

The bride who was given away by Mr. Hugh Allen was daintily gowned in white liberty silk with berthe of lace. Her regulation filmy tulle veil was worn over a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of white roses. Her sister Miss Jennie Fawcett, was her only attendant. She was dressed in white silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was ably supported by his cousin, Mr. W E Smith.

The wedding march was played by Miss Jean Smith, of Peterborough, and after the ceremony the choir sang very sweetly "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden."

A dainty supper was then served in the spacious dining room which was tastily decorated with marguerites. The guests, about one hundred and fifty, included many of the young people of Lakehurst and vicinity, as well as friends from a distance. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl brooch; to the bridesmaid an engraved locket and chain, and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links. The presents received by the bride were very beautiful and numerous and attest to the high esteem in which both Mr. and Mrs. Smith are held by their many friends. Their future home will be at Lakehurst.

Mr. Lewis, who, by the way, is rapidly developing into a fisherman of skill, succeeded in getting two good-sized lunge—weight not specified, and a bass, while Mr. Graham got two lunge. A VALUABLE DOG IS POISONED

Mr. W. Green Loses Bull Terrier Pup —Got Poison in Central Park

Mr. W. Green of George street, is to-day mourning the loss of a valuable bull terrier pup, which met death by poisoning yesterday afternoon. The dog was in Central park, and secured a bone to which strychnine poison had been applied. Soon after getting thee bone the animal took ill and ran towards Dr. Frederelks' surgery. The doctor noticed the dog's distress and tried to save it, but the dose had been too strong, and proved fatal.

THE M'KINNON CUP SLIPS AWAY

Canadians Have No Hope of Capturing It.

SCORES ARE NOT PROMISING

Showing of the Canadians Hardly Up to the Standard — First Two Big Events Are a Disappointment— Association Cup Totals Are Small, With Toronto Men at Top—English Riflemen Lead.

Bisley, July 12.—(C.A.P.)—The Australian team of eight men have arranged to return home by way of Canada.

In the "Armourers' Company" seven shots at 900 yards, Capt. Tom Mitchell of the 12th York Rangers yesterday morning made 32 of a possible 35. In the same match, Staff-Sergt. Graham of the 48th Highlanders also scored 32. Last year there were 17 32s, the first taking 9th prize of £1 10s.

In the "Association Cup, S.R.," Pte. George Milligan of the 48th, Toronto, scored 32 out of 35 at 200 yards, and 34 out of a possible 35 at 600 yards, giving him a total of 66 over two ranges. Last year the first prize was won with a score of 68, though four times since its origin, in 1884, the match has been won by a possible, and nine times with a score one less than a possible. It has never been won with a score of less than 68 since the introduction of the .303 rifle. Last year there were 16 66s on the prize list, and the first of these took the 21st prize of £3. The match has twice been won by Canadians; by Pte. Heaven in 1893, score 69, and by Staff-Sergt. Bayles in 1903, with a possible.

In the "Kynoch," seven shots at 1,000 yards, Capt. Tom Mitchell scored 30 out of a possible 35. The first prize in this match is a man's bicycle, and the second a woman's bicycle. It is an unlimited entries competition, so Capt. Mitchell will be able to have another try for a better score. Last year the winning score was 33, and 30 took the 14th prise of £1.

Corpl. F. B. Fisher, Victoria, B.C., scored 33 and 32 at the two ranges of the "Association Cup, S.R."

Shooting for the Mackinnon Cup to-day, the Canadians scored at the 900 yards range thus: Sergt.-Major Caven, Victoria, 41; Sergt. Carr, Victoria, 43; Staff-Sergt. Graham, Toronto, 49; Staff-Sergt. Kerr, Toronto, 45; Capt. McHarg, Vancouver, 43; Lieut. McVittie, Toronto, 35; Pte. Milligan, Toronto, 35; Pte. Mitchell, Toronto, 47; Capt. Mitchell, Winnipeg, 45; Col.-Sergt. Moscrop, Vancouver, 43; Sergt. Morris, Bowmanville, 47; Pte. Smith, Ottawa, 45. The totals were: Canada 522, Australia 516, England 534, Ireland 509, Scotland 540.

At the 800 yards range the scores were: Caven 41, Carr 40, Graham 41, Kerr 32, McHarg 45, McVittie 36; Milligan 45, Mitchell 40, Mitchell 36, Moscrop 32, Morris 45, Smith 37. The total scores at the 900 yards range were: Canada 470, Australia 508, England 513, Ireland 472, Scotland 489.

The result at the end of the second stage was: England 1,047, Scotland 1,038, Australia 1,024, Canada 992, Ireland 981.

BRUTAL DOUBLE MURDER.

Hotel Man and Woman Stabbed to Death in Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 12.—Peter Forrestel, aged 60, a well-known saloon keeper and sporting man, and Maria Smith, 32 years old, a waitress in the saloon restaurant, were murdered yesterday. George Hodson, a painter, is accused of the crime. The Smith woman formerly lived with Hodson.

Forrestel was sitting in front of his saloon at Elm and South Division streets at 1.30 in the morning, when, it is alleged, Hodson rushed up and stabbed him with a butcher knife.

He then rushed upstairs to Maria Smith's room. As she sprung from bed Hodson, it is alleged, stabbed her twice.

DIRE DESTITUTION.

Family of English Immigrants Found Starving at Woodstock.

Woodstock, July 12.—An English family named Kent, who have been in the city for ten days past, was found to be penniless and starving to death in a little room over Lawson's Bakery.

James Kent, head of the family, is a sober and industrious worker, and had been engaged for four months since coming from England on a farm near Norwich. He found it impossible to make things go sufficiently to support his wife and four children, and, in consequence, came to Woodstock to get work.

He did not find work when he came here, and for four days the family had been existing without a morsel of food and without a penny to purchase relief.

Their straightened circumstances were discovered by Peter Irving, a local auctioneer, who secured work for Kent. The latter, weakened by the absence of bodily nourishment, lasted only two hours at work, when he collapsed.

A collection was taken up and food secured for the family.

Berlin, July 12.—The portrait of Emperor Nicholas of Russia, which was mysteriously stolen from the National Gallery of this city, has been returned to the gallery by mail.

STEVE ADAMS TELLS HIS STORY

Said to Contain Much Sensational Detail.

IT CORROBORATES ORCHARD

State Will Endeavor to Have This Important Document Worked In—Adams Said to Have Withdrawn His Repudiation to Parts of a Statement He Swore Was Not True—May End To-night.

Boise, July 12.—Charles H. Moyer, the prisoner-President of the Western Federation of Miners,, took the stand again yesterday for cross-examination by the state in the Haywood trial. Moyer has told a straight story, and the impression he created was favorable in the extreme. The position of the prosecution, however, is that Moyer has made an impression sufficient to show that their claim of the intimacy between Orchard and Haywood is well founded.

It is probable that Fred Miller will go on the stand after Moyer, but the defence may again pass him until Haywood has been heard. Haywood in direct and cross-examination may take the remainder of the week, though it is now possible that the defence may close by to-night.

It was rumored yesterday that the repudiated confession of Steve Adams will be brought in in the course of the rebuttal. Counsel on both sides are non-committal with regard to admissions, the defence declining to say positively that they will put him on the stand. Should they do so, counsel for the state expects to be able to introduce the confession. Another rumor is that Adams has withdrawn his repudiation of certain portions of the confession, and that he will permit a part of it to stand. The original of the amended confession is in the hands of counsel for the state. It is said to contain much sensational matter, and, should it be brought out it is believed the criminal record achieved by Orchard will in certain respects be eclipsed by the story Adams is said to have told and then withdrawn as untrue.

Haywood's Denials.

Haywood's direct testimony yesterday was characterized chiefly by positive denials of allegations made against him by the prosecution.

He denied that he met Orchard until some time after the Vindicator mine explosions.

He denied that he sent Orchard back to Cripple Creek to blow up the Independence Station.

He denied participation in the murder of Detective Lyte Gregory.

He denied suggesting or discussing the Steunenberg murder.

He swore that he never gave Orchard any money at any time, or any place, for any purpose.

He declared that he never made a threat against Steunenberg, whom he regarded only as a politician swayed by capitalistic influence.

He related a number of occasions when he met Orchard in Denver in the ordinary course of his relations with the federation and George A. Pettibone, and said he saw Orchard for the last time in August, 1905, when Orchard told him he was going to Alaska. Haywood said he then chided Orchard for deserting his wife at Cripple Creek.

BLAME THE MERCHANTS.

Railways Charge Freight Congestion to Shippers.

Montreal, July 12.—The C.P.R. and G.T.R. are blaming the merchants for the congestion of the freight in this city and in a joint letter to the Board of Trade they say: The serious delays to the teams clearly demonstrate the fact that the facilities at the warehouses of many of the consignees are altogether inadequate to permit of the prompt unloading of the freight. Similar delays have also occurred in the loading of teams with outward freight. We feel justified in making the statement that some merchants at least are endeavoring to conduct a largely increased business in premises totally unsuited to present requirements and in which no additional provision as compared with some years ago has been made for prompt unloading of teams.

Coal For U.S. Fleet?

London, July 12.—The American Government has placed large orders for Welsh steam coal in this country, acording to a news agency report. It is said that the coal will be despatched in specially chartered steamers to the Philippine Islands and certain rendezvous on the west coast of South America.

BUSINESS MEN CRY OUT FOR GIRLS

25,000 Girls Needed to Assist Manufacturers in Ontario.

IMPORT SKILLED WORKMEN

Labor Situation Sized Up by Retiring President John Firstbrook of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association — High Prices and House Scarcity Add Much to the Difficulty of Getting Mechanics.

Toronto, July 12.—Discussion of Toronto's civic needs occupied a large place in the deliberations of the Toronto branch, Canadian Manufacturer's Association, at the annual meeting yesterday.

But the address of the retiring chairman, J. Firstbrook, was the feature of the meeting. While he rejoiced over the great prosperity of the country, he was not by any means satisfied. Industrial expansion had failed to keep pace with the growth of the population and its needs. While imports had increased 23 1-2 per cent. in nine months exports of Canadian goods had shown only the small increase of 2 1-2 per cent.

Toronto has shared largely in the general prosperity of manufacturers. She is now second only to Montreal as a commercial and industrial centre. In five years the value of the products of her factories has risen from $58,000,000 to $85,000,000.

Toronto had now 1,200 industrial establishments employing 70,000 persons, but there is still a crying need for more skilled labor. A conservative estimate places the number of girls required for her factories at 10,000, and at least 15,000 additional are required at other points in the province. The number of male mechanics needed is almost incalculable. The Dominion Government, he said, was mainly responsible for this acute situation. The increased cost of living and dearth of suitable homes for workmen was responsible for much of the trouble in the labor situation. The association had within five months made contracts to bring in 800 skilled mechanics, and of this number 300 had arrived to date.

Increase In Salary For Some Of City Officials

Finance Committee Took Up the Matter Last Night—$150 Increase for the City Clerk Recomended—$50 to the Treasurer.

WORK HAS INCREASED

The Finance Committee last night decided to recommend to the Council that increases of salaries be given City Treasurer Adams and City Clerk Armstrong, and a change in the payment to Tax Collector Green, which makes an increase in his salary also. The City Clerk will receive an increase of $150, the City Treasurer $50, and $100 to his assistants, and the Tax Collector will be given $100 to pay for postage and the cost of his bond, provided, of course, the Council will ratify the action of the committee.

There were present Ald. Tovey, chairman; the Mayor, Ald. Morrow and Phelan.

The first matter taken up was the question of increasing the salary of Tax Collector W. J. Green.

It was moved by Ald. Morrow, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that Mr. Green be given $100 to pay for the cost of his guarantee bond and postage.—Carried.

This amount means a direct increase of $100 to Mr. Green, as hitherto he has had to pay for both bond and postage, together with employing help during the busy season, out of the salary of $1,000 paid him by the city.

City Treasurer's Salary

The request of the City Treasurer for an increase, bringing his salary up to $1,250 clear of his expenses for two lady clerks, was next discussed. Mr. Adams has had to give a substantial increase to retain the services of his help which reduces his salary below that of his predecessors.

It was moved by Ald. Morrow, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that the City Treasurer be paid $1,000 by the city, he to pay for assistance out of that sum, and that the question of paying assistants be taken up later.

The Mayor moved that an arrangement be made with the Water Commissioners to pay the City Treasurer $1,200, and allow $100 for his help.

Chairman Tovey was in favour of Ald. Morrow's motion, and declared it carried.

The question of the City Clerk's salary was discussed, and the committee were unanimous in the opinion that the increased amount of work in Mr. Armstrong's department warranted giving him an increase of salary. At present he is receiving, in all, $2,000, out of which he pays his assistants.

On motion, it was decided that owing to the increased amount of work this year, the City Clerk's salary should be $2,150, on the same basis as last year.

The matter of paying the assistants for the various city officials will be taken up at a later date by the Council.

Sunday Labour In The Ontario Cheese Factories

Letter Addressed to Attorney-General's Department in Which Facts of the Case Are Set Forth.

SOME RECOMMENDATIONS

The question of Sunday work in cheese factories in the province, is the subject of a circular letter addressed to the Attorney-General's Department, and a copy has been sent to the press of the province by Hon. J. P. Whitney, premier, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and dairy instructors of Ontario. The circular is as follows:

We beg to inform you that we have, under your instructions, made careful and thorough inquiry into the uestion of Sunday work in connection with the manufacture of cheese through the 32 instructors employed by this Department. From our own personal knowledge of the situation and as a result of the inquiries made, we feel that we are pretty fully informed as to the present situation. In western Ontario, out of 318 factories, 68 are manufacturing cheese on Saturday night; in Eastern Ontario, less than one quarter of the 1,000 factories, are taking in milk on Saturday night and manufacturing it into cheese. In the majority of cases where milk is taken in on Saturday night, it is found impossible to properly complete the work before 12 o'clock. The work is therefore continued for a period of from 4 to 5 hours at the beginning of Sunday. If those factories that are at present doing some work in the early hours of Sunday, were prohibited from carrying on this work it would, in nearly all cases, be necessary that the milk be retained at the homes of the patrons as the factories at present have not proper facilities for holding over until Monday morning this milk, and then handling it with the Sunday and Monday morning milk. The difficulty now met with in the handling of the milk at the homes of the patrons, is that the patrons have not storage or ice necessary for that purpose. In all other factories, where Saturday night delivery does not take place, or where the factory is not equipped for making milk into butter, it is necessary for the patrons to make butter at home, or to hold the Saturday night's milk over, along with the Sunday's milk, until Monday morning.

It will be seen that in the future to handle the milk at present made up on Saturday night and Sunday, either the factory must be reconstructed or equipped with better facilities, or the patrons must put in additional appliances at home and provide ice supplies.

If the law against doing any work in cheese factories during any of the hours on Sunday were strictly enforced at once, there would of necessity be a very large waste of milk on the farm in addition to the increasing of the Sunday work on the part of the producer to a very large extent.

Having considered the question from all standpoints and obtained opinions from many persons interested in the question, we beg to recommend that for the present year, permission be granted to continue the Saturday night work in cheese factories until not later than 5 a.m. on Sunday morning. In this conection we might state that in the great majority of cases, the work can be easily completed by 2 a.m., but in some cases beyond the control of the maker, it may be found impossible to make up the cheese at so early a time.

Further we would suggest that early notification be given to the dairymen of the province (owners of cheese factories, makers and patrons) that it will be necessary next year to fully comply with the requirements of the Sunday Observance law, and that they shall now make arrangements whereby either the patrons of factories shall now begin to make provision to keep the milk at home under proper conditions or untilize it at home; or that the factories shall make such provision as may be necessary to enable them to handle the milk on Monday morning.

Respectfully submitted,
C. C. James,
Deputy Minister of Ag.
Geo. A. Putnam,
Director Dairy Instruction.
G. G. Publow,
Chief Instructor, Eastern Ontario.
Hon. J. P. Whitney, Premier.

BEST GAME OF THE SEASON

Newmarket and Peterborough Will Clash at Riverside Park

One of the best lacrosse matches ever played here should be seen tomorrow when Newmarket will stack up against the locals. The Doyletown team are confident of winning and are running a big excursion by special train. There should be an enormous crowd present. Both teams need the victory and will go at it hammer and tongs. The locals are playing in the fastest district that a Peterborough team has ever figured in and the public have never had such an opportunity to see good lacrosse as they are having now.

PETERBOROUGH TO PLAY IN OSHAWA TO-MORROW

Lake Shore Team Have Decided to Remain in Midland League

Word was received last night from Oshawa, that they intended to remain in the Midland League, and that they expected Peterborough there to play a League game. The locals were more than satisfied with this, and will send down a team tomorrow who will it is hoped, be able to trim the home team. The Peterborough nine is badly scattered to-day. Flaherty and Burridge are doing the battery work for Frankford; Quinlan is pitching for Wellington; Burns is playing second base for Wellington, and Cheatham and Haliburton are in Toronto. They will all meet in Oshawa to-morrow in time for the game. There are only four players to go down from here to-morrow, Johnston, Callaghan, Connors and Graham.

FINAL GAME FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Strathconas and West Ends Will Meet at the Oval To-morrow

The Strathconas and West Ends will meet to-morrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Oval in the deciding game for the championship of the Intermediate City Baseball League. This was decided at a meeting of the League Executive held last night. The protested game between the Excelsiors and Strathconas has been awarded to the latter, which leaves the West Ends and Strathconas tied with four victories and one defeat. The West Ends lost to the Strathconas, while the latter were defeated by the Karenots.

Connie Burns of the Peterborough Ball Club was decided upon as umpire, but will not be able to officiate owing to the fact that the locals play in Oshawa to-morrow. The teams will agree upon an umpire to-night.

The game should be the best of the series, and there is much interest being evinced in the result.

A meeting of the Executive to wind up the business for the year will be held next week.

THE TURF CLUB'S BIG PROGRAMME

Two Days Meet Will include Two Marathon Running Races

The Peterborough Turf Club met yesterday morning to decide upon the date and programme for the summer race meeting. President P. J. Cluran was in the chair.

It was decided that a two days' meet should be held on Civic Holiday, August 12, and Tuesday, August 13. On Civic Holiday the events will be a 2.50 class, a 2.22 class and a half-mile race. The programme will also include a five-mile Marathon running race.

On Tuesday there will be a 2.30 class, a 2.17 class, a three-quarter-mile running race, two out of three heats, and a 10-mile Marathon race.

This programme should be one of the best ever offered in Peterborough in this line, and no doubt will attract a big crowd to the city for the occasion.

FOOTBALL

The Intermediate and Senior Quaker football teams are urgently requested to be present at the Roy Studio to-morrow afternoon at 2.30, when photographs of the teams will be taken.

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, July 12.—Developments this morning produced no new factors of importance, and the shorts tried to retire some of their contracts upon noting the absence of further liquidation, the result being that a fairly good tone was shown, and while prices were only changed fractionally at times, the wisdom of making purchases discriminatingly in a conservative way during the softness appended to professionals as first-class. They are willing, according to investigations, to buy on a scale down in the standard rails, which are favourable because they seem to have gone through the administration third degree.

The market was intensely dull during the afternoon, and at the close was stagnant, but firm.

BODY HAS NOT YET BEEN RECOVERED

Although Parties Are Still Searching For Young John Lefebvre

Up to the time of going to press this afternoon the body of John Lefebre, the thirteen year old boy, whom it was almost certain was drowned yesterday morning at the Auburn dam has not been found, although relatives and friends have been searching below the dam since the boy was missed. An effort is being made this afternoon to lower the water sufficiently to permit the searching beneath the apron of the dam, where it is thought the body may be resting.

Mr. Ernest Lefebre, the boy's father, who has been living in Toronto, is in the city and is doing his utmost to recover the body.

COMMITTED TO-DAY ON TWO CHARGES

The Four Young Men Sent Up for Trial on Two More Charges of Picking Pockets—Magistrate's Opinion Against Them

WILL REMAIN IN GAOL

Once more the four men, Bradford, Lewis, Phelps and Goldfarb, occupied the dock at the Police Court this morning, and crowded into the little box-like affair that will comfortably seat but three persons. On the charge of having stolen $40 from Mr. Luke Francis, a C.P.R. section man, on Circus Day, the four men were committed to trial, but there was entered at the conclusion of the case a demand from Messrs. F. D. Kerr and Gordon, on behalf of Lewis and Goldfarb, that those two men be discharged, as there was no evidence showing that they had anything to do with Mr. Francis.

The Robbery

Mr. Francis was sworn and stated that he was employed on the C.P.R. and lived at 149 Rubidge street. He was watching the procession on Circus Day from the platform of the C.P.R. freight sheds that face George street, shortly after the noon hour. Mr. John Lynott of Havelock was with him, and they shortly after decided to go up town, following the band. Arrived at Moore's monumental establishment, they remained at the corner of George and Charlotte streets about five minutes and returned south again to the Southern Hotel. They were going in there with the idea of having their dinner. As Mr. Francis was passing through the doorway facing the street, a man whom he recognized as Phelps, put his hand on witness' left shoulder and said, "Don't be shoving," and, as a matter of fact, witness was not shoving, as he testified. He had a good look at Phelps as he spoke. At the same time another man crowded him on the right hand side from behind. Witness turned quickly and saw the man, and declared that Bradford was this party. The two men passed on, and when Mr. Francis found that the dining-room was crowded he left the hotel and went on down George street. When just opposite Mr. J. J. Turner's store he put his hand in his pocket and discovered that his money was gone. He had remembered it last as being in the right hand pocket of his trousers. Witness said he was sure he had it when he left the C.P.R. as he had taken out his purse to return a quarter that he had borrowed, and about forty minutes later it was unfortunately missing. It contained four ten-dollar Bank of Montreal bills and a little silver.

Blue Marks on Bills

Witness said he had received his monthly cheque from the C. P. R. Company on the Saturday preceding the 25th and had cashed it at the Montreal House, receiving six ten-dollar bills. One of them he had given his wife; with another he had paid the butcher's bill, leaving the four he had lost. When Mr. Laroque had cashed the cheque witness said he had noticed blue pencil marks on the bills. Two bills thus distinguished were identified by Mr. Francis. These bills were found on Bradford and Phelps.

To Mr. Kerr witness said he did not think he was being robbed at the time. Mr. Francis was put through a rigorous cross-examination by Mr. Kerr.

He said he had told one of the constables that there were marks on the bills, and he believed he told some other person the exact nature of the marks. Witness further stated that without the marks he could not identify the bills. When P. C. Newhall had brought the summons to him he had also shown him four pictures, and witness pointed out Bradford and Phelps as the men whom he had met at the Southern Hotel.

P. C. Newhall

Officer Newhall corroborated Mr. Francis' testimony about the bills, but said there were eight photographs in the number he had shown the former witness. Mr. Francis had told him about the marks, but from another source he had learned their real character. There was considerable questioning about the marks on the bills and the pencils found on Phelps and his companions, but it was not very weighty. Mr. Kerr and Mr. Gordon agreed to have P. C. Newhall's evidence given on July 10th, applied to this case, as far as it concerned it. They further asked that Goldfard and Lewis be discharged, as there was no evidence against them in this particular case.

Another Charge

Mr. W. Bennet Hartley was the plaintiff in another charge of picking pockets, the four men again being the defendants. He is a very eccentric old man and displayed his odd methods and ways by declining to swear on the Bible on account of conscientious scruples.

According to his evidence he was robbed on a street car at Central Park. He said he was getting on the car at that point while it was waiting for the one going south. There were but few people on board. A man was standing at the door, blocking the passage to the interior of the car. Witness said he shouted to him: "Why don't you get out of the way?" but the man, whom the witness recognized as Phelps, did not move. Mr. Hartley said he seemed to make a sign, and three other young fellows crowded about him for a moment, and then all four got off the car and went into the park. "They were all good looking young fellows and should have been at more respectable work."

Money Gone

When the conductor came to collect his fare, Mr. Hartley found his purse which contained about 95c. was gone. It had been in his left hand pocket but in his right he had four one dollar bills. "They did not get them," said Mr. Hartley; "they are smart younng fellows, but have started on the wrong track. It's too bad."

Mr. Hartley asked for permission to address the men but the Magistrate did not want to hear the lecture.

His Worship committed the men on this charge and thus the men have facing them three charges of pocket picking, for which they will be tried, according to their election. Either Judge Weller will hear them, or they will come up at the fall assizes. The maximum penalty for picking pockets is 14 years in the penitentiary.

WM. BAILEY WAS AGAIN DISCHARGED BY MAGISTRATE

Appeared at Court This Morning But Was Dismissed

John Bailey appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning on the charge of having been drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty to the drunk part, but denied the disorderly conduct. He was also charged with having assaulted P. C. McDonald while the latter was arresting him. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the prisoner.

P. C. McDonald said that he found Bailey at the corner of Wolfe and Rubidge streets in a drunken condition, surrounded by a crowd of men, women and children. Witness was bringing him along, and Bailey was quiet until Aylmer street was reached, when he became very abusive and struck witness. The latter tumbled him into a baker's rig and brought him to the police station. Although this was his second offence within but a few days, His Worship desired to give Bailey still another chance, and permitted him to go free with a timely warning.

James R. Bell, BOTH 'PHONES 161 HUNTER ST.

THE TATE OPTICAL CO.

PETERBORO.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of ever getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

Canada's New Buffalo Herd; The Story Of Their Acquisition

A Band of 600 Brought From Montana, Where They Were Bought From Michael Pablo, an Interesting Character.

INCIDENTS OF THE TRIP

How the Big Bunch of Prairie Chiefs Was Captured and Transported to Canada.

(Reproduced from the Winnipeg Free Press.)

Canada and the Canadian people, are now the owners of the largest buffalo herd in existence. Perhaps the significance of such a statement may not strike one at first glance, but when the realization comes that of the countless thousands of these animals which once roamed the plains of North America there are but a few hundred left, its true meaning may be gathered. Competent authorities have been unable to agree on the actual number of buffalo which are now alive, the estimates running from 600 to 1500. The latter figure is more probably the nearest correct, and of this total all but a couple of hundred are in Canada, or will be before the close of the present year.

A little over a year ago, when the famous Allard herd from the Flat Head Reserve, of Montana, was first placed on the market, it contained some 600 animals. These the selling agent tried to dispose of to the United States government, and the effort received the hearty support of President Roosevelt. But it was unavailing, for the government was too busy with the corporations to pay attention to any matter of sentiment. Then the American Bison Society was importuned and they were also unable to raise the necessary amount of enthusiasm or cash. Finally the herd was offered to Canada and found a ready taker, the 500 animals left bringing $150,000 cash, with an additional $5,000 on delivery. The first section of the herd, 200 in number, has been delivered, and the balance will be turned loose on their new grazing ground during the present fall.

Building up of two Herds

About a quarter of a century ago, Michael Pablo and Charles Allard gathered together a few of the scattered remnants of the once magnificent herds of buffalo, or bison, and rounded them up on the Flat Head Reserve, where they could be protected from the hordes of hunters who were decimating their ranks at so rapid a rate. At the same time the United States Government awoke and corralled a few in the Yellowstone Park. These two herds were the only ones at large in the whole of the United States. From a comparatively small beginning they increased till the two herds numbered several hundreds. In Canada at the same time private enterprise secured several specimens of the disappearing monarchs of the plain, and the descendants of the latter bunch are to be found in the Winnipeg city park and at Banff. Beyond the few scattered animals in zoological gardens and private parks, the only other buffalo were a small band which had wandered north into the country beyond Edmonton, ever pursued by the skin hunters. These estimated at about 300 head, still run at large and are rigorously protected by the Canadian Government.

But to return to the herd in Montana. Finally Mr. Allard died, and the whole of the Flat Head Reserve herd passed into the possession of Mr. Pablo. He said about 100 to various individuals, and it is the balance of the bunch which has been purchased by the government. They are of pure stock, have not suffered from inbreeding, and have enjoyed a practically unlimited range, are in magnificent condition wild and free, as were their ancestors a hundred years ago.

MICHEL PABLO.

The "Buffalo King," and His Favorite Horse.

It may be imagined that to round up such a bunch of wild animals and deliver them on board of cars for shipment was by no means an easy task, a task which had never before been attempted on so great a scale. The first delivery of 200 animals filled 17 cars of the largest size or practically a whole train, a string of wild animals which could not be beaten, except by a circus of job, hardy, expert horsemen, inured to the life and wise in all the lore of the ranges. Through mountain and valley they pursued the buffalo, covering a large part of the State of Montana, and finally bunched the herd in one of the canyons, where those that were to be immediately shipped were cut out and driven down the valley of the Mission River to Ravalli, on a branch line of the Northern Pacific Railway.

The work up to this point had been hard, but it was only a beginning. The men had corralled 200 absolutely untamed animals, some of which weighed in the neighbourhood of a ton, and without any preliminary taming, it was proposed to load these animals into freight cars. The buffalo were as active as cats, and their instinct led them to fight to the largest size. This shipment was of the bulls and yearlings, while the second consignment of 300 cows and calves will be delivered in the fall. When the round up of the great herd was begun there were 60 expert "cow punchers" on the miles to the little village of Lamont, where a park of 10,000 acres has been set apart for their final range.

Bulls Engage in Fierce Fight

There were many laughable and almost tragic incidents in this round-up. The cow-boys set out on their work in a thoroughly scientific manner. From a given point the 35 men spread out in a long line, and on a given date started across country, inspecting each clump of timber or wooded valley as they rode. Each man had a string of two or more horses, which were used alternately, but even with such an assistance the work progressed but slowly, for human endurance has a limit even for a cow-boy. At first the work progressed fairly well, and the rounding-up progressed rapidly, for the herds were few and scattered. As the line approached the final destination there was a change. The many small herds had combined into larger ones, resulting in frequent sanguinary battles between rival bulls, masters of herds. These the drivers had to prevent, where possible. Then, too, there was the ever present menace of a stampede, whereby the work of many weary days could be undone in an hour or more. Slowly and steadily the herd had to be kept moving forward, without excitement or noise. Occasionally a bull would attempt to break back, or, tired of the drive, would turn on his drivers. In such an event the nimble pony was put to it to head the animal, or keep its rider out of harm's way. That the work was concluded without a serious accident is sufficient commentary on the quality of patience and horsemanship displayed.

Then came the cutting-out. The whole of the herds had been rounded up in a valley the same as cattle would be treated, and were held there by relays of riders, who were constantly on the watch. The cows and calves were to be left on the range for several months, so that they could be shipped with less chance of loss in transportation, and the balance of the bunch had to be separated. Here was the crux of the whole work. On the range the bull is the guardian of the herd, and when threatened by enemies it is the custom for the whole herd to bunch, the cows and calves in the centre, with the bulls on the outer edge, ready for battle. These bunches had to be broken up and divided, a task offering untold difficulties. It took seven days to accomplish this, but finally the chosen ones were driven into an enclosure, from which chutes ran to the waiting cars.

Fought Every Inch of Ground

Imagine loading a cow-spirited tub of wire-like muscle and indomitable courage into a box car, without the assistance of a steam crane, and you can get some idea of what was to be done. The animals refused to enter any such trap-like contrivance as long as they were able to struggle, the limit of their ability to put up a fight only ended with death, a thing to be applied, if possible. A sweep of the antler-like horns spelled death or serious injury to anyone who came within range, while only the strongest timbers would withstand their plunging. By the exercise of considerable agility and cleverness, the struggling beasts were ensnared in a sort of harness, and dragged by sheer brute force into the cars, though protesting every inch. Here individual compartments were provided, so that they could not injure each other during the long journey.

Loaded at last, the train was hauled to Helena, Montana. From there they were transferred to the Great Northern, then to the C. P. R., and finally were hauled over the C.N.R. from Edmonton to Lamont without change of cars. Every possible haste was made in transit, for the beasts were unused to hay diet, and it was necessary that they should be released as soon as possible. The time must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for.

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

The Hound of the Baskervilles

Another Adventure of Sherlock Holmes.

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Author of "The Green Flag" and "The Great Boer War"

gnawed bones showed where the animal had been confined. A skeleton with a tangle of brown hair adhering to it lay among the debris.

"A dog!" said Holmes. "By Jove, a curly-haired spaniel. Poor Mortimer will never see his pet again. Well, I do not know that this place contains any secret which we have not already fathomed. He could hide his hound, but he could not hush its voice, and hence came those cries which even in daylight were not pleasant to hear. On an emergency he could keep the hound in the outhouse at Merripit, but it was always a risk, and it was only on the supreme day, which he regarded as the end of all his efforts, that he dared do it. This paste in the tin is no doubt the luminous mixture with which the creature was daubed. It was suggested, of course, by the story of the family hellhound, and by the desire to frighten old Sir Charles to death. No wonder the poor devil of a convict ran and screamed, even as our friend did, and as we ourselves might have done, when we saw such a creature bounding through the darkness of the moor upon his track. It was a cunning device, for, apart from the chance of driving your victim to his death, what peasant would venture to inquire too closely into such a creature should he get sight of it, as many have done, upon the moor? I said it in London, Watson, and I say it again now, that never yet have we helped to hunt down a more dangerous man than he who is lying yonder"—he swept his long arm towards the huge mottled expanse of green-splotched bog which stretched away until it merged into the russet slopes of the moor.

CHAPTER XV.

It was the end of November, and Holmes and I sat, upon a raw and foggy night, on either side of a blazing fire in our sitting-room in Baker Street. Since the tragic upshot of our visit to Devonshire he had been engaged in two affairs of the utmost importance, in the first of which he had exposed the atrocious conduct of Colonel Upwood in connection with the famous card scandal of the Nonpareil Club, while in the second he had defended the unfortunate Mme. Montpensier from the charge of murder which hung over her in connection with the death of her step-daughter, Mlle. Carere, the young lady who, as it will be remembered, was found six months later alive and married in New York. My friend was in excellent spirits over the success which had attended a succession of difficult and important cases, so that I was able to induce him to discuss the details of the Baskerville mystery. I had waited patiently for the opportunity, for I was aware that he would never permit cases to overlap, and that his clear and logical mind would not be drawn from its present work to dwell upon memories of the past. Sir Henry and Dr. Mortimer were, however, in London, on their way to that long voyage which had been recommended for the restoration of his shattered nerves. They had called upon us that very afternoon, so that it was natural that the subject should come up for discussion.

"The whole course of events," said Holmes, "from the point of view of the man who called himself Stapleton was simple and direct, although to us, who had no means in the beginning of knowing the motives of his actions and could only learn part of the facts, it all appeared exceedingly complex. I have had the advantage of two conversations with Mrs. Stapleton, and the case has now been so entirely cleared up that I am not aware that there is anything which has remained a secret to us. You will find a few notes upon the matter under the heading B in my indexed list of cases."

"Perhaps you would kindly give me a sketch of the course of events from memory."

"Certainly, though I cannot guarantee that I carry all the facts in my mind. Intense mental concentration has a curious way of blotting out what has passed. The barrister who has his case at his fingers' end, and is able to argue with an expert upon his own subject, finds that a week or two of the courts will drive it all out of his head once more. So each of my cases displaces the last, and Mlle. Carere has blurred my recollection of Baskerville Hall. To-morrow some other little problem may be submitted to my notice which will in turn dispossess the fair French lady and the infamous Upwood. So far as the case of the Hound goes, however, I will give you the course of events as nearly as I can, and you will suggest anything which I may have forgotten.

"My inquiries show beyond all question that the family portrait did not lie, and that this fellow was indeed a Baskerville. He was a son of that Rodger Baskerville, the younger brother of Sir Charles, who fled with a sinister reputation to South America, where he was said to have died unmarried. He did, as a matter of fact, marry, and had one child, this fellow, whose real name is the same as his father. He married Beryl Garcia, one of the beauties of Costa Rica, and, having purloined a considerable sum of public money, he changed his name to Vandeleur and fled to England, where he established a school in the east of Yorkshire. His reason for attempting this special line of business was that he had struck up an acquaintance with a consumptive tutor upon the voyage home, and that he had used this man's ability to make the undertaking a success. Fraser, the tutor, died, however, and the school which had begun well sank from disrepute into infamy. The Vandeleurs found it convenient to change their name to Stapleton, and he brought the remains of his fortune, his schemes for the future, and his taste for entomology to the south of England. I learn at the British Museum that he was a recognized authority upon the subject, and that the name of Vandeleur has been permanently attached to a certain moth which he had, in his Yorkshire days, been the first to describe.

"We now come to that portion of his life which has proved to be of such intense interest to us. The fellow had evidently made inquiry, and found that only two lives intervened between him and a valuable estate. When he went to Devonshire his plans were, I believe, exceedingly hazy, but that he meant mischief from the first is evident from the way in which he took his wife with him in the character of his sister. The idea of using her as a decoy was clearly already in his mind, though he may not have been certain how the details of his plot were to be arranged. He meant in the end to have the estate, and he was ready to use any tool or run any risk for that end. His first act was to establish himself as near to his ancestral home as he could, and his second was to cultivate a friendship with Sir Charles Baskerville and with the neighbors.

"The baronet himself told him about the family hound, and so prepared the way for his own death. Stapleton, as I will continue to call him, knew that the old man's heart was weak and that a shock would kill him. So much he had learned from Dr. Mortimer. He had heard also that Sir Charles was superstitious and had taken this grim legend very seriously. His ingenious mind instantly suggested a way by which the baronet could be done to death, and yet it would be hardly possible to bring home the guilt to the real murderer.

"Having conceived the idea he proceeded to carry it out with considerable finesse. An ordinary schemer would have been content to work with a savage hound. The use of artificial means to make the creature diabolical was a flash of genius upon his part. The dog he bought in London from Ross and Mangles, the dealers in Fulham Road. It was the strongest and most savage in their possession. He brought it down by the North Devon line and walked a great distance over the moor so as to get it home without exciting any remarks. He had already on his insect hunts learned to penetrate the Grimpen Mire, and so had found a safe hiding-place for the creature. Here he kennelled it and waited his chance.

"But it was some time coming. The old gentleman could not be decoyed outside of his grounds at night. Several times Stapleton lurked about with his hound, but without avail. It was during these fruitless quests that he, or rather his ally, was seen by peasants, and that the legend of the demon dog received a new confirmation. He had hoped that his wife might lure Sir Charles to his ruin, but here she proved unexpectedly independent. She would not endeavor to entangle the old gentleman in a sentimental attachment which might deliver him over to his enemy. Threats and even, I am sorry to say, blows refused to move her. She would have nothing to do with it, and for a time Stapleton was at a deadlock.

"He found a way out of his difficulties through the chance that Sir Charles, who had conceived a friendship for him, made him the minister of his charity in the case of this unfortunate woman, Mrs. Laura Lyons. By representing himself as a single man he acquired complete influence over her, and he gave her to understand that in the event of her obtaining a divorce from her husband he would marry her. His plans were suddenly brought to a head by his knowledge that Sir Charles was about to leave the Hall on the advice of Dr. Mortimer, with whose opinion he himself pretended to coincide. His must act at once, or his victim might get beyond his power. He therefore put pressure upon Mrs. Lyons to write this letter, imploring the old man to give her an interview on the evening before his departure for London. He then, by a specious argument, prevented her from going, and so had the chance for which he had waited.

"Driving back in the evening from Coombe Tracey he was in time to get his hound, to treat it with his infernal paint, and to bring the beast round to the gate at which he had reason to expect that he would find the old gentleman waiting. The dog, incited by its master, sprang over the wicket-gate and pursued the unfortunate baronet, who fled screaming down the Yew Alley. In that gloomy tunnel it must indeed have been a dreadful sight to see that huge black creature, with its flaming jaws and blazing eyes, bounding after its victim. He fell dead at the end of the alley from heart disease and terror. The hound had kept upon the grassy border while the baronet had run down the path, so that no track but the man's was visible. On seeing him lying still the creature had probably approached to sniff at him, but finding him dead had turned away again. It was then that it left the print which was actually observed by Dr. Mortimer. The hound was called off and hurried away to its lair in the Grimpen Mire, and a mystery was left which puzzled the authorities, alarmed the countryside, and finally brought the case within the scope of our observation.

"So much for the death of Sir Charles Baskerville. You perceive the devilish cunning of it, for really it would be almost impossible to make a case against the real murderer. His only accomplice was one who could never give him away, and the grotesque, inconceivable nature of the device only served to make it more effective. Both of the women concerned in the case, Mrs. Stapleton and Mrs. Laura Lyons, were left with a strong suspicion against Stapleton. Mrs. Stapleton knew that he had designs upon the old man, and also of the existence of the hound. Mrs. Lyons knew neither of these things, but had been impressed by the death occurring at the time of an uncancelled appointment which was only known to him. However, both of them were under his influence, and he had nothing to fear from them. The first half of his task was successfully accomplished, but the more difficult still remained.

"It is possible that Stapleton did not know of the existence of an heir in Canada. In any case he would very soon learn it from his friend Dr. Mortimer, and he was told by the latter all details about the arrival of Henry Baskerville. Stapleton's first idea was that this young stranger from Canada might possibly be done to death in London without coming down to Devonshire at all. He distrusted his wife ever since she had refused to help him in laying a trap for the old man, and he dared not leave her long out of his sight for fear he should lose his influence over her. It was for this reason that he took her to London with him. They lodged, I find, at the Mexborough Private Hotel, in Craven Street, which was actually one of those called upon by my agent in search of evidence. Here he kept his wife imprisoned in her room while he, disguised in a beard, followed Dr. Mortimer to Baker Street and afterwards to the station and to the Northumberland Hotel. His wife had some inkling of his plans; but she had such a fear of her husband—a fear founded upon brutal ill-treatment—that she dare not write to warn the man whom she knew to be in danger. If the letter should fall into Stapleton's hands her own life would not be safe. Eventually, as we know, she adopted the expedient of cutting out the words which would form the message, and addressing the letter in a disguised hand it reached the baronet, and gave him the first warning of his danger.

"It was very essential for Stapleton to get some article of Sir Henry's attire so that, in case he was driven to use the dog, he might always have the means of setting him upon his track. With characteristic promptness and audacity he set about this at once, and we cannot doubt that the boots or chambermaid of the hotel was well bribed to help him in his design. By chance, however, the first boot which was procured for him was a new one and, therefore, useless for his purpose. He then had it returned and obtained another—a most instructive incident, since it proved conclusively to my mind that we were dealing with a real hound, as no other supposition could explain this anxiety to obtain an old boot and this indifference to a new one. The more outre and grotesque an incident is the more carefully it deserves to be examined, and the very point which appears to complicate a case is, when duly considered and scientifically handled, the one which is most likely to elucidate it.

"Then we had the visit from our friends next morning, shadowed always by Stapleton in the cab. From his knowledge of our rooms and of my appearance, as well as from his general conduct, I am inclined to think that Stapleton's career of crime has been by no means limited to this single Baskerville affair. It is suggestive that during the last three years there have been four considerable burglaries in the West Country, for none of which was any criminal ever arrested. The last of these, at Folkestone Court, in May, was remarkable for the cold-blooded pistoling of the page, who surprised the masked and solitary burglar. I cannot doubt that Stapleton recruited his waning resources in this fashion, and that for years he has been a desperate and dangerous man.

"We had an example of his readiness of resource that morning when he got away from us so successfully, and also of his audacity in sending back my own name to me through the cabman. From that moment he understood that I had taken over the case in London, and that therefore there was no chance for him there. He returned to Dartmoor and awaited the arrival of the baronet."

"One moment!" said I. "You have, no doubt, described the sequence of events correctly, but there is one point which you have left unexplained. What became of the hound when its master was in London?"

"I have given some attention to this matter and it is undoubtedly of importance. There can be no question that Stapleton had a confidant, though it is unlikely that he ever placed himself in his power by sharing all his plans with him. There was an old manservant at Merripit House, whose name was Anthony. His connection with the Stapletons can be traced for several years, as far back as the school-mastering days, so that he must have been aware that his master and mistress were really husband and wife. That man has disappeared and has escaped from the country. It is suggestive that Anthony is not a common name in England, while Antonio is so in all Spanish or Spanish-American countries. The man, like Mrs. Stapleton herself, spoke good English, but with a curious lisping accent. I have myself seen this old man cross the Grimpen Mire by the path which Stapleton had marked out. It is very probable, therefore, that in the absence of his master it was he who cared for the hound, though he may never have known the purpose for which the beast was used.

"The Stapletons then went down to Devonshire, whither they were soon followed by Sir Henry and you. One word now as to how I stood myself at that time. It may possibly recur to your memory that when I examined the paper upon which the printed words were fastened I made a close inspection for the water-mark. In doing so I held it within a few inches of my eyes, and was conscious of a faint smell of the scent known as white jessamine. There are seventy-five perfumes, which it is very necessary that a criminal expert should be able to distinguish from each other, and cases have more than once within my own experience depended upon their prompt recognition. The scent suggested the presence of a lady, and already my thought began to turn towards the Stapletons. Thus I had made certain of the hound, and had guessed at the criminal before ever we went to the West Country.

"It was my game to watch Stapleton. It was evident, however, that I could not do this if I were with you since he would be keenly on his guard. I deceived everybody, therefore, yourself included, and I came down secretly when I was supposed to be in London. My hardships were not so great as you imagined, though such trifling details must never interfere with the investigation of a case. I stayed for the most part at Coombe Tracey, and only used the hut upon the moor when it was necessary to be near the scene of action. Cartwright had come down with me, and in his disguise as a country boy he was of great assistance to me. I was dependent upon him for food and clean linen. When I was watching Stapleton, Cartwright was frequently watching you, so that I was able to keep my hand upon all the strings.

"I have already told you that your reports reached me rapidly, being forwarded instantly from Baker Street to Coombe Tracey. They were of great service to me, and especially that one incidentally truthful piece of biography of Stapleton's. I was able to establish the identity of the man and the woman, and knew at last exactly how I stood. The case had been considerably complicated through the incident of the escaped convict and the relations between him and the Barrymores. This also you cleared up in a very effective way, though I had already come to the same conclusions from my own observations.

"By the time that you discovered me upon the moor I had a complete knowledge of the whole business, but I had not a case which could go to a jury. Even Stapleton's attempt upon Sir Henry that night which ended in the death of the unfortunate convict did not help us much in proving murder against our man. There seemed to be no alternative but to catch him red-handed, and to do so we had to use Sir Henry, alone and apparently unprotected, as a bait. We did so, and at the cost of a severe shock to our client we succeeded in completing our case and driving Stapleton to his destruction. That Sir Henry should have been exposed to this is, I must confess, a reproach to my management of the case, but we had no means of foreseeing the terrible and paralyzing spectacle which the beast presented, nor could we predict the fog which enabled him to burst upon us at such short notice. We succeeded in our object at a cost which both the specialist and Dr. Mortimer assure me will be a temporary one. A long journey may enable our friend to recover not only from his shattered nerves, but also from his wounded feelings. His love for the lady was deep and sincere, and to him the saddest part of all this black business was that he should have been deceived by her.

"It only remains to indicate the part which she had played throughout. There can be no doubt that Stapleton exercised an influence over her which may have been love or may have been fear, or very possibly both, since they are by no means incompatible emotions. It was, at least, absolutely effective. At his command she consented to pass as his sister, though he found the limit of his power over her when he endeavored to make her the direct accessory to murder. She was ready to warn Sir Henry so far as she could without implicating her husband, and again and again she tried to do so. Stapleton himself seems to have been capable of jealousy, and when he saw the baronet paying court to the lady, even though it was part of his own plan, still he could not help interrupting with a passionate outburst which revealed the fiery soul which his self-contained manner so cleverly concealed. By encouraging the intimacy he made it certain that Sir Henry would frequently come to Merripit House and that he would sooner or later get the opportunity which he desired. On the day of the crisis, however, his wife turned suddenly against him. She had learned something of the death of the convict, and she knew that the hound was being kept in the out-house on the evening that Sir Henry was coming to dinner. She taxed her husband with his intended crime, and a furious scene followed, in which he showed her for the first time that she had a rival in his love. Her fidelity turned in an instant to bitter hatred and he saw that she would betray him. He tied her up, therefore, that she might have no chance of warning Sir Henry, and he hoped, no doubt, when the whole countryside put down the baronet's death to the curse of his family, as they certainly would do, he could win his wife back to accept an accomplished fact and to keep silent upon what she knew. In this I fancy that in any case he made a miscalculation, and that, if we had not been there, his doom would none the less have been sealed. A woman of Spanish blood does not condone such an injury so lightly. And now, my dear Watson, without referring to my notes, I cannot give you a more detailed account of this curious case. I do not know that anything essential has been left unexplained."

"He could not hope to frighten Sir Henry to death as he had done the old uncle with his bogie hound."

"The beast was savage and half-starved. If its appearance did not frighten its victim to death, at least it would paralyze the resistance which might be offered."

"No doubt. There only remains one difficulty. If Stapleton came into the succession, how could he explain the fact that he, the heir, had been living unannounced under another name so close to the property? How could he claim it without causing suspicion and inquiry?"

"It is a formidable difficulty, and I fear that you ask too much when you expect me to solve it. The past and the present are within the field of my inquiry, but what a man may do in the future is a hard question to answer. Mrs. Stapleton has heard her husband discuss the problem on several occasions. There were three possible courses. He might claim the property from South America, establish his identity before the British authorities there, and so obtain the fortune without ever coming to England at all; or he might adopt an elaborate disguise during the short time that he need be in London; or, again, he might furnish an accomplice with the proofs and papers, putting him in as heir, and retaining a claim upon some proportion of his income. We cannot doubt from what we know of him that he would have found some way out of the difficulty. And now, my dear Watson, we have had some weeks of severe work, and for one evening, I think, we may turn our thoughts into more pleasant channels. I have a box for 'Les Huguenots.' Have you heard the De Reszkes? Might I trouble you then to be ready in half an hour, and we can stop at Marcini's for a little dinner on the way?"

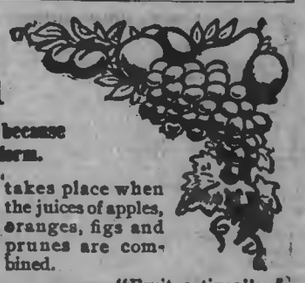
Fruit Cures Constipation



"Fruit-a-tives" cure Constipation because they are Fruit Juices in Tablet form.

Constipation means a disordered liver. When the liver is weak, bile is lacking. And it is the bile—which the liver excretes—that flows into the intestines and moves the bowels.

Fruit is the great liver tonic. It invigorates the liver and causes more bile to flow into the bowels.

Purgatives, powders and purging mineral waters, never reach the liver. They irritate the bowels and FORCE them to move. They generally do harm. They NEVER do any PERMANENT good.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices—in which the medicinal action is many-times intensified by the wonderful change which takes place when the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes are combined.

"Fruit-a-tives" have already proved a cure to many thousands of people in Canada.

"Fruit-a-tives" are free from calomel, cascara, senna and other bowel irritants. They are concentrated fruit juices with valuable tonics and internal antiseptics added.

"Fruit-a-tives" move the bowels regularly and easily every day — and thus cure Constipation.

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, attributes a great deal of his success to the following simple vegetable prescription:—

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salatone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, shake well, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Your druggist can supply the ingredients, and the mixture can be prepared at home at very little expense.

This, the doctor says, acts directly on the kidneys, assisting them to filter the poisons from the blood and expel same in the urine, at the same time restoring the kidneys to healthy, normal action.

We feel that a great many readers will be pleased to learn of this simple prescription, and knowing the ability of the physician whose formula it is, we do not hesitate to recommend it to any sufferer.

ENGLAND

An exciting encounter took place one night recently between Mr. J. Swann, master of the Ribchester Workhouse, a lonely country institution between Preston and Blackburn, and a burglar. Hearing a noise about midnight he descended into the dining hall with a lamp, and was confronted by a man who exclaimed: "If you don't get out of this I'll blow your brains out" The master at once retorted, "Blow away, then," and immediately closed with the man. Being an old wrestler, the master soon had the man on his back. The man managed to get to his feet, strike the master a heavy blow on the face, but Mr. Swann eventually "got in with his left" and felled the man. Being of portly build, however, Mr. Swann began to show signs of exhaustion, and his antagonist eluded his grip and ran to the cook house. Here he was locked in, and the window being crossed by stout iron bars. Mr. Swann thought he had the man safely. The latter however succeeded in wrenching two of the bars away and smashing the window, jumped into the garden, pursued by Mr. Swann and two attendants. Under cover of the darkness he escaped leaving his boots and some clothing behind him.

A distressing story was told at an inquest on the body of Edwin William Taylor, a London restaurant manager, who was recently found dead. Taylor lost his situation two years since, and his efforts to find another were futile. He was in bed when discovered with one end of a piece of gas tubing in his mouth and the other attached to a bracket. A letter addressed to the coroner, read as follows: "To save you and the jury the trouble of adjourning the inquiry you may take it that I am Edwin Taylor, 59 years, married, and two daughters living. For nearly two years I have been off my legs and out of work, or rather, not been able to get work since being able to get about. As I cannot ask help from the union, I have lived by selling the home. For the past 43 years I have paid into the Prudential Insurance Company, and in returning your verdict leave out that awful word insanity—they might pay out some of the money on the policy. If no., the parish must put me under the ground, for my poor wife has not got a penny to do that office for me, and my girls have no money to do it."

Mr. J. Holstone, one of London's unemployed, residing at Townsend Road Beadnall, claims the distinction of having tramped since the later end of March no fewer than 1,100 miles in search of employment. Daily he has walked from Southall to Kensington and back, a total distance of twenty-five miles in the vain endeavor to find work in motor garages. His food has consisted only of a cup of tea and a piece of bread in the morning and a similarly scanty meal on retiring at night. When he first came to England from abroad—only little more than a year ago—he earned 70s weekly as a motor driver. Last March, however, he exceeded the speed limit, and since then although he has received numerous offers to drive motor omnibuses, he has been refused a license. With now only a large number of pawn tickets to account for his once neat little home, he has been reduced to the last extremity. To a press representative he told his story. "At home four little mouths, and my wife's haggard look, cry each night for bread I cannot give," he exclaimed bitterly.

The parish church at Llangaffo, Anglesey, is much perturbed over a dispute between the rector and the church choir of mixed voices. The parish clerk and leader of the choir agreed with the rector's suggestion that the choir, which occupied two big pews in the end of the edifice, should take up a more advantageous position near the pulpit. The choir master conveyed the rector's wishes to the members, who with one of two exceptions, resolved not to leave the old position. However, on entering the church the following Sunday morning, the choristers found that a red curtain obstructed the entrance to their usual sittings, whilst the choirmaster awaited their arrival in the reserved front seats. Without any hesitation the curtain was forced away, and the choir took their accustomed places, the service proceeding without any further untoward incident. When the congregation assembled on the succeeding Sunday it was found that the seats in the two square pews had been removed. Nevertheless, some of the male members of the choir stood throughout the service.

An extraordinary situation has arisen in connection with the Berks and Bucks Farmers' Hunt, which was hunted by King Edward when Prince of Wales. The master, Sir Robert Wilmot, recently resigned, and a special meeting held in the town hall, Maidenhead, recently, was informed that a large number of landowners and occupiers of land in East Berkshire had refused to allow stag hunting over their land if the staghounds were to be carried on by a committee. They were prepared, however, to give Sir R. Wilmot leave to hunt deer once a week, this permission to be purely personal and to be in force during his term of office. The meeting decided to carry on the hunt by trustees and a committee until a master is obtained. This means that the hunts will take place as usual even at the risk of a whole field being summoned for trespass by any one of the objectors.

A knocker raid of amazing audacity, was made upon the doors of Fulham, London in the early hours of a recent morning. Dozens of servants and house-wives in the district of Sands End waxed righteously indignant at breakfast over the failure of the milkman to give his customary useful knock. They had not yet discovered that he had nothing to knock with. The marauders in some streets had taken literally all they could get. In Hardingdon Road every door on one side was knockerless. Thirteen streets all lying within a radius of a quarter of a mile had been visited. Judging by the front doors, the quality of the knockers must have been a matter of indifference to the thieves. Old and new, artistic and hideous, all was scrap metal that came into thier grasp.

SCOTLAND

A thrilling occourrence is reported from Tangiehs', a little fishing hamlet on the Kincardineshire coast, a few miles from Montrose. Crab fishing is carried on largely there, and two of the fishers, Alexander Mowatt, an elderly man, and Strachan Pert, a boy of 15, were baiting their last creel when, unnoticed by them, a big wave broke over the stern of their little boat, and all but flung them out. Jumping to their oars, they tried to pull clear of the rough water, but another heavy swell came on, and, swamping the boat carried it some 20 yards inshore. Here two jagged rocks, just covered by the waves, held the boat fast, and for half an hour the man and boy clung to the gunwale desperately. The broken water surging around them threatened at every moment to tear them from their hold, but they clung on, Mowatt holding the boy, who was soon exhausted. They were some distance from the shore, and the water was so rough that it would have been impossible to swim, but by good fortune the cries of the unfortunate couple attracted the notice of the people on shore. At the great risk of his life, a fisherman named John Simpson set out in a small coble, and succeeded in taking Mowatt and Pert off. Scarcely were they rescued than the wrecked boat was pounded to pieces by the force of the seas, and in another minute the narrow passage to the shore became impassable through the violence of the seas.

Victor Beaute, a young Swiss, who has attracted considerable attention by his power to abstain from food for extraordinary lengths of time, entered upon a thirty-two days' fast in Dundee the other night. Beaute is by profession a chemist and in his early years was greatly inconvenienced by odipulency. He adopted fasting as a means of overcoming it, and his powers in this direction were found to be extraordinary. Beaute during the fasting period will live in a specially built house in a shop in Overgate. The structure is panelled with glass, through which Beaute is seen. On the slender meals afforded by cigarettes soda water Beaute will subsist. The chamber contains a sofa and other furniture, and the only entrance to it a small aperture in the wall, through which communications with the fasting man is obtained. In the presence of a number of witnesses Beaute entered his apartment. Prior to his doing so he was minutely examined. He appeared to be in the best of health and spirits, and he turned the scale at 161 1-2 pounds.

One morning recently Mr. Stewart, a gasfitter of Maryhill, Glasgoy, was preparing to go to his work when the gas supply in his house suddenly failed. Having found that the connections in his kitchen were all right, his suspicions were immediately aroused, and he hurried out and secured the assistance of two constables and a neighbor. A search was then made, and in the attics there was ample evidence that the place had been visited by a lead-stripper, some 15 lb. of the gas piping being found in a bundle. This had evidently been thrown down by the intruder, who shortly afterwards was observed hiding behind the chimney-head on the roof of the property. Nothing daunted, Mr. Stewart and the officers got out on the roof also, and an exciting chase followed. The fugitive scrambled from roof to roof, and on more than one occasion narrowly escaped falling to the ground, but was ultimately captured.

An apprentice pattermaker named Cantwell, who was employed in a Dundee foundry, was one afternoon recently engaged at a bench in the pattern shop fixing a wooden handle on to a drawpoint, a tool resembling a gimlet. For the purpose the unfortunate man had put the wooden handle into a vice and was pushing the drawpoint into the handle, the sharp end of the instrument pointing towards his body. Just as he was so engaged, Cantwell's companion on the bench heard his cry out, "I have put the drawpoint into my stomach." After uttering these words Cantwell fell to the floor. Assistance was speedily procured and Cantwell was carried to the foundry lodge, by which time he was unconscious. A doctor was called in and the young man conveyed to the infirmary, but he died shortly.

Robert Simpson and William McDougall were sentenced to five years' penal servitude recently at Edinburgh, for conspiracy to defraud the Glasgow Evening Citizen and the Glasgow Evening Times. The case arose out of a statement in the papers mentioned that Simpson had been arrested, and charged on his own confession with committing the Whitelnch murder. The newspapers had been hoaxed, and Simpson claimed heavy damages. The defence was that Simpson with three other men had conspired to send the message, and the jury found for defendants. Simpson and McDougall, with two other men, John S. Taylor, grocer, and Joseph Ferguson, were afterwards arrested The charge against Taylor and Ferguson was declared not proven, and they were liberated.

IRELAND

A pitched battle took place recently near Athenry Co., Galway, between peasants and police, both parties using firearms. Near midnight a large force of men assembled, and drove the cattle off a large grazing farm which the peasants want for a division among themselves. The police intervened, and were met by showers of stones from the cattle raiders. Several constables were injured, and their comrades fired on the crowd. The fire was returned, and another attack from an armed party in ambush made the police retreat. The raiders were then able to carry out their project unchecked. Several other land grazing farms have been cleared of stock. The dwelling-house of a man named Farrell, who was prosecuted by the United Irish League, has been attacked, and the doors and windows riddled with bullets and stones. Intimidation is prevalent over the entire district of Athenry and the police are almost powerless to deal with the lawlessness. Firing into houses when the inhabitants are asleep is a common occurrence. Alarming reports of similar incidents in many parts of the south and west are being received daily—and it is the general opinion that the government will be forced to take strong measures in order to protect the lives of the persons who have come under the ban of the league.

There was much genuine Irish humour in a pretty colleen's action for breach of promise, recently concluded at Dublin, where Miss Duggan, of Queen's County sued Daniel Carroll, a shopkeeper of the same county for £1,000. Defendant said that in 1904 he went to a card party at the Duggan's house, and kissed the plaintiff, but there was not a word about marriage. In 1906 he became engaged to another young lady, but he continued on friendly terms with the Duggans. Last January he attended a funeral and returned with the plaintiff's brother, he having taken a good deal of drink. He shook hands with Miss Duggan on returning, and asked her to sit on his knee, and she did, and he put his arms round her. It was true that he locked his hands round her. The Judge: Did you ask her to kiss you—honour bright? No. Did you say to her brother, "Now look at the lock I have or—a lock that could not be broken"?—I did not say it could not be broken. Didn't it occur to you that it was rather a dangerous thing to have this young lady on your knee in the presence of her brother?—I looked upon it as a harmless flirtation. The jury awarded the plaintiff £60 damages.

A lion belonging to a travelling menagerie escaped from its cage and caused great alarm and excitement among the people who flocked into Mitchelstown on a recent market day by suddenly rushing into their midst. The buyers and sellers were scattered in all directions, and never ceased their helter-skelter flight until places of comparative safety were reached. For some minutes the lion prowled aroound in isolation and all business was at a standstill. The affrighted townsfolk gazed from their windows upon the intruder, in fear and trembling as to what would happen next, although the animal's demeanor was not so aggressive as might have been expected. He was not allowed to wander at will for any length of time, however, for the stout-hearted young men armed with guns and a pike started off in pursuit and an exciting chase ensued. Badly wounded, the animal eventually beat a retreat to the railway station, where a railway guard, armed with a revolver, put an end to its career.

A large number of extra police were drafted into Strokestown the other day in view of a threatened demonstration at the residence of Mr. Geo. Kelly, the magistrate who presided at the Hill street Petty Sessions recently, when a number of persons convicted of unlawful assembly were sent to jail, and who has since been rigorously boycotted. During Mass in Strokestown Church the parish priest referred in deprecatory terms to the proposed demonstration, and said there was one man in the parish he blamed for all the disturbance. Immediately a member of the congregation stood up and exclaimed: "Then there are two men," and left the building. The priest prevented the local band going out by taking possession of the drum. There was no demonstration, and extra police returned to their stations.

Committed for trial a few weeks ago on a murder charge, John Shirlock, aged 65 years, died suddenly in the Castlebar Lunatic Asylum one night recently. The man, who developed symptoms of mania, had been removed from jail to the asylum. Shirlock lived with his son-in-law, whom he was accused of murdering. The widow of the murdered man has been in a state of distraction since the death of her husband, and the arrest of her father. She has refused to enter her house, stating that the ghosts of her husband and father appear to her. The people in the district, who one and all believe in the supernatural, shun the house and its vicinity after dark.

Congratulations on Orby's triumph in the Derby have been showered upon Mr. Richard Croker since his return to Ireland. One night recently two bands, accompanied by a large gathering, proceeded to Mr. Croker's residence at Glencairn and gave him an enthusiastic reception when he appeared. Mr. Croker, addressing the gathering said it was natural that they should all feel proud and enthusiastic over the winning of the Derby and bringing the honour back to Old Ireland. He was sure that if Orby could speak—and he could very nearly do so—he would express his hearty thanks for their kindness.

A fatal accident occurred the other afternoon at the new Belfast Hippodrome during a matinee performance given by the directors in aid of the Queen's College fete fund. Hildegard Mongenroth, a German girl of about 17, belonging to a troupe of trick cyclists, was finishing the "turn" when she fell heavily on the stage, and was so seriously injured that she died within ten minutes. The students of Queen's College decided to give the orders proceeds of the performance to the relatives of the deceased. The accident was witnessed by the girl's father and four brothers.

A reign of terror is said to exist in the County Cook where bailiffs—when when offered police protection—refuse to serve writs in some parts, and the judge made an order, allowing service to be effected by letter. A barrister said that, to his knowledge, for the past twelve months civil bill officers and others accustomed to serve writs in some neighbourhoods had refused to serve any for rent as in some cases these had been taken by force from them and the men subjected to brutal violence. The civil bill officers had absolutely refused to serve writs, fearing violence and personal injury.

A farmer who lives on an island in the Shannon estuary recently took a horse by boat to the mainland, worked it all the day, and at evening turned it loose on the shore. When the owner awoke next morning on his island he found the horse grazing near its stable. The animal was dripping wet, and there is no doubt that it swam from the mainland to its island home, a distance of nearly three miles.

The memorial to the Royal Dublin Fusiliers who fell in South Africa is rapidly approaching completion, and, taking as it does the form of classic triumphal archway entrance to the St. Stephens Green Gardens, Dublin, it will make a most beautiful and appropriate memorial. It is thought the memorial will be unveiled either by the King or by the Duke of Connaught this month.

There was an exciting scene at the International Exposition at Dublin one evening recently. A boat-load had been started on its journey on the water chute, and reached the water all right, but from some mismanagement struck the side of the island in the centre of the pond, and upset, throwing its occupants into the water, which was about five feet deep.

By the capsizing of a pleasure boat in Penobscot Bay six young men of Bangor were drowned.

THE EXPERIENCE OF MANY WOMEN

Demonstrate Beyond All Cavil That Pe-ru-na Is a Safe and Useful Household Remedy.

Read What the Women Say.

Chronic Hoarseness.

Mrs. Delia C. Cameron, Healdsburg, Cal., member Daughters of America, writes:

"Having tried many remedies for chronic catarrh of the bronchial tubes, and not receiving any benefit, I began to think there was no help for me until I began to use Peruna.

"In a short time the bronchial tubes began to clear, I did not have that 'frog in my throat' continually, my voice was not nearly so husky, and the wheezing noise disappeared.

"I was soon able to believe that I was entirely free from catarrh, and as this was several months ago, I do not believe that it will return."

The above group of women could be multiplied by ten thousand without reaching the number that have been helped by taking Peruna.

Catarrh of the Stomach.

Miss Emily Koch, 914 Michigan Ave., Sheboygan, Wis., writes:

"I can heartily recommend Peruna for catarrh of the stomach. I had tried many things which did me no good and as a last resort I got a bottle of Peruna.

"I only regret that I did not try it before I forced so much bad stuff into my stomach. It has entirely cured me and as a preventative I always keep a bottle in the house.

"I gladly recommend it to all who are afflicted as I was."

Bronchial Catarrh.

Mrs. Wm. Hohmann, 509 N. Paulina St., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. When a child it was supposed to be whooping cough or the croup, but as I got older it got worse.

"After a while it got so bad I had to cough both winter and summer. Finally I burst a blood vessel in my throat from the strain of coughing, next a blood vessel in my stomach, so I kept getting worse and doctoring, and even then could get no relief.

"I went to a dispensary for treatment, but it all done me no good. At night I could never lie on my back. I would sit up until two or three o'clock in the morning before I could close my eyes. Then of course, I thought, and everybody else that I had consumption.

"Reading the papers about Peruna I decided to try it without the least hope that it would do me any good. But after taking three bottles I noticed a change. My appetite got better, so I kept on, never got discouraged.

"Now I can lie on my back and sleep all night, and you may well think how thankful I am for Peruna."

A Wasting Disease.

Mrs. Roxa Tyler, 6210 Madison Avenue, Chicago, Ill., Vice President of the Illinois Woman's Alliance, writes:

"During the past year I gradually lost flesh and strength until I was unable to perform my work properly. I tried different remedies, and finally Peruna was suggested to me.

"It gave me new life and restored my strength. I cannot speak too highly of it."

LAKE KETCHEWANOOKA FOR 'LUNGE

Bass However Are Not Biting Extra Wel —Interesting News From the Point

Examiner Special.

Young's Point, July 10.—The summer resort season here is now in full swing and everything points to a most successful season for the public.

The 'lunge fishing has never been better for many years and many good catches have been made. Mr. Peter Phelan, a man of 80 years, succeeded in landing 4 fine specimens the other day and Messrs. Jas. and Percy Pammet caught 5 while trawling through Lake Ketchewancoka from Lakefield to the Point. Bass are apparently not hungry these days and few catches are reported.

The Government job here has now been completed and a great improvement has been made. New fences have been built and painted; a verandah has been attached to the stonehouse with a large sign "Young's Point" erected on it and seats have been laid along the bank of the canal. So great is the change that many passing through scarcely recognise the spot.

Mr. Buchanan, the contractor deserves great credit for the manner in which the work was completed.

Mr. Ernest Hill, of Ottawa spent a few days last week the guest of Mr. P. P. Young.

Mr. Michael Costello and sons, of Niagara Falls visited Mr. P. P. Young last week.

Mr. Bart Heard, of Peterborough, spent Dominion Day at his home here.

Among the guests recently registered at the Lakeview House, are, Messrs. Ed. Carr, C. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Menzies, Mr. Wm. Brightman and daughter, Miss Perry, and Mr. Thos. Houlihan, of Peterborough; Messrs. Al. Benjamin and Wm. F. O'Reilly, of Rochester, and J. Hogan and Jake Amberger, of New York.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

The Sunshine way of placing coal in the furnace.

THE LARGE DOUBLE FEED DOORS

on the Sunshine furnace provide an opening deep and wide enough to admit great rough chunks of wood that would either have to be wasted, or chopped up for an ordinary furnace.

As for putting coal in the Sunshine, why, it's the easiest thing imaginable!

Such a generous opening would be next to impossible to miss. And you can easily deposit the coal in any spot you desire.

After you have experimented with small feed-doors, and hit the edge of the door frame a few times, you will recognize more completely the ease and advantage of the Sunshine method. The illustrations hint at the difference.

If you will examine the fire-pot of the Sunshine you will notice that the sides are straight up and down.

On many furnaces the fire-pots slope, forming a rest on which the ashes accumulate.

As ashes are non-conductors of heat they prevent the fire-pot from radiating as much heat as it should; they clog up the draft and deaden the fire.

But the Sunshine fire-pot is a wonderful radiator of heat. No ashes can cling to the straight, sheer sides of its fire-pot. The live, red-hot coals are always snug up to them. There is nothing to prevent the radiation of every unit of heat produced by the fuel.

The Sunshine is the most scientifically and perfectly constructed furnace. It radiates most heat with less consumption of fuel. It is the easiest-managed, cleanest, greatest labor and fuel economizer you can buy.

If your local dealer does not handle the Sunshine, write direct to us for Free Booklet.

Mr. H. A. Thurston, of 228 Vermont St. E., Indianapolis, Restored by Ferrozone.

"A year ago I took the grippe. I was as weak as a child. I was no longer able to eat. My blood was thin. My cheeks were white and hollow. Doctors gave me all kinds of medicine, but none of them brought me strength. My friends said I was wasting away with some slow disease, and I bade them good-bye. Then I heard of the wonderful Ferrozone. After three days it gave me an appetite. I gained strength and became cheerful. Under Ferrozone I improved steadily. I am well to-day. I weigh fifteen pounds heavier than ever before, and feel like a new man.

HOW THE RICHEST MAN IN THE WORLD GOT HIS START

"I started wiht $50."

The lips of the "richest man in the world," who controls a thousand million, let fall this simple sentence yesterday.

As he stood talking, at the first glance he did not appear remarkable.

He was fanning himself with a $2 straw hat with a tight crown and a broad black band.

His coat, of rough, black material, hung loosely from a pair of shoulders slightly inclined to stoop. His trousers were a modest grey. One ornament, a pearl scarf pin, was stuck in a black four-in-hand tie.

"Yes, I started in life with $50," said the "modern Croesus," ruminatingly.

"What is the secret of your success, Mr. Rockefeller?" was asked.

The cool, gray eyes of the man of millions lighted up. Raising his hand impressively, he said:

"Do right. There is no success worthy the name that is not based on the right. Make others believe in you. Make them trust you, not only for your integrity, but for your ability as well. That is all the capital you need. That is all I had. That and $50."

"Have you any ill feeling toward Judge Landis, or against any of the United States authorities, who have compelled you to come to Chicago and testify in this Standard Oil hearing?"

The money king looked quietly at the questioner.

"I feel ill toward no man," he said slowly.

Suddenly he looked quizzically at the interviewer.

"I do not have any ill feeling toward newspaper men," he remarked, "although they have been persistent."

Then he added:

"I respect every man who has to work and who is trying to get along."

Before the interview was closed Mr. Rockefeller asked that the report that he had been sliding and had been caught by subpoena servers in a trap, hiding behind a tree, be corrected.

"The moment I knew that a subpoena had been issued I telegraphed to the marshal in New York and also to Judge Landis, saying that I was ready to obey the summons," he explained.

Mr. Rockefeller had a trying day, but came through the ordeal in a calm and unruffled spirit.

Mr. Rockefeller's day of rapidly-moving events began early in the morning. A mild-mannered old gentleman, with slightly stooped shoulders, carrying a black walking stick, was seen strolling about the flower beds on the lawn of the Harold McCormick mansion, 88 Bellevue place, at 8.15 o'clock.

A few minutes later he stepped out on the porch, accompanied by his brother, William Rockefeller, and his son-in-law, Harold F. McCormick.

When a big, powerful touring car was run out of the stables and backed up to the porch, Mr. Rockefeller jumped nimbly inside and was followed by the other two men.

When the party sped by the newspaper crowd, John D. Rockefeller's features lighted into a smile as he saw his ancient enemies lined up with cameras and notebooks.

His hand swept to his hat with a courteous gesture, and the next moment he waved it gayly at the reporters.

Mr. Rockefeller was soon bowled down town, where an ordeal awaited him. He was met by curious thousands, who surrounded the big federal building, fighting, struggling, pushing and shoving one another in their wild efforts to catch one glimpse of the most wonderfully human money-making machine of all ages.

Then the oil king entered Mr. Eddy's office, closely followed by William Rockefeller and Harold McCormick.

A few minutes afterward he emerged and the entire party hurried to the federal building.

On the sixth floor the corridors were packed. People were fighting and scrambling to get into the court room. The officers were not using their fists any too gently. They could not, as only brute strength had any effect on the curiosity seekers.

Mr. Rokcefeller entered the court room at 9.45 a.m., and immediately sat down. Judge Landis was not present, but entered a few minutes later. When court was opened, Mr. Rockefeller arose to his feet with the other occupants of the court room, while the court was declared formally opened.

Soudenly Judge Landis said:

"John D. Rockefeller, take the witness chair."

The man of millions rose obediently.

Just as he started forward his attorneys rushed up to the bench.

Mr. Rockefeller sank back in his seat with a flickering smile. He knew that his attorneys were making a fight to keep him out of that chair.

In another moment the smile faded. Once more his name was called. The court had decided that he would have to testify.

Mr. Rockefeller took his stand slowly. His cane was tucked under his arm.

When he got in the witness box and sank into the chair, only the upper portion of his face was visible to the judge.

The Rockefeller eyes were gazing coldly and inquiringly over the railing at Judge Landis.

There was no shadow of anxiety in their depths.

Judge Lordis moved forward so that he could see all of the Rockefeller face.

Then came the battle.

Question followed question, and Rockefeller never faltered in his answers, but sometimes he "didn't know."

Then again he would reply in a clear, low-pitched voice:

"I cannot very well answer that question."

However, he could not very well evade some questions, and the spectators gasped when he spoke of the millions of capitalization and the millions of profits of the company.

In twenty-five minutes Mr. Rockefeller had concluded his testimony.

Then came another maddened rush from the court room. People crowded into the halls and tried to get close to the oil king.

Lieutenant O'Toole got Mr. Rockefeller to a secret exit. Here a number of secret service men surrounded him. Captain Porter rapped on a bronze door with his cane, and one of the freight elevators came up and took the party to the ground floor.

The police worked to clear another path, and the Rockefeller party entered the automobile and was driven rapidly to the McCormick mansion.

The newspaper men were there as quickly as Mr. Rockefeller.

A dozen cameras were out on the sidewalk.

"Here is your man," shouted Mr. Rockefeller, boyishly, and he passed his brother William to the front.

Then, when he saw that the ruse did not work, he smiled broadly, and on being entreated to pose, said:

"Well, I suppose I might as well. Here, William, you get in the picture, too."

William did, and they both posed with their hats off, and in different positions.

Mr. Rockefeller apparently was enjoying himself and did not appear to be fatigued.—Chicago Record-Herald's report of John D. Rockefeller in Chicago.

EFFECTS OF HAVING NO NEWSPAPER

In Butte, Mont., None Was Issued for 39 Days, and No One Wants to Repeat the Experience

MERCHANTS FELT IT

Cedar Rapids, Ia., July 13.—"Never has there been in this country such convincing evidence that the life and prosperity of a city rest largely on its newspapers, as was exemplified in Butte, Mon., a city of 90,000 people, where for thirty-nine days the newspapers all were suspended because of labour troubles," declared Arthur B. Bailey, a New York broker, who was here this week en route home after a trip through the Northwest.

Mr. Bailey says the spring stocks of goods were not more than one-quarter disposed of. Business men admitted they never before half appreciated the value of newspaper advertising. The circular letter and handbill brands of exploitation were tried, but proved dismal failures.

The inferiority of billboard advertising to the daily newspapers was attested by the theatres, which languished for patronage because the public was deprived of reliable information concerning the plays.

The stock exchanges were hard hit. Outside investers refused to take serious account of the circulars purporting to give correct quotations and held back, awaiting the guarantee of accuracy which goes with the recognized and republic daily newspapers.

"Wild rumours filled the air," Mr. Bailey said, "which had a depressing effect on business in general. Malicious stories were circulated. It was reported that the leading grocer had failed for hundreds of thousands of dollars. The owner of the largest department store in the State was said to be curtailing his business and his solvency was doubted. As a matter of fact, the merchant was laying off clerks by the score because the absence of newspaper advertising had left his aisles empty.

"It was rumoured that a former Mayor had killed himself; report had a prominent brewer killed, and he had to hasten home from a winter resort to convince his friends he was alive. Rumour divorced a dozen couples and started unfortunate stories the newspapers were afterwards obliged to deny. Rumour, in short, provide conclusively the service which newspapers perform in keeping the people informed of the truth.

"If you want to see a chaotic condition go to a city where there are no daily newspapers issued for a month or more," Mr. Bailey said in conclusion.

CANADA'S NEW BUFALO HERD; STORY OF THEIR ACQUISITION

occupied in making the trip was but 63 hours, and it is worthy of note that but four animals of the 200 were lost, two in the round-up and two in transit. As one of these was an old cow and the other had been badly injured in a fight, the performance was a most creditable one.

The little town of Lamont was all agog on the day of the arrival of the special bringing the herd. For weeks past men had been at work making preparation for their reception and visitors had arrived from all parts of Alberta to witness the unloading. At the station chutes had been built, leading into the corrall, and from that there was an opening into a larger enclosure. At the chutes the scenes at Ravalli were reproduced on a smaller scale, for many of the animals did not want to leave the cars. The doors were opened, the barriers removed, and men with sticks tried to force the beasts out.

MISS PABLO.

A dusky young heiress, said to be worth a hundred thousand dollars in her own right. The cape worn by Miss Pablo is ornamented with elks' teeth, and is worth from $1,200 to $2,000.

Most Exciting and Dangerous

Many of them resisted, and ropes had to be brought into play. The work was exciting and dangerous. A man would be assiduously at work trying to goad one of the beasts into travelling down the chute, and would become so interested in his work that he would loose sight of the dangers temporarily. Suddenly, with a roar, the animal would wheel, and the venturesome one would scramble or fall away from the side of the car, terrified by the sight of those vicious horns and wicked eyeds in such close proximity. It was fun for the spectators, who enjoyed themselves tremendously.

Finally the train was ready for the final drive to Elk Island Park, where the herd is destined to make its home for the future. When they first left the train many of them had been greatly weakened by the close confinement and the long ride, but a rest of a day in the open had invigorated them and when the gates were opened they started away with a rush, or, at least, some of them did. Several had not got over their disinclination to being driven and several times charged the little group of mounted men who followed. Slowly they advanced across the two miles of intervening level prairie, and finally disappeared over a wooded knoll into the park, which is one of the many spots which the government has set apart as reservations for the propagation and preservations of some of Canada's finest game animals, as well as for object lessons for generations yet to come.

Elk Island Park comprises sixteen sections of land in the form of a square, four miles on each side. Part of it is open prairie, and the balance wooded, while scattered through it are several island-studded lakes. In addition to the buffalo there will be a herd of elk established there, and any other animals which will thrive in such surroundings. It is expected that the nattural increase of the buffalo will bring the herd up to a thousand within a few years, and as their numbers grow too numerous for the space provided, they will be shipped to other portions of the country, or sold for exhibition purposes in the public parks of Canada. The price paid for these animals, an average of $300 per head, could be more than realized on the sale of their heads and hides alone, for mounted heads, of good quality and size, bring $500 each in the open market, with but few offered. An exchange of seven bulls has been made with the herd at Banff, so that a new strain of blood has been infused into both of the herds, and a similar interchange from time to time will serve to keep the strain strong and vigourous.

At both Ravalli and Lamont the work of handling the animals was in direct charge of Michael Pablo himself, assisted by Howard Douglas, superintendent of the National Park at Banff, and Frank Walker, of Fort Saskatchewan. Pablo is an interesting figure, and one of the few survivors of the old time cattle men of the west. He is a Mexican by birth, who came to Montana many years ago to engage in the business. His wife is a full blooded Shoshone, both of their children showing strong traces of both races. He is estimated to be worth about half a million, his holdings consisting of many acres of fine grazing land, with huge herds of cattle and droves of horses. He still retains a number of buffalo, but will not go into the business on anything like the former scale.

ELECTED DELEGATES TO HIGH COURT

Members of Court Chemong, I. O. F., Who Will Attend Meeting to be Held at Ottawa

At the meeting of Court Chemong, 530, I.O.F., the following were elected as delegates to the High Court of Eastern Ontario, which meets in Ottawa on August 21 and 22: Bros. A Allison, S P C R; Thomas Dale, C D; W G McKee, V C R; W H G Armstrong, and Companion Wallace, also High Officer Bro D Wallace, P C R. The alternate delegates are Bros. F C Rooke, G W Powell, N A H Moore and Wm Miles. The work of Bro. A. Bradscaw, D S C R, resulted in 12 applications being received and considered by the court and quite a number were then initiated by Chief Ranger Bro Wm Miles. A large initiation will again take place at the regular meeting on July 25. Further arrangements were also made regarding the excursion on Labour Day, Monday, September 2, and the chartering of the new, spacious steamer Otonabee has now been completed.

Interesting History Of Canadian General Electric

A Comparison of the Earnings and Progress Made During the Last Five Years of Company's History.

STEADY PROGRESS MADE

In view of the importance, from an industrial standpoint, to the city of Peterborough, of the prosperity of the Canadian General Electric Co., the following article from the Toronto Star, in reference to the recent decision to increase the capital stock, will be read with considerable interest here:

While the stock market has taken an unfavourable view of Canadian General Electric's new financing, it is easy to figure out that the extra dividend charge incurred by the proposed issue of $2,000,000 seven per cent. preferred stock will be nothing for the present holder of common sstock to worry about. Adding $2,000,000 seven per cent. preferred stock to the capital, which is all that is proposed to issue at present, adds $140,000 a year to fixed charges. To offset this is the wiping out of the $300,000 six per cent. preferred stock issue, which took annual dividends of $18,000, the $160,000 Northey bonds which may have been either 5 or 6 per cent., say 6 per cent., taking $9,600 a year. The bank overdraft of, say, $1,500,000, at 6 per cent. interest, makes another $90,000. If this is to be also wiped out, the company will accordingly save roughly $90,000 x $18,000 x $9,600, or a total of $117,600 yearly, to offset an added fixed charge of $140,000, the net increase to fixed charges being thus only some $23,000 a year which isn't enough to imperil the common stock dividend.

But this is perhaps too roseate a view. To begin with it will cost the company something for commissions, etc., to place its preferred stock at par. This may be only 5 per cent., but might be 10 per cent., or $200,000. Call it 5 per cent., however, giving them thus $1,900,000 cash, for which they will have to pay 7 per cent. on $2,000,000. Of this amount the retirement of the Northey bonds, and the $300,000 six per cent., preferred stock, is retired at par, and not at a premium, leaving $1,440,000 to apply on bank overdraft. According to the last annual statement this amounted to about $1,200,000 in round figures. It is now, as said before, estimated at $1,500,000. If this is pretty near it, the company will be able to practically wipe out the overdraft if they chose to do so, that is, provided the bank overdraft is no larger. On the street in some quarters, it is said that it is considerably larger, too large to be wiped out by the sum the company will be able to set aside for that purpose. From the following table published by the courtesy of Baillie, Wood and Croft, it appears that in six years the company's capital has increased $3,200,000 not counting this latest increase, or at the rate of 200.80 per cent., while in the same time total earnings have increased $436,525, or at the rate of 133.09 per cent. The figures on which this calculation is based, follow:

July 1, 1907, $2,000,000 7 per cent. preferred stock authorized for sale in England.

Capital in six years increased say $3,200,000, or 200.80 per cent.

Total earnings six years increased say $436,525, or 133.09 per cent.

As to the general outlook for the company, it is pointed out that the Canadian General Electric will from now on have the benefit of the extensions which have been made during the past year. The extension to the machine shops at the Canada Foundry, is now occupied, and the new pipe works there are now in operation, and the new building at Peterborough will soon be ready for occupation. The force of men at the Canada Foundry is now the largest in the history of the company, numbering about 1500 men. The use of the new building erected will, it is expected, largely increase the output at both Peterborough and Davenport, and profits this fiscal year are expected to reach a new high water mark.

THOUSANDS OF WEARERS OF THE ORANGE CELEBRATED IN TWO ADJACENT VILLAGES

Havelock and Millbrook Were Crowded Yesterday by Members of the Orange Order and Thousands of Visitors---Parades Were Described as Complete Successes

PETERBOROUGH'S INTEREST WAS DIVIDED

Interest, so far as Peterborough was concerned, in the Orange celebration yesterday, was divided, a number going to Millbrook — the greater number in fact — and others to Havelock, where a walk, attended by lodges from the eastern portion of the county, as well as from those located in the neighbouring counties of Hastings and Northumberland, was held.

In Havelock there were about 600 Orangemen in line, and it is estimated that the visitors numbered about 5,000.

Addresses were given by prominent local members of the Order. The crowd was the largest in the history of the town, and the celebration is described as a complete success.

Millbrook was visited by an immense crowd of people, special trains being run on the G.T.R., from various contiguous points, and several thousand Orangemen, in addition to the visitors, who were not members of the Order, were present. Among the speakers was Rev. A. H. Brace, of Peterborough.

The celebrations in each case were attended by no untoward circumstances, and were in every respect, successful, the addresses being marked by moderation, and a commendable appreciation of the true principles which acutuate Orangemen.

GREATEST CELEBRATION IN HISTORY OF TOWN, THAT IN MILLBROOK

With flags flying from numerous flagstaffs, signs of "Welcome" adorning the streets and everywhere orange ribbon and bunting in profusion, Millbrook yesterday welcomed the Orangemen of Peterborough and Millbrook district to celebrate the 217th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

And such a crowd as gathered to participate in keeping green the memory of the Prince of Orange.

Millbrook had never seen such a crowd before and the probabilities are tath many more years will elapse before such another gathering is held in the pretty little town to the south. It is conservatively estimated that there were 6,000 visitors in Millbrook yesterday and the celebration will go down in history as one of the largest ever held in this part of the province. The Grand Trunk, which ran excursions from Fenelon Falls, Port Hope and Peterborough carried 3,000 people into Millbrook and it is a safe estimate that 3,000 people reached the celebration by other means of conveyance, in carriages, on bicycles, on foot and almost every other known means of locomotion. People streamed into the village from early morn until well on in the afternoon and then they started to take their departure.

There were people everywhere and as nearly everyone wore the bright colours of the Orange Order the scene was a beautiful and brilliant one. Some idea of the magnitude of yesterday's celebration at Millbrook may be had from the fact that it was greater than last year's demonstration at Lindsay and those who were in Lindsay on July 12th, 1906, were unanimous in the opinion that it was the largest celebration ever held in this part of Ontario. But Millbrook was greater. Nearly forty lodges were in line; there were fifteen fife and drum bands and seven brass bands; the parade was over a mile in length and included over 2,000 Orangemen. The above facts will give an idea of the way the glorious twelfth was celebrated at Millbrook.

Peterborough's Contingent

The Peterborough lodges and those from Lakefield, Nassau and Downar's Corners reached Millbrook about 11.30 o'clock and were met at the station by several lodges that had already arrived and were escorted down town where they had dinner. Millbrook was en fete for the occasion. Flags floated from numerous flagstaffs, "Welcome" signs were stretched across the streets leading to the town, while everywhere there was orange ribbon and bunting galore. With hundreds of people thronging the streets the scene was indeed an animated one. The people of Millbrook had made excellent provision for feeding the numerous visitors. In addition to the hotels and numerous private places where meals could be secured, the different churches served refreshments of a substantial nature and did a big business. All along the main street booths where soft drinks, fruit, ice cream, etc. were sold, had been erected and those behind the counters were kept as busy as bees during the day.

The Procession

About one o'clock the procession was formed on Main street and marched around the principal streets of the village before proceeding to Allan's Grove, where the speech-making took place. It was the greatest parade ever seen in the town, being over a mile in length. One of the best views of the procession could be obtained from the hill near the grove where the speeches took place and a splendid sight it was. With the banners glinting in the sunshine and the bright colours of the hundreds of Orangemen the scene down the main street was one that beggars description. The brass bands played with enthusiasm and the shrill notes of the fife comingled with the resonant tones of the drum. There was music on every hand and everyone caught up the spirit and joined in the celebration.

The procession was composed as follows:—

SPRINGVILLE HAS FREAK TURKEY; AN EGG HATCHED TWO CHICKS

Examiner Special.

Springville, July 13.—Mr. Alex. Laing has a turkey that believes in giving good measure. Some few weeks ago, in hatching out a setting of turkey eggs, it was found that there were more turkeys than eggs. This was an unheard-of circumstance, and an investigation resulted in the discovery that from the egg two turkeys had been hatched. They were somewhat smaller than the others, but were apparently perfectly formed, and gave promise of a life of average length and usefulness. They were, however, unable to combat with the vicissitudes of this life, and, after lingering for a few weeks, they both died.

WORKMAN CHOPPED OFF HIS EMPLOYER'S FINGERS

Examiner Special.

Springville, July 13.—An unfortunate accident occurred on the scene of operations of the excavation for the Cavan drain, and by it Contractor Hilton lost the first finger of his right hand. He had working for him a young Scotchman, and the latter, in splitting a piece of hardwood which Mr Hilton was holding, struck the latter's hand instead of the wood, severing the first finger completely and cutting the second finger badly. It is expected, however, that it will be possible to save it. The accident occurred at a particularly inopportune time.

Canadian Bill Posters' Convention Here May 24th

Mr. Walter Stocker Returned From Annual Meeting — Important Resolution Regarding Objectionable Posters.

MR. LINDSAY, PRESIDENT

Mr. Walter Stocker returned home last night from Niagara Falls, Ont., where he presided at the annual convention of the Canadian Bill Posters Association, which opened last Monday in the City Hall. Mr. Stocker reports having a splendid time, and while away spent a week in Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Hamilton and St. Catharines and other places.

The members of the association were received on Monday by the Mayor of Niagara Falls, and during their convention decided to hold the next Canadian meeting in Peterborough, on May 24th of next year. Mr. Chas C. Lindsay, manager of the Winnipeg Bill Posting Co., was elected president, in view of his vigourous work in connection with the welfare of the association, in succession to Mr. Stocker, who has held the position for five years. There were forty-six cities and towns of Canada represented at the meeting.

On the following day the Canadian representatives attended the National Convention of Bill Posters and Distributors in the Cataract Hotel, Niagara Falls, N. Y., where some prominent questions were considered. The most important was that of the distribution of sensational, vicious or suggestive titles for posters, and in regard to this it will be the policy of the association members to handle no paper not looked upon as proper. Inasmuch as they control 997 per cent. of the posting privileges of the United States and Canada they are in a position to bring about reform in this respect, and they put themselves on record as being opposed to the posting of objectionable paper. The next National Convention will be held in Denver, Col.

Mr. Stocker was accompanied west by his wife and family and besides attending to duties, spent an enjoyable time.

The Blairton Iron Mines May Re-open Again Soon

Mining Men in the Village Recently Supposed to be Negotiating With the Owners.

HOPING FOR THE BEST

Examiner Special.

Blairton, July 13. — The Blairton iron mines of Belmont, here, will, in all probability be re-opened in the near future. This is the general opinion of Blairton residents, who have been in close touch with the proceedings in connection with the mine during the past three or four weeks.

About a fortnight ago, two gentlemen, a Canadian and an American, representing large mining companies were in the village looking over the site upon which the iron mine is situated.

The mine is owned by the Messrs. Pierce of Marmora, and it is understood around Blairton that they have refused a large offer. The latest developments regarding the supposed sale are yet in the background but the prospects are that the property has been disposed of.

It is rumoured that the two mining men will be here in a few days' time with a diamond drill to locate the mineral, which, according to statements, forms a good percentage of the rock.

The mines are situated in the village of Blairton, which is about 3 miles from the C. P. R. station of the same name, and about 7 miles from Havelock. They cover an area of about 25 acres and are close to the village. Should they be re-opened again, a siding from the C.P. R. track would be built here.

The citizens are living in hopes of this being accomplished, as the village has practically been dead since their closing.

20 MINUTE SERMON IN PARK STREET

Rev. A. H. Brace Inaugurates an Innovation in Sunday Evening Services in This Church

A twenty-minute sermon on Sunday nights during the summer months is the plan adopted by Rev. A. H. The adherents of that church are showing appreciation of this consideration for their feelings during the depressing summer evenings.

Dead Man's Body Discovered Beside The Railway Track

CELEBRATE IN PETERBOROUGH IN 1908, IS THE PROPOSAL

It is three years since an Orange Celebration was held in Peterborough, and it is expected that next year the walk will take place in this city. On the occasion of the celebration in 1904, there was the largest turn out in the history of similar parades in Peterborough, and the event was such a success that it is expected that no objection will be raised to the proposal to hold it here in 1908. A number of prominent Orangemen were spoken to last night in reference to the proposal, and they expressed their opinion that the decision would be reached to celebrate here next year.

In that event, the minor celebrations which were this year held in some of the smaller places will be abandoned and all the lodges will come to Peterborough.

COUNTERFEIT CASE STILL A SENSATION AMONG LINDSAY FOLK

Excitement Caused Yesterday by a Rumour That the Prisoners Had Confessed—Police Are Reticient Over the Matter---Lawyer Won't Talk.

RELATIVES PROSTRATED

Much Sympathy is Expressed for Them—Lindsay Citizens Regret That The Affair Has Taken Place — Logie's Home-Coming on Thursday a Sad Event.

Special Staff Correspondent.

Lindsay, July 12.—The arrest of the alleged counterfeiters is still almost the sole topic of conversation in Lindsay, despite the attractions to-day that would ordinarily have occupied the thoughts of the people. In addition to the Orange celebration in Millbrook, which brought out a large number of the local and district Orangemen with the customary display and music, the Hargreave's circus was exhibiting in the town.

Chief Topic of Conversation

An Examiner reporter, who was in Lindsay to-day for the purpose of gaining some information concerning the case for the benefit of Peterborough readers, found that even these powerful attractions were not sufficient to cause Lindsay residents to forget that four of their hitherto respected residents are in the toils charged with a most serious crime. Wherever men and women for that matter, get together in Lindsay, the case is all that is discussed. The names of the prisoners are on everybody's tongues, and universal surprise and regret is expressed at the event which many of the citizens of Lindsay seem to regard as a reflection on the town generally.

Surprise is Felt.

This latest feeling seemed to be one of surprise. Lindsay people cannot see why the men should have been implicated in such a case. Four of them, Burke, Wynn, Bouyea and Logie are men past the prime of life, and all but Bouyea were in comfortable circumstances, having enough money for the necessities, as well as a good many of the luxuries of life. They were not forced to do what they are alleged to have done by poverty. In fact, one citizen seemed to be of the opinion that they entered upon the making of bogus money more as a pastime than from a desire to become wealthy. "They have had too much time on their hands," was the way he expressed it.

Said to Have Confessed

The chief sensation to-day, following the arrival in the town on Thursday night of Robert Logie, is the rumour that is persistently circulating to the effect that the prisoners in custody here have confessed to the authorities, and have told all they know about the case. It is said that Burke claimed that the counterfeit bills were sold to him by some one whose name and address he does not know. Whether this rumour is correct or not could not be ascertained

NEW SERIAL STORY TO COMMENCE ON SATURDAY

Next Saturday the Examiner will commence the publication of a new serial story, "The Helmet of Navarre." The concluding chapter of the present story is given to-day, and next Saturday the opening instalment of the new story will be given. It is one of the most interesting stories ever secured for publication in serial form, and the Examiner feels confident that its readers will be pleased with its selection, and will consider it in keeping with the quality of serials given them in these columns.

Be sure and secure a copy of next Saturday's paper so as not to miss the opening chapter.

TRIED TO CROSS THE PROCESSION

Orangemen Stopped Dr. Caldwell and Hurled Him Back Towards Sidewalk

Some unpleasantness was caused at the corner of George and Brock streets, yesterday afternoon as the Orange procession was proceeding up George streets to MacDonel street. Dr. Caldwell who had received a message that he was wanted at the hospital, and who was therefore in a hurry tried to cross the ranks of the procession. A burly member of the Nassau Lodge which was passing at the time, roughly seized the doctor and hurled him back several feet.

The incident caused considerable excitement. Crown Attorney Wood was a witness and immediately telephoned to the police station and P C MacDonald and P C Newhall went to the corner of MacDonel and Bathurst street, where the lodge was entraining, to get some information concerning the offender.

MR. EDWARDS LANDED A 13 POUND LUNGE

Hooked It in the Canal This Morning Before Six O'clock

Another successful fisherman is Mr. Samuel Edwards who resides on the other side of the canal bridge on the Warsaw Road. This morning Mr. Edwards went out for a trawl and before six o'clock had landed a 13 lb. lunge in the canal above the bridge, which measured 38 1-2 inches.

The monster of the deep had apparently lost its way in the river at Nassau and come down the canal.

RETURN THANKS FOR SYMPATHY OFFERED

Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, and family, of Lakefield, wish to tender sincere thanks to the many friends and various lodges for kind sympathy shown them in their recent bereavement of their son and brother, William D. Hamilton, who died in the General Hospital, Winnipeg, July 7th.

OUR MANUFACTURES

The more figures the Census Bureau makes public concerning its enumeration of the manufacturing industries of this country, the more remarkable becomes the progress which that branch of our national development is making, remarks the Ottawa Free Press.

Their latest bulletin concerning the output of our factories is proof that Canada's advancement is no mushroom growth, but is a steady growth all along the line. Thus it is shown that there were in 1905, 156 more factories with an output of under $500,000 than in 1900; that the industries with a product valued at from $500,000 to $1,00,000 increased by 70; and that those whose turnout exceeded one million dollars per year, increased by 42 in the five years. One factory had a product in 1905, which was valued at over $8,000,000, as against a maximum output of under $4,500,000 by any single factory five years before.

This is indeed a remarkable showing and one of which every Canadian may well be proud, because it proves that the Dominion is making substantial progress. Incidentally it is a great triumph for the Liberal tariff policy. Compare this development with the stagnation which existed during the Foster regime, and is there any wonder that the people of this country have no desire to return to the period of depression and deficits?

A THREATENED DANGER

Is there danger of the women of America losing the maternal instinct? It is feared by some that this is the case. The following news item appeared in a newspaper recently:

A priest in Michigan denounces the "Teddy Bear" habit among children because it saps the manifestations of motherhood which little girls used to show for dolls.

This craze, known as the "Teddy bear" habit in the republic to the south, has reached a stage, not so much among the younger portion of the population, as among those who have reached the age of discretion, which gives cause for alarm. When it is stated that women, some of them married, and others, unfortunately, contemplating entering the state, keep an assortment of these "teddy bears," and parade the streets with them in their arms, and by their sides as they ride in their carriages, and that hundreds of dollars are spent in dresses for these stuffed ornaments, it will be recognized that there is justification for attention being called to the danger of the devitalization of the natural maternal instincts of the American women.

It is a condition of affairs, which, happily, we in Canada, know little of, as yet, but it will surely come. American customs are, unfortunately, finding increasing favour in some portions of Canada, though, it is to be hoped, that the women of Canada will never go to the depths of foolishness represented by the conduct of women described. A Canadian lady, who recently visited in some American cities, is authority for the statements made here, and to her it seemed a matter not only of disgust, but of sorrow, that womanhood should have allowed itself to fall so far below that level upon which it was intended that it should be placed.

Counterfeiting is a losing game, even from the lowest financial standpoint. The strange thing is, that people, seemingly intelligent, still make the attempt occasionally. — Toronto Globe.

Canada's revenue increased by $2,242,261.68 in the three months ended June 30th, while the expenditure decreased by $4,758,619.24. That is a pretty good beginning for a busy year.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

The necessity for some means of instructing mothers in the proper manner of raising children is now being viewed from another standpoint. Last Saturday attention was called to remarks made by Police Magistrate Dumble, to the effect that the morals of the children were being neglected. Now it appears that facts indicate a woful lack of knowledge on the part of young mothers as to the physical needs of the children, and the result is that there is growing up a young generation deficient not only in moral training, but weak in physical constitution as well.

While, of course the morals of the child should be the first consideration, his physical development must not—for the sake of the future of the—nation—be neglected.

When one reads in the Montreal papers of the scores of children who die in that great city weekly under five years of age, in infancy—116 last week, or 64.4 per cent. of the entire number—he sees the wisdom of that institution which has just been founded in London.

It is a school in which simple and earnest instruction is given as to the cares and responsibilities of motherhood. There are those who spend their time frivolously, in society calls and amusements, who are without practical direction as to household duties, and fail miserably when they are thrust into the position of caring for their children. There are those who do not presume to nurse their children, and to their neglect of a very plain duty is due the fact that infant mortality is so large.

In England it is calculated that 120,000 die annually as a result of the mothers' indifference towards or unfitness for their nursing. This in itself is a terrible indictment. How far the mothers of Montreal may be liable for the slaughter which is there going on it is hard to say, but when it is stated that sixty of the one hundred and sixteen who perished last week were under six months old, the lesson is obvious.

The teaching of the hour cannot be made too emphatic. It is that life is sacred at any age, and that on the parents of children is laid the responsibility of rearing them properly, and on that rearing depends their survival.

A WORTHY CAUSE

There is possibly no no work which should meet with more general cooperation and public support than that of the Children's Aid Society, in the interests of the elevation of the morals of the children of the city and county. It is impossible to estimate the good that has been accomplished by this organization in the past, and it must be remembered that it doing this work it has been undertaken and carried out under adverse circumstances, lack of funds by reason of a lack of adaquate appreciation of the character and value of the service rendered, and the fact that the building in which the children have been sheltered is not suitable, having proved detrimental to the successful prosecution of the work.

On Wednesday afternoon the officers of the Society will meet to consider important matter, viz.—the advisability of procuring quarters which will be suitable for the prosecution of the work. It will be necessary to move from the present building in the near future in any event, and the officers consider this an opportune time to take up the question of securing permanent quarters. The citizens generally are invited to take into their consideration the situation, and practical suggestions from any source will be welcomed.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Law-breakers who come to Peterborough expecting to find it an easy matter to hoodwink the police and ply their nefarious trades are finding that things are not always what they seem.

It is a good sign, says the Ottawa Free Press, when the Canadian billposters, in convention assembled, decide not to post any bills of an immoral character, and bind themselves to fine any member who violates such an agreement. That is the kind of a combine which Canada needs.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company wishes to remind its customers that Monday, July 15th., is the last day discount will be allowed on June accounts. The office will be open during the evening of the 13th. and 15th., from 8 p. m. until 11 p. m.

A HANDSOME NEW STORE FRONT

Decided Improvement in Store of Rich. Hall and Son—Finished in English Oak

VERY CLEVER DECORATIONS

Peterborough citizens take a pardonable pride in showing their visitors the stores of the city. It is a matter of universal opinion among those who come here from other places, that no city of its size, and, indeed, few of larger proportions can boast of stores which for attractiveness and the adoption of modern ideas of store arrangement, equal those of Peterborough. The city's largest store, that of Richard Hall & Son, Limited, has recently been given an added attractiveness by finishing the entire front in English oak, a finish which gives it a quiet dignity, in pleasing contrast to the loud appearance one frequently sees in store fronts. The proprietors of this store take pains to keep it looking as bright and clean and attractive as possible, in keeping with the quality of the goods they offer their customers. The new front, done in oak, is being commented upon by passers-by and the excellent taste praised. It will now be possible for the decorator of this firm to display to even better advantage than in the past, the high class goods, for which this store has become famous.

Mr. H. C. McDonald, the window decorator for this firm, whose work has been so much admired since he came here, leaves next week for New York and Chicago, with the object of securing new ideas in window decorating. He will spend a week in New York and after that will go to Chicago, where he will spend a week with Marshall Field & Company, the store in which the best window dressing in Chicago is done.

UNDERSIZED FISH ARE BEING CAUGHT

Four Fines Recently Made by Inspector Watt

Fish Inspector Watt has informed the Examiner that the practice of many of the local fishermen in breaking the law by catching under-sized fish is becoming altogether too prevalent. Within the last few days the inspector has been on the alert and has made no less than four fines, the minimum fine for such an offence being $5.00.

For the benefit of those who do not know or have forgotten, it might be stated that retaining bunge less than 24 inches in length and bass less than 10 inches is illegal.

The inspector finds many anglers who are honourable in this respect, and often he notices, even when he cannot be seen, fishermen throw back undersized fish. He believes that there is no reason why one should do it and another not, and states that he intends enforcing the law in all cases that come under his observation.

A 24-inch bunge will weigh in the neighbourhood of six pounds and at that weight will be about four years of age. The fish must be measured from the end of the nose to the "V" on the tail, and not to the tip of the tail.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 61, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

STORE WILL CLOSE AT TWELVE O'CLOCK

In Future Richard Hall and Son, Limited Will Close Store at Noon on Thursdays

Commencing next Thursday, the firm of Richard Hall & Son, Limited, inaugurate a new policy in connection with the half holiday, and, instead of closing the store at one o'clock, will close at twelve o'clock, noon, thus giving their employees the benefit of the additional hour at noon. This hour for closing on Thursdays will be maintained during the balance of July and August.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST HARRY ECCLES

Was Committed for Trial Yesterday on Charge of Indecent Assault

At a special session of the Police Court held yesterday afternoon George Eccles was charged with having committed an indecent assault upon Nellie Brown, a young woman, who, although she is married has not now reached the immature age of 18 years. The prisoner formerly boarded with the plaintiff and her husband, and, in the witness stand the story of the alleged assault was told by the young woman, who stated that prisoner had enticed her into an unfrequented portion of the city while her husband was drilling with the 57th Regiment.

After hearing the evidence the magistrate committed the prisoner for trial on the charge preferred against him, and his case will be tried at the next assizes. Mr. F. D. Kerr, appeared on behalf of the prisoner, and County Crown Attorney Wood prosecuted.

Carters' Shelter Ready But Is Not Being Used

Draymen Still Continue to Gather on the Street; While Building and Sheds Wait For Them---Police Commissioners Have Been Asked to Interfere In the Matter

Although the carters' shelter at the corner of George and Charlotte streets has been finished for some time, there is still no sign that the carters of the city intend using the structure which the Property Committee has erected at an expenditure of the munificent sum of $50. The intention of the committee in providing the shelter was to get the carters off the business streets where they have been accustomed to congregate, to the annoyance of the merchants of the neighbourhood, but so far there is nothing to indicate that this end will be served. The carters still continue to discuss politics at the corner of George and Simcoe streets, while the merchants are still annoyed by frequent telephone calls to know if a certain carter is at the corner. Just why the draymen refuse to use the quarters provided for them does not seem very evident.

The accommodation in the new quarters is amply sufficient for their needs, as a newspaper committee discovered yesterday, when they paid a visit of inspection to the building, which has made Ald. McIntyre famous. There were no signs of any carters around the place, although the sheds were in use, among the vehicles in sight being a farmer's democrat, a livery 'bus, a buggy and an old sleigh. There is lots of room in the sheds to accommodate at least twenty rigs, far more than would be there at any one time.

In the southeast corner of the sheds has been erected a room for the use of the carters themselves during inclement weather.

There is nothing elaborate either in the interior or exterior appearance of the building; architectural beauty there is none, but the room is large enough to shelter all those who will require to use it, and what more is needed? When the scribes visited the building yesterday they were impressed by the chaste and chaste genius of the room. There was nothing superfluous in the furniture; in fact, there was no furniture unless an empty box could be characterized as such. It is presumed, however, that seats of some kind will be supplied for the benefit of the carters who are waiting to be called to work.

The Council has asked the Police Commissioners, who regulate the carters, to provide a clause in the by-law regarding carters, requiring them to desist from using any part of the public thoroughfare for stand purposes. If this is done, the carters will either have to use the shelter or else stay at home with their drays. The Property Committee should see that something is done with the building upon which they have spent the public funds. It might serve as a rolling booth in case the carters continue to refuse to use it, or perhaps in a pinch it might be called into use as an isolation hospital. It is certainly isolated now by the carters, and the public would like to know why.

The Sufferings of the Dyspeptic

DUE TO NEGLECTING TO KEEP THE LIVER RIGHT, THE DIGESTION GOOD, THE BOWELS HEALTHY BY USING

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

You may shudder to think of yourself as a dyspeptic—as one who, through stomach troubles, has come to look on the dark side of things, and to be ill-tempered and grouchy—but if you neglect treatment for repeated attacks of indigestion you will most assuredly become a chronic dyspeptic.

The great mistake is to put the blame on the stomach, and strive in vain for lasting benefit from tablets and so-called digestives. The real cause of trouble in nine cases out of ten is with the liver.

Thousands of persons are being cured of complicated cases of indigestion by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because of their direct action on the liver, thus ensuring a good flow of bile—good digestion and healthful action of the bowels.

Mr. C. D. Bennett, Maple Grove, Megantic Co., Que., writes: "I had dyspepsia very bad. The food would sour, my stomach would swell up, I suffered a great deal and could not sleep. As the result of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I am now entirely cured, and can eat any kind of food without feeling any bad effects. They have made a new man and a younger man of me, and I cannot say too much in their praise.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment cured a friend of mine of piles when he was so bad he could not work or even stand up."

Mr. Wm. G. Purdy, Bridgetown, N. S., writes:—"When I wrote to you for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I was a sufferer from kidney disease, stomach troubles, and liver and bowel disorders. By using one pill at bedtime every night my health has gradually improved until I can say that I am in better health than I have been for twenty years. All other medicines failed, but Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me."

This treatment is thorough, far-reaching and of lasting benefit, and cures the most severe cases of chronic and intestinal indigestion, as well as biliousness and constipation; 25 cts. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 11

Miss Zeta Nolan, who has been attending St. Joseph's Convent, at Peterborough is spending her holidays in town the guest of Miss Vera Bennett.

Mr. William May of Belmont, passed away on Sunday after a short illness. The deceased was about 70 years of age and was born in Ireland, coming to Canada in 1862 and settling in Peterborough, moving from there to Belmont about 35 years ago. He is survived by his wife and two children. The funeral took place on Monday to the Maple Grove Cemetery in Havelock.

Miss Margaret Major, of Mitchell, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Thos. Lloyd, of town.

Reeve Thompson, of town, attended the picnic at Douro on Tuesday and gave a short address.

Mr. Brown, of Trenton, has been engaged as head clerk in Thompson Bros. store.

The School Board met on Monday night of this week at S. S. Joyce's store, all the members being present, with the exception of one, Mr. Chas. Harrington. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved, after which business was proceeded with. The Question of building a new addition to the school was first talked about, but finally dropped for the time being.

Mr. McDonald's application for the continuation class work was approved by the Board. It was decided by the Board that Miss Buchanan be appointed to take classes Sr. IV, Jr. IV, and Sr. III, thus doing away with a male principal, and that her salary be $400.00 a year.

All the other teachers were reengaged at their old salaries and Miss Kelly to take the primary department as before.

The secretary was instructed by the Board to advise the Architect to go ahead with the plans and specifications for the addition of the school, and to call for tenders for the excavating.

The Board adjourned to meet again on Wednesday night of next week, the 17th, when all those interested in the education of their children are asked to attend.

The Hargraves circus on Thursday was not largely attended on account of the very disagreeable day.

Puzzle Find the Berries

Some are thinking it might be a very wise plan for those attending the strawberry festival at Mongaston in the future, to arm themselves with a powerful microscope to find the poor little berries, as they looked so shy last Monday evening. Top five-cent lunch afterwards took the cake, as the first table did not. The dear waiters O! well, what little is said the better.—Morgaston correspondent to the Warkworth Journal.

An Energetic Ram

Mr. Albert Bonney is putting in a hydraulic ram to send the water up from a spring to his house, a distance of 60 rods, and 100 feet high. Hartford and Dillon have the contract.—Burnley correspondent to the Warkworth Journal.

Taking a Rest

I guess I'll lay aside any further items until after the 11th and the glorious twelfth.—Praneveau correspondent to Havelock Standard.

Don't Like Pictures

Prof. J. C. Green's high class moving pictures did not attract very large audiences on Wednesday and Thursday nights of last week, but it was not the fault of the pictures, which were the best that Mr. Green has ever shown in Havelock.—Havelock Standard.

Opera House Needed

Following the District Orange picnic, Kendal L.O.L. will hold a concert in the large enclosed Methodist Church sheds which are being fitted up and seated to accommodate one thousand people. Some of the best talent procurable will take part in the programme.—Kendal correspondent to Port Hope Times.

NO MORE DANDRUFF

Newbro's Herpicide Destroys the Pestiferous Cause of Annoying Dandruff

Does your head itch? Is your coat or dress full of white flakes after dressing your hair? That's the effect of dandruff. Is your hair thinning? Are you beginning to get bald in spots? Are you already, in fact, rapidly becoming bald? If so, that is the effect of a measly little parasite that burrows in at the root of the hair and throws up the scalp in dandruff and eats off the hair at the root. Science's latest discovery is a destroyer of that pestiferous germ. That destroyer is contained in no other hair preparation on earth but Newbro's Herpicide. Try it, and be convinced. A delightful dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two Sizes—50c and $1. McDermid & Jury, Special Agents.

The results are as follows:—

When Your Health Fails, What Then

Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle. Success is for the strong and alert — for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy. It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion and to keep health at high water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Impressions Made By The Gallant 57th At St. Kitts

Peterborough Regiment Made Hosts of Friends in the Garden City---Complimentary Remarks By the Star-Journal of That City---19th May Come to Peterborough

That the 57th Regiment made a lasting impression on the officers and men of the 19th St. Catharines Regiment of Infantry is amply illustrated by some items that appeared recently in the Star-Journal of that city. In one issue over three columns were given to the trip westward of the 57th Regiment, and among the observations made were the following:—

The visit of the 57th Regiment, the stalwart Peterborough Rangers called forth a burst of enthusiasm such as is rarely seen on such occasions. The officers and men of the regiment came here as utter strangers; they were not such when they departed, but carried with them the warm friendship and the genuine and sincere esteem of all classes of our people. The conduct of the men during their stay here was above criticism and in every way praiseworthy. A good-tempered, kindly-natured, fun-loving body of sturdy young Canadians, they made the most of every opportunity for sight-seeing and enjoyment.

The effects of such a visit are more numerous and far-reaching, than would at first appear. The result from a military point of view cannot but be beneficial, and recruiting for the 19th will be greatly stimulated. The exemplary behaviour of the visitors certainly impressed most favourably the older and more staid among our citizens, while the splendid spectacle presented in the city park caused the heart to beat more rapidly in many a youthful breast, and stirred to enthusiasm the patriotism that in many cases may have been slumbering. But apart from the military viewpoint, the visit had already had the effect of causing many inquiries by St. Catharines citizens regarding the enterprising city of Peterborough, and a more intimate acquaintance and more thorough knowledge of the resources, industries and capabilities of the city at the foot of the Kawartha Lakes — a knowledge that will beyond doubt have beneficial results. It goes without saying that the beauties, the advantages, both industrial and scenic, of St. Catharines are being dilated upon by those who spent the two days here, and the people of Peterborough to-day know more about St. Kitts than they ever did before.

Lieut.-Col. J. Z.. Rogers, the first commanding officer of the 57th as a city regiment, and Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers, late C. O., 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, accompanied the regiment to St. Kitts, as guests of Lieut.-Col. Miller and his officers. Both are members of the oldest military families of Peterborough, and are enthusiastic officers who have done splendid service for their country.

He walked into the reporters' room in The Star-Journal office, at about 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and asked: "Have you any of the Peterborough papers in yet?"

"Not yet," answered one of the pencil pushers present. "To-day's Peterborough papers won't be in till to-morrow."

"Will you keep one or two of 'em for me to have a look at!" he requested. "I want to see what the 57th boys think of their visit to St. Kitts."

"Say!" he continued, "Were you ever in Peterborough?"

On being told that one of the scribes present had sojourned in the up to date and flourishing city named he fired a volley of interrogations at the reporter in question.

"What sort of a town is it, eh? Bigger'n St. Kitts? Must be a pretty go-ahead spot if the 'bunch that came here on Sunday was a fair sample! They are stars, every one—an its an A1 corps, too, the 57th you bet! Wish they'd stayed for a month 'nstead of a couple of days. Best crowd of fellows I ever met. I'm going to visit that town the first chance I get. They're honeys—every one of 'em an don't you forget it. Well, you won't forgett to keep the papers for me, will you? A lot of our fellows want to see them and I promised to try and get them, I knew you'd let me have 'em for the boys!"

He was the advance guard of a small regiment of callers at this office, and every man's mission was the same—they all wanted to see the Peterborough papers, to read what "the 57th boys" thought of their St. Kitts trip. It was only one of many incidents that showed the feeling of strong and sincere friendship that has arisen between the 19th and the 57th Regiments.

Mr. E G Patterson, Superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Company of Peterborough, and an old boy of this city, was a guest of the 57th. The company of which he has charge employes more than 1,000 hands. St. Kitts had an opportunity of securing the company, but allowed it to slip by.

Mr. F Roy of Peterborough, secured several fine photos of the flag raising at Shipman's Gore, and of the brigade in line during the ceremony of trooping the colours by the 19th Regiment.

Chaplain Davidson, of the 57th, preached an eloquent patriotic sermon on Sunday morning, in St. and Ideals in Connection with Dominion Day."

In proposing the health of "Our Guests," at dinner in the Welland, on Monday evening, Lieut.-Col. Campbell paid a high tribute to the rank and file of the 57th. "I must congratulate Col. Miller," said he, "on the splendid physique and also on the excellent behaviour of his men. Every man acted the part of a gentleman and not a solitary case of intoxication came to my notice during their stay. One other characteristic of the 57th that I sincerely admire is the adaptability of the men and their powers of recuperation."

On Monday afternoon several men of the 57th improvised an armoured train, using an ancient "demourat" wagon, which they armed with a section of sewer pipe, in lieu of a cannon, and which they manned ad drugged along several of the streets to the great enjoyment of the spectators.

Lieut.-Col. Rogers, R. O., postmaster at Peterborough, addressing Col. Campbell and officers of the 19th, said:—"Many years ago I heard that this peninsula was the Garden of Canada. It is—and the brightest, most beautiful gem in that garden is the fair city of St. Catharines. One of the first to greet us on our arrival was your excellent mayor and he gave us such a greeting as will leave its memory with us for years. I—we—have found him an ideal mayor and it speaks well for your people that they have elected him to the highest municipal position in their gift."

Importance Of Dealing With Problem Of Defective Sight

Principal Gardiner, of Brantford Institute for the Blind, Wants to Secure Names of Persons Needing Attention.

A COMMENDABLE WORK

In making his annual appeal to the readers of Ontario newspapers for information which will enable him to locate the children and youths of both sexes who are eligible for admission as pupils of the School for the Blind at Brantford. Principal Gardiner asks the Examiner to call public attention to the need for some institution where the adult blind may be instructed and employed. General experience has demonstrated the inadvisability of combining a workshop for adults with a school for children under one management, yet the blind adults, who far outnumber the children of school age, should be no longer neglected. In New York State, it has been ascertained by careful inquiry that out of 6,008 blind persons only 584, or 9.72 per cent. of the total number are under 21 years of age; 3,193, or 53.14 per cent., are over 40 years of age; while 1,875, or 22.88 per cent., are between the ages of twenty-one and fifty—in the prime of life and capable of being rendered in whole or in part self-supporting. It is probable that the percentages in Ontario are similar to those in New York. Many lose their sight by accident after passing school age, and many who have been blind from birth or childhood need help and direction in order to work profitably. In California, Connecticut, the District of Columbia, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin workshops or "homes" have been provided, and in Washington, Colorado and other states the matter has been taken up by Women's Clubs and other associations of philanthropic ladies, whose influence upon public opinion and the Legislatures will certainly effect the desired result.

The first necessity is to get an accurate knowledge of the facts, and to this end Mr. Gardiner will gladly receive information relating to blind residents of Ontario of all ages (names and post office addresses.) Those under twenty-one years of age, not deficient in intellect, and free from disease and physical infirmity, who are blind, or whose sight is so defective that they are unable to read ordinary type and attend a school for the seeing without serious injury to the sight, should attend the school at Brantford, which is maintained by the Provincial government for their betterment. A letter or post card, addressed to the Principal, will receive immediate attention.

A SUNDAY AFTERNOON THOUGHT

—A MAN OF HONOUR—

There is something more, something beyond this acquired power of intellectual labour, said President Eliot, of Harvard, in an address to the students recently. As Shakspeare puts it, "The purest treasure mortal times afford is a spotless reputation." How is that treasure won? It comes by living with honour, on honour. Most of you have begun already to live honourably and honoured; for the life of honour begins early. Some things the honourable man can not do—never does. He never oppresses or cheats a person weaker or poorer than himself. He never betrays a trust. He is honest, sincere, candid and generous. It is not enough to be honest. An honourable man must be generous; and I do not mean generous with money only. I mean generous in his judgments of men and women, and of the nature and prospects of mankind. Such generosity is a beautiful attribute of the man of honour.

Stoessel Not A Free Russian; Should Not Have Surrendered

Soloman Brenzel Tells Examiner of Conditions in Russia and the People's Idea of the War With Japan — Dissatisfaction in the Ranks and Bad Management by Officials Was Russia's Bane — Labour Troubles Are Being Quieted — Climatic Conditions Like Ours

The late addition to the Jewish colony in the city is Mr. Soloman Brenzel, who arrived a few days ago from Quebec, fresh from the turbulent land of the Russian Czar. His home is in the village of Zsteszow, County of Radom, Province of Warsaw in Polish Russia. He reached this city in the early part of the week, after a pleasant voyage from one of the German seaports and is now employed by Mandall and Company, the local junk dealers. Mr. Brenzel cannot speak English very clearly but one of his companions, who has been in this country a number of years, acted as interpreter in a satisfactory manner.

Zsteszow is about thirty miles from the city of Warsaw and is a typical Russian town, in fact it is larger than any of ourtowns and has a population of 10,000. The people are divided into practically but two classes. There is the merchant class, those who are fairly well to do, being mostly proprietors of the flour mills, provision stores, blacksmith shops, tailor shops and all such places that dispose of the general wants of the people. The other division is the poor class, who are now reduced to extremely low straits, owing to the conditions that exist. Most of them were employed in the shops, these are closed at present, and the people have no taken to any other employment, although many of them have small plots of land. There is another class, the same as in every country, and that is the small landed proprietors, who exist by the products of their farms which they sell.

Mr. Brenzel said that in many respects the country is similar to this. There are large manufacturing houses in the cities and many industries that employ the middle class. The climate is not much different from ours except the winter days are shorter there than here, darkness setting in about four o'clock.

Labour Question

The speaker was not very explicit in his explanations of the troubles that have stirred the nation, but it was mostly due to the oppression of the rich over the poor. The former possess the industrial concerns and when there came a general demand for increased wages the owners, who are invariably millionaires, refused to listen to the people and as to the strikes that followed, in which the sympathy of the general public was in favour of the strikers, the owners simply closed their establishments and stopped employment. This was the beginning of a universal movement which led to a sort of socialistic struggle between the rich and poor and virtually between the government and the people. The interpreter said that the newspaper despatches were mostly correct, and, in fact, did not give the strongest account of the struggle, the fights and fatal engagements. Villages and towns were in a general turmoil, but have since become calm and the factory hands have adopted other means of earning a living, and in many cases the shops were re-opened during the latest period. The speaker said that we have no idea of the scenes that were enacted in Warsaw and even in the villages. Lately this has been changed and the people are becoming more quiet. Mr. Brenzel said that the real strife was between the people and the government and the accessions gained by the people have partially appeased them.

No Love For Czar

None of the people have any love for the Czar. They think he does not try to give them any concessions and his actions during the war made many enemies. Of the Czarina the people know but little as she is retiring in her manner and is seldom seen, but because she is the wife of the Czar she is condemned. An incident occurred at St. Petersburg which shows that the Czarina has many qualities like those of her relative King Edward VII. One of the Russian soldiers lost both arms in the war, and when passing through the capital was invited to the Royal Palace by Her Majesty and fed by her while the soldier was there.

The War

Stoessel was not a true Russian, but a traitor; he was bought by the Japs or they would never have captured Port Arthur, except when he and his soldiers were dead." Such was the speaker's opinion of the brave defender of Port Arthur, and that is the general opinion in Russia. Bribery, he said, is a curse and a policeman can be bought for ten cents, the price of a drink. The officials are poorly paid and need the money.

When the troops marched east to Manchuria dissatisfaction was rife among the soldiery. Hand bills were passed around, on which the men were asked why they were fighting. Was it in defence of their country? No! It was because the Czar wanted to grab Manchuria. Why die for such a cause? By such means the men were incited not to fight and as a result the army was in a disorganized condition.

Mr. Brenzel related many other interesting facts about Russia, but space does not permit their reproduction. He hopes for proper representation of the people in Parliament and then the empire of the Czar may regain its former prestige among the armed nations of the world.

HE SWALLOWED A GREENBACK

A Rochester Youth, Whose Value is Increased by Five Dollars—Afraid Police Would See It

HAD ROBBED A MAN

Examiner Special.

Rochester, July 12.—Caught in the act of robbing an intoxicated man, the police say Louis Yeager, devoured the evidence. He was sitting on George Whitbeck, of Penfield, his victim, and had swallowed a $5 bill when Patrolman Ludke and Gallaher arrested him. He and Richard Weichbrodt, of Victor, were arraigned in Police court this morning on charges of robbery in the first degree. They pleaded guilty and were held for the Grand Jury.

Early yesterday morning, Weichbrodt and Yeager were seen by the policemen, when they followed Whitbeck from State street into Market street. On the pretense of taking the latter to a hotel, they proceeded to rob him. When the policemen reached the place Weichbrodt had made off with Whitbeck's watch. He was arrested a short time later by Sergeant Klein on State street and the watch was found on his person.

Presented A Strong Plea For The Country Rectors

What the Ontario Churchman Says of the Arguments of Rev. Dr. Langfeldt at Recent Synod Meeting.

VERY ELOQUENT ADDRESSES

The Ontario Churchman, in its last issue, has some interesting references to the recent meeting of the Synod of Toronto, at which discussions took place in respect to the plight of the country clergyman. In this discussion Rev. Dr. Langfeldt took a prominent part. Referring to this the Churchman says:

That country clergy had as good claims as city rectors for support, and had harder heathen to deal with on the back concession lines than have foreign missionaries; that twelve men, as reported on the streets of Ottawa, had in a few days made 12 million dollars out of Cobalt, while the Church of England in Canada was too poor to send one ordained clergyman there; that the Canadian church will be expected in ten years to entirely support mission work among the Eskimos, were among the statements at the annual Synod missionary meeting. These were the statements of Rev. Dr. Langfeldt of Peterborough, who usually says something when he speaks, and of Rev. E. J. Peck, veteran missionary.

Not often does Hon. S. H. Blake meet a Waterloo. As chairman, he presented a caustic report, based on small returns for episcopal endowment. Parishes were named that had "taken shelter under the misconceived view of the teaching of the widow's mite, presenting cases for microscopic investigation to ascertain the extent to which the fund has been increased by their donations." It was suggested that these parishes be deprived of the privilege of contributing, and be struck off the list to save useless printing and postage stamps! The rest every parish reflected on put in an angry retort, and the report was withdrawn, to avoid defeat. Perhaps Mr. Blake is pleased, after all. He sought publicity, and, having stirred up the lions effectively, counted in a triumphant Waterloo, sure that the parishes will not easily forget. And, being asked to go again on the Endowment Committee, he consented.

WHERE MATCHES ARE MADE

London Divine and His Wife Who Facilitate Operations of Cupid by Bringing Marriageable Persons Together

THE SCHEME IS A SUCCESS

London, July 12.—Rev. W. J. Gomersall and wife, who some time ago started a private club at Hampstead to bring together celibates of both sexes to marry, say they are doing a big business. The attendance at the club gathering, which takes place every Friday evening averages 300, and dozens of happy marriages have already resulted. The women outnumber the men three to one and are usually less diffident. The men are mostly shy at first, but they generally melt and grow very amiable over coffee. Coffee, it would seem, is one of the most potent drugs in Cupid's pharmacy, and most of the proposals take place under its influence.

All sorts of business and professions are represented among the frequenters, but among the women typewriters, teachers and dressmakers predominate, while the men include curates, dentists, clerks and schoolmasters.

Asked what class of man was most amenable, Mrs. Gomersall answered unhesitatingly, dentists. They are always courteous and gentlemanly. Widowers are also amiable, but it must be admitted that they are particular in certain ways. They invariably ask to be introduced to certain types of girls.

MANY TOURISTS ARE AT WEDLOCK'S SUMMER HOUSE

All Cannot be Accomodated—Mermaid Remodelled

Mr. Jas. Wedlock, of Wedlock's Landing was in the city to-day and reports that he is having considerable difficulty in accommodating all the guests who are coming to that popular resort on the banks of the Otonabee. The greater number of the tourists are from Toronto, but many are there from the United States. He also stated that the fishing has been fairly good on the river but that it has slackened off considerably during the past few days.

Mr. Wedlock had his yacht the "Mermaid" remodelled this season and it is now looking at its best.

TO PROTECT INNOCENT IS OUR DUTY

"Common Sense" Pleads for Common Sense Method of Dealing With the Youth

Editor Examiner.

Sir,—At the present time we have the periodical return of the wave of wickedness among children. Every ten years this wave reaches its height. Then the public, not being able to stand it any longer, takes common-sense measures, such as those of our friend Solomon. For a time the wicked cease from troubling, and the decent children escape being ruined by the ungodly. But the maudlin sentiment of a few, the determination of the magistrate to put expense upon the city, and the evident intention of forcing Parliament to give the magistracy power to flog all, combined to provide a series of let-offs that simply encourage the incorrigible. Moreover, the general public gets discouraged. Away with this sort of stuff! Let us protect the innocent, as is our bounden duty.

A GARRISON FINISH AT POLICE COURT

Police Rounding Up Law Breakers as Regular as They Start on Their Daily Duties

MANY CASES ARE ON TO-DAY

The growing opinion among the citizens is that but very little escapes the notice of Chief Russel and his quartette of blue coats. Any one attending court during the past two weeks would believe so and to close a very busy week this morning's court was rather lengthy.

First of all Mrs. Annie Davey, Annie Whittaker, Wellington Cameron and Harry Thompson were arraigned on the charge of being keepers of a house of ill-fame at 24 Parnell street. They pleaded guilty and were remanded until Tuesday the 16th at 9 a.m. The police raided the house last night in the wee small hours, and arrested the four people just mentioned.

Two young men had to pay $5.75 for disorderly conduct in front of the said house, 24 Parnell street. The police were watching the place and the two men came along, kicked on the door and called insulting names to those within. They had a couple of bottles of beer and whiskey which were confiscated by the officers.

Three boys Oscar Keller, Leonard Quinlan and Alfred Ball, had to pay the court $1.00 each for stealing cherries from Mr. Henry Cox's orchard on the 8th of July. The boys said they merely took a few off the trees by climbing up on the fence. Mr. Cox reported that he has been greatly annoyed by losses of eggs, hens, etc., and in summer his fruit is taken. Magistrate Dumble considered that when a man toils to prepare his garden and orchard he should be protected from maranding boys.

His Worship had also to deal with two little boys one of whom had struck the other on Wednesday of this week. Chas. Latchford was the plaintiff and Walter Elliott was the defendant. Mrs. Latchford said that young Elliott had often beaten her son "just because he is English, your Honour." Mr. Dumble replied, "I wish they were Irish, and they would settle it among themselves." His Worship told the Chief to put a record on the books about young Elliott.

A young fellow who was arrested for being drunk last night was fined $5.75. He said it was his first offence, but that did not save him. He has a lovely black eye, received in a tussle with the constable who arrested him, the man falling on a water pipe and striking his eye, leaving a very ugly cut as a memento of his bout.

Wm. McGregor hired a horse and buggy from Mr. Bruce Lee on the 12th of July at 7 o'clock, paying a dollar for it, and saying he wanted to take his wife for a drive for an hour or so, not fixing any given time. Mr. Lee said the horse was not returned until 10.30, and he demanded 50 cents extra. McGregor said he did not drive the horse more than 20 minutes, as his wife did not care to go for a drive.

His Worship dismissed the case, saying that Mr. Lee had received $1, his horse had not been driven long, and he could not fix any sum that should be paid.

CAR LEFT TRACKS IN A PECULIAR MANNER

Appeared to Have Been Suddenly Drawn By Unseen Magnet

A street car this morning performed a most peculiar stunt at the corner of George and Charlotte streets. It was travelling south just at the crossing, when it suddenly turned to the right, as if impelled by some strong magnet, and left the tracks. In its sudden swerve to the right it apparently did not move at all in a forward direction, but took an abrupt turn. The car was soon after replaced on the tracks.

COUNTERFEIT CASE IS STILL A SENSATION AMONG LINDSAY FOLK

yesterday. The police are decidedly mum on the question and nothing could be gotten from them. It was learned that on Tuesday afternoon Chief of Police Vincent of Lindsay and Detective Cowan had searched a couple of houses in town. They have kept silent over their discoveries, if they made any.

More Arrests Looked For

There seems to be a feeling in town that other arrests would be made here, but on this point, too, the authorities keep the same determined silence.

Logie, who was brought from Toronto last night was given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Jackson this morning and was remanded until next week, probably on Thursday. It was thought at first that the prisoners would be brought before the Magistrate on Monday, but this proved to be wrong, and the cases will not come up until the later part of the week.

Logie's Home-coming

The interest that is being taken in the case here is shown by the reception which Logie received on his arrival on the 9.15 G.T.R. train from Toronto last night. Half a thousand people were at the station to see him come in, the majority attracted no doubt, by curiosity, a few, perhaps, to sympathize with the prisoner if they were given an opportunity. A rumour was started to the effect that the prisoner would arrive by the C. P. R., and this had the effect of bringing a large crowd to that station. When the train pulled in, without Logie and his custodians on board, there was a rush for the G. T. R. station. The eight o'clock train failed to show the man for whom the crowd was waiting, and remained patient until the 9.15 train, upon which he was, finally arrived. As he stepped off the train between Detectives Parkinson and Rogers, there was a rush to see this man, until a few days ago a well-liked and respected resident of the town.

Everyone almost in the crowd was an acquaintance of the prisoner, who seemed to feel the disgrace of his position keenly. He walked through the crowd with his head bowed, and paid no attention to the salutations that greeted him. Some of the younger element in the gathering hailed him with "Hello, Bob!" and he seemed to resent the familiarity.

Sympathy For Relatives

The greatest sympathy is expressed for the relatives of the men implicated. Bouyea's relatives are terribly concerned over the the affair. His wife and his daughter, the latter living in Toronto, are said to be prostrated over the case, and Miss Bouyea's condition is regarded as serious. Bouyea has been a Lindsay resident for over 40 years, and there has never been anything against him until the present revelations were made. During the last few years he has been employed as a nightwatchman for the Kennedy & Davis Company, and, despite the assertions made in some of the papers, that he had been out of a position, has worked continuously after the fire.

During the first week in July he left here to visit his son and daughter in Toronto, and his wife supposed him to be in that city until she received a telegram from him to the effect that he was in Sault Ste. Marie. His friends cannot understand how he became implicated in the affair, and which is a mystery to them.

Comes of a Good Family

Robert Logie, the man who was arrested in Toronto, as he was stepping on a train to go to Black Rock, comes of a good family. His grandparents were given a large tract of land near here, which has descended to Robert and his brother Henry Wynn, also owns a farm not far from Lindsay, and has been regarded as very well of, while Burke, it is said, has not done any work for a good many years, since he disposed of the sawmill, which is now operated by a man named Davis.

Eveleigh, who was arrested in Montreal, while attempting to pass some of the "queer," is not, of course, as well known as the other prisoners. He is an Englishman, and was a G.T.R. brakeman, boarding in town. He left work some time ago, and when he was sent for to resume work he could not be found.

Bring Back the Others

A rumour that Bouyea and Wynn would arrive last night from Sault Ste. Marie, set the excitement at fever heat again, but there was no foundation for the report, which was given rise to by the fact that Detectives Parkinson and Rogers left last night for Sault Ste. Marie to bring back the prisoners. It is probable that another such crowd as welcomed Logie's home coming will be on hand when the others arrive. Mr. Stewart of the law firm of Stewart & O'Connor, has been employed to look after Charles Burke's case, but refused to say anything concerning the stand that his client will take when he comes up for trial.

Excitement Still High

Excitement still runs high, and the case bids fair to be the main topic of conversation for some time to come. The motive of the act is the source of the greatest surprise. "Why did they do it?" is the question that is heard frequently. Surprise is felt that the men could turn out such skilful work, the bills, if not perfect, being of a kind that would pass ordinary inspection, although the paper is of poor quality.

The next sensation will be the arrival of Bouyea and Wynn, unless more arrests are made. This with the trial next week, will serve to keep the interest in the now famous case, at an intense pitch.

WILL NOT TOLERATE ROUGH CONCUCT AT JACKSON PARK

One Youth Fined Five Dollars For Tyrowing Dirt

On Thursday afternoon at the police court a young man appeared before the Magistrate on a charge of having acted in a disorderly manner at Jackson Park on the evening of July 9th. With a number of other smart youths he was throwing dirt and grass into the crowd, who were watching the pictures. One of the policemen caught him as he was making a throw, and His Worship said he was glad the young man had been apprehended. To make an example for other boys he imposed a fine of $5, and the next offender will be taxed $10.

Practically during my whole life (prior to June 1905) I was troubled with terrible pains in my head which I attributed to violent attacks of neuralgia. I tried innumerable headache and neuralgic preparations, but without obtaining the slightest relief. The suffering I endured for a year or more previous to the time I consulted you is indescribable. At times I became delirious through the intense pain, and was obliged to call in a local Physician. Many times morphine was administered to allay the terrible suffering I was undergoing, but this did not give me the slightest relief. A friend advised me to consult your Mr. Babcock, I did so and found out from you that I was suffering from muscular nervous asthenopia, caused by astigmatism. It was remarkable the relief I obtained after the treatment I received, and the wearing of the glasses you prescribed and made for me, since that time I have experienced no difficulty with my eyes, nor have I suffered the slightest return of the old trouble. I cannot help but attribute the ill-health and suffering I experienced as being due to the trouble in my eyes before consulting you. I feel very grateful indeed for the interest taken in my case, as I had almost despaired of even getting any relief. I might also say I consulted opticians in Lindsay and Toronto in reference to my trouble, but obtained no relief. I desire to again express my sincere gratitude to you for the trouble taken in my case, as well as the wonderful cure effected. Yours sincerely

HAYWOOD'S STORY AT TRIAL

Concludes His Statements As a Witness In Big Trial.

EXPLAINS MONEY PAYMENTS

Denies That He Ever Had Any Conversation With Harry Orchard About Plots to Murder Sherman Bell, Gabbert or Any One Else —Money Sent to Mrs. Adams Was For Relief—His Letter.

Boise, Idaho, July 13.—The cross-examination of William D. Haywood in the Steunenberg murder trial was concluded yesterday. Clarence Darrow at once commenced the re-direct examination, which was concluded at 3.35 p.m. The defence will close its case to-day after the examination of one more witness.

When Haywood's examination was continued at the opening of court yesterday, he said that Orchard had been at his house three or four times. Most of the members of the union called on him when they were in Denver, he said. He never called on Orchard and never had anything to do with buying a horse and buggy for Orchard to "go out on a killing expedition with." He denied positively that he had talked with Orchard or planned with him the killing of Sherman Bell, Gos. Peabody, Jas. Hearn, David Moffit or Judges Goddard and Gabbert.

Haywood first met Steve Adams in 1903. He said the $25 he sent to Adams at Ogden when the latter wired he was in jail there was his (Haywood's) own money. Adams had been out prospecting and had stated on leaving Denver that if he struck anything he would locate Haywood on it.

Haywood never gave Adams any more money, but in 1905, in answer to an appeal for temporory relief from Mrs. Adams, he sent them $30. They had located in a homestead in Oregan and promised to pay back the loan in butter and eggs. The next he heard of Steve Adams was when the latter was arrested. The letter he wrote to Mrs. Orchard was in reply to one asking her husband's whereabouts. Haywood declared he knew absolutely nothing of the plot against Gov. Steunenberg.

"I don't know that I had thought of him after I left the State of Idaho."

The first Haywood heard of the assassination was in the papers, which claimed that the crime was a culmination of the troubles in the Coeur D'Alene. The papers also reported that a union card had been found in the effects of Thomas Hogan, who had been arrested on suspicion.

At miners' headquarters there was considerable question as to who Hogan was, the concensus of opinion being that it was Orchard, who had used that name in leaving Cripple Creek to seek employment elsewhere.

The first definite information came in the cipher telegram from Simpkins, which was translated at first: "Can I get counsel for Hogan?" But which was afterwards corrected to read: "Cannot get counsel for Hogan."

Haywood's explanation of sending the $100 draft to Jack Simpkins on Dec. 31, 1905, was as follows: "Simpkins came to Denver early in December to attend a meeting of the executive board. He drew $231.50 expenses while there. Cashing a cheque for this, he gave Haywood $100 and asked him to forward it to Spokane some time before Christmas. Simpkins said he was going on a trip, and did not want to take all the money with him."

When the matter of employing counsel for Orchard and to look after the interests of the organization first came up, Haywood said he and Moyer consulted with General Counsel Murphy, who advised going very slowly in the matter. After considering the subject for a day or two, Murphy advised the employment of Mr. Nugent.

Haywood said the first he knew of any intimation to arrest him was when he was taken into custody. He related the story of his arrest, the denial of a right to consult counsel, and the trip to Boise on a special train in charge of Gen. Bulkeley Wells, a member of the Mine Owners' Association.

On cross-examination Haywood said, in answer to questions that the time of the Coeur d'Alene troubles the Western Federation of Miners came to think of Governor Steunenberg as a pronounced opponent of organized labor. Prior to this trouble he was regarded as a friend, and was at one time an honorary member of a local union.

CAPT. KLENGENBERG JAILED.

Murderer Who Has Been Hunted for Months Captured.

Ottawa, July 13.—The police department of San Francisco have telegraphed to Lieut.-Col. Sherwood of the Dominion police, stating that word has been received there from Alaska to the effect that Capt. Klengenberg, who brutally murdered the first officer of his whaling ship about four years ago in Canadian Arctic waters, has been captured and is being brought to San Francisco by American officers.

The murder was committed on an American vessel, and both the Canadian and United States authorities have been looking for Klengenberg ever since.

The murder was an unusually brutal one. Klengenberg seems to rank with the pirates of Elizabethan fiction in cruelty and blood-thirstiness. For months he ill-treated his crew and officers, finally shooting the first officer in cold blood. He then terrorized the crew into making false affidavits in the log book as to the manner in which the victim met his death.

The story leaked out afterwards in San Francisco from some of the crew while drunk. It is not yet known whether the Canadian or the American authorities will try Klengenberg. Both Governments have jurisdiction.

MURDER AT HAMILTON.

Man and Wife Shot by Boarder—Jealousy the Cause.

Hamilton, July 13.—Andrew Rodzyk was fatally shot, and his wife very seriously wounded by revolver bullets yesterday afternoon. Jake Sunfield, a boarder, was arrested on the charge of doing the shooting. The double tragedy occurred about three o'clock yesterday afternoon. All concerned are Polacks.

When the officers arrived at the Rodzyk cottage, they found a wild scene of disorder. In the front bedroom they discovered Rodzyk covered from head to foot with blood, lying on the floor. It was evident that he had been shot some time before. The bed was overturned, and there traces of a terrible struggle.

The murdered man was about 50 years of age, and his wife was about ten years his junior. The prisoner is 31 years of age. Sunfield was taken to jail.

Jealousy is said to have been the cause. The police searched the house and found a couple of bottles of whiskey sitting on the dining-room table, and the neighbors said that the trio had been drinking all day. Mrs. Rodzyk had a bullet wound in the left breast. She will recover.

BLAST FURNACE MAY.

Dust Nuisance May Put 10,000 Men Out of Work.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 13.—Judge Young, in the Court of Common Pleas, yesterday rendered a decision to the effect that the Jones & Laughlin Steel Co. must either procure a device to prevent the emission of ore dust from its blast furnaces or close the furnaces. Should is become necessary to shut down the plant, 10,000 men will be thrown out of employment in the Jones & Laughlin Co. alone.

As a result of the decision the residents of other districts similarly afflicted are expected to enter suits to compel the furnace companies to either eradicate the ore dust or shut down their furnaces.

An appeal from Judge Young's decision was immediately taken to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

In connection with his decision yesterday Judge Young imposed heavy fines on officers and the directors of the company for failing to comply with an order to stop the nuisance.

$1,500,000 Capital.

Albany, N.Y., July 13.—The Yetman Typewriter-transmitter Co. of New York City, formed to manufacture transmitting typewriters, telegraph transmitters, automatic telegraph machines, etc., filed articles of incorporation yesterday with the Secretary of State. It is capitalized at $1,500,000. The directors include: Samuel Johnston, Charles E. Yetman, William M. Williams and Gabriel Morton of New York and James Stevenson of Oshkosh, Wis.

Policemen Shot.

Pittsburg, July 13.—In attempting to arrest three negroes who were caught in the act of forcing an entrance to the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad station at East Pittsburg, early yesterday, one policeman was shot dead and another seriously wounded and will probably die.

MARKSMEN GREETED BY DUKE

Connaught Much Pleased With Canadians' Appearance.

CONGRATULATE COL. GIBSON

His Highness Shakes Hands With Canadian Riflemen After Review—Scores Made In the Several Matches—Canada Beats Ireland One in Mackinnon Cup Match —Won by English Team.

Bisley Camp, July 13.—(C. A. P.)—The Duke of Connaught yesterday morning inspected the Canadians and other colonial teams paraded before the Canadian pavilion. His Royal Highness had a brief chat with each of the officers, and when speaking to Adjutant J. D. Duff Stewart he said he had not abandoned hope that some day he would inspect Stuart's regiment, the 6th Duke of Connaught's Own Regiment of Vancouver.

His Royal Highness desired the adjutant to convey his good wishes to the regiment. He shook hands with several members of the team and asked them how often they had been to Bisley, where they came from and what success they had been meeting with.

The duke recognized Sergt. Deslauriers and shook hands with him. The royal visitor complimented Col. Gibson on the fine appearance of the team.

A cable has been received here asking Sergt.-Major J. Caven and Sergt. G. S. Carr, both of the 5th Canadian Artillery, Victoria, B. C., to take part in the artillery meet at Halifax, but they will be unable to go, as they would cripple the Canadian team if they left here.

In the "Association Cup," at 200 and 600 yards, Staff-Sergt. Davidson of the 48th Highlanders, who is over here on his own account, made 33 at each range, out of a possible 35.

In the "Armourers Company," seven shots at 900 yards, Sergt. Carr scored 32 out of a possible 35.

In the "Kynoch," seven shots, at 1,000 yards, Staff-Sergt. Bayles. 10th Grenadiers, scored 29.

In the "J. H. Steward Cup," seven shots at 500 yards, Bayles scored 34.

In the "Singer," seven shots at 600 yards, Bayles scored 33.

The English team carried off the "Mackinnon" trophy. Canada's team was fourth. The totals out of a possible 1,800 were:

England	1,513
Scotland	1,505
Australia	1,467
Canada	1,411
Ireland	1,410

In the "Kolapore Cup," at 200 yards, the Canadians scored as follows:

Sergt.-Maj. J. Caven. Victoria	33
Staff-Sergt. A. Graham, Toronto	33
Capt. W. H. McHaig, Vancouver	30
Lieut. J. McVittie, Toronto	33
Pte. A. B. Mitchell, Toronto	33
Col.-Sergt. J. Moscrop. Vancouver	31
Sergt. F. H. Morris, Bowmanville	33
Maj. O. W. Wetmore, Clifton, N.B.	32

Canada's total was 257. The totals of the other teams at this range were: Guernsey 257, India 248, Mother Country 252, Australia 260, Southern Rhodesia 240.

SILLY WAR TALK.

Premier Whitney's Idea of Japanese-American "Scare."

Buffalo, N.Y., July 13.—Hon. J. P. Whitney, Premier of Ontario, spent several hours in Buffalo yesterday en route to England, where he is going for the summer.

Premier Whitney, when seen by a reporter, was asked what he thought of the talk of war between the United States and Japan, and he replied:

"I should hope there was nothing to this war talk. In fact, I don't consider there is anything to it. I can hardly talk seriously on anything so uncalled for. Surely the Japs are not anxious to go to war with the United States, and I don't believe there is any desire on the part of the United States to go to war with Japan.

"What would they have to fight about, anyway? To me the whole thing seems absurd, and the late advices we are receiving prove how silly it all is."

TRAINER FOUND DEAD.

Ran After Circus Train and Expired —Heart Failure.

Lindsay, July 13.—A German dog trainer named Schultz, with Hargreave's Circus, which exhibited here yesterday, was found dead between Cavanville and Berketon on the C.P.R.

Deceased had probably missed the circus train when it stopped at a small station and tried to catch it by running. Heart failure intervened, and he fell by the railroad. No mark was discovered on his body.

The circus train stopped when he was missed, but continued when word came that he was found with life extinct.

Good Friends.

Oyster Bay, L.I., July 13.—An official statement announcing a thoroughly good understanding and fundamental friendliness between the United States and Japan was issued by President Roosevelt yesterday through Secretary Loeb, after the departure of Admiral Yamamoto and Ambassador Aoki from Sagamore Hill. The statement follows:

"The president had a long interview with Admiral Baron Yamamoto, and it was most satisfactory in every way. It simply confirms what had already been made clear by Ambassador Aoki, the thoroughly good understanding between the two Governments, and the fundamental friendliness between the two nations."

Looseness of The Bowels.

It is very seldom during the summer months that most people are not troubled with "looseness of the bowels."

Sometimes it only goes that far, but generally it develops into Diarrhoea, Dysentery or Summer Complaint and has a tendency to weaken the whole system.

When the bowels get loosened up in this way and you wish to check the unnatural discharge without bringing on constipation, there is only one remedy to use, and that one is DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. This remedy is not an experiment as it has been used in thousands of families during the past sixty-two years.

When you ask for DR. FOWLER'S be sure you get it, as many unprincipalled druggists will try to palm off a cheap substitute on you.

Miss M. Hopkins, Roseview, Sask., writes: "I have used DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY and found it is all it is recommended to be for Diarrhoea and Summer Complaint. We would not be without a bottle of it in the house."

RACKET AT TORONTO.

Efforts to Run Cars Cause Trouble With Police.

Toronto, July 13.—Yesterday goes down in the Orange annals of this city as "the greatest day." Flags floated from all the schools and public buildings, and the fife and drums bands played from early morning till late at night. Nearly 100,000 people witnessed the parade, which contained about 4,000 Orangemen. The procession was two and a quarter miles long and took an hour to pass a given point. The procession was headed by police in an automobile and practically the entire city force was on duty. Preparation had been made to quell any trouble, and trouble was anticipated. Heretofore the custom has been for the Orangemen to "own the city." The car service has always been stopped and nothing allowed to interrupt the procession. A few days ago Manager R. J. Fleming of the Street Railway, issued a letter of instruction to motormen and conductors that cars must run on time and that the procession would not be allowed to block the service. The parade had only got fairly started when trouble began. At several places, obstructions were placed on the tracks, car windows smashed and motormen threatened. One man with a strange idea of the best way to stop the cars used a child for the purpose. It was only a year-old baby, but each time the motorman started his car he would make a motion as though he was going to throw the child on the tracks. Then the car would stop up.

The police were forced at some points to use their batons to prevent serious trouble. Both women and children took part in the efforts to block the cars. About noon the company discontinued the service until the procession had passed, as the police seemed unable to render the necessary protection to keep the cars going. Geo. Pickering was arrested and a number of summonses may be issued.

The day was observed with enthusiasm throughout the Dominion generally. In Montreal and the Quebec centres there were no demonstrations.

FREIGHT BOATS COLLIDE.

Serious Collision at the Mouth of St. Clair River.

Windsor, July 13.—A serious collision which was luckily attended by no loss of life occurred at the mouth of the St. Clair River at daybreak yesterday between the Tuscarora of the Lehigh Valley Line and the Maryland, a coarse package freighter.

Both vessels are of the latest steel type, and when they met head-on the crash could be heard for a long distance. The bow of the Tuscarora was cut wide open, leaving a gash through which the water poured, although her water-tight bulkhead kept the vessel from sinking immediately. The Maryland was badly smashed forward, as well as losing her steering gear and having one of her anchor's torn away. Within half an hour after the collision both boats were on the bottom of the river.

The causes leading up to the accident are not yet known, but the usual misunderstanding of signals is thought to have been responsible.

The Tuscarora was bound up with a cargo of merchandise, while the Maryland was en route to Cleveland. Tugs and lighters have gone to the wreck and will endeavor to save both boats, which can probably be done if the weather continues fine.

TORONTO GIRL'S ROMANCE.

Lovers Met Twice In Ten Years and Had C. E. Wedding.

Vancouver, B.C., July 13.—Miss Bessie McIntosh, from Toronto as delegate to the C. E. convention at Seattle, is attending convention as Mrs. Robert Thompson of Oroville, Washington. The change was sudden, as the little international romance is interesting, the marriage having been solemnized under C. E. auspices in the auditorium of the United Presbyterian church, Seattle, on Monday, and was the first distinctively C. E. ceremony on record.

The couple met in Detroit ten years ago, and parted, Miss McIntosh going to Toronto. She has been for the past six years Bible teacher in Toronto Union Mission, while Thompson came to Oroville, where he acquired large interests as a stock raiser.

The couple met in the Hotel Seattle rotunda on Monday for the first time in ten years, Thompson being a delegate to the convention as superintendent of the Sunday school at Oroville.

Case Postponed.

Brantford, July 13.—The case of W. P. Pearson, charged with refusing to allow his daughter, who is suffering from diphtheria, to be removed to the isolation hospital, will, it is announced, be further adjourned when the case comes up Monday.

The matter has been presented to the Deputy Attorney-General. Mr. Cartwright will communicate with the head of the Provincial Health Department before the case comes to court.

SASH MADE IN FREIGHT RATES

Dominion Railway Commission Issues Important Order.

A DECREASE ALL AROUND

Owners' Risk Clause Amends and More Protection Afforded Shippers —Abolition of Summer and Winter Rates—New Schedule Must Go Into Effect as Soon as Possible—Big Reduction Made.

Toronto, July 13.—The findings of the Railway Commission with respect to the discrimination in rates from United States points to Canadian points as against those from contiguous Canadian territory to the same destination has been announced, and as a result of the efforts and representations of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association a general readjustment of rates throughout eastern Canada has been brought about. An order has just been issued to the railways that tariffs covering the new basis of rates must be issued without unnecessary delay.

The new proposition means a general decrease in class freight rates in the territory east of the Detroit River and Sudbury to and including the Maritime Provinces; the same basis of rates from and between all large centres; the same rates in winter as in summer; overcome complaints as to the violation of the long and short haul clause of the Railway Act, except as authorized; the removal of the discrimination which now exists at frontier points in favor of the United States manufacturer; the rates between all points to be based on short line mileage, and as nearly as practicable, uniformity in rates between various distributing centres in Ontario.

Railways may continue to apply from recognized water points, such as Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, etc., a basis in competition with water during the summer slightly lower than the general basis adopted, but there is to be no increase from those prevailing at the present time.

As an illustration as to how the new basis will work out, the present first-class rate, Windsor to Montreal, is 70 cents in the winter and 60 cents in the summer. The new basis will be 58 cents all the year round.

Owner's risk conditions has been so amended and defined that the carriers are liable for loss through negligence on the part of themselves, their agents or employes.

There is to be no disturbance of any special commodity tariffs or commodity rates now in effect where these rates now in effect where these rates are lower than the new class rates.

BANK MESSENGER ARRESTED.

Police Do Not Believe His Tale About Pickpockets.

New York, July 13.—Henry J. Wilson, former messenger of the First National Bank, who said he was robbed of $1,715 in cash while collecting for the bank, July 1, was arrested yesterday and held in $5,000 bail for examination.

Notes and drafts to the extent of $32,000, which Wilson asserted were stolen at the same time, were returned to the bank. The messenger, after making collections, did not return to the bank for several days, declaring that his pocket had been picked and he feared he would be accused of theft.

LOVE'S SWEET DREAM.

Ends In a Rude Awakening By the Police.

Detroit, July 13.—Mary Campau, aged 17, of Bell River, Ont., while visiting relatives on the Canadian side of the river here, crossed to Detroit last Sunday. On Belle Isle bridge she engaged in a flirtation with William Berney, aged 19. It was love at sight and they decided to get married as soon as William could reach Flint, Mich., where he had a job in view.

They walked the 70 miles and on reaching Flint they were arrested as vagrants. Berney was sent to jail for five days, the girl is held for examination on Saturday.

AGAINST METAL WORKERS.

Appeal Against Canadian Judgment Refused by Privy Council.

London, July 13.—(C. A. P.)—The Privy Council have refused leave to appeal in forma pauperis to Jose and others versus the Metallic Roofing Company. There is no order regarding costs.

Judgment against the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers was given by Judge McMahon for $7,500, as damages for picketing. The court of appeal confirmed the judgment.

Post Card Restrictions.

Washington, July 13.—An alteration in the space of writing on the face side of a postcard takes effect on Aug. 1 next. Only one-third is to be allowed for a message, instead of one-half, as is often seen.

Dan Cupid Received Severe Blow From Ladies In Indiana

A Society Formed Whose Members Are Pledged to Wed No Man Who Does Not Possess a Bank Account of $2,000---Young Men Are Broken-Hearted Over the Cruel Edict of the Ladies---How Long Will It Last?

The marriageable young men of Indiana have been classified by a number of the best young ladies in the state and to the man who has not got the cash the prospects are very blue. Cupid and commercialism have been at last connected and thje men have to possess at least $3,000 before they may entertain any hopes of capturing one of the fair belles who are members of the fad society.

The present state of affairs is described in the following article:

No one who is acquainted with the characteristics of the Indiana people will be surprised to learn that in various parts of the Hoosier state the young women—that is to say, the unmarried women—have formed a Protective Association for the Promotion of Domestic Happiness. The object of the promoters is not to antagonize the world-old and eminently respectable institution of marriage, but to put Cupid upon a sound business basis. The members recognize the truth of Tennyson's lines to the effect that when poverty enters a domicile love departs without delay. Love in a cottage, with cheese and kisses, does not appeal to these practical Hoosier maidens. Of course, they believe in the divine passion, in the affinity of souls, in the ecstacy of love, and in the ineffable bliss of married life; but they also believe in beefsteak and potatoes, ham and eggs, bread and bacon, and other material and practical factors of existence. Therefore, the members of this association are agreed to marry only when they are sought in marriage by men who are able to provide all the necessaries and some of the luxuries of life. As the president of the organization says: "We hope to bring the divine passion down from the clouds where poets and romancers have put it, and plant its feet upon the solid earth. Candidates for matrimony, like other candidates, are always long on promises, but some of them are often short in performance." In other words, the man who would listen to the gladsome chime of wedding bells must either produce the goods or put up ample security.

The idea of the Indiana maidens is that no young man should entertain thoughts of matrimony until he has $3,000 in his own name. Then he should insure his life for the same amount. These suggestions are eminently practical. It may be stated as a general rule that no man should take upon himself the responsibilities of a husband unless he has $2,000, although if such a rule were legislated into a law, there would be very few marriages. Furthermore, no sensible young young man should have any objections to insuring his life for $2,000. The Hoosier maiden, however, should be fair in this matter. When she has found an eligible suitor she should present adequate proof that she is qualified to be the wife of a man who possesses $2,000 and a life insurance policy. She should be obliged to submit a diploma testifying that she is a neat, practical housekeeper and a good cook, that she is not extravagant, that her disposition is up to the standard, that she has no expensive fads, that she prefers babies to French poodles, and that she will cheerfully keep buttons on her husband's garments. If the young women of Indiana live up to the rules and regulations of their organization, and if the young men insist upon some such qualifications in their partners, then the divorce problem will soon cease to exist in that state.

THOUSANDS OF WEARERS OF ORANGE CELEBRATED IN TWO ADJACENT VILLAGES

Maple Leaf L.O.L., No. 131, Millbrook.
Ideal Band, Port Hope.
Cavan Senior L.O.L., No 40.
Fraserville L.O.L., No. 46.
Carmel L.O.L., No. 421.
Ballieboro L.O.L., No. 853.

The Speeches

On arrival at Allan's Grove, the speeches were delivered from a large platform that had been erected. Mr. T. B. Collins of Millbrook, P. G. M., for Ontario East, was voted to the chair, and the first speaker was Right Wor. Bro. Holland, P. G. M., for Ontario East.

Mr. Holland impressed upon his auditors the great heritage that had been given Canadians and the heavy responsibility that rested upon the citizens of the Dominion as a result of this great heritage.

Rev. Mr. Nelks of Port Hope, and Rev. Mr. Johnson of Millbrook, gave spirited addresses that were received with great enthusiasm, and were followed by Rev. A. H. Brace, whose address was the feature of the afternoon. He said that he was proud he was an Orangeman and glad to see the celebration such a great success. In this connection he congratulated the Orangemen of Millbrook on the splendid arrangements they had made, and the excellent manner in which everything had been carried out. Mr. Brace made some plain statements about the aggression of Rome, and condemned severely Separate schools, and the teaching of two languages in the schools of the country. That was not the way to make a strong, united nation. The introduction of religion into the politics of the country were also scored, and Orangemen were directed to stand together, and to cast their votes as Orangemen, and not as the member of any political party. When the Orangemen stood together and voted as one man, then they would be a great power in the land. Mr. Brace was given an enthusiastic reception, and took his seat amidst prolonged applause.

Addresses were also given by Rev Mr. Allan of Millbrook, Mr. Newman of Picton, Past Grand Master of the True Blue Association, and several others.

The speeches over the crowd began to move towards the station, and about five o'clock the special trains for Peterborough, Fenelon Falls, Port Hope and intermediate points, pulled out.

The Peterborough contingent arrived home at 5.30, and with the Nassau and Lakefield lodges paraded the streets of the city before adjourning. The outside lodges left for home on a special train, and the Glorious Twelfth was over.

Notes

There were several thousand people at Millbrook.

The Nassau fife and drum band was the best in the procession.

White horses were great favourites and several of them were conspicuous in the parade.

5,000 VISITORS IN HAVELOCK CELEBRATED "GLORIOUS TWELFTH"

With the customary pomp and display of past years the "Glorious Twelfth" was royally celebrated in Havelock village yesterday, where several hundred followers of Prince William of Orange had gathered to do honour to the memory of the Battle of the Boyne. Havelock was dressed in its prettiest garb and well prepared to accommodate the enormous crowds that assembled there during the day. Every road, like those of ancient Rome, seemed to lead to Havelock and early in the morning Orangemen, their friends and admirers began to arrive. It is estimated that fully 5,000 people made the railway village their temporary home yesterday. The parade was the greatest, despite the contrary elements, in the history of Havelock.

The streets were prettily decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting which hung across the roads and from the windows or verandа posts of almost every house. Many came from the east and the west on the morning trains, but the greater number drove in from all directions. This could easily be seen from the multitude of horses which were lined around the fences of the fields in the outskirts of the village.

Many Public Houses

Almost every house was thrown open to the public in order to accommodate the crowds with meals. All seemed to dispose of the edibles provided with a relish which at once bore testimony to the excellence of the fare and the appetites of the consumers.

The only circumstance that in any way occurred to mar the pleasure of the visitors was the frequent showers that fell during the afternoon, shortly after 3 o'clock ,however, the clouds dispersed and the sun shone for the remainder of the day.

A Large Parade

The feature of the programme of course, was the Orangemen's parade which took place in the afternoon along the principal streets. Fully 500 wearers of the orange colours participated and the parade was almost three-quarters of a mile in length. There were Orangemen there from Hastings, Northumberland and Peterborough counties. There were the aged who pride themselves on the regular attendance of the 12th of July celebrations for scores of years and the youths who had recently donned their colours.

In spite of the muddy condition of the roads and the rainy weather at times the parade ranked as the largest of many years in that progressive village to the east.

Shortly after midday the various lodges assembled at the Havelock public park. Music from fife and drum bands, from brass bands and from the bagpipes was there dispensed in profusion. When all had gathered together, the command to fall in was given and the procession began.

The route of the parade was along the principal streets of the village, embracing George, Quebec, Ottawa and Orange streets, above which banners bearing inscriptions such as "God Save the King," "Enniskillen" and "Derry Walls, No Surrender" floated in the breeze.

Ten lodges in all joined the parade, nine of which were accompanied by fife and drum bands and one by the bag-pipes. The Havelock Citizens' Band led the parade, and kept at all times music floated through the ozone.

Parade Order

The order of the lodges in the line of march, with the number of each, and its master, were as follows:—

Havelock Citizens' Brass Band.—Geo. Chiles, Bandmaster.

The Speeches

At the conclusion of the parade the various lodges visited the beautiful public park which the Havelock citizens have recently acquired and where the speaking took place. A large platform was erected for the occasion among the trees in the grove to exclude the hot sunshine. The rain at first hindered the addresses, but presently disappeared.

The various speakers were listened to with apparent pleasure by about 2000 persons. The park was filled with human beings, and many could not even get within hearing distances.

The chair was occupied by Mr. J. H. Hutchinson of Trent Bridge, County Master for East Peterborough. Those who responded to their names were Mr. Jno. Sexsmith, District Master; Rev. McLennan of Norwood; Rev. Chaplain of Havelock, Col J W Miller of Peterborough, Mr. T W Clark of Belleville, Grand Secretary of Ontario East; Mr. R Gordon of Tweed, Grand Treasurer of Ontario East; Rev. Adamson of Norwood and Rev. Balfour of Havelock.

The speakers referred in glowing terms to the immensity of the throng who had assembled to do honour to the memory of William of Orange, and among other things extorted Orangemen to stand up for equal rights and the love of their country at all times.

Early in the evening the crowd began to disperse, and before nightfall the population the village had attained during the day had materially decreased. However, the "Glorious Twelfth" of the year 1907, the 217th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, will be remembered for many years to come by the hundreds who assembled in Havelock for the day.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company wishes to remind its customers that Monday, July 15th., is the last day discount will be allowed on June accounts. The office will be open during the evening of the 13th. and 15th., from 8 p. m. until 11 p.m.

Annual Excursion Was Held Yesterday to Idyl Wyld by Steamer Otonabee—Day Was Enjoyed

THE LIST OF PRIZE-WINNERS

The unpleasant weather of the early morning hours yesterday affected the attendance at the annual excursion of St. John's Sunday School held at Idyl Wyld. It did not, however, interfere with the pleasure of those who braved the threatening weather and took the trip, which developed into a most delightful outing. During the forenoon the sun appeared and the rest of the day was spent under cloudless skies. Much of the success of the event is due to the energetic efforts of Mr. A. Poe, the superintendent of the school.

The steamer Otonabee was chartered for the day and the service proved to be satisfactory.

MASKINONGE BIT AT AN ANGLE WORM

Bobcaygeon Man Records Having Made Remarkable Catch

While fishing for mionows at the mill a few days ago Mr. E. P. Young noticed a commotion under the lock gate near by. Putting on a bass hook he baited with a worm and cast his line in deeper water. A big tug at the bait then a taut line, and he had a five pound maskinonge hooked, and landed him safely in his launch. It was a remarkable catch as 'lunge rarely run into the lock and no one ever heard of one biting at an angle worm before. —Bobcaygeon Independant.

Big Field And Fast Time Are Promised For Examiner Race

Ernie Wilson, Who Made Such a Good Showing Last Year, Picked by Many as the Probable Winner of This Year's Race.

MANY RUNNERS TRAINING

Some surprises are in store in connection with the Thanksgiving Day road race of the Examiner, inaugurated under such favourable auspices last year.

That there will be a large field is admitted, and a number of the runners of the city are keeping themselves in training for the event. It is understood that some Iliawatha Indians will be entering the contest this year, though their names have not yet been divulged. Simpson and Howard are mentioned as probable starters, but if the cup goes outside the city this year the winner will have to do some good running, for local men have developed considerable unexpected speed since last year. Ernie Wilson, who made such a splendid showing last year with very little training, is at the present time a very warm favourite for winner this year, and there are many who pick him to finish well in the lead. As to the other local men, there is some mystery surrounding their movements, and nothing definite is being given out from their training quarters.

This much is assured, however, that not only will there be a large entry list, but good time will be made.

GOOD PROGRAMME AT VICTORIA PARK

Band of 57th Regt. Delighted a Large Audience With Popular Concert

Last night the full band of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, gave another delightful programme in Victoria Park before an unusually large and thoroughly appreciative crowd. Some numbers, new to Peterborough music-lovers, were rendered, and met with the approval of the audience. The programme was a happy combination of standard and popular selections, enough of the former to give it weight, and those who appreciate the lighter and, possibly, more tuneful numbers were catered to as well.

WAS A BUSY DAY FOR THE LOCAL RAILROADS

Yesterday was a busy day with the railways, especially the Grand Trunk, on which a number of special trains were run to accommodate the celebrating Orangemen. No less than sprinkled over this system in this division, and a number of them were to accommodate those attending the celebration at Millbrook. Specials were run from Pemelon Falls and Lindsay to Millbrook, Omemee to the same place, and another train was made up to handle those coming from the southern part of Durham County, along the main line west of Port Hope, and taking in the intermediate stations on the Port Hope branch. A separate train was required to convey the ladies from this city, Lakefield, Nassau and Downer's Corners, about 700 in all. The trains were all dispatched in good time, too, and the service was all that could be desired.

MARKET REMAINS DULL; IS NOT VERY LARGE

Prices of Vegetables and Fruits Higher Than Usual

The market to-day was quite dull and prices were about the same as those of last Saturday. Eggs sold at 18c per dozen and butter at 22c per lb. Potatoes were easily disposed of at prices ranging from $1 to $1.25. There was a fair supply of cherries and strawberries, but the prices remain too high.

SETTLED WITH THE CHURCH.

Roman Catholics Given Valuable Holdings By the U.S.

Washington, July 13.—An agreement has been reached between the United States Secretary of War and the representatives of the Catholic Church in the Philippines Islands regarding a number of important matters of controversy which will obviate the necessity of prolonging threatening vexatious litigations.

Regarding the landed properties, the agreement, provides that the Catholic church, through the archbishopric of Manila, shall possess in absolute title the land and property pertaining to the hospital of San Jose, the hospital of San Juan de Dies, the College of San Jose, the hospital of San Jose in Cavite and the College of Santa Isabella. These properties are valued at $2,086,000.

The church relinquishes to the Government of the Philippines all claims and demands upon the estate of Santa Potenciana and upon the hospital and foundation of San Lazaro, except that the archbishop is to retain possession of the block in which the present Santa Cruz Cemetery is situated, and of fifty hectares, north of the hospital.

Heredity Triumphant

By Alice Leveit Carson

Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells

A shrill whistle echoed along the sunny avenue. Mary Dexter jumped from her seat on the porch, scattering embroidery silks in all directions. She waved her handkerchief in response. Then she ran into the house calling: "Aunt Linda! Where are you? Here's Dave Green to see you!"

Without waiting for a reply she returned to the porch just in time to greet the young man who came up the steps. "Glad to see me, Mary?" he asked as with a hasty glance around she put up her face for a kiss. Then the two sat down on the top step in earnest, subdued conversation. Mary Dexter was a maid of nineteen with a fresh peachblow complexion. Today wearing a simple white frock, she looked her best—and knew it.

In a few minutes an elderly woman came out the front door. Her hair, worn as a coronet, was silvery white though she was only forty. Age had touched her face lightly, pressing in the wrinkles with loving fingers that left only sweetness in the expression. Rumor told a romantic tale of Linda Pennington's life, and for once rumor was right. A girlish engagement with a young army officer who fell in his first battle, a few years as a nurse in the war, interrupted by a marriage with Lyall Pennington, early widowhood and a subsequent life devoted to good work—these were among the incidents in her story. For many years all her plans had been for Mary, whom she had adopted long ago.

Mrs. Pennington had taken a great interest in Mary because she came from her own town, and the case of the child was particularly pitiful, for there were no near relatives to whom she could be sent.

Fresh from the sadness caused by the death of her husband, Linda found the child's companionship a great comfort. Mary had passed serenely through the stages of childhood and youth and now, at nineteen, under the training of private tutors, was prepared to enter

"ISN'T IT A BEAUTY, AUNT LINDA?"

Merton college in the fall. After graduation endless possibilities opened before her. This was the situation that July morning when Mrs. Pennington came out on the porch and greeted young David Green, one of Mary's admirers.

He was a manly fellow of twenty-one, son of a prosperous farmer of the rural district. He had lately been given a good sized tract of land by his father, with the instruction to "see what he could do with it," and he was doing well.

"You've just come back from New York, haven't you, David?" asked Mrs. Pennington.

"Yes," said Mary. "He's been away two whole days."

The sigh with which this was said brought a laugh from the other two. Mrs. Pennington seated herself in the rocker.

"Why, Mary," she said, "is this your embroidery on the floor? Pick it up before it gets dirty."

The girl leaned back comfortably against the railing. "You pick it up, Dave," she said indifferently. And the young man did so. But Linda bit her lip in vexation. It was a little thing, but characteristic of the way Mary made all her friends wait on her.

"Did you go away on business, David?" she asked hastily.

"No—yes—well, I don't know as you'd call it exactly business."

"I should," said Mary decidedly—"the most important business for you just now, Dave." The lad laughed, embarrassed.

"Dear me, this sounds very mysterious," said Mrs. Pennington, smiling. "What is it all about?"

"I went to get something for Mary," said David.

"And here it is," said the girl, holding out her left hand. "Isn't it a beauty, Aunt Linda?" A handsome solitaire flashed into view.

The significance of the stone did not enter Linda Pennington's mind, for it was many years since she had thought of such things. "Mary, you know you may not receive presents of jewelry from young men," she was beginning, but the words died on her lips. Mary and David, looking for some sign of approval, read in her face grief, disappointment and refusal.

"Aren't you pleased?" went on the girl. "We've been engaged since Christmas. Before I visited Florrie Tucker, Dave asked me and I said 'I'd see.' Then while I was away he kept writing to me—and I always did like him best of any of the boys—so I just had to say 'yes.' He's so obstinate, Dave is, he wouldn't take 'no.'"

"Of course I am very much surprised," Linda said when she could trust herself to speak. "I think you are both too young to talk of such things. Besides, you are going to college soon, Mary, and I do not approve of indefinite engagements."

"But there's nothing indefinite about our engagement," replied the girl airily, twisting the ring on her finger. "We are to be married in September."

"What?"

"Oh, yes, it's all settled," nodding her head. "I wrote this morning to Merton canceling my application. I'm tired of study—what is the use of it? I know more now than any other girl—or boy almost—in Dorsettown. Just think, after September I'll never have to study any more!"

Mrs. Pennington rose in wrath from her chair. "Mary," she cried sharply, "you don't know what you're saying! You are giving up carelessly what I would give years of my life to have had when I was a girl—what you will always regret giving up. I don't often exercise my authority as your guardian, but when you act like a silly child I must. I ask you—no, I order you—to break this engagement!"

Mary sprang up and stamped her foot angrily. "Well, I won't!" she cried. "And you can't make me; I'm nineteen years old."

Linda sank back in the chair with trembling lips. The mother who had eloped was speaking through her daughter. "Mary, if you love me," she pleaded, but she knew it would be no use. The girl's heredity was showing, and she must bow to the inevitable.

Mary never would understand what a blow this was to her guardian's ambitions for her. College, then advanced work, or, if the girl preferred, art study in Paris or music in Germany—these the plans she had made. And this mad whim must overturn them all!

The girl's storm of fury spent itself in floods of tears. "Aunt Linda, I can't. Don't ask me to," she sobbed.

David drew his sweetheart toward him. He had been a silent, troubled witness of the scene. Now he spoke quietly.

"It's like this, Mrs. Pennington, we love each other, and we don't see the use of waiting. If we wait four years by then we'll have grown apart perhaps, and it will be harder to give in to each other. We want to be married at once. I am making a good living; my people are pleased, and we only want your consent."

But she shook her head impatiently. "I have nothing against you, David, but—it is impossible."

"Oh, no, Mrs. Pennington!" he cried. "Think—think—when you were young and in love: Don't you remember how it was then?"

How old memories can rise again! A vision of a boyish soldier, with pleading eyes and tender smile. And that parting—could she ever forget the sound of his voice, low and thrilling?

She gave a shuddering sigh and opened tear dimmed eyes. "I was only seventeen and he was twenty—and I never saw him again. His body could not be found. Ah!" Steadying her voice, she went on. "You are right, David. It was foolish and wrong to try to control Mary's life. She must work it out for herself. My plans were far different from this, but I can give them up, as I have given up others."

"Dear Mrs. Pennington," said David, grasping her hand.

Then, when Mary ran off to set the supper table and David followed, with awkward attempts to help, Linda Pennington drew forth an old locket and gazed long at the portrait within. "Once I thought that the shattering of my dreams would kill me," she murmured. "But I lived to thank God for other dreams and duties that came. So it will be now, I think."

"Supper is ready, Aunt Linda!" called Mary, and Mrs. Pennington turned from the sunset glow.

A Welsh Rip.

Every nation has a Rip Van Winkle of its own, but the Welsh story of Rip is unique. He is known as Taffy ap Sion. One morning Taffy heard a bird singing on a tree close by his path. Allured by the melody, he sat down until the music ceased. When he arose, what was his surprise at observing that the tree under which he had taken a seat had now become dead and withered! In the doorway of his home, which, to his amazement, had also suddenly grown older, he asked of a strange old man for his parents, whom he had left there, as he said, a few minutes before. Upon learning his name the old man said: "Alas, Taffy, I have often heard my grandfather, your father, speak of you, and it was said you were under the power of the fairies and would not be released until the last sap of that sycamore had dried up. Embrace me, my dear uncle—for you are my uncle—embrace your nephew." Welshmen do not always perceive the humor of this somewhat novel situation of a youth—for Taffy was still merely a boy—being hailed as uncle by a gentleman perhaps forty years his senior.

Fun For Him.

Askum—Who was that man who stopped to talk to you? Dubley—That's my old barber. Askum—Does he usually stop you on the street. Dubley—No, but he knows I'm shaving myself now and he just wanted to look at my face and gloat over me.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Case of Emergency.

While on the march in India the pioneer corporal of a famous Irish regiment went to the quartermaster for a loan of a camel to carry a spare tent, but the quartermaster refused, saying: "I have only the cart, and this spare camel I am keeping for a case of emergency."

The corporal said, "Can't you put the case of emergency on the cart, sir, and let me have the camel?"—Red Letter.

More Arrests In Lindsay Counterfeit Case Reported

George Miller, Who is Well Known In This City, Taken Into Custody on Charge of Complicity in Case.

A PORT HOPE MAN, TOO

Lindsay, July 13.—Startling as was the arrest of the other men, the taking into custody of George Miller, a young married town citizen, last night, came like a thunderbolt. Miller was summering with his wife and child at Pleasant Point, a summer resort about ten miles from town, when arrested by License Inspector Thornbury last night at about 7.30, and taken to town, and from there to the jail.

Detectives Parkinson and Rogers did not go to Sault Ste. Marie, but "laid low" in town. They were with Miller last night.

An Expert Pressman

George Miller is an expert pressman, and is connected with the firm of the Watchman-Warder Printing Co. Small in stature, clean shaven, and slender in appearance. His father is well known and respected, and he has two brothers. One is a promising architect. The other is a young fellow. The arrested man is about 28 years old. His home is close to Pumpkin Hollow.

Miller had been mentioned for some time as a probable arrest around town, but many thought the idea preposterous, because of his steady habits.

Cannot Credit it

"George Miller arrested? Impossible," was the manner in which the arrest of the young pressman was taken around town. The news spread like wildfire this morning and created excitement everywhere. The young man was a companion of Burke. When the latter was arrested, he said, "It's all a mistake. I've known Charlie for years."

He was a baseball player and played a game the same evening Burke was arrested. For years he had lived in Lindsay. He learned the pressman section of the printing business at the Watchman-Warder when Col. Sam Hughes and Mr. George Lytle owned it. When Mr. Little died he became a member of the Watchman-Warder Printing Co. He was foreman previously, and then went on the road for the firm.

It was Montreal Bank bills that were counterfeited three years ago.

Chief Vincent despatched Thornbury to Pleasant Point in a rig.

Miller was taken before Magistrate Moore and remanded till Thursday.

Bonyea's Position

Archie Bonyea has been misrepresented in the case to some extent. He worked up till July first at Kennedy and Davis', even after the fire had consumed the mill. Then he left for Toronto, ostensibly on a visit to his son and daughter there. The next his wife heard of him he was in Sault Ste. Marie. He has lived here for forty years, and was once janitor in the Bank of Montreal. His family consists of two sons and a daughter, all grown grown up. He was well respected here.

More arrests yet are expected.

FALL WHEAT STRAW NEARLY SIX FEET LONG, FROM ALBERTA

Mr. Alexander Dawson on Saturday received an interesting package from his sons in Nanton, Alta. It was some specimens of wheat and rye, taken from farms in the vicinity of that town and constituted conclusive evidence of the quality of the crops in that section of Alberta. Sample of rye sixty-five inches long, and tall wheat forty-five inches in length. The letter accompanying the grain stated that the crops of all kinds were looking splendidly, and hopes are entertained for a bountiful harvest. The production of fall wheat in Alberta is rapidly developing into a predominating feature of the farming operations, and one which great success has attended during the past few years. The Dawson boys speak enthusiastically of the prospects for Alberta this year, and, if the evidence of the good crops submitted is not deceiving, their expectations will be fully realized.

The samples of grain sent Mr. Dawson are at this office, and anyone interested is invited to call and see them.

Increasing Popularity Is Experienced At Chemong

This Delightful Spot is Becoming More and More the Mecca for Those Looking for Healthful Resorts.

SOME INTERESTING NEWS

Chemong, July 15. — With the month of July half gone and the last half of the summer season commencing, this popular resort is at the height of its gaiety. The cottages, those erected this year included, are practically all occupied, and the list of guests at the hotel taxes the capacity of that excellent institution to its utmost. Mr. Brown states that the weather conditions up to the present have been somewhat unsatisfactory from the standpoint of the summer resorts, but he is in hopes that from now until the end of the season conditions will steadily improve. The popularity of Chemong Park is on the increase, and especially in the American cities along the border Chemong is looked upon as the ideal spot to spend the summer. This belief is emphasized by the fact that they are coming here in increasingly large numbers and building summer residences.

Mr. Bull, one of the most enthusiastic summer residents of the park, has just completed his handsome new residence and moved in.

The new summer residence built by Mr. A. A. Hollingshead, occupying a commanding position on the shore east of the hotel, has been completed, and will be occupied in a few days.

Yesterday there was a large number of visitors from the city at the park, and they spent a delightful afternoon and evening in the park and on the water.

The first service of the summer, conducted by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, was held yesterday and was well attended, the majority of the cottagers and summer residents, as well as visitors, joining heartily in the service.

It is expected that the usual regatta will be held this year, a date in August having been suggested on which to hold it. Nothing definite, however, has yet been decided.

The races will be especially interesting and warmly contested this year, and every day that the wind is strong enough the dinghies are seen going around the course.

Mr. Dennistoun, who was one of the leaders in every phase of life at Chemong, is greatly missed this year. Even his dinghy, which was so prominent on the lake during the years that Mr. Dennistoun was a resident here, has disappeared, Mr. Peck, who bought it, having taken it to Stony Lake.

Yesterday, a crowd of five boys, in Mr. Munro's yacht, arrived from Stony Lake, having started from the lake the day before, staying at Buckhorn over night.

BOY'S BODY WAS FOUND YESTERDAY

All Doubts as to Fate of John Lefebvre Set at Rest—Funeral This Morning

All doubts that may have existed concerning the fate of John Lefebvre, the thirteen year old son of Mr. Ernest Lefebvre, who disappeared on Thursday morning while fishing at the Auburn dam, and whose fishing pole was found shortly after in an eddy, were set at rest yesterday by the finding of the boy's body in the morning, floating near a boom above the Quaker Oats dam. The body was discovered by a boy named Coughlin who noticed it in the water as he was crossing the bridge. The remains were removed to the Smith street bridge and afterwards taken to Lane & Eano's undertaking establishment, where they were take care of.

The funeral took place this morning to the Little Lake cemetery.

MISS THOMPSON IS NOW THIRD

Peterborough Lady Stands Well Up in List for Trip to London for Toronto World

Miss Birdie Thompson, Peterborough's candidate in the contest for the trip to London, of the Toronto World, to-day stands third in the list of those from the Province at large, with 253,505 votes. She is less than 40,000 votes behind the leader in that district, and her friends believe that she will finish well up in the list, and will be one of the fortunate three to get the trip at the expense of the Toronto newspaper.

MANY SUCCESSFUL STUDENTS IN MUSIC

Pupils of Mr. Gliddon and Staff Who Passed Examinations

The results of the recent examinations in music in connection with the Toronto University, Toronto Conservatory and Toronto College of Music, show that a large percentage of the local students of the Conservatory of Music succeeded in passing, and many of them with honours. This certainly speaks well for the musical talents of the Peterborough students and the tutorship of Mr. Gliddon and his staff of instructors. Following is the complete list of those who succeeded:

Toronto University—Senior Piano; Honours — Miss Annie Sisson; Junior Piano—Miss Florence Bell. Primary Piano—Miss Nettie Dawe.

MEN AND THE CHURCHES

"Why do men go to church?" or, more correctly, "Why do men not go to church?" is a question which has been engaging the attention of some preachers recently, and among them Rev. Dr. Cobb, of Ethelburga's Church, in Bishopsgate, London. He has propounded the question, and many pastors in America and Europe have attempted to answer it. A disconcerting fact has been established by these replies. It is to the effect that of the men who go, comparatively few, by their own confession, attend for the purpose of hearing the sermon. Habit seems to be responsible for the attendance of a large proportion.

Others go because of dread of public opinion. Many go to show their new clothes, to study what their neighbours wear, and to criticise their taste. Some go for what attendance is worth in a business or professional way, and make hardly any pretence of other motive. But, on the whole, Dr. Cobb is pleased to believe that the majority of regular church goers are honestly in search of spiritual consolation.

One can hardly read over this list of motives for church attendance without being constrained to acknowledge that there is abundant cause for the classification. Few of us are unable to pick out among our friends (maybe ourselves!) some case of church habit without any obvious discoverable motive in benefit to be had, or in practical devotion to religion. Perhaps, like Dr. Cobb, we may even suspect that Mr. and Mrs. or Prof. or Dr. So-and-so has business gain as his spur to external religious form.

Perhaps it is unchristian and uncharitable to suppose that the Easter gowns and millinery, and the modistes' novelties at other seasons, have any influence church-compelling on the fair sex, but there are many people who entertain such notions.

Rev. Dr. R. Keene Ryan, of Garfield Boulevard Presbyterian Church, Chicago, has devoted some effort to obtaining among his people specific answers to the why of church going. He interrogated 100 men, and thus classifies the answers:

Fifteen said, they attended church in order to hear the music.

Fifteen because they wanted to set a good example to their children.

Fifteen through force of habit.

Fifteen because they wanted to please their wives.

Fifteen because it helped their business.

Ten because they had promised dying parents to do so.

Ten because they were not sure as to the future and did not want to run any risk of going to hell, although they did not believe in such a place.

Five because they believed in the teachings of the Bible and enjoyed the sermons.

Dr. Ryan does not regard this as a fair criterion, but he thinks that "it proves that many of the faithful church-goers are actuated by far different motives and sentiments than they get credit for."

Rev. Dr. Quayle, of Chicago, thinks that Dr. Cobb's conclusion, that desire for spiritual consolation is a strong factor, is correct. He says that deep down in the heart there is a yearning after spiritual things, which transcends public opinion, and even overlooks the repellant in many sermons. Men, he thinks, go to church or stay away more according to the satisfying of that yearning than for any or all other causes. He regrets that the church going habit is not stronger, and he wishes that the rule of attendance enforced in Roman Catholic churches were observed generally.

Now, why do you go to church? How are you to be classed? Have you ever considered it?

NO PASSES IN TEXAS.

At midnight on July 12th, a number of new laws went into effect in the state of Texas, and among them were some of a radical nature, as one might expect from that state, some of them being the following:

Permitting medical colleges to deal in human bodies.

Prohibiting cock fighting.

Making it a misdemeanor to drink liquor on trains.

Prohibiting free passes or franks of any sort.

Creating an eight hour day for telegraphers and full train crews.

Abolishing negro school trustees.

Requiring insurance companies to invest 75 per cent. of their Texas earnings in the state.

All who sell pistols are taxed 50 per cent. of the gross earnings on all their business.

Brokerage houses, exchanges and bucket shops are closed as the law does not permit wire service to them.

Liquor license applications require ten days' notice thereby making saloons sell at their own risk for the next ten days.

BEARS BAD RECORD.

Suspect In Counterfeting Case Has Already Served a Term.

Lindsay, July 15.—Telegrams have been sent to a number of places in the northwest where it is suspected an attempt is to be made to "shove" some of the counterfeit productions of Burke et al.

There are no new developments locally. John Goslin has been brought here from Port Hope, where he was arrested Saturday. He is the only one under arrest who bears a bad record, having served a term for selling phoney watches. He is also known as an operator at fall fairs with an elusive pea and a mystifying walnut shell.

George Miller, the foreman printer arrested Friday night, may be charged with circulating bogus bills some three years ago, when he visited Belleville and Peterboro. At the time he was questioned by the police and his stories then are declared to have been conflicting.

CRAMPS CAUSED DROWNING.

Brother Saw Body In River But Could Not Recover It.

Wroxeter, July 15.—Yesterday morning, while Joseph and William Casemore, of this place, were bathing under Day's Bridge, Joseph took cramps and sunk. William not being able to swim could render no assistance, and it was sometime before any assistance could be obtained. The body lay in about ten feet of water, and was plainly visible from the bridge.

At last Harry Brown arrived. He stripped immediately and dived and brought up the body, but it was too late.

Two doctors were upon the grounds and did all that could be done.

The body was under water about 25 minutes, and was chilled through, as the water was spring water.

The drowned man was well-known and highly respected. He was about 20 years of age and unmarried.

THROWN FROM CANOE.

Boy Drowned At Wingham—Companion Had Narrow Escape.

Wingham, July 15.—Yesterday afternoon two young men, John Knox, son of Robert Knox, merchant, and Robert Thomas of Bluevale, were out in a canoe on the Maitland River.

While near the C.P.R. bridge by some means the canoe upset. Neither of the boys could swim. Young Knox went down, while Thomas managed to cling to the canoe and was rescued by John Madigan.

A crowd of citizens soon gathered, and an effort to get the body of Knox was made, but not knowing the exact location were somewhat handicapped. After being in the water for about two hours, the body was brought to the surface by Albert Routhier. Knox was about 20 years of age.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

Winnipeg Man Found in Buffalo—Can't Explain His Trip.

Winnipeg, Man., July 15.—The mystery of the disappearance of J. J. Strain of the United States immigration staff at Winnipeg has now been cleared up. Mr. Strain has been located at Buffalo, and the case is said to be one of temporary mental aberration.

Word was received from the missing man Saturday. He has not the slightest recollection of what he has been doing since he departed from Winnipeg on July 4. His memory, so far as the intervening days are concerned, is a complete blank.

Mr. Strain's last official duty in the city was at 2.05 o'clock on July 4, when he inspected two trains. He was last seen on the day following.

NO WARSHIPS FOR LAKES.

Peace Society Officials Say Rumor Is Incorrect.

Toronto, July 15.—Concerning the report that training ships of war might be introduced on the great lakes by the United States, Rev. A. C. Courtice, secretary of the Canadian Peace and Arbitration Society, has a letter from Dr. Banjamin F. Brueblood, secretary of the American Peace Society, with this assurance:

"Direct information from the State Department at Washington assures us that the report had no real foundation."

Six Killed; Twenty Hurt.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 15.—A long-distance telephone message from Johnson City, Tenn., says:

Six persons met instant death, and twenty were injured when east-bound vestibuled train No. 42, on the Southern Pacific Railway, collided with a switch engine one mile west of Johnson City at 7.30 last night.

7,500 Jap Laborers.

Victoria, B.C., July 15.—The Japanese immigration companies will send five thousand coolies to Canada for the C.P.R.

ITALY'S GIFT TO FRANCE.

Garibaldi's Statue Unveiled In Paris With Significant Remarks.

Paris, July 15.—The statue of Garibaldi, Italy's tribute to the City of Paris, was unveiled Saturday in Lowendal square with imposing civil and military ceremonies, in the presence of President Fallieres, the Cabinet Ministers, the diplomatic corps, and other distinguished persons. Foreign Minister Pichon and Gen. Canzio, Garibaldi's son-in-law, made the principal addresses.

The feature of the occasion was a defile before the monument of the French veterans of the Army of the Vosges and deputations of Italian veterans who fought with Garibaldi in the defence of France during the Franco-German War of 1870-71.

M. Pichon in the course of his speech referred to the "wonderful career" of Garibaldi, and called him a "true son of the French revolution—a patriot belonging less to Italy than to the whole world," adding, "How fitting it is that this monument should be erected to his memory in Paris, where the statues of Washington and Franklin attest the gratitude of the French democracy for those who abroad nobly served the cause of liberty. Even after death Garibaldi is rendering new service to Italy and France, since the present occasion permits the two nations, as well as the two Governments, to solemnly reaffirm their friendship."

WORKMEN FIGHT POLICE.

Soldiers Are Called Out — Crowd Pelt Them With Fireworks.

Toulon, France, July 15.—Eight thousand workmen, including a number of anarchists, had a meeting Saturday and demonstrated against the Government.

Towards midnight a collision occurred between the police and the workmen, several being injured on both sides.

The paraders were struggling for positions at a public concert when the police charged them.

Later it was necessary to call upon the soldiers to aid the police.

The crowd threw fireworks among the troopers' horses causing a panic.

At Montpelier marching workmen and their sympathizers, singing anarchistic airs, stopped in front of the barracks and acclaimed the soldiers, whom they invited to join in the procession and demonstration. The troops were not allowed to mingle with the celebrators, who were not disorderly.

At a mass meeting the workmen condemned the Government and expressed sympathy with the South of France.

Killed In Runaway.

Tweed, July 15.—Arthur Wallace, one of the most respected and well-to-do farmers in this district, died yesterday afternoon from the effects of injuries received in a runaway accident which occurred on his farm on Friday.

He was working on the mower when his team got frightened and ran away, dragging him under the mower, mangling him terribly.

Schooner Sunk at Sea.

New York, July 15.—News of the sinking of another Boston fishing schooner was brought in Saturday, when the Russian steamer Sartox arrived, carrying the crew of the schooner Shepherd King, Capt. Brigham, which was run down and sunk off the Georges Shoals Friday morning. The Sartox struck the Shepherd King during a dense fog.

You have No Reason for Not Using Zutoo

Some people think that all headache cures are alike—that they all undermine the health, even if not perceived at the time of taking them.

Well, we'll admit that the drug cures do this, but that is no reason why you should not take Zutoo.

Zutoo is a harmless vegetable remedy. One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda that our grandmothers used to take to settle the stomach, when they had sick headache. And there is nothing better.

The principal ingredient—the one that stops the headache, is a vegetable ingredient, imported for us from Japan. It wont hurt you any more than will the soda.

There is absolutely no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

If you suffer from headache there is every reason why you should.

Taken in time, two tablets will ward off a headache. Taken later, they will stop it in twenty minutes, and leave you feeling good every time.

If you are using a drug remedy, why not discard it?

Zutoo will cure just as quickly and will save you the penalty, that all must sometime pay, who take the drugs which these cures contain.

If you will give Zutoo one trial, you will never take any other headache remedy again.

Opened Inquest On Death Of Circus Man At Millbrook

Late "Col" Schultz Was an Important Man With the Show—No Light Yet Thrown on Cause of His Death.

RESUMED THIS AFTERNOON

The inquest on the death of "Col" Schultz, who met his death in a mysterious manner by falling or being thrown from one of the cars attached to the Hargraves circus at an early hour on Friday last, was opened on Saturday morning in Gillett's undertaking establishment in Millbrook, under the direction of Dr. Gray, coroner, and the following jurymen were sworn:

Thos. Hunter.
R. J. Ellis.
J. Hunter.
L. Hutchison.
R. Lowry.
S. Touchburn.
Alf. Brown.
W. J. Firney.
N. McGill.
W. Williamson.
Jas. Harper.
John McNeil, Foreman.

Dr. Turner was instructed to hold a post-mortem on the body, assisted by Dr. Montgomery.

Mr. W. Campbell, assistant manager of the Hargraves circus, the first witness, said his circus is touring through Canada. It showed at Orangeville on Saturday. They showed on Friday at Lindsay, and at Havelock on Thursday. They wind up their Canadian business in three weeks. They have five sleeping cars, of which some have state-rooms. He was in the second to last car. There was a trailer for train crew and detectives. Deceased was in No. 2 car (with his wife. It has state-rooms, but they did not occupy one, simply a berth. Has no idea how deceased lost his life. Schultz's wife missed him at about 1 o'clock. Deceased was an important man with the show. His absence would lose our complete act for the show. While talking the matter over with Mrs. Schultz, it was decided better for her not to come to the inquest. He then gave the names of the other occupants of Schultz's car.

The inquest was adjourned at noon to be re-opened to-day at 1 p.m., when the medical testimony and post-mortem results will be given. The C.P.R. train crew will also be examined this afternoon. Should the evidence of the latter not be fully satisfactory, a carload of the circus people of all grades will later on be brought here, probably from Brampton.

Chose Port Hope As Scene Of Fraudulent Operations

Man Arrested There on Charge of Passing Worthless Cheques—Worked the Old Scheme in the Old Way.

MANY MERCHANTS BIT

Lindsay is no sooner in the wake of a sensation, than Port Hope springs into the limelight, as if in an attempt to outdo her sister town. A despatch from that town, dated Saturday, says: A well-dressed, clean-shaven young man of about 25 years of age, claiming to be Walter Warren of Thirty-second street, New York City, was arrested here this evening by Chief Bond, for passing fraudulent cheques on two merchants. Warren arrived in town from Toronto this morning on the limited, and purchased $31 worth of feed from John Curtis, stating that he was a horse buyer of the firm of Warren Bros., Toronto.

He gave a cheque for $78 in payment and received $17 in cash in change. He also purchased a quantity of binder-twine at J. B. White's hardware store, giving a cheque for $25 and receiving $9 in change. The cheques were on the east end branch of the Bank of Toronto in Toronto. Some time after the sale of the feed, Mr. Curtis became suspicious.

He made inquiry by telephone from the east end branch in Toronto and learned that Warren was unknown there. The prisoner registered at the Queen's Hotel as W. H. Warren of Toronto.

Several Toronto addresses were found among his effects, and it is believed he hails from there.

Eczema Is Baby's Enemy

CAUSING KEEN DISTRESS FROM THE DREADFUL ITCHING—SOMETIMES LASTS FOR YEARS—CURE EFFECTED BY

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The first indication of eczema is a red pimple, or blister-like eruption. The points run together, and make a moistened patch, which "weeps" at first, and then dries into a crust.

The intense itching of eczema of the face and scalp is very hard for the little one to bear, and the result is scratching until free bleeding takes place, and recovery is further retarded. Besides the suffering from the distressing itching, the child is restless and sleepless.

When left to itself, eczema runs on indefinitely, covering the body with sores, but fortunately there is positive cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, a preparation which by its marvellous soothing and healing powers, brings quick relief from itching and heals up the sores.

Mr. William Crafts, jr., Burk's Falls, Ont., writes: "Our little boy, aged three years, broke out with eczema all over his face, hands and back, and we had a terrible time trying to relieve his suffering. It was so bad that when he scratched it would almost make the blood flow. The use of Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly brought relief and made a thorough cure, as there has never any return of the disagreeable ailment. We always keep Dr. Chase's medicines in the house and find them very useful."

Mrs. M. McCann, 4 Short street, St. John, N. B., writes: "My little girl, three years old, had her face covered with eczema and it was beginning to spread all over her body. I tried many different ointments, and the doctor could not do her any good. A friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment and she was completely cured by one box. I cannot praise Dr. Chase's Ointment enough for the good it has done her."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven especially successful in the cure of baby eczema, as well as the prevention of this torturing disease, when used for chafing and skin diseases, in which eczema finds its beginnings. Sixty cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 12

Port Hope, July 13.—Chief Bond, about 11 o'clock this morning, arrested John Goslin, a local horseman, well known throughout the Midland district, on instructions of the police of Lindsay in connection with the counterfeiting case there. CALL FOR TENDERS FOR NEW GALLERY

Board of Managers of Knox Church Will Hold Important Meeting To-night

A meeting of the Board of Managers of Knox Church will be held to-night, when arrangements will be made for calling for tenders for the erection of the gallery in the church. Work it is expected, will be undertaken at an early date.

THE CONGREGATION WILL MEET

Members of St. Paul's Church Will Deal With Important Matters at Meeting To-night

Yesterday two splendid sermons were preached in St. Paul's Church by Rev. Dr. Ross of Erie, Pa. The services were held in the Sunday school room on account of the repairs being made to the church. The congregations were pleased with the sermons preached by the visiting divine.

To-night a meeting of the congregation will be held, when some important matters will be considered, among them being the proposal to transfer to the Board of Managers of Knox Church the interests held by St. Paul's Church, in the Knox Church property. The question of placing a mortgage on the church for the purpose of raising money to provide for improvements to be carried out in the church property, and also to pay for some already effected, will also be taken up.

The matter of arranging for services in the Stewart Settlement will also be discussed at this meeting. It was dealt with at the recent meeting of Presbytery, and referred to the congregation of St. Paul's to finally decide.

FLOWER SERVICE AT KNOX CHURCH

Rev. H. J. Keith Preached Special Sermon Yesterday Morning—Children Brought Flowers

A service of more than ordinary interest was held yesterday morning in Knox Church. It took the form of a flower service, and, for the occasion, the church was very prettily decorated, the children having spent Saturday gathering flowers, which were present in profusion. Mrs. Keith, assisted by some of the lady teachers in the Sunday school, worked indefatigably on Saturday arranging the flowers, and the result of their work was apparent. Yesterday morning the children carried bouquets, and these were later taken to brighten the rooms of sick persons. The sermon, which was of a special nature, was preached by the pastor, and was from the text, "Consider the lilies." Three solos were given during the service by Miss Clara Bartley, who sang "Why Not Now?" Miss Jessie Miller, whose selection was "Jesus wants me for a little sunbeam," and Miss Clara McDougall of Montreal. In the evening the pulpit was occupied by Rev. J. R. Webb of the Murray Street Baptist Church. At this service Mr. D. Campbell sang a solo.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column,—

Dear Sir, — I write on behalf of the church - goers of this city — a class which constitutes a large proportion of the population — to protest against a practice which, with the increasing metropolitan character of the city, is becoming more apparent. I refer to the habit of autoists, on Sunday mornings and evenings, during the progress of the services in the various churches, passing, and re-passing the churches, in many cases, several times during the progress of the sermon, to the annoyance of the preacher and the congregation, both of whom dislike the objectionable "honk, honk," of the horn, and rattle of the engine punctuating the sermon. There are many streets upon which the amateur motorist may ride during the two hours on Sunday, and on which he will not disturb church goers, and if there were not and the worst comes to the worst, why not give overworked auto a rest during the services in our churches?

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Calyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. An Extensive Trip Arranged For Salvation Army Band

Will Appear in Concerts in Many Towns Along Lake Ontario in the Early Part of August---An Honour Conferred on the Local Corps and a Recognition of Their Musical Ability

Leaving Peterborough about the 10th of August the Salvation Army Band will go on a tour to the towns along Lake Outari between Port Hope and Kingston. The trip will embrace engagements at Port Hope, Cobourg, Belleville ,Trenton, Napanee and Kingston and ten days at least will be spent away from the city. Band Master J M Green will accompany the men and as an honour to the Band Brigadier Hargrave, the Provincial Officer , will be in full command. Practically all the bandsmen will be taken, forty at least have been chosen by the officers and this number will be sufficient for a complete band.

The fact that this corps band has been selected by headquarters to make this trip is not only a proof of their ability but it shows that as a corps band they are highly thought of by the officers . The band, as the citizens know, is in fine condition and the standard of their music is such that they deserve to be greeted by large audiences at the different places where they will appear. The concerts will be varied, the programmes consisting of band selections, vocal numbers, brass quartette and other groupings of instruments. The band will undoubtedly win a good name for the city and should be an advertisement. It is expected that the trip will be a success and there is every reason for believing that it will surpass the expectations of the officers. The return will be made by way of Tweed where the final concert will be given.

This morning Adjt. Wiggins ordered 40 new summer hats. They are white in colour and are designed for the comfort of the bandsmen. The men should present a natty appearance when they appear with their hats.

Summer Population At The Lakes On The Increase

Juniper Island Pavilion, the Attraction of the Evenings ---Happenings on Board the Steamer Stoney Lake--- Flour Fell Into the Lake---Many Interesting Personal Items.

Special Staff Correspondent.

Stony Lake, July 15. — The annual cosmopolitan population of Kawarthdom is fast arriving. The majority of the cottages have now been aired to receive their summer occupants, and the various hotels, and boarding houses, have their share of the scores that daily wend their way to these regions of ease and comfort. Tourists are here from all parts of the province, from the Southern States,from New York City and from various other places across the line. Life in its varied forms are here, and the population, apparently, is enjoying it.

All the Saturday steamers up the lake carried many passengers, most of whom spent but the week-end among the islands. The Stoney Lake in the evening carried in the neighbourhood of one hundred passengers. In the afternoon the Majestic distributed 67, on Friday 54, and on Thursday afternoon 64 passengers.

The Juniper Island pavilion, the delight of the youths and maidens, is again open for the season. On Saturday evening the usual number was attracted to that popular spot, where youth and pleasure held away for a few hours. The music was provided by some of the young people, including Miss Molly Meldrum, Miss Julia Choate and Mr. Leonard Acton.

The fishing according to reports from different quarters is fair. The Yankee anglers with their guides are meeting with good fortune, and the usual number of the finny tribe are daily brought into port. The largest lunge reported up to the present was hooked in McCracken's Bay one day last week and weighed 21 1-4 lbs. Of course there are the customary stories of the monsters that bit but refused to share the occupancy of the canoes.

Story About the Fourth

An amusing incident occurred on the deck of the steamer Stoney Lake as she steamed away on Saturday evening from Mr. C. B. Routley's island, after leaving off some passengers. The occupants of the cottage had generously prepared a unique reception for their guests, and it was the good fortune of those on board the Stoney Lake to share the celebration of the occasion. A few sky rockets were shot up into the evening sky and as the shades of night were falling the scene was a little more than the ordinary. The first rocket had scarcely left the shore when a lady whose nationality may be easily guessed , sprang to her feet and inquired if it were the fourth of July. Evidently the only circumstance to her mind that would connect such a celebration with the occasion was the national holiday of the Yankee.

The feeling of restlessness seems to pervade the population of the whole lake. No place can this be observed better than on the steamers' decks, where the passengers have only the freedom of a limited space, and the young in particular seem to be inflicted with this feeling to a much greater extent than the old. On Saturday evening a young man who apparently is yet in teh early stages of the twenties, was observed to remain no longer than a minute at a time in one spot on the deck. Apparently ,too, he had no earthly reason for his spirit of restlessness as he was accompanied by a fair maiden of not more than twenty summers. But, although she would certainly have formed an attraction to the ordinary youth, to him her charms appeared only at intervals. During a period of twenty seconds he was observed to leave his seat, walk to the bow of the steamer, return to the maiden's side and in addition to seat himself on two different chairs. This invariably occurred at least every half minute between Lakefield and the northern shore of Clear Lake where the couple landed .

A circumstance which was unintended occurred on the wharf at McCracken's Landing on Saturday afternoon. The steamer Majestic had included amongst its fright a sack of flour for the Victoria House, which it left safely on the wharf before departing. The Empress called shortly after and in drawing in the snubbing rope, the bag of flour was dumped into the lake. It was reported that there were a great many sticking around the landing the remainder of the day.

Mr. McCabe, of Pittsburg came down on the Majestic this morning to Lakefield to have his hand dressed. Yesterday he accidently cut a deep gash in it with a knife.

Church services in connection with the Anglican church will be held each Sunday at Burleigh Falls at 11 a.m.; Viamede at 3.30 o'clock, and at Hall's Glen and Young's Point at 7.30. The services will be under the supervision of Rev. H. F. Battersby of Young's Point.

Tenting parties are arriving in large numbers there being several on Juniper Island and three have located on the point near the Victoria House. The following persons compose one of these camps and re-enforcements are expected soon: Mr. J A Cruikshank, Mr. Thos. Cruikshank, Peterborough; Mrs. (Rev.) They are visiting at the home of the former's brother, Mr. A. J. Grant, superintending engineer of the Trent Canal, Gilmour street. They are away on a two-months' furlough and will spend some little time here. Both these reverend fathers were in San Francisco at the time of the catastrophe in 1906, but fortunately neither of them suffered any personal injury or loss by reason of the fire and earthquake. Since that time Father Grant has removed to Oakland.

Rev. Father Grant is a Scotchman by birth, but was educated in Canada.
